

How to Call the
NEWS-STAR or MORNING WORLD
By Telephone
All Departments 4800
Society Editor 292
After 5 p.m. ring
Business Office 3253
Editorial Room 4253
Mail Room 4253
City Editor 292

Monroe Morning World

And NEWS-STAR

THE WEATHER
LOUISIANA: Partly cloudy, probably showers in southeast portion Sunday; Monday partly cloudy, probably showers in southeast portion Sunday.
ARKANSAS: Generally fair Sunday and Monday.
MONROE: Maximum, 93; minimum, 67. River, 14.1 feet.

VOL. III—NO. 229 Complete Exclusive Morning Associated Press Service MONROE, LA., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1932 Full Coverage on Markets, Sports, Social and Local PRICE FIVE CENTS

FARLEY WILL TRY TO REMAIN ALOOF IN MISSISSIPPI ROW

Wires Magnolia State Chairman That Dispute Is Strictly Local Affair

SAYS HE HAS NO RIGHT TO INTERVENE IN THE CASE

Hopes All Parties Are Primarily Interested in Success of Democrats

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, tonight sent the following telegram to E. G. Williams, democratic state chairman of Mississippi:

"Several days ago I sent you a wire relative to the action of your state democratic committee on the subject of reappointment.

"Since that time I have given considerable thought to this subject and have received a great deal of information by wire and letter regarding the situation in Mississippi.

"I am convinced that your problem is strictly a state affair and that as national chairman I have no right to interfere or take sides in any way between loyal democrats.

"I am satisfied that all parties in this controversy are interested in the success of the democratic party from top to bottom and are capable, in my judgment, of solving this controversy themselves."

FOUR MEN HELD IN PROBE OF EXPLOSION ON VESSEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Four men, including the co-owner of the old wooden steamer Observation, were held today as material witnesses in connection with the explosion of the ship yesterday which killed at least 41 workmen.

Alexander Forsythe, whose father, George, lost his life on the boat which they owned together, was arraigned at a hospital and held under $25,000 bail. The others held were Walter Larsen, 27, and Victor Michaelson, former firemen on the Observation who resigned after a few months' service, and Otto Nelson, a deck hand who stayed on the pier to haul in the line when the vessel put out on its last trip.

District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, who ordered the former firemen held, did not disclose why they had quit their jobs but said they gave him "valuable information." They were ordered to appear before a grand jury Tuesday.

'GREATER OPPORTUNITIES' CAMPAIGN ACROSS RIVER

First drawing in the "Greater Opportunities" campaign now being staged by merchants of West Monroe and Brownville was held last night at Strand theater, West Monroe, with about 1500 people present. Mrs. Bert Rinehart and Martha Hamilton were winners.

Merchants of Brownville and West Monroe last night reported almost 50 per cent increase in business as a result of the drive.

BETTER BABIES CONTEST SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (AP)—Entries in the better babies contest of the Louisiana State fair will be accepted beginning Monday, Sept. 21 and registration will close at noon Saturday, Oct. 15. According to announcement Saturday by Dr. W. B. Worley, superintendent of the child welfare department of the state fair,

TODAY

What Coolidge Read at 12 Dragon's Courtship Straight Electron Path National Theater? Not Yet

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd.)

CALVIN COOLIDGE reveals a list of 14 books, including Hilliard's Sixth Reader, that influenced his boyhood. The names of the 14 books, published in Cosmopolitan magazine, makes you understand that in boyhood, as in the White House, Calvin Coolidge was a serious person. No "Jack in the Mountains," no story by Captain Marryat, not even "Westward Ho," "Huckleberry Finn," "Gulliver's Travels," Robinson Crusoe," or "Swiss Family Robinson" appears in the Coolidge boyhood library.

THE LIST, WHICH you will read, with Mr. Coolidge's article in the October Cosmopolitan, just published, includes a Life of Garfield, another of Captain John Brown, "Washington and His Generals," "The Life and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln," "Choice Poems and Lyrics."

Mr. Coolidge's grandmother used to read out loud to him. Perhaps she

(Continued on Eighth Page)

ORLEANS VOTING LIST CUT SOUGHT

Jackson Democratic Club Attorneys Threaten to Call Senate Committee

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—New Orleans will have a democratic voting strength in the primary next Tuesday of 124,160, setting a new record. C. S. Barnes, Orleans registrar of voters, said today as he turned his books over to Jules Graser, chairman of the parish democratic committee. He asserted that there had been 8000 scratches, but that new registrations had swelled the total. The democratic registrations were announced as 79,237 men and 44,933 women.

HOLSTEIN QUILTS RACE FOR APPEALS COURT POST, HE ANNOUNCES

Judge S. R. Holstein, of Winnsboro, announced here yesterday that he had decided to withdraw from the race for a place on the bench of the fifth district court of appeal.

"I wish to thank my many friends," he said, "for their loyal support, and I regret that I have been forced to withdraw from the race, but by reason of my present financial condition I find that should I be fortunate enough to be in the second primary, I would be unable to finance myself through the same."

ONE KILLED, TWENTY HURT AS BARN ROOF COLLAPSES

DETROIT, Sept. 10 (AP)—One man was killed and 20 persons were injured at the Michigan State fair grounds here today in the collapse of the roof of an old barn from which nearly 100 persons were watching an automobile race.

George Kashock, 45, was killed. He was crushed by the other spectators as they piled upon him.

Seaplane, for First Time, Is Landed Upon River Here

Yesterday afternoon, for the first time in history, local aviation enthusiasts say, a seaplane was landed upon the placid waters of the Ouchita river where it flows between the Twin Cities.

A former West Monroean, Dr. John Hodge, of New Orleans, was the pilot and sole occupant of the seaplane, of which Doctor Hodge has been owner for several months.

Doctor Hodge, who was educated in the local schools and at Loyola university in New Orleans, opened a dental office in New Orleans about a decade and a half ago but returns to Monroe each year to visit his mother, Mrs. B. S. Fitzpatrick, and sister, Mrs. L. O. Garrett, who reside at 308 Clayton street, West Monroe.

He is well known as an enthusiastic sportsman, enjoying frequent

MISSISSIPPI'S NEW TOBACCO TAX LAW IS UNDER ATTACK

Drug Store Claims, in Court, That Levy Is an Act in Restraint of Trade

CIGARS FROM ST. LOUIS ARE NOT ALLOWED SOLD

State Commission Refused to Sell Stamps to Other Than Wholesaler

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 10 (AP)—Mississippi's new tobacco tax law has been attacked in a test suit filed in Hinds county circuit court today as a violation of the state and United States constitutions on the grounds that it is in "restraint of trade."

In a suit filed by the Flora Drug company of Madison county, a mandamus writ was asked to be directed against the state tax commission ordering that body to issue the drug store a permit to "engage in the business of purchasing, selling and disposing of at retail" tobacco products.

Under house bill 330, as enacted at the 1932 session of the legislature, only wholesale dealers can be issued permits for the sale of tobacco products, and tobacco stamps can be sold only to such licensed dealers.

The suit sets out that the plaintiff applied for a permit to deal in tobacco at retail on August 5, last, later sending $50 to the state tax commission office with an order for tobacco

(Continued on Second Page)

SIX OF NEW ORLEANS SOCIAL ELITE HURLED INTO WATERS OF LAKE

Power Boat Sinks Upon Lake Pontchartrain; Three of Those Aboard Are Found.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The power boat "Shadow" of Robert J. Newman sank tonight in Lake Pontchartrain near Milneburg lighthouse, causing his party of six socially prominent Orleansians to take to the water in life preservers. Three of the party were rescued soon after the accident and the others were believed to be floating on the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moore and Mr. Newman were rescued by a yacht cruising in the vicinity of the accident. Boats began a search of the waters for the other members of the party. E. V. Benjamin, prominent cotton mill executive, John Levert and an unidentified young woman.

MEN WHO CARRY PAYROLL STAGE DUEL; ONE KILLED

QUINCY, Fla., Sept. 10 (AP)—G. P. Peacock, an employee of the American Sumatra Tobacco company, was killed and D. F. Smith, assistant manager of the company's Florida division, was seriously wounded on a highway near here today and authorities presumed bandits shot them but Smith regained consciousness and said they "shot it out" in a personal dispute.

Passersby found Peacock's body in the road and nearby lay Smith's short distance from their automobile. Authorities knew they often delivered payrolls of their company and began looking for bandits, but at a hospital, Smith told them of the fight. He is in a serious condition.

COUNTY'S ATTORNEY AND LAWYER HAVE FISTICUFF

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 10 (AP)—Lois D. Bejach, county attorney for Shelby county, and Thomas B. Collier, lawyer and opponent of the city and county administrations here, were docketed on charges of disorderly conduct following an exchange of blows in the uptown section of the city.

Collier declined to comment as to the reasons for the fight, but Bejach said Collier attacked him, and added that the controversy had its beginning at Nashville when the two argued over the wording of an answer filed before the old democratic state executive committee which heard Collier's protest against the certification of Edward H. Crump as democratic nominee for a second term as congressman from the ninth Tennessee (Shelby county) district.

WINNSBORO COTTON GINS WORKING DAY AND NIGHT

WINNSBORO, Sept. 10 (Special)—Cotton is coming into Winnsboro so fast that it has been necessary several times for the four modern gins in the town to operate on a 24-hour schedule. Ginning figures for August have not yet been issued by the parish federal census official but due to the earliness of the season this year it will probably be higher than last year at this time. Early estimates by experts are to the effect that between 35,000 and 40,000 bales will be ginned in Franklin, compared to 37,000 bales last season. The crop is very hard to estimate as it is very "spotty," some sections having crops to compare with that of last year while others have much worse. Local business conditions are reported as good.

City Sunken in Deep Marsh Is Reported Located Just Sixty Miles From Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Realizing his life ambition of locating and exploring an ancient city sunken in the lower Louisiana marshes, David S. Rose, a welder by trade and archaeologist by choice, is now seeking to discover whether the old town that "just sunk" in wet marsh is drying up again.

Rose took a Labor day excursion down the marsh country 60 miles below New Orleans and reported locating the lost city by a batch of chimneys protruding above the surface.

He jabbed a pole with a wire hook on its end through the sunken roof of an old house in the ground and pulled out from the dark recess old garments, strange silky cloth and books containing records of congressional debates from 1825 to 1827 when Henry Clay was speaker of the house.

"I've had lots of fun reading these old records," said Rose. "And a funny thing about those things in that sunken house too. They are dry, full of dust, but perfectly dry. They've been wet—you can tell by the stains on them—but they are dry now.

"I'm going back down there Sunday. It's about sixty miles from New Orleans. I think maybe something happened to that part of the marsh and this town just sunk and now it is drying up again. That's what I want to find out."

Here is Rose's story:

"I've heard off and on about this sunken city. But it sounded like a foolish sort of story, though of course it is easy to see how anything could sink right down in that trembling prairie."

"So when Labor day weekend came along a friend of mine and I decided we would make a trip somewhere by auto. I got to talking about this sunken city and he said sure, he'd like to take a look at it."

"So we drove off in those marshes. And I mean it was work. Swamp and jungle, and just here and there a trail

(Continued on Second Page)

FRANCE ANSWERS BLOODY BATTLE IS ON IN CHACO AREA

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP)—A special courier left for Berlin tonight with a momentous diplomatic document—France's reply to Germany's demand for equality in armaments.

The French note, unanimously approved by the council of ministers presided over by President Albert Lebrun, asserts that Germany is demanding revision of the Versailles treaty, a matter which cannot be undertaken by France and Germany alone but must be carried to the League of Nations.

Tomorrow the reply will be presented to the Berlin government by the French ambassador in the German capital. Premier Edouard Herriot said the document probably will not be published in Paris until Monday evening.

The premier is expected to make an important pronouncement tomorrow on international affairs. He is to speak at the dedication of a monument commemorating the first battle of the Marne to be presented by American donors at Meaux. Whether M. Herriot will touch on the arms question was not certain, but it was learned that his speech will contain passages directed toward America.

In addition to asserting that the arms controversy should be taken to the League of Nations, France's reply to the German demand enunciates the position that since disarmament discussions are already under way at Geneva it would be improper for France to engage in bilateral negotiations of interest to many other countries.

The reply recalls the traditional doctrine that France is disposed to reduce armaments in proportion to the national security, it is understood.

French spokesmen pointed out that under the Versailles treaty Germany agreed to observe the armaments provisions of that treaty until they were modified by the league.

FUGITIVE CONVICTS SAID TO BE CIRCLED BY POSSE

BOONEVILLE, Miss., Sept. 10 (AP)—Deputies and Mississippi penitentiary guards tonight were reported to have surrounded in the woods 20 miles from here Rouey Eaton and five convicts he led in a break from the penitentiary Thursday.

Reports reaching here said the desperadoes had been cornered in the haunts formerly frequented by Eaton in the Prentiss county hills. It was believed the 15 officers would await dawn before closing in on the escaped convicts.

O. G. Tann, prison farm superintendent, said every footpath of the vicinity was familiar to Eaton, who was formerly reputed chief of a Prentiss county moonshiner's band. Eaton is under life sentence for the slaying two years ago of a United States deputy marshal near here.

ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL FOR BOY AT SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (AP)—An accident which occurred while he was playing with his youthful companions 10 days ago and which at first was believed to be of a minor nature, proved fatal to three-year-old Kenneth Ross Denton Saturday morning in a local hospital. The child died from blood poisoning.

Somewhere in south Louisiana is the child's mother, Mrs. A. E. Calender, unaware of the grim tragedy that has robbed her of her only child. She was last heard from at Hammond.

BURGLAR IDENTIFIED

TALLULAH, Sept. 10.—R. L. Fuller, who is being held in jail here charged with the robbery of Williams Brothers store Saturday night, has been identified as the burglar by fingerprints taken from the ransom of the store. Fuller will be tried at the November term of court. A close check showed the amount lost was $776.36.

FERGUSON PLEAS DENIED IN TEXAS COURT YESTERDAY

Judges Do, However, Define Rules in Way That Almost Bars Contest

STERLING DECLINES TO GIVE OUT ANY COMMENT

Lone Star State Executive Committee Meets Tomorrow to Canvass Vote

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, claimant to the democratic nomination for governor of Texas, lost her effort in the state supreme court today to compel the party managers to certify her name as the nominee.

The woman ex-governor and apparent winner over Governor R. S. Sterling, incumbent in the recent primary election, however, obtained by her action a definition of lawful rules that guide the canvassing board which virtually precludes any contest in the tight race before the party executive committee or the state democratic convention on the grounds of ballot irregularities.

The executive committee will meet at Lubbock Monday to canvass the official primary returns. Semi-official returns showed Mrs. Ferguson had approximately 4000 more votes than the governor. The state convention will meet Tuesday to con-

(Continued on Second Page)

THREE OF REPUBLICAN BIG GUNS MAKE TALKS FOR HOOVER'S CAUSE

Mills Addresses Maine People, While Jahncke Speaks in Cleveland; Thatcher Heard Too.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Three highly placed republicans today carried the cause of President Hoover to the people in political addresses in three eastern cities.

Secretary Mills of the treasury, Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the navy, and Solicitor General Thomas D. Thatcher joined in attacking the candidacy of Governor Roosevelt, the democratic nominee for the presidency.

Mills in referring to the governor's speeches on the nation's economic problem, asserted in a speech at Portland, Maine:

"It is this failure to grasp the problems of the hour that gives the governor's suggestions an atmosphere of unreality and makes them almost academic in relation to our immediate difficulties."

"Now the plain truth of the matter is that President Hoover has come to grips with his problem. Governor Roosevelt, if his public utterances to date are a fair guide, has not."

At Cleveland, Jahncke in discussing prohibition said that "if the eighteenth amendment is to be removed from the constitution it can be accomplished only through the measure proposed by the republican party."

BRIDAL PAIR, HONEYMOON YACHT TOWED INTO PORT

MANTEO, N. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—A bride and groom, headed for Buenos Aires on their honeymoon yacht "Highball" were towed here today by a coast guard picket boat after a 24-hour battle with high seas off the North Carolina coast.

Vincent Crawford, a musician, and his wife, a dancer, both of New York, will spend several days here before resuming their cruise.

CHECK 'N' DOUBLE CHECK

Twin daughters were born last night at St. Francis sanitarium to Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gandy, of 2709 Lovers Lane.

MONROE NAMED NEXT FIREMEN CONVENTION CITY; RODDY HONORED

LAFAYETTE, Sept. 10 (AP)—Officers of the Louisiana State Firemen's association were re-elected for another year at the closing session of the organization's convention here today.

The officers are: R. A. Bogan, Baton Rouge, president; J. C. McEachern, Haynesville, vice-president; Rene J. Bernard, Thibodaux, vice-president; A. J. Bethancourt, Houma, secretary; A. A. Hanson, Westwego, treasurer.

Felix Perros, Rayne, was named delegate to the national chiefs' association convention at San Diego, California.

Monroe was chosen as next year's convention city.

The association presented a gold badge to Chief Frank Roddy of Monroe in token of his 25 years' service as leader of firemen of that city. Today was "Roddy day" at the convention. The Monroe fire department band took part in the program.

TWO CHILDREN ARE KILLED AND PARENTS BADLY HURT

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—Two children were killed and their parents injured by a freight train that struck an automobile on a crossing here.

Mildred and Ezra Hill, aged 12 and 9, were killed instantly.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. (Judd) Hill, of Greenville were seriously hurt.

Election

Local Folk Vote Tuesday on Senator, Congressman, Judge

Democratic voters of Louisiana will go to the polls Tuesday to pick their nominees for state and congressional offices.

Voters in the Monroe area will cast their ballots for a United States senator, a United States representative and a judge on the bench of the fifth district court of appeal.

In the senatorial race Edwin S. Broussard is seeking reelection in a race against John H. Overton. The former has served in the senate for 12 years and the latter, appointed by former Governor Huey P. Long to serve an unexpired term, has served in the lower house about 18 months.

In the race for representative from this district the incumbent, Riley J. Wilson, is opposed by Charles C. Goynes, mayor of Ruston.

Three well-known jurists are seeking the post on the court of appeal. They are Judge Percy Sandel, of Mon-

(Continued on Second Page)

LOUISIANA HOLDS PRIMARY TUESDAY

Monday Maine Will Vote, With Seven State Elections on the Next Day

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The nation's political focal point will shift Monday to Maine for the general elections there, and then will pass on during the week to eight state primaries.

Seven states, Arizona, Colorado, Vermont, Michigan, Washington, New Hampshire and Louisiana, hold their primaries Tuesday and Georgia follows on Wednesday.

Unusual interest has been manifested in the Maine elections, where a governor and three House members are to be chosen. National leaders of both parties have stumped the state in the most brisk campaign of many years.

The democrats are seeking to win the gubernatorial race with Louis J. Brann over Burleigh Martin, president of Maine's republican senate. Republicans, however, claim their candidate will win, although the contest between Former Governor Ralph

(Continued on Second Page)

CANE BORER INSECT FOE IMPORTED INTO LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cane borers in the sugar cane fields near Franklin will soon be battling against 750,000 trichogramma insects which were received here today to be used in destroying the borers.

The insect enemies of the borer arrived by airplane from Los Angeles via Jackson, Miss. The government has made successful experiments with the trichogramma and entomologists used them last year in south Louisiana cane fields.

STORM REPORTED SOUTH OF PORT ARTHUR, TEXAS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 9 p. m., disturbance central in gulf about twenty four ninety three west apparently of slight to moderate intensity and moving slowly northward. No strong winds yet reported."

The weather bureau's location of the storm placed it about 400 miles due south of Port Arthur, Texas.

TEMPERATURE HERE ONCE MORE ABOVE 90 DEGREES

Yesterday, for the first time since Tuesday, maximum temperature here was over the 90-degree mark. Following three days of chilly weather, possibly the result of the storm which hit the gulf coast area recently, the weather bureau here reported today, recorded an official maximum temperature yesterday of 90 degrees.

(Continued on Second Page)

SHREVEPORT MEN SPEAK IN MEETING AT WEST MONROE

State Senator Cecil Morgan and Howard Warren Urge Broussard Reelection

PRAISE BILL FEAZEL'S RECORD IN LEGISLATURE

Long's Domination in State Politics Criticized; Money Waste Rapped

Assailing Senator Huey P. Long as "a political dictator who is leading Louisiana to an indebtedness from which she will never recover," State Senator Cecil Morgan, of Shreveport, and Howard Warren, Ruston attorney, last night spoke to a large crowd on Trenton street in West Monroe in the interests of Senator Edwin S. Broussard's candidacy for reelection.

A block of Trenton street was roped off for the occasion by police. The speeches were made from a truck, and a loud speaker and a radio hook-up carried the speakers' voices to thousands of listeners.

Rev. Louis Hoffpauir, pastor of the First Methodist church in West Monroe, acted as master of ceremonies. Senator Morgan was the first to speak. He opened his address by saying that he would confine his talk to one main issue—"that dictatorship which has come about in the past five years in Louisiana."

"So long as candidates are being picked in Louisiana on the grounds that they are in sympathy with the policies of Huey Long, so long as the political field is dominated by a dictator, so long as that continues in Louisiana—that is going to be the main issue of any state campaign in Louisiana," Senator Morgan declared.

He asserted that Senator Long, "with his band wagon, Cadillac automobiles and paid campaign workers, is telling the people of Louisiana that John Overton is his man and therefore must be elected."

Tracing Long's record at Baton Rouge, Morgan declared that under the Long administration the state incurred an indebtedness of millions of dollars. "Millions of dollars worth of bonds were sold," he said, "to get so-called road money. The big bankers got the benefit of the transfer of these bonds. Millions went to the highway department. Efforts were made by a small group of men in the legislature to see that this money was spent right as honestly. But we failed. We certainly haven't got our money's worth from the enormous sums borrowed to build roads and bridges."

He declared that hundreds of employees had been added to the highway department "to swell Huey Long's political meetings. One highway policeman told me the other day that he was wearing himself out by traveling from one political meeting to another."

Senator Morgan declared "before long there will be a political appointment or pledges his support to a candidate the appointee or the candidate must first give Long an undated resignation." These resignations, the speaker said, were largely responsible for Long's power in the state.

"Since we are having to under a system like that," he said, "where taxing power is abused and the entire political workings of the state are

(Continued on Second Page)

MORATORIUM ON BORROWED BOOKS DECLARED BY LIBRARY

A moratorium for one week on fines for all overdue books at the Monroe Public library has been declared by the library's board of directors. The moratorium, which will begin Monday morning, will last until Saturday night.

The idea, which is entirely novel, was initiated in an effort to induce the return of books which borrowers have kept out long past the allotted time. Owing to the fact that no funds are available to purchase new books, the failure of borrowers to meet their obligation to return books on time has resulted in a serious shortage of the volumes on hand for general circulation.

Announcing the moratorium, which is to be known as "Forgiveness Week," the public library board last night authorized the following statement:

"Come home, all is forgiven," is the Monroe Public library's message to all its unreturned books. All library patrons who have books that are overdue and upon which fines of varying amounts have been assessed, can return them during the coming week and there will be no charge.

"The library board has decided to declare a moratorium on all overdue books so that they will be returned for the use of other patrons. This was decided upon last Wednesday, along with other measures calculated to give the best available service under the reduced budget and operating schedule."

"Forgiveness Week" will begin tomorrow, September 12 and continue through Saturday, September 17.

WINNSBORO COTTON GINS WORKING DAY AND NIGHT

WINNSBORO, Sept. 10 (Special)—Cotton is coming into Winnsboro so fast that it has been necessary several times for the four modern gins in the town to operate on a 24-hour schedule. Ginning figures for August have not yet been issued by the parish federal census official but due to the earliness of the season this year it will probably be higher than last year at this time. Early estimates by experts are to the effect that between 35,000 and 40,000 bales will be ginned in Franklin, compared to 37,000 bales last season. The crop is very hard to estimate as it is very "spotty," some sections having crops to compare with that of last year while others have much worse. Local business conditions are reported as good.

ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL FOR BOY AT SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (AP)—An accident which occurred while he was playing with his youthful companions 10 days ago and which at first was believed to be of a minor nature, proved fatal to three-year-old Kenneth Ross Denton Saturday morning in a local hospital. The child died from blood poisoning.

Somewhere in south Louisiana is the child's mother, Mrs. A. E. Calender, unaware of the grim tragedy that has robbed her of her only child. She was last heard from at Hammond.

BURGLAR IDENTIFIED

TALLULAH, Sept. 10.—R. L. Fuller, who is being held in jail here charged with the robbery of Williams Brothers store Saturday night, has been identified as the burglar by fingerprints taken from the ransom of the store. Fuller will be tried at the November term of court. A close check showed the amount lost was $776.36.

MONROE NAMED NEXT FIREMEN CONVENTION CITY; RODDY HONORED

LAFAYETTE, Sept. 10 (AP)—Officers of the Louisiana State Firemen's association were re-elected for another year at the closing session of the organization's convention here today.

The officers are: R. A. Bogan, Baton Rouge, president; J. C. McEachern, Haynesville, vice-president; Rene J. Bernard, Thibodaux, vice-president; A. J. Bethancourt, Houma, secretary; A. A. Hanson, Westwego, treasurer.

Felix Perros, Rayne, was named delegate to the national chiefs' association convention at San Diego, California.

Monroe was chosen as next year's convention city.

The association presented a gold badge to Chief Frank Roddy of Monroe in token of his 25 years' service as leader of firemen of that city. Today was "Roddy day" at the convention. The Monroe fire department band took part in the program.

TWO CHILDREN ARE KILLED AND PARENTS BADLY HURT

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—Two children were killed and their parents injured by a freight train that struck an automobile on a crossing here.

Mildred and Ezra Hill, aged 12 and 9, were killed instantly.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. (Judd) Hill, of Greenville were seriously hurt.

How to Call the
NEWS-STAR or MORNING WORLD
By Telephone
All Departments 4800
City Editor 392
After 6 p.m. ring
Business Office 3243
Editorial Room 3243
Mail Room 4725
City Editor 392

Monroe Morning World

And NEWS-STAR

THE WEATHER
LOUISIANA: Partly cloudy, probably showers in southeast portion Sunday; Monday partly cloudy, probably showers near the coast.
ARKANSAS: Generally fair Sunday and Monday.
MISSISSIPPI: Maximum, 83; minimum, 67.
River, 14.1 feet.

VOL. III—NO. 229

Complete Exclusive Morning
Associated Press Service

MONROE, LA., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1932

Full Coverage on Markets, Sports, Social and Local

PRICE FIVE CENTS

FARLEY WILL TRY TO REMAIN ALOOF IN MISSISSIPPI ROW

Wires Magnolia State Chairman That Dispute Is Strictly Local Affair

SAYS HE HAS NO RIGHT TO INTERVENE IN THE CASE

Hopes All Parties Are Primarily Interested in Success of Democrats

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, tonight sent the following telegram to E. G. Williams, democratic state chairman of Mississippi: "Several days ago I sent you a wire relative to the action of your state democratic committee on the subject of reappointment. "Since that time I have given considerable thought to this subject and have received a great deal of information by wire and letter regarding the situation in Mississippi. "I am convinced that your problem is strictly a state affair and that as national chairman I have no right to interfere or take sides in any way between loyal democrats. "I am satisfied that all parties in this controversy are interested in the success of the democratic party from top to bottom and are capable, in my judgment, of solving this controversy themselves."

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 10 (AP)—Charges and counter-charges followed rapidly in the wake of a telegram from Chairman James A. Farley, of the democratic national executive committee, to Chairman E. G. Williams of the state executive committee in which the national chairman completely washed his hands of the redistricting controversy that has ripped the democratic party in Mississippi into two sharply opposed factions. Chairman Farley first entered the controversy ten days ago by endorsing the district selected congressional nominees supported by the state executive committee at the request of Chairman Williams and Secretary J. B. Snider, Jr. Several days later he announced he had acted "without complete information of conditions existing in the state."

His wire to Williams tonight was construed in political circles here as marking Farley's complete withdrawal from the controversy. Supporters of state at large candidates for congress who declined to participate in the district contests, which they termed "illegal" in view of the federal court decree declaring the Blair-White redistricting act in effect unconstitutional and void, had charged Farley was "tricked" into endorsing the district nominees, and had requested that he reverse his stand. Hugh V. Wall, Brookhaven attorney and leader of the group opposing the primary nominees, when informed of Farley's wire to Williams tonight, said:

"I thought all the time that Chair-

(Continued on Second Page)

FOUR MEN HELD IN PROBE OF EXPLOSION ON VESSEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Four men, including the co-owner of the old, wooden steamer Observation, were held today as material witnesses in connection with the explosion of the ship yesterday which killed at least 41 workmen.

Alexander Forsythe, whose father, George, lost his life on the boat which they owned together, was arraigned at a hospital and held under $25,000 bail. The others held were Walter Larsen, 21, and Victor Michaelson, former firemen on the Observation who resigned after a few months' service, and Otto Nelson, a deck hand who stayed on the pier to haul in the line when the vessel put out on its last trip. District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, who ordered the former firemen held, did not disclose why they had quit their jobs but said they gave him "valuable information." They were ordered to appear before a grand jury Tuesday.

'GREATER OPPORTUNITIES' CAMPAIGN ACROSS RIVER

First drawing in the "Greater Opportunity" campaign now being staged by merchants of West Monroe and Brownville was held last night at Strand theatre, West Monroe, with about 1500 people present. Mrs. Bert Rinehart and Martha Hamilton were winners. Merchants of Brownville and West Monroe last night reported almost 50 per cent increase in business as a result of the drive.

BETTER BABIES CONTEST
SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (AP)—Entries in the better babies contest of the Louisiana State fair will be accepted beginning Monday, Sept. 21 and registration will close at noon Saturday, Oct. 15. According to announcement Saturday by Dr. W. B. Worley, superintendent of the child welfare department of the state fair.

TODAY

What Coolidge Read at 12
Dragon's Courtship
Straight Electron Path
National Theater? Not Yet

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd.)

CALVIN COOLIDGE reveals a list of 14 books, including Hilliard's Sixth Reader, that influenced his boyhood. The names of the 14 books, published in Cosmopolitan magazine, makes you understand that in boyhood as in the White House, Calvin Coolidge was a serious person. No "Jack in the Mountains," no story by Captain Marryat, not even "Westward Ho," "Huckleberry Finn," "Gulliver's Travels," Robinson Crusoe," or "Swiss Family Robinson" appears in the Coolidge boyhood library.

THE LIST, WHICH you will read, with Mr. Coolidge's article in the October Cosmopolitan, just published, includes a Life of Garfield, another of Captain John Brown, "Washington and His Generals," "The Life and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln," "Choice Poems and Lyrics."

Mr. Coolidge's grandmother used to read out loud to him. Perhaps she

(Continued on Eighth Page)

ORLEANS VOTING LIST CUT SOUGHT

Jackson Democratic Club Attorneys Threaten to Call
Senate Committee

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—New Orleans will have a democratic voting strength in the primary next Tuesday of 124,160, setting a new record. C. S. Barnes, Orleans registrar of voters, said today as he turned his books over to Jules Graser, chairman of the parish democratic committee. He asserted that there had been 8000 scratches, but that new registrations had swelled the total. The democratic registrations were announced as 79,237 men and 44,933 women.

In the last general election in March, 1932, approximately 120,000 democrats were recorded as eligible to vote. As figures were given out today, steps to compel the erasure of approximately 3000 additional names from the registration rolls were taken by attorneys for the Jackson democratic club, who charged in mandamus suits filed in civil district court that the 3000 are fraudulently registered.

(Continued on Second Page)

HOLSTEIN QUILTS RACE FOR APPEALS COURT POST, HE ANNOUNCES

Judge S. R. Holstein, of Winnboro, announced here yesterday that he had decided to withdraw from the race for a place on the bench of the fifth district court of appeal. "I wish to thank my many friends," he said, "for their loyal support, and I regret that I have been forced to withdraw from the race, but by reason of my present financial condition I find that should I be fortunate enough to be in the second primary, I would be unable to finance myself through the same."

His withdrawal leaves in the race Judge Percy Sandel, Monroe; Judge R. M. Taliaferro, Harrisonburg; and Judge T. H. McGregor, Rayville.

ONE KILLED, TWENTY HURT AS BARN ROOF COLLAPSES

DETROIT, Sept. 10 (AP)—One man was killed and 20 persons were injured at the Michigan State fair grounds here today in the collapse of the roof of an old barn from which nearly 100 persons were watching an automobile race. George Kashock, 45, was killed. He was crushed by the other spectators as they piled upon him.

Seaplane, for First Time, Is Landed Upon River Here

Yesterday afternoon, for the first time in history, local aviation enthusiasts say, a seaplane was landed upon the placid waters of the Ouachita river where it flows between the Twin Cities. A former West Monrovan, Dr. John Hodge, of New Orleans, was the pilot and sole occupant of the seaplane, of which Doctor Hodge has been owner for several months. Doctor Hodge, who was educated in the local schools and at Loyola university in New Orleans, opened a dental office in New Orleans about a decade and a half ago but returns to Monroe each year to visit his mother, Mrs. B. S. Fitzpatrick, and sister, Mrs. L. O. Garrett, who reside at 309 Clayton street, West Monroe. He is well known as an enthusiastic sportsman, enjoying frequent

MISSISSIPPI'S NEW TOBACCO TAX LAW IS UNDER ATTACK

Drug Store Claims, in Court, That Levy Is an Act in Restraint of Trade

CIGARS FROM ST. LOUIS ARE NOT ALLOWED SOLD

State Commission Refused to Sell Stamps to Other Than Wholesaler

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 10 (AP)—Mississippi's new tobacco tax law has been attacked in a test suit filed in Hinds county circuit court today as a violation of the state and United States constitutions on the grounds that it is in "restraint of trade."

In a suit filed by the Flora Drug company of Madison county, a mandamus writ was asked to be directed against the state tax commission ordering that body to issue the drug store a permit to "engage in the business of purchasing, selling and disposing of at retail" tobacco products. Under house bill 330, as enacted at the 1932 session of the legislature, only wholesale dealers can be issued permits for the sale of tobacco products, and tobacco stamps can be sold only to such licensed dealers.

The suit sets out that the plaintiff applied for a permit to deal in tobacco at retail on August 5, last, later sending $50 to the state tax commission office with an order for tobacco

(Continued on Second Page)

SIX OF NEW ORLEANS SOCIAL ELITE HURLED INTO WATERS OF LAKE

Power Boat Sinks Upon Lake Pont-chartrain; Three of Those Aboard Are Found.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The power boat "Shadow" of Robert J. Newman sank tonight in Lake Pontchartrain near Milneburg lighthouse, causing his party of six socially prominent Orleansians to take to the water in life preservers. Three of the party were rescued soon after the accident and the others were believed to be floating on the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moore and Mr. Newman were rescued by a yacht cruising in the vicinity of the accident. Boats began a search of the waters for the other members of the party. E. V. Benjamin, prominent cotton mill executive, John Levert and an unidentified young woman. Immediately after the accident had been reported the Southern Yacht club dispatched a fleet of boats under Commodore Charles Tessier, of the club, to the vicinity to search the waters for the missing. Darkness hampered the rescue work.

The accident happened about five miles out from shore. The rescued members of the party joined in the search aboard other craft and no immediate report was given on the cause of the sinking.

MEN WHO CARRY PAYROLL STAGE DUEL; ONE KILLED

QUINCY, Fla., Sept. 10 (AP)—G. P. Peacock, an employee of the American Sumatra Tobacco company, was killed and D. F. Smith, assistant manager of the company's Florida division, was seriously wounded on a highway near here today and authorities presumed bandits shot them but Smith regained consciousness and said they "shot it out" in a personal dispute.

Passersby found Peacock's body in the road and nearby lay Smith's short distance from their automobile. Authorities knew they often delivered payrolls of their company and began looking for bandits, but at a hospital, Smith told them of the fight. He is in a serious condition.

City Sunken in Deep Marsh Is Reported Located Just Sixty Miles From Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Realizing his life ambition of locating and exploring an ancient city sunken in the lower Louisiana marshes, David S. Rose, a welder by trade and archaeologist by choice, is now seeking to discover whether the old town that "just sunk" in wet marsh is drying up again.

Rose took a Labor day excursion down the marsh country 60 miles below New Orleans and reported locating the lost city by a batch of chimneys protruding above the surface.

He jabbed a pole with a wire hook on its end through the sunken roof of an old house in the ground and pulled out from the dark recess old garments, strange silky cloth and books containing records of congressional debates from 1825 to 1827 when Henry Clay was speaker of the house. "I've had lots of fun reading these old records," said Rose. "And a funny thing about those things in that sunken house too. They are dry, full of dust, but perfectly dry. They've been

(Continued on Second Page)

FRANCE ANSWERS GERMAN DEMANDS

Paris Unwilling to Approve Armament Equality; Wants
League to Decide

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP)—A special courier left for Berlin tonight with a momentous diplomatic document—France's reply to Germany's demand for equality in armaments.

The French note, unanimously approved by the council of ministers presided over by President Albert Lebrun, asserts that Germany is demanding revision of the Versailles treaty, a matter which cannot be undertaken by France and Germany alone but must be carried to the League of Nations.

Tomorrow the reply will be presented to the Berlin government by the French ambassador in the German capital. Premier Edouard Herriot said the document probably will not be published in Paris until Monday evening.

The premier is expected to make an important pronouncement tomorrow on international affairs. He is to speak at the dedication of a monument commemorating the first battle of the Marne to be presented by American donors at Meaux. Whether M. Herriot will touch on the arms question was not certain, but it was learned that his speech will contain passages directed toward America.

In addition to asserting that the arms controversy should be taken to the League of Nations, France's reply to the German demand enunciates the position that since disarmament discussions are already under way at Geneva it would be improper for France to engage in bilateral negotiations of interest to many other countries.

The reply recalls the traditional doctrine that France is disposed to reduce armaments in proportion to the increase in arrangements for international security, it is understood. French spokesmen pointed out that under the Versailles treaty Germany agreed to observe the armaments provisions of that treaty until they were modified by the league.

COUNTY'S ATTORNEY AND LAWYER HAVE FISTICUFF

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 10 (AP)—Shelby county attorney for Shelby county, and Thomas B. Collier, lawyer and opponent of the city and county administrations here, were docketed on charges of disorderly conduct following an exchange of blows in the uptown section today. Collier declined to comment as to the reasons for the fight, but Bejach said Collier attacked him, and added that the controversy had its beginning at Nashville when the two argued over the wording of an answer filed before the old democratic state executive committee which heard Collier's protest against the certification of Edward H. Crump as democratic nominee for a second term as congressman from the ninth Tennessee (Shelby county) district.

WINNSBORO COTTON GINS WORKING DAY AND NIGHT

WINNSBORO, Sept. 10 (Special)—Cotton is coming into Winnsboro so fast that it has been necessary several times for the four modern gins in the town to operate on a 24-hour schedule. Ginning figures for August have not yet been issued by the parish federal census official but due to the earliness of the season this year it will probably be higher than last year at this time. Early estimates by experts are to the effect that between 35,000 and 40,000 bales will be ginned in Franklin, compared to 37,000 bales last season. The crop is very hard to estimate as it is very "spotty," some sections having crops to compare with that of last year while others have much worse. Local business conditions are reported as good.

FERGUSON PLEAS DENIED IN TEXAS COURT YESTERDAY

Judges Do, However, Define Rules in Way That Almost Bars Contest

STERLING DECLINES TO GIVE OUT ANY COMMENT

Lone Star State Executive Committee Meets Tomorrow to Canvass Vote

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, claimant to the democratic nomination for governor of Texas, lost her effort in the state supreme court today to compel the party managers to certify her name as the nominee.

The woman ex-governor and apparent winner over Governor R. S. Sterling, incumbent, in the recent primary election, however, obtained by her action a definition of lawful rules that guide the canvassing board which virtually precludes any contest in the tight race before the party executive committee or the state democratic convention on the grounds of ballot irregularities.

The executive committee will meet at Lubbock Monday to canvass the official primary returns. Semi-official returns showed Mrs. Ferguson had approximately 4000 more votes than the governor. The state convention will meet Tuesday to con-

(Continued on Second Page)

THREE OF REPUBLICAN BIG GUNS MAKE TALKS FOR HOOVER'S CAUSE

Mills Addresses Maine People, While Jahnecke Speaks in Cleveland;
Thacher Heard Too.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Three highly placed republicans today carried the cause of President Hoover to the people in political addresses in three eastern cities.

Secretary Mills of the treasury, Assistant Secretary Jahnecke of the navy, and Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher joined in attacking the candidacy of Governor Roosevelt, the democratic nominee for the presidency.

Mills in referring to the governor's speeches on the nation's economic problem, asserted in a speech at Portland, Maine:

"It is this failure to grasp the problems of the hour that gives the governor's suggestions an atmosphere of unreality and makes them almost academic in relation to our immediate difficulties."

"Now the plain truth of the matter is that President Hoover has come to grips with his problem. Governor Roosevelt, if his public utterances to date are a fair guide, has not."

At Cleveland, Jahnecke in discussing prohibition said that "if the eighteenth amendment is to be removed from the constitution it can be accomplished only through the measure proposed by the republican party."

BRIDAL PAIR, HONEYMOON YACHT TOWED INTO PORT

MANTEO, N. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—A bride and groom, headed for Buenos Aires on their honeymoon yacht "Highball," were towed here today by a coast guard picket boat after a 24-hour battle with high seas off the North Carolina coast.

Vincent Crawford, a musician, and his wife, a dancer, both of New York, will spend several days here before resuming their cruise.

CHECK 'N' DOUBLE CHECK

Twin daughters were born last night at St. Francis sanitarium to Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gandy, of 2709 Lovers lane.

ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL FOR BOY AT SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (AP)—An accident which occurred while he was playing with his youthful companions 10 days ago and which at first was believed to be of a minor nature, proved fatal to three-year-old Kenneth Ross Denton Saturday morning in a local hospital. The child died from blood poisoning.

Somewhere in south Louisiana is the child's mother, Mrs. A. E. Calender, unaware of the grim tragedy that has robbed her of her only child. She was last heard from at Hammond.

Election

Local Folk Vote Tuesday on Senator, Congressman, Judge

Democratic voters of Louisiana will go to the polls Tuesday to pick their nominees for state and congressional offices.

Voters in the Monroe area will cast their ballots for a United States senator, a United States representative and a judge on the bench of the fifth district court of appeal.

In the senatorial race Edwin S. Broussard is seeking reelection in a race against John H. Overton. The former has served in the senate for 12 years and the latter, appointed by former Governor Huey P. Long to serve an unexpired term, has served in the lower house about 18 months.

In the race for representative from this district the incumbent, Riley J. Wilson, is opposed by Charles C. Goyne, mayor of Ruston. Charles C. Goyne, mayor of Ruston, is seeking the post on the court of appeal. They are Judge Percy Sandel, of Mon-

(Continued on Second Page)

LOUISIANA HOLDS PRIMARY TUESDAY

Monday Maine Will Vote, With Seven State Elections on the Next Day

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The nation's political focal point will shift Monday to Maine for the general elections there, and then will pass on during the week to eight state primaries.

Seven states, Arizona, Colorado, Vermont, Michigan, Washington, New Hampshire and Louisiana, hold their primaries Tuesday and Georgia follows on Wednesday.

Unusual interest has been manifested in the Maine elections, where a governor and three House members are to be chosen. National leaders of both parties have stumped the state in the most brisk campaign of many years.

The democrats are seeking to win the gubernatorial race with Louis J. Brann over Burtleigh Martin, president of Maine's republican senate. Republicans, however, claim their candidates will win, although the contest between former Governor Ralph

(Continued on Second Page)

MONROE NAMED NEXT FIREMEN CONVENTION CITY; RODDY HONORED

LAFALETTE, Sept. 10 (AP)—Officers of the Louisiana State Firemen's association were re-elected for another year at the closing session of the organization's convention here today.

The officers are: R. A. Bogan, Baton Rouge, president; J. C. McEachern, Haynesville, vice-president; Rene J. Bernard, Thibodaux, vice-president; A. J. Bethancourt, Houma, secretary; A. A. Hanson, Westlake, treasurer.

Felix Perres, Wayne, was named delegate to the national firemen's association convention at San Diego, California.

Monroe was chosen as next year's convention city.

The association presented a gold badge to Chief Frank Roddy of Monroe in token of his 25 years' service as leader of firemen of that city. Today was "Roddy day" at the convention. The Monroe fire department band took part in the program.

TWO CHILDREN ARE KILLED AND PARENTS BADLY HURT

GREENVILLE, S. C., Sept. 10 (AP)—Two children were killed and their parents injured by a freight train that struck an automobile on a crossing here.

Mildred and Ezra Hill, aged 12 and 9, were killed instantly.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. (Judd) Hill, of Greenville, were seriously hurt.

STORM REPORTED SOUTH OF PORT ARTHUR, TEXAS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 9 p. m., disturbance central in gulf about twenty four ninety-three west, apparently of slight to moderate intensity and moving slowly northward. No strong winds yet reported."

SHREVEPORT MEN SPEAK IN MEETING AT WEST MONROE

State Senator Cecil Morgan and Howard Warren Urge Broussard Re-election

PRASE BILL FEAZEL'S RECORD IN LEGISLATURE

Long's Domination in State Politics Criticized; Money
Waste Rapped

Assailing Senator Huey P. Long as "a political dictator who is leading Louisiana to an indebtedness from which she will never recover," State Senator Cecil Morgan, of Shreveport, and Howard Warren, Ruston attorney, last night spoke to a large crowd on Trenton street in West Monroe in the interests of Senator Edwin S. Broussard's candidacy for reelection.

A block of Trenton street was roped off for the occasion by police. The speeches were made from a truck, and a loud speaker and a radio hook-up carried the speakers' voices to thousands of listeners.

Rev. Louis Hoffpauir, pastor of the First Methodist church in West Monroe, acted as master of ceremonies. Senator Morgan was the first to speak. He opened his address by saying that he would confine his talk to one main issue—"that dictatorship which has come about in the past five years in Louisiana."

"So long as candidates are being picked in Louisiana on the grounds that they are in sympathy with the policies of Huey Long, so long as the political field is dominated by a dictator, so long as that continues in Louisiana—that is going to be the main issue of any state campaign in Louisiana," Senator Morgan declared.

He asserted that Senator Long, "with his hand wagon, Cadillac automobiles and paid campaign workers, is telling the people of Louisiana that John Overton is his man and therefore must be elected."

Tracing Long's record at Baton Rouge, Morgan declared that under the Long administration the state incurred an indebtedness of millions of dollars. "Millions of dollars worth of bonds were sold," he said, "to get so-called road money. The big bankers got the benefit of the transfer of these bonds. Millions went to the highway department. Efforts were made by a small group of men in the legislature to see that this money was spent right and honestly. But we failed, and we certainly haven't got our money's worth from the enormous sums borrowed to build roads and bridges."

He declared that hundreds of employees had been added to the highway department "to swell Huey Long's political meetings. One highway policeman told me the other day that he was wearing himself out by traveling from one political meeting to another."

Sensor Morgan declared "before Long makes a political appointment or pledges his support to a candidate the appointee or the candidate must first see Long and get his approval. These resignations, the speaker said, were largely responsible for Long's power in the state."

"Since we are having to under a system like that," he said, "where tax-payer power is abused and the entire political workings of the state are controlled by one man, we must have a change."

(Continued on Second Page)

CANE BORER INSECT FOE IMPORTED INTO LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cane borers in the sugar cane fields near Franklin will soon be battling against 750,000 trichogramma insects which were received here today to be used in destroying the borers.

The insect enemies of the borer arrived by airplane from Los Angeles via Jackson, Miss. The government has made successful experiments with the trichogramma and entomologists used them last year in south Louisiana cane fields.

TEMPERATURE HERE ONCE MORE ABOVE 90 DEGREES

Yesterday, for the first time since Tuesday, maximum temperature here was over the 90-degree mark. Following three days of chilly weather, possibly the result of the storm which hit the gulf coast area recently, Miss Kate Key, weather bureau observer here, recorded an official maximum temperature yesterday of 90 degrees, the same as was registered Tuesday.

(Continued on Second Page)

MISSISSIPPI'S NEW TOBACCO TAX LAW IS UNDER ATTACK

(Continued from First Page)

stamps. The commission refused to issue such a permit to a retailer, and held that it could not legally sell tobacco stamps to any firm other than wholesalers.

By the refusal of the commission to issue a permit the drug company contends that it has been discriminated against, and that the tobacco law is in restraint of trade, and is in effect a tariff against out-of-state tobacco dealers.

The court declaration charges that sections 3, 5 and 6 of the house bill violates the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution and section 14, article three, of the state constitution in that these sections allegedly deny equal protection of the law, prevent retail tobacco dealers from going into the open market to purchase products from wholesalers

SHREVEPORT MEN SPEAK IN MEETING AT WEST MONROE

(Continued from First Page)

under the control of one man, we are living under a racketeering system that rivals that in the city of Chicago."

The speaker praised State Representative Bill Feazel for opposing the Long administration in the last session of the legislature, declaring that he was one of the few who refused to submit to the control of Huey Long.

Long in his political speeches "denies putting a cent of taxes on you," said Morgan. "Have you ever heard of him cutting off one cent of taxes? Huey came down to Baton Rouge to hurry through the tax bills in the legislature. While the legislature was in session, if you wanted to see the governor you were ushered into his office. There you found Huey Long sitting with his feet propped upon Governor Allen's desk, smoking a big cigar. 'Open the window,' Huey would tell Oscar, and Oscar would open the window. 'Run down and get me a paper,' he would tell Oscar, and Oscar would run down and get a paper. I tell you that O. K. Allen was nothing more than an office boy. Huey tell this story down at Baton Rouge. Not long ago a big rain fell, and somebody saw Oscar standing out in it. 'Why don't you get in out of the rain?' somebody asked the governor. 'I haven't got Huey here to tell me,' was the reply.

"Huey P. Long, the dictator, is going to carry the state of Louisiana into the deepest debt in her history if something is not done about it. They had taxmen down at the last session of the legislature. The new taxes that Huey talks about are passed on to the public. They are not paid by the big corporations as Huey claims."

Senator Morgan then told of "the efforts of a few at Baton Rouge to relieve the property tax." He said that bills which would have done this were submitted and that no one was able to find fault with them. "Only one man talked against those relief bills—Huey Long. They killed those relief bills. Taxpayers came in full force. Huey had his trainload come up from New Orleans, and the taxpayers found themselves swamped by the payroll boys.

"There is no accounting for the funds going through the highway department. There is no way to look at the records. If the people don't wake up they will find themselves losing their homes and their businesses because of the great increases of taxes put on by Huey Long and his crowd. Taxation in the state is constantly on the increase. You've never heard of a tax decrease being talked. Gaston L. Porter said the other day in south Louisiana that a special session of the legislature would be called in January to levy a special sales tax. There is only one way to return the state to a sider the committee's certification of a nominee and draft a platform. Dissatisfied with the court decision, Ocie Spear of Austin, representing Mrs. Ferguson, immediately filed a motion for a rehearing, but the court overruled the motion. Governor Sterling refused to comment on the ruling.

FERGUSON PLEAS DENIED IN TEXAS COURT YESTERDAY

(Continued from First Page)

Mrs. Ferguson, accompanied by her former governor husband, James E. Ferguson, impached and removed from office in 1917, was en route to the Lubbock convention. Governor Sterling planned to leave, probably tomorrow.

A statement by Governor Sterling refusing to concede Mrs. Ferguson's victory, in which he charged many illegal ballots had been counted and that he would be "nominated and elected governor," prompted the Ferguson move in the supreme court.

The woman candidate sought to have the court compel the executive committee to do nothing other than tabulate the number of votes received by each candidate, according to the official returns, and certify to the convention as the nominee the one receiving the larger number. The court order she sought also would have forced the convention to accept the committee's certification, nominating the candidate suggested in it.

ORLEANS VOTING LIST CUT SOUGHT

(Continued from First Page)

tered. The suit seeks to compel Registrar Barnes to remove the names.

The Jackson club asserted a canvass of the names had disclosed addresses given included "vacant lots, empty houses, social and pleasure clubs, pool rooms, business places where they could not possibly reside and the homes of people who did not know these fraudulent registrants and had never heard of them."

The attorneys' statement charged Barnes had said there was not time to remove the names and added: "If the courts here say there is not sufficient time to prevent these fraudulent registrants from voting in this election, we shall give them the pleasure of explaining to the U. S. senate investigating committee why they voted in violation of the law."

The eight muscles of the human jaw exercise a force of nearly a quarter of a ton.

FARLEY WILL TRY TO REMAIN ALOOF IN MISSISSIPPI ROW

(Continued from First Page)

man Farley would do just what he has done as a democrat when he fully understood the truth of the situation in Mississippi and in my opinion this should demonstrate to the voters that the district nominees were willing to lend themselves to a sharp practice and a deliberate scheme in order to try and gain an advantage and help a losing fight.

"Further it should demonstrate to the people that those who were parties to the scheme should be defeated. Of course Chairman Farley knows that we all are good, and loyal democrats.

"Farley's action also should convince the people that the primary nominees, who called other candidates bolters, were not sincere and were only undertaking to fool the people and were willing to try and drag national party leaders into a purely local affair."

Speaking for the primary nominees, Congressman John E. Rankin of Tupelo, in response to a query regarding the reaction of his faction to Farley's wire, issued the following statement:

"There is nothing in Mr. Farley's statement to offset the fact that those men who are attempting to run as independent candidates for congress

LOUISIANA HOLDS PRIMARY TUESDAY

(Continued from First Page)

O. Brewster, republican, and John G. Uterback in the third congressional district has been conceded as close.

In the Vermont primaries Senator Dale has no opposition. And none confronts Senator Moses, president pro tem of the senate, for renomination in New Hampshire's republican primaries.

Out in Arizona, Senator Hayden, democrat, is seeking renomination with three opponents, and Representative Douglas is contesting, too, for the democratic nomination. Governor Hunt is running for his eighth term against four contenders.

In Michigan, candidates for 17 House seats, the governorship and other state offices will be named Tuesday. Grant M. Hudson and Louis C. Cramton, two prohibition leaders formerly members of the House, are campaigning for their old seats.

Judge Adam Beeler in the Washington state is seeking to take the republican nomination from Senator Jones.

Candidates for the republican senatorial nomination in Colorado are Carl C. Schuyler and Nate C. Warren, while the democratic nomination seekers are Alva B. Adams and John T. Barnett.

Senator Broussard and Representative Overton, who is supported by Senator Huey Long, are contesting for the democratic senatorial nomination in Louisiana. Nomination in that state is tantamount to election.

On Wednesday, Georgia voters will determine whether Representative Crisp, veteran House member, or Governor Russell will go to the senate. Although the democratic nomination in that state virtually means election, James W. Arnold, republican, probably will oppose the victor.

PENITENTIARY SENTENCES METED OUT AT TALLULAH

(Continued from First Page)

TALLULAH, Sept. 10.—The following penitentiary sentences were given at court here this week: C. L. Creel, charged with manslaughter for shooting and killing Henry Duke in a drunken brawl, 3 to 5 years; George Thompson, recently arrested near Monroe, 6 years on two charges of breaking and entering, and larceny; Willie Moore and Dave Moore, negroes, sentenced for the same charges Moore for one year and Boyd two years on one count and three for another.

Frank Disler and Ernest Lee were fined $50 and 60 days in jail, default six months, on liquor charges; James Johnson, negro, carrying concealed weapon, fined $100 and costs; default 90 days.

In the Culebra cut of the Panama Canal 2,500 tons of explosives were used. The biggest single explosion was one in which 26 tons of dynamite were used.

"Believe it or Not"

You Pay Only

$2.50

each week

For our combined

3 COURSES

of

COMMERCIAL EDUCATION

Instructions in fourteen standard business subjects, including Gregg Shorthand, Typing, Bookkeeping, also Burroughs Machine Bookkeeping.

Take 1 Or All

This is our $140 Combination Course reduced virtually 50 per cent, to only $85.

Remember, we are a recognized, permanently located, long established Commercial School.

Students Must Enroll Week of Sept. 12-17 or make arrangements this week to enter later.

Board as low as $12 to $15 monthly.

MONROE Commercial School

116 1/2 DeSiard St. Phone 1446

Election

Local Folk Vote Tuesday on Senator, Congressman, Judge

(Continued from First Page)

roe, Judge W. M. Taliaferro, of Harrisonburg, and Judge T. H. McGregor, of Rayville.

Several changes have been made in polling places in Orachita parish. A revised list of the locations of the boxes is as follows:

Ward 1, Precinct 1—Perry Harper's store.

Ward 1, Precinct 2—D. Y. Smith's store.

Ward 2, Precinct 1—Brooks Brothers' store.

Ward 3, Precinct 1—Courthouse.

Ward 3, Precinct 2—Peter's Furniture company.

Ward 3, Precinct 3—Stone avenue fire station.

Ward 3, Precinct 4—Tidwell's service station.

Ward 3, Precinct 5—Lee avenue fire station.

Ward 3, Precinct 6—Parlor City Lumber company.

Ward 3, Precinct 7—Roy's Chicken Garden.

Ward 3, Precinct 8—Louisiana Training institute.

Ward 4, Precinct 1—Lowe's store.

Ward 4, Precinct 1—West Monroe city hall.

Ward 5, Precinct 2—Calvert's station.

Ward 5, Precinct 3—Haile's store.

Ward 5, Precinct 4—Leon Johnson's barber shop.

Ward 5, Precinct 5—C. E. Feazel's station.

Ward 6, Precinct 1—Masonic hall, Calhoun.

Ward 7, Precinct 1—Cadeville school.

Ward 8, Precinct 1—Parish highway barn.

Ward 9, Precinct 1—Hendrix's store.

Ward 10, Precinct 1—American Legion home.

Ward 10, Precinct 2—Georgia Tucker school.

Ward 10, Precinct 3—North Side pharmacy.

Ward 10, Precinct 4—Louisville avenue fire station.

Ward 10, Precinct 5—Monroe Auto & Supply company.

Ward 10, Precinct 6—Milner Motor company.

Ward 10, Precinct 7—Sheppard's store.

Ward 10, Precinct 8—Magenta's store.

CRESCENT CITY BOY DIES OF AUTO CRASH INJURIES

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP).—James Roy, 24, died here today of injuries received September 7 when the automobile he was driving collided with a truck.

Mrs. Aileen Moore, 22, a passenger in Roy's automobile, also suffered serious injuries in the accident.

LIBRARY TO OFFER NEW MORATORIUM

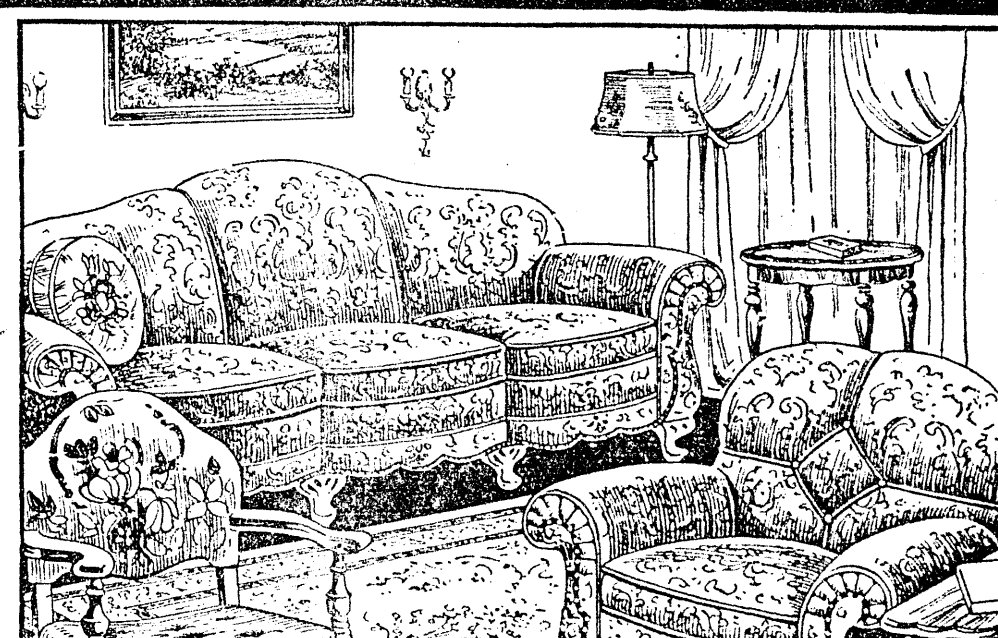

(Continued from First Page)

ber 17. After that delinquent books returned will be assessed the usual fee of one cent per day. Library records show many books overdue and many dollars in fines uncollected. The return of overdue books will mean much to the library at this time when there are no funds to purchase new ones.

In the event a borrower is timid about returning the volume he borrowed in September, 1931, etc., there will be a large box on the front porch at the library where books may be deposited. This box will be left there night and day during the week so that books may be put in at any time. The librarian says, "Clean out your bookcases and search through your closets for books that belong to your public library. And while you are searching, you may see a book that would delight some other reader. Why not pass it on to him through your library?" Thus we can turn "Forgiveness week" into "Giving week."

"Heavy circulation continues in spite of reduced operating hours. In one day during August over 500 books were loaned while the total circulation for the month was over 6700. Don't forget to bring your used magazines to the library for distribution. Every one is a boon to some person hungry for books."

The Boss of Values

EXQUISITE LIVING ROOM OUTFITS

$87.50

INCLUDING

- 2-Pc. Overstuffed Living Room Suite.
- 1 Occasional Table
- 1 Occasional Chair
- 2 End Tables

INCLUDING

- 1 Table Lamp
- 1 9x12 Rug
- 2 27x54 Rugs
- 1 Magazine Rack
- 1 Smoker

SEE THEM IN OUR WINDOWS

PUBLIC NOTICE

It has been called to my attention that one of the political candidates now running for office has used the name of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club in one of his campaign advertisements.

As president of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club, I desire to state that this use of the club's name was not authorized by the club in any way. The Kiwanis Club is a non-political organization and never participates in any political controversy, no matter what its individual members may do.

This statement is made to correct any misunderstanding that may have occurred through the unauthorized use of the Kiwanis Club's name in this connection.

H. A. McDonald
President West Monroe Kiwanis Club

WE DO NOT CLAIM TO PERFORM MIRACLES

But we are so confident that we can relieve your ailments that we positively guarantee to refund your money if we fail

SWEDISH BATHS

Are Nature's Own Remedy for combating diseases of all kinds

Do you suffer POOR HEALTH

Do You Tire Easily

$1.00 OPEN ALL NIGHT FOR MEN ONLY. BATH, RUB AND BED FOR ALL NIGHT. $1.00

Monroe Swedish Baths
SALT RUBS AND SCIENTIFIC MASSAGE
615 St. John Street Phone 116

Special Reductions on Living Room Suites This Week Only

3-Pc. Velour Overstuffed Suites. On sale for only	$37.50	3-Pc. Mohair Overstuffed Suites. Everyone high type	$68.50
3-Pc. Velour Overstuffed Suites. Splendidly made	$45.00	3-Pc. Velour Overstuffed Suites of best quality	$69.50
2-Pc. Mohair Overstuffed Suites of high quality	$59.50	3-Pc. Overstuffed Mohair Suite. An extra good buy	$79.50
3-Pc. Tapestry covered Suites of rare beauty	$68.50	3-Pc. Velour Bed Davenport	$89.50

Continuing Our Sale of 11-Piece

BEDROOM OUTFITS

While They Last—Just A Few Left

$59.50

A new low price record.

- 1-4-Pc. Bedroom Suite consisting of vanity, chest, bed and bench.
- 1-Genuine Simon's Coil Spring.
- 1-45-Pound Platted Felt Mattress.
- 1-Pair Feather Pillows.
- 1-9x12 Napara Rug.
- 2-27x54 Napara Rugs.
- An outfit that is worth $97.50, for only $59.50.

MONROE HARDWARE CO.
Retail Furniture and Hardware Department
Corner St. John and Harrison Streets

MISSISSIPPI'S NEW TOBACCO TAX LAW IS UNDER ATTACK

(Continued from First Page)

stamps. The commission refused to issue such a permit to a retailer, and held that it could not legally sell tobacco stamps to any firm other than wholesalers.

By the refusal of the commission to issue a permit the drug company contends that it has been discriminated against, and that the tobacco law is in restraint of trade, and is in effect a tariff against out-of-state tobacco dealers.

The court declaration charges that sections 3, 5 and 6 of the house bill violates the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution and section 14, article three, of the state constitution in that these sections allegedly deny equal protection of the law, prevent retail tobacco dealers from going into the open market to purchase products from wholesalers without regard to whether they have a permit from the state tax commission or not; and is virtually a tariff that prevents unlicensed out-of-state wholesalers competing with state wholesalers.

As a specific instance of this alleged "unfair tariff" the plaintiff asserts that it has ordered and paid for $32.49 worth of a special brand of cigars from the Peter Haughtman Tobacco company of St. Louis, a wholesale firm which has not secured a state permit.

The drug company contends that under the state law, it cannot receive these cigars, or dispose of them at retail trade, because it cannot buy tobacco stamps, nor can the out-of-state wholesaler do so without a permit from the state tax commission.

The plaintiff further contends that it cannot buy this special brand of cigars from any licensed Mississippi wholesaler and is therefore prevented by law from selling a product demanded by his trade.

The mandamus petition is returnable at the September term of the Hinds county circuit court.

LOUISIANA HOLDS PRIMARY TUESDAY

(Continued from First Page)

O. Brewster, republican, and John G. Utterback in the third congressional district has been conceded as close.

In the Vermont primaries Senator Dale has no opposition. And none confronts Senator Moses, president pro tem of the senate, for renomination in New Hampshire's republican primaries.

Out in Arizona, Senator Hayden, democrat, is seeking renomination with three opponents, and Representative Douglas is contesting, too, for the democratic nomination. Governor Hunt is running for his eighth term against four contenders.

In Michigan, candidates for 17 House seats, the governorship and other state offices will be named Tuesday. Grant M. Hudson and Louis C. Cramton, two prohibition leaders formerly members of the House, are campaigning for their old seats.

Judge Adam Beeler in the Washington state is seeking to take the republican nomination from Senator Jones.

Candidates for the republican senatorial nomination in Colorado are Carl C. Schuyler and Nate C. Warren, while the democratic nomination seekers are Alva B. Adams and John T. Barnett.

Senator Broussard and Representative Overton, who is supported by Senator Huey Long, are contesting for the democratic senatorial nomination in Louisiana. Nomination in that state is tantamount to election.

On Wednesday, Georgia voters will determine whether Representative Crisp, veteran House member, or Governor Russell will go to the senate. Although the democratic nomination in that state virtually means election, James W. Arnold, republican, probably will oppose the victor.

SHREVEPORT MEN SPEAK IN MEETING AT WEST MONROE

(Continued from First Page)

under the control of one man, we are living under a racketeering system that rivals that in the city of Chicago.

The speaker praised State Representative Bill Feazel for opposing the Long administration in the last session of the legislature, declaring that he was one of the few who refused to submit to the control of Huey Long.

Long in his political speeches "denies putting a cent of taxes on you," said Morgan. "Have you ever heard of him cutting off one cent of taxes? Huey came down to Baton Rouge to hurry through the tax bills in the legislature. While the legislature was in session, if you wanted to see the governor you were ushered into his office. There you found Huey Long sitting with his feet propped upon Governor Allen's desk smoking a big cigar. Open the window, Huey would tell Oscar and Oscar would open the window. 'Run down and get me a paper,' he would tell Oscar, and Oscar would run down and get a paper. I tell you that O. K. Allen was nothing more than an office boy. They tell this story down at Baton Rouge. Not long ago a big rain fell, and somebody saw Oscar standing out in it. 'Why don't you get in out of the rain?' somebody asked the governor. 'I haven't got Huey here to tell me,' was the reply.

"Huey P. Long, the dictator, is going to carry the state of Louisiana into the deepest debt in her history if something is not done about it. They had 'taxmania' down at the last session of the legislature. The new taxes that Huey talks about are passed on to the public. They are not paid by the big corporations as Huey claims."

Senator Morgan then told of "the efforts of a few at Baton Rouge to relieve the property tax." He said that bills which would have done this were submitted and that no one was able to find fault with them. "Only one man talked against those relief bills—Huey Long. They killed those relief bills. Taxpayers came in full force. Huey had his trainload come up from New Orleans, and the taxpayers found themselves swamped by the payroll boys.

"There is no accounting for the funds going through the highway department. There is no way to look at the records. If the people don't wake up they will find themselves losing their homes and their businesses because of the great increases of taxes put on by Huey Long and his crowd. Taxation in the state is constantly on the increase. You've never heard of a tax decrease being talked. Gaston L. Porter said the other day in south Louisiana that a special session of the legislature would be called in January to levy a special sales tax. There is only one way to return the state to a business-like basis, and that is by breaking this Huey Long dictatorship rule in Louisiana."

Mr. Warren told of Senator Broussard's record in congress, declaring that he was waging a "poor man's campaign on his own resources and modest contributions from his friends. He hasn't a large entourage to follow him wherever he goes because he isn't using the taxpayers' money and is not receiving donations from the big corporations."

Mr. Warren asserted he was not speaking solely because the election involves Senator Broussard. "But because it involves good government. The people should elect their own high public officials, rather than let it be done by a single individual or group."

"Huey Long's crowd is doing nothing but gutting the state. He tries to make you believe he is the savior of the state and the savior of the people. Tell me what he has done. He has had every opportunity to reduce taxes. He boasts that 'we have not raised your property taxes.' Is there any credit in that when he has taxed you in every conceivable manner he could possibly dig up. You can't take off taxes when you owe the millions of dollars worth of debts which the Long administration has incurred."

The speaker told of "building a new five million dollar state house which we didn't need at this time of depression and a new governor's mansion which was not needed."

Election

Local Folk Vote Tuesday on Senator, Congressman, Judge

(Continued from First Page)

roe, Judge W. M. Taliaferro, of Harrisonburg, and Judge T. H. McGregor, of Rayville.

Several changes have been made in polling places in Orangeth parish. A revised list of the locations of the boxes is as follows:

Ward 1, Precinct 1—Perry Harper's store.

Ward 1, Precinct 2—D. Y. Smith's store.

Ward 2, Precinct 1—Brooks Brothers' store.

Ward 3, Precinct 1—Courthouse.

Ward 3, Precinct 2—Peter's Furniture company.

Ward 3, Precinct 3—Stone avenue fire station.

Ward 3, Precinct 4—Tidwell's service station.

Ward 3, Precinct 5—Lee avenue fire station.

Ward 3, Precinct 6—Parlor City Lumber company.

Ward 3, Precinct 7—Roy's Chicken Garden.

Ward 3, Precinct 8—Louisiana Training institute.

Ward 4, Precinct 1—Lowe's store.

Ward 5, Precinct 1—West Monroe city hall.

Ward 5, Precinct 2—Calvert's station.

Ward 5, Precinct 3—Halle's store.

Ward 5, Precinct 4—Leon Johnson's barber shop.

Ward 5, Precinct 5—C. E. Feazel's station.

Ward 6, Precinct 1—Masonic hall, Calhoun.

Ward 7, Precinct 1—Cadeville school.

Ward 8, Precinct 1—Parish highway barn.

Ward 9, Precinct 1—Hendrix's store.

Ward 10, Precinct 1—American Legion home.

Ward 10, Precinct 2—Georgia Tucker school.

Ward 10, Precinct 3—North Side pharmacy.

Ward 10, Precinct 4—Louisville avenue fire station.

Ward 10, Precinct 5—Monroe Auto & Supply company.

Ward 10, Precinct 6—Milner Motor company.

Ward 10, Precinct 7—Sheppard's store.

Ward 10, Precinct 8—Magenta's store.

CRESCENT CITY BOY DIES OF AUTO CRASH INJURIES

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—James Roy, 24, died here today of injuries received September 7 when the automobile he was driving collided with a truck.

Mrs. Aileen Moore, 22, a passenger in Roy's automobile, also suffered serious injuries in the accident.

FERGUSON PLEAS DENIED IN TEXAS COURT YESTERDAY

(Continued from First Page)

sider the committee's certification of a nominee and draft a platform.

Dissatisfied with the court decision, Ocie Spear of Austin, representing Mrs. Ferguson, immediately filed a motion for a rehearing, but the court overruled the motion. Governor Sterling refused to comment on the ruling.

Mrs. Ferguson, accompanied by her former governor husband, James E. Ferguson, impeached and removed from office in 1917, was en route to the Lubbock convention. Governor Sterling planned to leave, probably tomorrow.

A statement by Governor Sterling refusing to concede Mrs. Ferguson's victory, in which he charged many illegal ballots had been counted and that he would be "nominated and elected governor," prompted the Ferguson move in the supreme court.

The woman candidate sought to have the court compel the executive committee to do nothing other than tabulate the number of votes received by each candidate, according to the official returns, and certify to the convention as the nominee the one receiving the larger number. The court order she sought also would have forced the convention to accept the committee certification, nominating the candidate suggested in it.

LIBRARY TO OFFER NEW MORATORIUM

(Continued from First Page)

ber 17. After that delinquent books returned will be assessed the usual fee of one cent per day. Library records show many books overdue and many dollars in fines uncollected. The return of overdue books will mean much to the library at this time when there are no funds to purchase new ones.

"In the event a borrower is timid about returning that volume he borrowed in September, 1931, etc., there will be a large box on the front porch at the library where books may be deposited. This box will be left there night and day during the week so that books may be put in at any time. The librarian says, 'Clean out your bookcases and search through your closets for books that belong to your public library. And while you are searching, you may see a book that would delight some other reader. Why not pass it on to him through your library? Thus we can turn "Forgiveness week" into "Giving week." "Heavy circulation continues in spite of reduced operating hours. In one day during August over 500 books were loaned while the total circulation for the month was over 6700. Don't forget to bring your used magazines to the library for distribution. Every one is a boon to some person hungry for books."

CITY SUNK IN BIG MARSH IS LOCATED

(Continued from First Page)

your car can follow. Sometimes we would get out and walk and then come back to the car.

"All of a sudden he jumped and pointed out something in the marsh. It was a chimney looking like it was stuck right out of the ground. Around were a few more chimneys. There was a sort of little knoll in the marsh where the ground looked solid enough to walk on.

"I knew this was that sunken city. We got out of the car and pushed through on foot to the little knoll where the chimneys were. Alongside of the big one I saw what looked like some planks half buried. I pulled and pulled and finally broke off a piece of plank, making an opening in the ground."

Rose said he tore open a hole about a foot and a half square that seemed to open into a dark room of a house. Fearing to enter because of snakes he cut a long pole, placed a hook on its end and fished out the articles from the dark chamber.

One of the articles he brought up was an old army uniform.

ORLEANS VOTING LIST CUT SOUGHT

(Continued from First Page)

tered. The suit seeks to compel Registrar Barnes to remove the names.

The Jackson club asserted a canvass of the names had disclosed addresses given included "vacant lots, empty houses, social and pleasure clubs, pool rooms, business places where they could not possibly reside and the homes of people who did not know these fraudulent registrants and had never heard of them."

The attorneys' statement charged Barnes had said there was not time to remove the names and added: "If the courts here say there is not sufficient time to prevent these fraudulent registrants from voting in this election, we shall give them the pleasure of explaining to the U. S. senate investigating committee why they voted in violation of the law."

The eight muscles of the human jaw exercise a force of nearly a quarter of a ton.

FARLEY WILL TRY TO REMAIN ALOOF IN MISSISSIPPI ROW

(Continued from First Page)

man Farley would do just what he has done as a democrat when he fully understood the truth of the situation in Mississippi and in my opinion this should demonstrate to the voters that the district nominees were willing to lend themselves to a sharp practice and a deliberate scheme in order to try and gain an advantage and help a losing fight.

"Further it would demonstrate to the people that those who were parties to the scheme should be defeated. Of course Chairman Farley knows that we all are good, and loyal democrats.

"Farley's action also should convince the people that the primary nominees, who called other candidates bolters, were not sincere and were only undertaking to fool the people and were willing to try and drag national party leaders into a purely local affair."

Speaking for the primary nominees, Congressman John E. Rankin of Tupelo, in response to a query regarding the reaction of his state to Farley's wire, issued the following statement:

"There is nothing in Mr. Farley's statement to offset the fact that those men who are attempting to run as independent candidates for congress have bolted the white democratic primary in Mississippi.

"If Chairman Farley were in Mississippi and fully understood the situation he would condemn those men who have attempted and are still attempting to destroy our white primary system, the only instrumentality through which the white democrats of Mississippi have been able to control political affairs of our state. "The people of Mississippi are standing loyally by the democratic party as represented by the state executive committee and are going to support the seven democratic nominees for congress in the November election."

PENITENTIARY SENTENCES METED OUT AT TALLULAH

TALLULAH, Sept. 10.—The following penitentiary sentences were given at court here this week: C. L. Creel, charged with manslaughter for shooting and killing Henry Duke in a drunken brawl, 3 to 5 years; George Thompson, recently arrested near Monroe, 6 years on two charges of breaking and entering, and larceny; Willie Moore and Dave Moore, negroes, sentenced for the same charges Moore for one year and Boyd two years on one count and three for another.

Frank Disler and Ernest Lee were fined $500 and 60 days in jail, default six months, on liquor charges; James Johnson, negro, carrying concealed weapon, fined $100 and costs; default 90 days.

In the Culbra cut of the Panama Canal 2,500 tons of explosives were used. The highest single explosion was one in which 25 tons of dynamite were used.

"Believe it or Not"

You Pay Only

$2.50

each week

For our combined

3 COURSES

of

COMMERCIAL

EDUCATION

Instructions in fourteen standard business subjects, including Gregg Shorthand, Typing, Bookkeeping, also Burroughs Machine Bookkeeping.

Take 1 Or All

This is our $140 Combination Course reduced virtually 50 per cent, to only $85.

Remember, we are a recognized, permanently located, long established Commercial School.

Students Must Enroll Week of Sept. 12-17 or make arrangements this week to enter later.

Board as low as $12 to $15 monthly.

MONROE
Commercial School
116½ DeSard St. Phone 1446

PUBLIC NOTICE

It has been called to my attention that one of the political candidates now running for office has used the name of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club in one of his campaign advertisements.

As president of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club, I desire to state that this use of the club's name was not authorized by the club in any way. The Kiwanis Club is a non-political organization and never participates in any political controversy, no matter what its individual members may do.

This statement is made to correct any misunderstanding that may have occurred through the unauthorized use of the Kiwanis Club's name in this connection.

H. A. McDonald

President West Monroe Kiwanis Club

WE DO NOT CLAIM TO PERFORM MIRACLES

But we are so confident that we can relieve your ailments that we positively guarantee to refund your money if we fail

SWEDISH BATHS

Are Nature's Own Remedy for combating diseases of all kinds

Hundreds have come here as a last resort without much faith in our methods after trying everything else at great expense without results. Many of these we have cured and all were benefited even chronic cases. We can show you stacks of testimonials from grateful patients (probably some of your friends) who were in pitiful condition when they first came to us.

WOMEN ATTENDANTS FOR LADIES

Don't you have tried everything? Do you suffer POOR HEALTH

Do You Tire Easily

$1.00 OPEN ALL NIGHT FOR MEN ONLY. BATH, RUB AND BED FOR ALL NIGHT. $1.00

Monroe Swedish Baths

SALT RUBS AND SCIENTIFIC MASSAGE

615 St. John Street Phone 116

The Boss of Values

12 Pieces EXQUISITE LIVING ROOM 12 Pieces

OUTFITS

INCLUDING $87.50 INCLUDING
2-Pc. Overstuffed Living Room Suite, $7.50
1 Occasional Table, Cash
1 Occasional Chair, $2.00
2 End Tables, Week

SEE THEM IN OUR WINDOWS

Special Reductions on Living Room Suites This Week Only

3-Pc. Velour Overstuffed Suites. On sale for only	$37.50	3-Pc. Mohair Overstuffed Suites. Everyone high type	$68.50
3-Pc. Velour Overstuffed Suites. Splendidly made	$45.00	3-Pc. Velour Overstuffed Suites of best quality	$69.50
2-Pc. Mohair Overstuffed Suites of high quality	$59.50	3-Pc. Overstuffed Mohair Suite. An extra good buy	$79.50
3-Pc. Tapestry covered Suites of rare beauty	$68.50	3-Pc. Velour Bed Davenport	$89.50

Continuing Our Sale of 11-Piece BEDROOM OUTFITS While They Last—Just A Few Left

1-4-Pc. Bedroom Suite consisting of vanity, chest, bed and bench.	$59.50	A new low price record.
1-Genuine Simmons Coil Spring.	$5.00	1-Pair Feather Pillows.
1-45-Pound Plated Felt Mattress.	$1.50	1-9x12 Napara Rug.
	Week	2-27x54 Napara Rugs.
		An outfit that is worth $97.50, for only $59.50.

MONROE HARDWARE CO.

Retail Furniture and Hardware Department

Corner St. John and Harrison Streets

ROOSEVELT WILL WIN, FARLEY SAYS

National Democratic Chairman Pleaded With Action Taken by Tammany

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Reiterating his prediction that Franklin D. Roosevelt will carry New York in the presidential election, James A. Farley, national chairman of the Democratic party, tonight declared that the governor-elect would be confident the governor leaves on his western trip Monday with the state situation considerably improved by developments of the week.

The chairman discussed the situation informally after his return from the state committee meeting in Albany.

His optimism apparently was based on three developments:

The state committee's unanimous vote on a resolution introduced by John F. Curry, Tammany chief, which pledged New York democracy to the "active and loyal support" of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

The good-will call which Curry and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, made on the governor.

McCooey's visit to national headquarters—the first made by any city organization leader—and his agreement to occupy a desk there and take an active hand in directing the national campaign.

Farley smiled as he discussed the situation.

One evidence of his optimism, it was pointed out, was his decision to leave New York, go on the western swing, the governor.

As Farley prepared the three-week trip, which takes Roosevelt to the Pacific coasts, J. Walker, who attacked the governor as he resigned his office mayor at the height of oyster platings, was on the high seas.

He was taking cruise to Italy, he explained before he left, because of his health.

He made his decision to go abroad only last night on advice of his physician.

He was accompanied only by his former executive secretary, who has been a constant companion since Walker gave up the office of mayor.

Standing on deck to friends, he said he would be on the same boat. It is due October 8, just one month before presidential election and the one called to fill the "vacancy" the office of mayor.

SALVATION ARBUILDING IN SHREVEPORT OPEN

SHREVEPORT, Mo. (AP)—Cornerstone for the $100,000 Salvation Army building at 110 Crockett street, laid with appropriate honors next Saturday, according to announcement made yesterday by Capt. A. V. Walker.

About 30 Shreveporters are employed on the building which is rapidly taking form.

The building will cost $25,000 and equipment will amount to $30,000, going to Captain Walker.

The drive in which funds were obtained was in May, 1931, by Lowe-McFarland, American Legion, and as for the legion will have a part part on the program Saturday.

BELA LUGOSI HIMSELF

Was she dead? If so how did she walk, breathe and perform every desire of this fiend who had her under his spell? Was she alive? Then why was she dead in the eyes of the law and the fiend who controlled her sought as a murderer? White Zombie is a glamorous love tale told on the borderland of life and death, stranger than anything one can possibly imagine. This show will be seen at the Paramount theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE MOVIES

PARAMOUNT

Harpo Marx, silent member of the Four Marx Brothers team, is a success because he acts dumb.

But there was a time when his three brothers might have been ready to admit that in private life, just as on the stage and screen, his intelligence was pretty low.

The stars of "Horse Feathers," which shows at the Paramount Theater today, had just quit vaudeville and started to tour in a show called, "Mrs. Green's Reception," written, directed and staged by themselves. The reception it received was uncomfortably cool.

It was in 1918, however, and they signed contracts with theaters in cities near army training camps, hoping that the soldiers wouldn't know any better. No sooner was the last contract signed, than the influenza epidemic broke out. Quarantine was established at all camps, with leave permitted none of the soldiers. That simply ruined the Marx Brothers, for there was only one way to get out of their contracts—sickness on the part of one of them. And they were all in the best of health.

They finally decided, however, that Harpo would have to play sick. He faked appendicitis before a village doctor with a great deal of enthusiasm. No one in the throes of agony could have writhed, moaned and groaned more realistically than he.

And then, as the doctor looked puzzled, a great light dawned upon the other three brothers.

Harpo was laboring under the impression that his appendix was on his left side!

His "boner," however, was finally forgiven. For as the epidemic grew worse, the managers closed their theaters of their own volition.

Can a man choose between friendship and duty to country? Such a perplexing dilemma confronts Victor Varconi, featured player in Universal's latest war drama, "The Doomed Battalion" which is shown at the Strand theater. West Monroe today will never quarrel with the director about the money paid him for the part. In Dickie Moore's mind DeMille is the most generous man that ever lived.

For at the conclusion of "shooting," DeMille presented Dickie with the full costume even to a big, blue bandana which the child actor wears in the western sequence of the picture.

Playgoers will recall the role of Little Hal as one of the fattest child parts in the entire history of the drama. Dickie was chosen for it because of extraordinary work he has done as a child player since he was only ten months old.

STRAND

Five-year-old actors don't know much about salaries and care less. Such matters are for their "grown-ups" to worry about.

But a gift of a real cowboy outfit with thin chaps, sombrero, cap gun and lariat—that is something else again.

Dickie Moore, who plays the role of Little Hal in Cecil B. DeMille's latest production, "The Squaw Man," which will be shown at the Strand theater, West Monroe today will never quarrel with the director about the money paid him for the part. In Dickie Moore's mind DeMille is the most generous man that ever lived.

For at the conclusion of "shooting," DeMille presented Dickie with the full costume even to a big, blue bandana which the child actor wears in the western sequence of the picture.

Playgoers will recall the role of Little Hal as one of the fattest child parts in the entire history of the drama. Dickie was chosen for it because of extraordinary work he has done as a child player since he was only ten months old.

CAPITOL

Can a man choose between friendship and duty to country? Such a perplexing dilemma confronts Victor Varconi, featured player in Universal's latest war drama, "The Doomed Battalion" which is shown at the Strand theater. West Monroe today will never quarrel with the director about the money paid him for the part. In Dickie Moore's mind DeMille is the most generous man that ever lived.

For at the conclusion of "shooting," DeMille presented Dickie with the full costume even to a big, blue bandana which the child actor wears in the western sequence of the picture.

Playgoers will recall the role of Little Hal as one of the fattest child parts in the entire history of the drama. Dickie was chosen for it because of extraordinary work he has done as a child player since he was only ten months old.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

CHAPTER XXXVI (Continued)

Cherry sat on her knees surveying the stretch of yellow cotton cloth. It was spread on the floor before her and laid on in curious fashion were oddly shaped pieces of yellow tissue paper.

There were lines in Cherry's forehead. "Now I wonder," she said aloud, "if that can be right?"

Since there was no one to answer the question went without reply. Cherry took up the scissors and began to cut around the paper patterns.

It was her first experiment in dressmaking. Mrs. Moreau had been making house dresses and had promised Cherry that she might use her sewing machine. "The pattern was one of those labeled 'for beginners,'" Cherry had read the directions half a dozen times but the result of her work, as it lay before her, was more puzzling than any problem she had ever encountered in school days.

Slowly and laboriously she cut around the last bit of paper. The sections of cloth did not seem to look like much but when Cherry held them up she thought she began to understand how they fitted together.

She was gathering up the last of the strips of yellow cloth when a key sounded in the lock. Cherry scrambled to her feet.

"Goodness, Dan, I didn't know it was so late!"

The young man looked down at the floor. "Say, what's going on here?"

he demanded, "What in the world—?"

Cherry laughed. She held up a long piece of cloth. "My new fall outfit!" she said. "How do you like it?"

"Well, it doesn't look like much to me. What's the idea?"

"It doesn't look like much to me, either," Cherry admitted. "But wait until I'm through with it! It's going to be a dress, Dan. You didn't know I was a modiste, did you?"

"Do you think you can make a dress out of that?"

The girl nodded. "Mrs. Moreau promised to help me," she told him. "Of course I don't expect it to be very beautiful but the color's pretty. Don't you think so? It'll do to wear around the house. Besides, I wanted to see if I was a modiste, did you?"

"Do you think you can make a dress out of that?"

Permanent WAVES

PHONE 2070

IT'S ANOTHER SEASON You'll want another personality. We'll wave your hair to fit the personality the new fall fashions demand.

Time for the HOT OIL TREATMENTS... EUNICE LEE BEAUTY SHOP OVER MORGAN & LINDSEY

STRAND

WEST MONROE TODAY WARNER BAXTER LUPE VELEZ "The Squaw Man" MICKEY MOUSE AND COMEDY 1 P.M. to 11 P.M. 10c - 25c

I could really do it. The pattern and cloth together only cost $1.75.

"You're getting to be a miser," Dan told her grinning. "Pretty soon you'll be wanting me to wear homemade shirts and crocheted neckties."

"I'll have to learn to crochet first. Are you hungry? Dinner's almost ready. I can have it on the table in 10 minutes."

"No hurry," Dan said. "What do you say we go over and pay a call on the Caseys tonight? We were asking last week when we could come over."

"Oh, I'd like that!" the girl said eagerly. "But aren't you going to work on the play?"

Dan shook his head. He came over to where Cherry stood and took her chin in his hand. "I decided to knock off for a while," he said. "It's been a long time since we've had an evening to ourselves. You don't mind having me around, do you?"

"There's nothing I'd like better! It has been lonely here this last week but of course I know what it means to you to finish the play. How's it going, Dan?"

He frowned. "Not coming as fast as I hoped it would," he said, "but of course I don't know much about these things. I guess if you didn't have anything else to do but sit down and write you could turn out plays and short stories in no time."

"Some day you'll be able to do that."

"Well—I hope so! This working all day on a news beat and then trying to keep up with Brenda Vail nights isn't so easy. Anyhow, let's forget about the play tonight. I don't want to even think about it."

"Then we'll forget it!"

They sat down to dinner. Dan talked about a medical discovery reported in the day's news. He mentioned the fact that Max Pearson had been offered a new job and was undecided about taking it. Dan had discouraged him. "Maybe it's selfish," he explained, "but I hate to think of old Max going away."

It was later while Cherry was putting up the last of the dishes that the telephone rang. "I'll answer," she told Dan and a moment later added, "It's for you!"

Cherry had recognized Brenda Vail's voice.

(To Be Continued)

BOOSTER CLUB TO MEET The booster club of the First Baptist church will hold its September meeting in the church basement on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. The program is to comprise: Devotional; Mrs. Brueck; Glimpses of the Dry Creek Encampment, Mrs. Forest Seaman; reading, Kate Flanagan; vocal solo, Hazel Bolin; jokes, Raymond Masling; pep, Brownlow Hastings and Avonia Gerald.

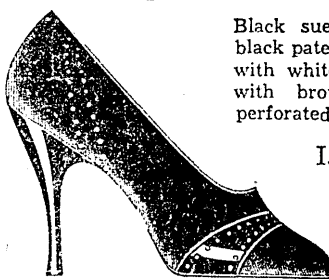

WILL CAN MEAT Mrs. Jewel L. McQuillier, Ouachita parish home demonstration agent, will endeavor to hold five meat canning demonstrations in 20 widely scattered communities of the parish during the fall and winter, she announced yesterday. Several communities already have made arrangements for part of the demonstrations, which will be inaugurated as near October 10 as the weather will permit.

JUNIOR COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEET

Dale Cobb, president of the Ouachita junior college Y. M. C. A., announced last night that the program committee of that organization would meet Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the college to formulate a program to be followed throughout the coming school year.

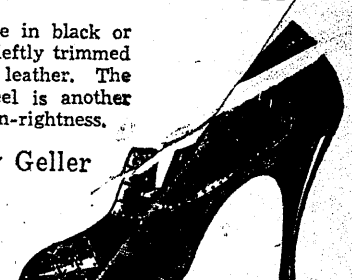

Fall Elegance in Smart Shoes

interpreted by I. Miller and Andrew Geller

Black suede trimmed with black patent band perforated with white or brown suede with brown patent band perforated with beige.

I. Miller

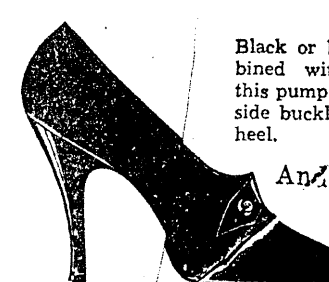

A side lace tie in black or brown suede deftly trimmed with patent leather. The continental heel is another mark of fashion-rightness.

Andrew Geller

The lowest price in history for shoes by these two makers

$10.50

New styles for dress, street or sports wear for miss or matron

Black or brown suede combined with matching kid, this pump is trimmed with a side buckle. Note the spike heel.

Andrew Geller

This black kid colonial pump with a patent trim boasts of a junior spike heel, Duco covered so that it will not scuff.

I. Miller

STREET FLOOR

Beauty Parlor Second Floor

THE Palace

Barber Shop Second Floor

This is the Year to Buy

Better Coats than Ever

Greatest Values in a Decade

The Fashion Successes of 2 Continents at 2 low prices

COATS

Luxuriously Furred

$38

The outstanding fashion successes of American designers... and copies of famous Parisian couturiers both give an air of fashion rightness to these two groups of coats that was never before possible to achieve at these prices. Nor has quality been sacrificed to get these styles. Your most careful comparison will show the fabrics to be the finest... the generous fur collars and trimmings are of first choice furs... beautiful linings are of heavy silk crepe and hand tailoring also appears wherever it's needed to give perfect fit. Shown in misses' and women's sizes.

—SECOND FLOOR

$58

THE Palace

MONROE WED. SEPT. 21

Plum & Jackson St. Ground

HAGENBECK WALLACE CIRCUS

Captain CLYDE BEATTY

30 DAYS AND 30 NIGHTS

THE LARGEST AND MOST SENSATIONAL CIRCUS EVER

THE SENSATION OF TWO CIRCUSES!

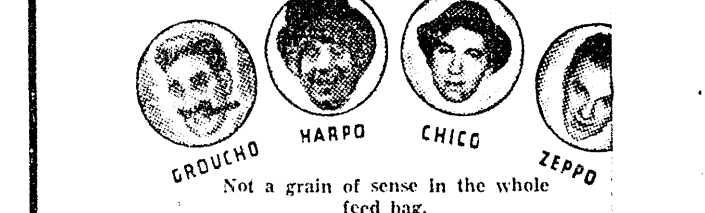

Twice Daily, 2 and 8 P.M. Doors Open 1 and 7 P.M.

Downtown Ticket Sale on Circus Day at Collins Pharmacy, 200 DeStard St.

SPECIAL PRICE FOR THIS DATE CHILDREN... 25¢

LAST TIMES TODAY — BETTER RRY!

A Picture That's All Ticks and Gigs!

THE FOUR MARX BROTHERS

IN THEIR BEST GLOOM-CHASER 'Horse Feathers'

A ROMANCE OF LOVE AMONG THE WILD OR WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

ADDED UNITS "MURDER IN A PULLMAN" DEATH VAY "BARNYARD OLYMPICS" 25c Till 11

THREE DAYS STARTING MONDAY

Stranger things are happening than you ever dreamed

What SCARFACE meant to gang pictures

WHITE ZOMBIE

means to thrillers!

with BELA (DRACULA) LUGOSI

RELEASED BY UNITED ARTISTS

Added Units "MOONLIGHT AND CACTUS" — "BETTOOP"

PARAMOUNT NEWS EVENTS

Paramount THEATRE

TOD THRU MOAY

The picture is terrific! War on the mountain top

With—

VICTOR VARCONI — TALA BIRELL

And Special Cast

"Shopping With The Wife" Late News

Coming "RED HEADED WOMAN"

CAPITOL

ROOSEVELT WILL WIN, FARLEY SAYS

National Democratic Chairman Pleased With Action Taken by Tammany

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Reiterating his prediction that Franklin D. Roosevelt will carry New York in the presidential election, James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, tonight was confident the governor leaves on his western trip Monday with the state situation considerably improved by developments of the week.

The chairman discussed the situation informally after his return from the state committee meeting in Albany.

His optimism apparently was based on three developments:

The state committee's unanimous vote on a resolution introduced by John P. Curry, Tammany chief, which pledged New York democracy to the "active and loyal support" of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

The good-will call which Curry and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader, made on the governor.

McCooey's visit to national headquarters—the first made by any city organization leader—and his agreement to occupy a desk there and take an active hand in directing the national campaign.

Farley smiled as he discussed the situation.

One evidence of his optimism, it was pointed out, was his decision to leave New York go on the westward swing the governor. As Farley prepared the three-week trip, which take Roosevelt to the Pacific coasts J. Walker, who attacked the governor as he resigned his office mayor at the height of oyster pings, was on the high seas.

He was taking cruise to Italy, he explained before, because of his health.

He made his decision to go abroad only last night on advice of his physician.

He was accompanied by his former executive secretary, who has been a constant panion since Walker gave up the mayor.

Standing on deck to friends, he said he would not on the same boat. It is due back to New York on Monday before presidential election and the on called to fill the "vacancy" the office of mayor.

SALVATION ARMBUILDING IN SHREVEPORT OPEN

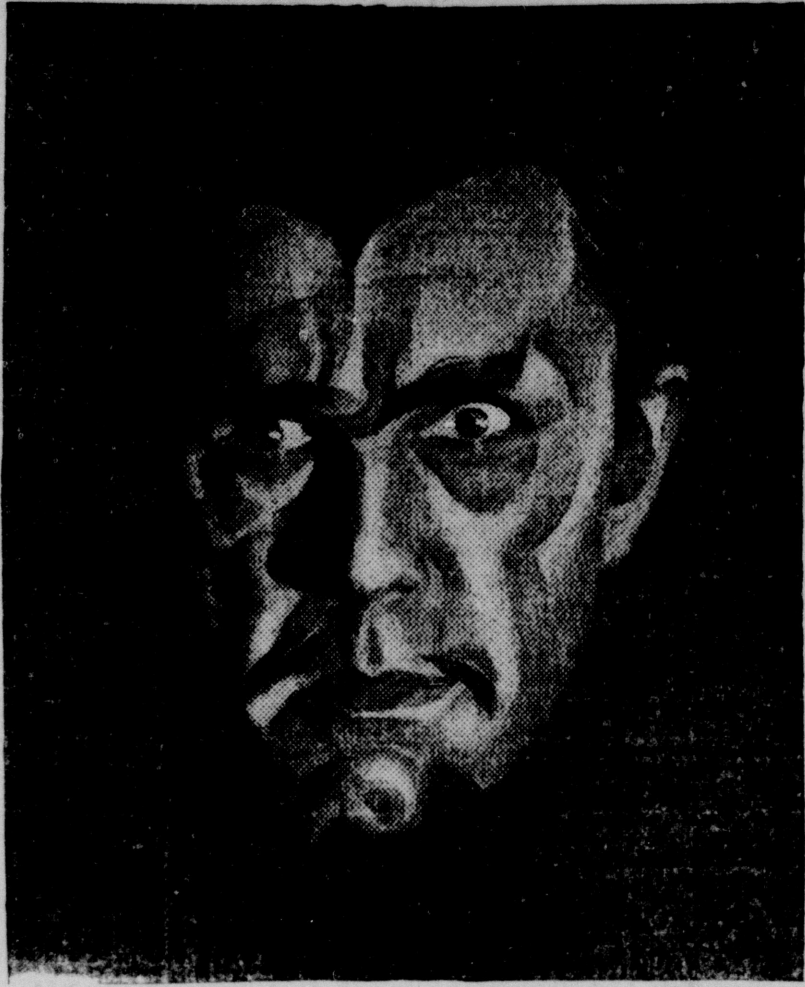

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cornerstone for the home of the local chapter of the Salvation Army at 710 Crockett st. will be laid with appropriate rites next Saturday, according to announcement made yesterday by Capt. A. V. Walker.

About 30 Shreveport are employed on the building which is rapidly taking form.

The building will about $25,000 and equipment expected to amount to $30,000, according to Capt. Walker.

The drive in which funds were obtained was in May, 1931, by Lowe-McFarland, American Legion, and as the legion will have a part part on the program Saturday.

BELA LUGOSI HIMSELF

Was she dead? If so how did she walk, breathe and perform every desire of this fiend who had her under his spell? Was she alive? Then why was she dead in the eyes of the law and the fiend who controlled her sought as a murderer? White Zombie is a glamorous love tale told on the borderland of life and death, stranger than anything one can possibly imagine. This show will be seen at the Paramount theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE MOVIES

PARAMOUNT

Harpo Marx, silent member of the Four Marx Brothers team, is a success because he acts dumb.

But there was a time when his three brothers might have been ready to admit that in private life, just as on the stage and screen, his intelligence was pretty low.

The stars of "Horse Feathers," which shows at the Paramount Theater today, had just quit vaudeville and started to tour in a show called, "Mrs. Green's Reception," written, directed and staged by themselves. The reception it received was uncomfortably cool.

It was in 1918, however, and they signed contracts with theaters in cities near army training camps, hoping that the soldiers wouldn't know any better. No sooner was the last contract signed, than the influenza epidemic broke out. Quarantine was established at all camps, with leave permitted none of the soldiers. That simply ruined the Marx Brothers, for there was only one way to get out of their contracts—sickness on the part of one of them. And they were all in the best of health.

They finally decided, however, that Harpo would have to play sick. He faked appendicitis before a village doctor with a great deal of enthusiasm. No one in the throes of agony could have writhed, moaned and groaned more realistically than he. And then, as the doctor looked puzzled, a great light dawned upon the other three brothers.

Harpo was laboring under the impression that his appendix was on his left side! His "boner," however, was finally forgiven. For as the epidemic grew worse, the managers closed their theaters of their own volition.

CAPITOL

Can a man choose between friendship and duty to country?

Such a perplexing dilemma confronts Victor Varconi, featured player in Universal's latest war drama, "The Doomed Battalion," hailed as screen's most brilliant achievement in realism.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

CHAPTER XXXVI (Continued)

Cherry sat on her knees surveying the stretch of yellow cotton cloth. It was spread on the floor before her and laid on in curious fashion were oddly shaped pieces of yellow tissue paper.

There were lines in Cherry's forehead. "Now I wonder," she said aloud, "if that can be right?"

Since there was no one to answer the question went without reply. Cherry took up the scissors and began to cut around the paper patterns. It was her first experiment in dressmaking. Mrs. Moreau had promised Cherry that she might use her sewing machine. The pattern was one of those labeled "for beginners." Cherry had read the directions half a dozen times but the result of her work, as it lay before her, was more puzzling than any problem she had ever encountered in school days.

Slowly and laboriously she cut around the last bit of paper. The sections of cloth did not seem to look like much but when Cherry held them up she thought she began to understand how they fitted together. She was gathering up the last of the strips of yellow cloth when a key sounded in the lock. Cherry scrambled to her feet.

"Goodness, Dan, I didn't know it was so late!"

The young man looked down at the floor. "Say, what's going on here?"

since "All Quiet on the Western Front," "The Doomed Battalion" opens an engagement today at the Capitol Theater.

The gripping story concerns the deep friendship of an Italian gentleman and his Austrian mountain guide, welded by dangers shared in scaling together the precipitous peaks of the Tyrol. War intervenes to pit them against each other in a struggle to possess a strategic Alpine peak, and military orders force them to plot for each other's destruction. Situations result where suspense runs high and action brings a series of exciting climaxes to a crisis which is said to hold the audience spellbound. There are scenes of rushing Alpine avalanches sweeping to destruction, and the dynamiting of a mountain provides one of the most tremendous spectacles yet filmed.

Tala Birell, the exotic star, plays the leading feminine role.

STRAND

Five-year-old actors don't know much about salaries and care less.

Such matters are for their "grown-ups" to worry about. But a gift of a real cowboy outfit with tiny chaps, sombrero, cap gun and lariat—that is something else again.

Dickie Moore, who plays the role of Little Hal in Cecil B. DeMille's latest production, "The Squaw Man," which will be shown at the Strand theater, West Monroe, today, will never quarrel with the director about the money paid him for the part. In Dickie's mind DeMille is the most generous man that ever lived.

For at the conclusion of "shooting," DeMille presented Dickie with the full costume even to a big, blue bandana which the child actor wears in the western sequence of the picture.

Playgoers will recall the role of Little Hal as one of the fattest child parts in the entire history of the drama. Dickie was chosen for it because of extraordinary work he has done as a child player since he was only ten months old.

he demanded. "What in the world—?"

Cherry laughed. She held up a long piece of cloth. "My new fall outfit!" she said. "How do you like it?"

"Well, it doesn't look like much to me. What's the idea?"

"It doesn't look like much to me, either," Cherry admitted. "But wait until I'm through with it! It's going to be a dress. Dan, you didn't know I was a modiste, did you?"

"Do you think you can make a dress out of that?"

The girl nodded. "Mrs. Moreau promised to help me," she told him. "Of course I don't expect it to be very beautiful but the color's pretty. Don't you think so? It'll do to wear around the house. Besides, I wanted to see if

Permanent WAVES

PHONE 2070

IT'S ANOTHER SEASON

You'll want another personality. We'll wave your hair to fit the personality the new fall fashions demand.

Time for the HOT OIL TREATMENTS...

EUNICE LEE BEAUTY SHOP

OVER MORGAN & LINDSEY

BOOSTER CLUB TO MEET

The Booster club of the First Baptist church will hold its September meeting in the church basement on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. The program is to comprise: Devotional, Ara Brueck; Glimpses of the Dry Creek Encampment, Mrs. Forest Seaman; reading, Kate Flanagan; vocal solo, Hazel Bolin; jokes, Raymond Masling; pep, Brownlow Hastings and Avonia Gerald.

WILL CAN MEAT

Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller, Ousachita parish home demonstration agent, will endeavor to hold five meat canning demonstrations in 20 widely scattered communities of the parish during the fall and winter, she announced yesterday. Several communities already have made arrangements for part of the demonstrations, which will be inaugurated as near October 10 as the weather will permit.

JUNIOR COLLEGE Y. M. C. A. COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEET

Dale Cobb, president of the Ousachita junior college Y. M. C. A., announced last night that the program committee of that organization would meet Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the college to formulate a program to be followed throughout the coming school year.

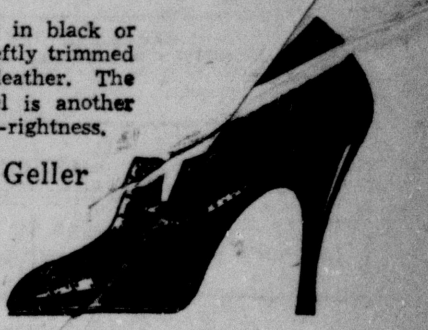

Fall Elegance in Smart Shoes

interpreted by I. Miller and Andrew Geller

Black suede trimmed with black patent band perforated with white or brown suede with brown patent band perforated with beige.

I. Miller

A side lace tie in black or brown suede deftly trimmed with patent leather. The continental heel is another mark of fashion-rightness.

Andrew Geller

The lowest price in history for shoes by these two makers

$10.50

New styles for dress, street or sports wear for miss or matron

Black or brown suede combined with matching kid, this pump is trimmed with a side buckle. Note the spike heel.

Andrew Geller

This black kid colonial pump with a patent trim boasts of a junior spike heel, Duco covered so that it will not scuff.

I. Miller

STREET FLOOR

Beauty Parlor Second Floor

THE Palace

Barber Shop Second Floor

The Fashion Successes of 2 Continents at 2 low prices

COATS

Luxuriously Furred

$38

The outstanding fashion successes of American designers... and copies of famous Parisian couturiers both give an air of fashion rightness to these two groups of coats that was never before possible to achieve at these prices. Nor has quality been sacrificed to get these styles. Your most careful comparison will show the fabrics to be the finest... the generous fur collars and trimmings are of first choice furs... beautiful linings are of heavy silk crepe and hand tailoring also appears wherever it's needed to give perfect fit. Shown in misses' and women's sizes.

—SECOND FLOOR

$58

THE Palace

MONROE 21

WED. SEPT. 21

Plum & Jackson St. Ground

HAGENBECK WALLACE CIRCUS

Captain CLYDE BEATTY

30 DAYS OF THRILLING DISPLAY

THE LARGEST AND MOST SENSATIONAL ANIMAL ACT IN THE WORLD

TRAVELING DISPLAY

WILD AND FEROCIOUS LONG AND TOGS

A LIVING DESSION SHOW THROUGH SPACE WITH VIOLENT VELOCITY FROM THE MOUTH OF A HUGE GORILLA

THE SENSATION OF TWO CONTINENTS

TRAVELING DISPLAY

WILD AND FEROCIOUS LONG AND TOGS

A LIVING DESSION SHOW THROUGH SPACE WITH VIOLENT VELOCITY FROM THE MOUTH OF A HUGE GORILLA

THE SENSATION OF TWO CONTINENTS

Downtown Ticket Sale on Circus Day at Collins Pharmacy, 206 DeSiard St.

SPECIAL PRICE FOR THIS DATE CHILDREN... 25¢

LAST TIMES TODAY — BETTER RRY!

A Picture That's All Tickle and Gigg

THE FOUR MARX BROTHERS

IN THEIR BEST GLOOM-CHASER 'Horse Feathers'

A ROMANCE OF LOVE AMONG THE WILD OR WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

ADDED UNITS "MURDER IN A PULLMAN" DEATH VAY "BARNYARD OLYMPICS" 25c THU II.

THREE DAYS STARTING TODAY

Stranger things are happening than you eveamed

What SCARFACE meant to gang pictures

WHITE ZOMBIE

means to thrillers!

with BELA (DRACULA) LUGOSI

RELEASED BY UNITED ARTISTS

Added Units

"MOONLIGHT AND CACTUS" — "BETTOOP"

PARAMOUNT NEWS EVENTS

Paramount THEATRE

THE DOOMED BATTALION

The picture terrific! War on the mountain top With—

VICTOR VARCONI — TALA BIRELL And Special Cast

"Shopping With The Wife" Late News

Coming "RED HEADED WOMAN"

1 P.M. 1 P.M.

STRAND

WEST MONROE TODAY

WARNER BAXTER LUPE VELEZ

— IN — "The Squaw Man"

MICKEY MOUSE AND COMEDY 1 P.M. to 4 P.M. 10c - 25c going out there with the intent of putting it in the bag.

WITH THE

Published Every Sunday

CHILDREN

Edited by Eve C. Bradford

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What is it to be a gentleman? It is to be honest, to be gentle, to be brave, to be wise, and possessing all these qualities to exercise them in the most graceful outward manner. —Thackeray.

The entire family, including brother, himself, thought the matter was settled. Mother had sermonized for hours on the folly of it; Sister had painstakingly pointed out the injustice of it; And father had set his foot down and said, no, indeed. Brother would not take his ritz red roadster back to college with him this year.

But that was before Mother's shopping tour for sister. Wherein father was called upon to write checks for a fur coat, A permanent wave, A wardrobe trunk full of wardrobe, And various other trifles Which did not trifle With the pocketbook.

Then it was father learned That all brother wanted In the way of personal adornment Was a bottle of hair oil And a turtle-neck sweater Like Clark Gable wears; And mother and sister Are still wondering What changed father's mind, And caused him to settle The matter again.

DEER TALK

Yesterday four deer came out of the wood And stood And talked to me. "How do you walk on your hind legs?" They said And fed Under a tree. "What do you do with all your clothes?" And chose Clovers there. "Surely you can't run very fast?" they asked And laughed Merrily. With another look they ran with a rush Into the brush Gracefully.

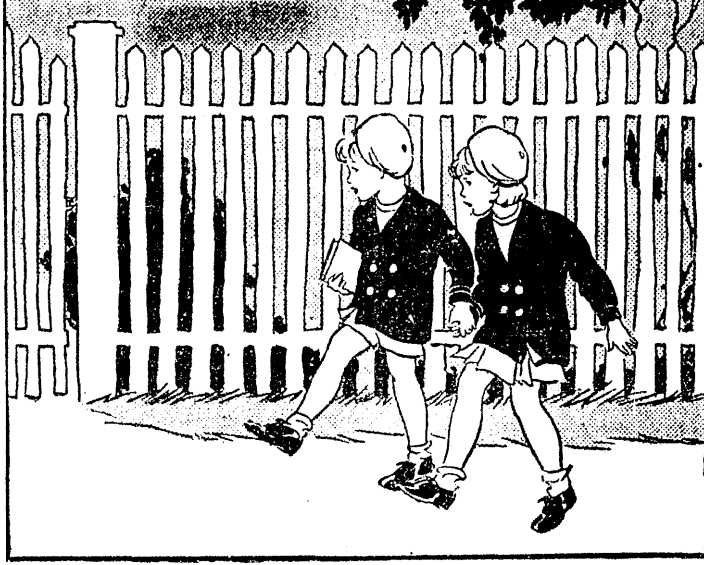

—AIRDRIE KINCAID.

DISSATISFIED

By HELEN WELSHIMER

MY neighbor's children come from school In brief blue coats, red tams, To find their mother waiting with Crusted loaves and jams. While I serve tea at five o'clock, And bread cut wafer thin, To any casual visitor Who happens to drop in.

MY neighbor envies me because She has to stay at home—I haven't cookie jars to fill, Or curly heads to comb. It's strange she doesn't understand That I go away Because a home's a somber thing If children never play.

JOHNNY KETTLE GOES TO SCHOOL

Mildred said, "I like to do everything but wash dishes," Mildred and Alice were playing with their dolls in the grass under mother's window and their words floated up to her as she sat sewing. Mildred was ten years old and had been washing dishes longer than Alice, who was eight. She spoke as one with authority. "I wish it was fun, like playing games or going to school." The girls could not see mother, but if they had been there they would have known that she had started planning something for them as she listened to Mildred's words. They could always tell when she was planning something nice for them by the twinkle in her eyes and by the way she puckered her lips up close together, as if she were trying to keep them from smiling.

That evening, after dinner was over but while they were still at the table, mother told them that she had thought of a new way to play school.

"How?" both little girls chorused together.

"Well," Mother began, "this game takes two teachers and a principal."

"I'll be a teacher," Mildred exclaimed quickly.

"I'll be a teacher, too," Alice chimed in.

"And I'll be the principal," mother said.

Two faces fell and the girls asked, "But who'll be the pupils?"

Mother smiled. "We are going to have more pupils than we have ever had before," she said. "There will be kindergarten pupils and second grade pupils and sixth grade pupils and older boys and little girls with pretty dresses. We are going to have a whole schoolhouse full of children!" She paused thoughtfully. "I do believe though that we should have two traffic officers first, before we have our teachers," she said. "Someone will be needed to help the children across the street to the schoolhouse."

"I'll be a traffic officer," Mildred offered.

"I'll be a traffic officer," Alice echoed.

"All right," mother beamed. "The dishes shall be our children. Now you two traffic officers carry them across this street between the dining table and the kitchen. The kitchen will be the school grounds and I'll be the principal and take care of them when they arrive."

The dish children were gathered up and hustled across the space that was called the street. Mildred was carrying a sherbet glass. "Be very careful of that little girl, Mr. Policeman," mother called.

"What grade is she in, Mrs. Principal," Policeman Mildred asked.

"Oh, she is only in the kindergarten," mother answered. "We have to watch over her very carefully. We have five of them in this class," she added as Alice proudly bore more sherbet glass children across the street.

"What grade are these children in?" Mildred was carrying the dinner plates.

"Can't you tell by the size of them that they are sixth graders, Mr. Policeman?" mother asked.

"I think these children are in the fourth grade," Alice said, picking up the bread and butter plates.

"Yes, they are," mother answered. "Soon all the children were safely across the street, massed together in a jumble on the 'school ground'."

Mother tapped a spoon against the edge of a pan to make it ring sharply. "That is the school bell," she said, "and the teachers must get their pupils in line ready to march to their rooms."

"How do you mean," the girls questioned.

"All the sixth graders must be put in a neat pile at the back of the sink," she said. "They are the oldest and will march to their rooms last. Then the fifth graders, and so on until you have the little kindergarten girls right up in front."

"Where do the knives and forks belong?" Mildred asked.

"They are the kindergarten boys," mother said. "They must be put where they can march in after the girls."

She watched the girls arrange their pupils in order on the sink. "Dear, dear," she said. "Your pupils have dreadfully dirty faces, Miss Teacher."

Both girls laughed. "Couldn't we wash their faces for them," they asked.

"Indeed you may," mother smiled. "The cupboard shelves will be their schoolrooms and you can see that every one of them has a clean face before he marches in."

Frogs that climb trees, burrow and try to fly inhabit the Mexican tropical forests.

September is a clown by trade. Somehow a wistful fellow—His dusty, baggy trousers striped With scarlet and with yellow.

He somersaults, grimaces. Stands on his painted head, Cutting capers for a laugh, And people gush instead.

—Ethel Romig Fuller.

We have made bill holders and many other pretty things. We painted them red and covered them with pretty colored wall paper, which a paint store gave us.

We made handkerchief dolls in which you are to keep your handkerchiefs. We had fun making them.

—ELIZABETH.

Lee Avenue Playground.

FLYING WITH TONY BILL

It was summer and Tony Bill and his grandmother were spending a few weeks at a charming farmhouse in North Conway, New Hampshire.

Grandmother spent her days sitting on the big piazza, never tiring of looking at the mountains, so hazy and purple in the distance.

But Tony was too young and active to while away his time on a piazza. He went out in his plane almost every day.

He had stopped asking his grandmother to go up with him, as she always laughingly put him off.

"No," she would say, "I'll stay here on the ground. I've been on it almost 70 years—and I think I like it."

"You can't imagine how beautiful it is up there, Grandma," said Tony. "Sometimes the earth looks like a great green carpet with roads and streams making the patterns."

"I'll go with you—in imagination," she said one day, as he offered her an invitation.

He smiled. "I'm ready for that. The game is all fixed up for you."

She was pleased. Oh, that flying game. I love to play that. I've been wondering why you didn't suggest it before, up here."

"I couldn't find an atlas until yesterday," explained Tony. "But now I have one and I've made out a trip. Not very long this time. And not so many towns."

"Well, what's this going to be a picture of?" she asked. "I'm not hinting."

"Oh, no," he grinned. "All I'll tell you is this. The finished drawing—if you trace it without a mistake—will be a picture or outline of something that is very important at night."

Grandmother Bill wrinkled her brow. "Hum! Something very important at night. A lantern? No? A bed then?"

"Won't tell you," said Tony. "You've got to work to find out."

She nodded. "I don't mind. I like it. Where do you start? And when?"

"In a few minutes. And from this place. I'll be back this afternoon some time. But before I hop off I'll get the atlas and the paper."

Tony went into the house and soon returned with a big atlas. Also a sheet of tracing paper and a pencil. These he set before his grandmother on a small table.

"Adios!" he said, kissing her.

"Saying it in Spanish," she said. "You're not hopping off to South America or Mexico, are you?"

"Oh, no," he laughed. "I just think that's one of the most musical sounding good-bys. Adios!"

"It does sound nice," she nodded. "Well, adios—and don't run into any mountains, Tony dear."

He was gone. Grandmother Bill smiled grimly as she thought how he was always leaving her to dash up into the sky. Well, she wouldn't have had him otherwise, now she was accustomed to it. He was meant to fly. Something about him suggested it.

She opened the page of the atlas to the biggest map of New Hampshire and Vermont as Tony had told her. Ah, North Conway.

Suddenly she heard his motor. She waited in her map tracing until he should have gone.

Ah, there he was circling low over some distant woodland! Up and then he turned back. With the motor wide open he zoomed down and banked a few hundred feet from where his grandmother sat. And then he headed west.

She spread out the tracing paper on the map and took the pencil.

"North Conway," she murmured. "He headed west. His list says the first town after leaving here is—hum, is isn't a town after all but a mountain. And that makes the first line of this thing. Something very important at night, eh? He can't mean a night-cap because I never wore one. Well, we'll see."

Grandmother Bill went to work. In 15 minutes or so she had her outline finished. "Hah!" she chuckled. "Something very important at night! Well, it certainly is."

What was this thing that Grandmother Bill had traced on the tracing paper, following Tony's printed itinerary?

If you will take the big map of New Hampshire and Vermont in your big atlas and fix a sheet of thin tracing paper over it, you can find out for yourself what she drew.

Just follow Tony's journey as he indicated in the following itinerary, making straight lines from town to town.

North Conway, N. H. Moosilauke, Vt. Wheelock, Vt. Wells Lannon, Vt. Middlebury, Vt. Royalton, Vt. Londonderry, Vt. West Canaan, Vt. London, N. H. Plymouth, N. H. And back to North Conway.

SEPTEMBER

September is a clown by trade. Somehow a wistful fellow—His dusty, baggy trousers striped With scarlet and with yellow.

He somersaults, grimaces. Stands on his painted head, Cutting capers for a laugh, And people gush instead.

—Ethel Romig Fuller.

We have made bill holders and many other pretty things. We painted them red and covered them with pretty colored wall paper, which a paint store gave us.

We made handkerchief dolls in which you are to keep your handkerchiefs. We had fun making them.

—ELIZABETH.

Lee Avenue Playground.

SKY SHEPHERD

By Eleanor Jewett

Somewhere a shepherd in the sky Watches his flock of sheep; Gently nudging in woolen mass, They cover the sky-hills steep.

Clouds are the sheep, but who Is their shepherd I do not know, Yet he clips their fleece in the summer

To make our winter snow.

If I were that shepherd, I'd wait For the drowsy sun to sink And then I would hurriedly clip my wool

So the snow could be orange and pink!

FAIR-AYAW LAND STORIES

JAPAN

If John had been born a Japanese fellow, being a boy he'd be dressed in yellow. As for Anne, she'd be given instead, a little kimono of nice bright red.

In a house built of paper they'd spend their lives, and eat with chopsticks; they'd get no knives, nor spoons, nor forks, for a single dish; they'd just chop-chop at their rice and fish.

On John's fifth birthday he'd feel quite grand, for on that occasion, I understand, his very first trousers he'd have to wear (I think he'd do it with quite an air). Till Anne was three they'd shave her hair on the top of her head, till it looked quite bare.

So you see how important these days would be to John (aged five) and Anne (aged three).

John couldn't stamp around the house in his usual way—he'd move like a mouse—for nobody (even a full-grown man) wears shoes indoors—not in Japan! But I shouldn't like to try to take my walks in clogs so high, and so queerly shaped, just like stools of wood, I'd tumble about, I'm sure I should.

Anne would carry a nice big doll; John would parade with a parasol, no one would stare, for every man carries a sunshade in Japan.

In school, when they had to do some writing, surely they'd find it most exciting to make their copies with—that do you think?—a paintbrush! Not dull pens and ink.

If John and Anne hunted everywhere, all over the house, they would find no chair. But they wouldn't be worried by things like that. Oh, dear me, no! they'd prefer a mat.

What fun to creep at the streets by night when they're all lit up—not electric light, but with Chinese lanterns of every hue, violet, emerald, pink and blue. Then the rickshaw rides I'm sure they'd like; much more fun than a tram or bike. Though it must be awfully strange, of course, to be drawn by a man instead of a horse.

Yes, children, I'm sure, must have lots of fun when they live in the land of the Rising Sun. And now you know what John and Anne would have done if they'd found themselves in Japan.

DAVID BUBB HOST AT NOVEL PARTY

Just imagine having a merry-go-round at your disposal for an entire afternoon! David Agnew Bubb made it possible for his young friends to ride all afternoon on the prancing steeds at Forsythe park when his mother arranged this novel entertainment in commemoration of his seventh birthday anniversary.

It was a glorious day, and David, in starched linens, welcomed his friends on the wide sweep of lawn where they romped and played between intervals of being lifted high above the ground in the Ferris wheel and riding around and around on the merry-go-round with music playing gayly.

Dusk necessitated bringing the pleasures to a conclusion, but reluctant were the feet that left this alluring spot where, for the first time in their young lives they enjoyed for an entire afternoon the thrills of mounting at will the gallant horses with their gilded trappings.

David's mother, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Davis, Mrs. Fred Hill and Miss Caro Webb, served the children ice and fancy cakes in the shape of animals, ere departure. Privileged to enjoy this thrilling event and to wish their young host many happy returns were: Forest and Carolyn Keplinger, Betty Sue and Bill Shotwell, James Noe, Jr., Adelaide and Sonny Boy Parker, Sam and Jack Rubin, Frank and Gordon Surguine, Edward, David and George McGee, Cornelia McHenry, Nadia and Betty Meadows, Louis Milner, Jr., C. D. Oakley, Jr., Dickie and Jessie Lee Touchstone, Douglas Smith, Phonor Perot, Jr., Little Sister Girault, Robert and Elizabeth Ann Wood, Bennie Hughes, Aylmer Montgomery, Jr., Byrnie and Bev Handy, Sara Terzia, Rosanne Read, Carolyn, Miriam and Courtney Oliver, Jr., Betty Taylor, Nan Drew, Dewey Cook, Arabella and Ochiltree Bancroft, Teddy and Cherrie Bernstein, Randolph and Ann Brown, Betty Engstrom, Lewis Langford, Clayton and Jane Kilpatrick, Betty and Jimmy Small, Gloria Major, Elizabeth Humble, George Love, Jr., Harry Frazier, Satchie and Charlotte Cooper, Jean and "Judge" Davis, Lovell, Billy and St. Claire Hayden, Doll and Fred Hudson, Bobbie and George Holt, Jo Ann and Jerry Biedenharn, Edith McWilliams, Allen and Jimmie Jones, Sonny Barton, Bunny and Patsy Zeigler, Joe Dawkins, Jr., R. B. Hill, Joan and Buddy Boardman, Gwen and Jackie Walker, Hillyer Speed Lamkin, Marguerite Lomkin, John Cade, Flournoy Unglsby, Laura, Jean and Tommy Flournoy, Merlyn Bush, Robert and Carol Layton, Prentice Castle, Allen and Louis Whitfield, Jr.

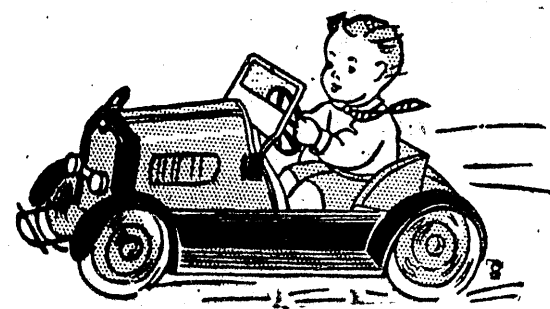

POOR PAPA

Brown: Well, have any of your childhood ambitions been realized, Biggs?

Biggs (father of family of ten): At least one of them it was. Always my childhood ambition to wear long pants and I believe I wear them longer than anyone else.—Edmonton, Alta., Gleaner.

Warning to Children

By Edgar A. Guest

Little children, don't you know In the street you mustn't go Rushing after hoop or ball? If you hear your playmates call, Look you south and look you north Ere you dare to venture forth; Every street is now a place Where the careless grownups race.

Little children say this o'er: "We must stop and look before We attempt to cross the street. Lest disaster we shall meet. It's our duty to prevent Tragedy and accident. Vigilance we mustn't drop. Grownups haven't time to stop."

Grownups in their motor cars Smoking pipes and big cigars, Lighting cigarettes, cannot Think about some tiny tot Who may dash into the street Carelessly on flying feet. They've no time for taking care So the children must beware!

Children once again repeat: "There is danger in the street. Watch the corners! Grownups wise Swing around them and shut their eyes. Safety people wise discuss But they leave it all to us. Watch the streets and stay alive, That is, where the grownups drive!"

MR. AND MRS. BLACKBIRD'S STRANGE FAMILY

In a tree near Banbury, England, a blackbird and his mate built their nest this year, and soon had a clutch of eggs to look after. And then a sad thing happened. Somebody who did not think how precious those lovely little eggs were to the parent birds found them one day and took them away, probably to add to a collection.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury, there is a boarding school where the children have been taught to care for all things in the nature world, and when they saw the robbed nest and the trouble the blackbirds were in, they took single eggs from various nests they knew of which had full clutches, and placed them in the little empty home. And later, if you had passed that way, you would have come upon an amazing sight—a pair of happy blackbirds busily feeding a mixed brood consisting of a startling mix of it, a hedge sparrow, and a thrush.

Just a little playground, As lovely as can be; No other can be found As lovely as we all can see.

There are other playgrounds More beautiful than flowers, But none that we love Like we love ours.

Miss Mickel is our leader here, And all the children love her dear. She looks after the little ones here and there, And gives them all of her love and care.

All the children are so sweet I know they can not be beat. Now it is time for the children to go, But oh, we love our playground so.

VIRGINIA PIGG, Lee avenue playground, p.m.

CONFESSING

"Do you love me, Charles?" she asked.

"Of course I do," he replied. "Do you think only of me, night and day?"

"Well, I'll be frank with you, Now and then I think of football."—Tit-Bits.

We Serve the BIGGEST CONE in Town

DOUBLE-DIP ICE CREAM CONES

Kent's Bes-Made ICE CREAM All Flavors

Pints, 15c Quarts, 25c

These Are Our Regular Prices

Dairy Products Co.

806 South Grand Phone 42

45th Anniversary Year

Successful Saving

is the continued and systematic building up of a substantial money reserve with a strong bank, where it will serve as the foundation of a valuable financial connection.

Continuously, for 45 years, this dependable institution has been helping people throughout Monroe and surrounding territory to save successfully.

YOUR DEPOSITS WILL BE WELCOMED

... here and will earn interest from date of deposit

The Ouachita National Bank OF MONROE, LOUISIANA

A GREATER BANK FOR A GREATER MONROE

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE

Let Us

Handle Your

Printing

We Can Please You In Every Detail

Problems

Delivery---Price---Quality

Phone 4800

For Low Estimate

Monroe Printing Co.

JACK BOYER, Mgr.

Third Floor News-Star—World Bldg.

Monroe, La.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What is it to be a gentleman?
It is to be honest, to be gentle, to be brave, to be wise; and possessing all these qualities to exercise them in the most graceful outward manner.
—Thackeray.

The entire family,
Including brother, himself,
Thought the matter
Was settled.
Mother had sermonized for hours
On the folly of it;
Sister had painstakingly pointed out
The injustice of it;
And father had set his foot down
And said, no, indeed,
Brother would not take
His ritzzy red roadster
Back to college with him
This year.

But that was before
Mother's shopping tour for sister
Wherein father was called upon
To write checks for a fur coat,
A permanent wave,
A wardrobe trunk full
Of wardrobe.
And various other trifles
Which did not trifle
With the pocketbook.

Then it was father learned
That all brother wanted
In the way of personal adornment
Was a bottle of hair oil
And a turtle-neck sweater
Like Clark Gable wears;
And mother and sister
Are still wondering
What changed father's mind,
And caused him to settle
The matter again.

DEER TALK

Yesterday four deer came out of the wood
And stood
And talked to me.
"How do you walk on your hind legs?"
They said
And fed
Under a tree.
"What do you do with all your clothes?"
And chose Clovers three.
"Surely you can't run very fast?" they asked
And laughed
Merrily.
With another look they ran with a rush
Into the brush Gracefully.

—AIRDRIE KINCAID.

WITH THE CHILDREN

Published Every Sunday

Edited by Eve C. Bradford

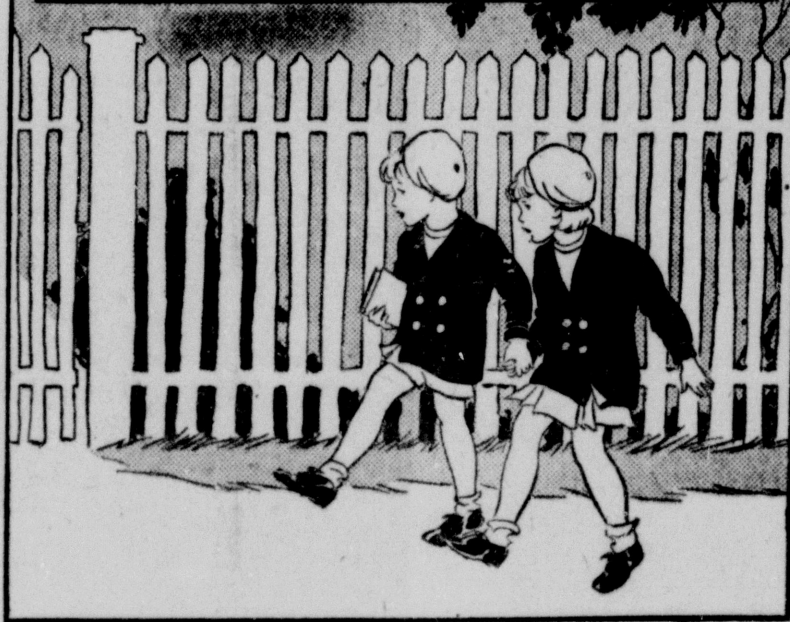

DISSATISFIED

By HELEN WELSHIMER

MY neighbor's children come from school
In brief blue coats, red tans,
To find their mother waiting with Crusted leaves and jams.
While I serve tea at five o'clock,
And bread out wafer thin,
To any casual visitor
Who happens to drop in.

MY neighbor envies me because
She has to stay at home—
I haven't cookie jars to fill,
Or curly heads to comb.
It's strange she doesn't understand
That I go away
Because a home's a sombre thing
If children never play.

JOHNNY KITTLE GOES TO SCHOOL

Mildred said, "I like to do everything but wash dishes." Mildred and Alice were playing with their dolls in the grass under mother's window and their words floated up to her as she sat sewing.

Mildred was ten years old and had been washing dishes longer than Alice, who was eight. She spoke as one with authority. "I wish it was fun, like playing games or going to school."
The girls could not see mother, but if they had been there they would have known that she had started planning something for them as she listened to Mildred's words. They could always tell when she was planning something nice for them by the twinkle in her eyes and by the way she puckered her lips up close together, as if she were trying to keep them from smiling.

That evening, after dinner was over but while they were still at the table, mother told them that she had thought of a new way to play school.

"How?" both little girls chorused together.

"Well," mother began, "this game takes two teachers and a principal."
"I'll be a teacher," Mildred exclaimed quickly.

"I'll be a teacher, too," Alice chimed in.

"And I'll be the principal," mother said.

Two faces fell and the girls asked,
"But who'll be the pupils?"

Mother smiled. "We are going to have more pupils than we have ever had before," she said. "There will be kindergarten pupils and second grade pupils and sixth grade pupils and older boys and little girls with pretty dresses. We are going to have a whole schoolhouse full of children!" She paused thoughtfully. "I do believe though that we should have two traffic officers first, before we have our teachers," she said. "Someone will be needed to help the children across the street to the schoolhouse."

"I'll be a traffic officer," Mildred offered.

"I'll be a traffic officer," Alice echoed.

"All right," mother beamed. "The dishes shall be our children. Now you two traffic officers carry them across this street between the dining table and the kitchen. The kitchen will be the school grounds and I'll be the principal and take care of them when they arrive."

The dish children were gathered up and hustled across the space that was called the street. Mildred was carrying a sherbet glass. "Be very careful of that little girl, Mr. Policeman," mother called.

"What grade is she in, Mrs. Principal," Policeman Mildred asked.

"Oh, she is only in the kindergarten," mother answered. "We have to watch over her very carefully. We have five of them in this class," she added as Alice proudly bore more sherbet glass children across the street.

"What grade are these children in?"
Mildred was carrying the dinner plates.

"Can't you tell by the size of them that they are sixth graders, Mr. Policeman?" mother asked.

"I think these children are in the fourth grade," Alice said, picking up the bread and butter plates.

"Yes, they are," mother answered.
Soon all the children were safely across the street, massed together in a jumble on the "school ground."

Mother tapped a spoon against the edge of a pan to make it ring sharply.
"That is the school bell," she said,
"and the teachers must get their pupils in line ready to march to their rooms."

"How do you mean," the girls questioned.

"All the sixth graders must be put in a neat pile at the back of the sink," she said. "They are the oldest and will march to their rooms last.
Then the fifth graders, and so on until you have the little kindergarten girls right up in front."

"Where do the knives and forks belong?" Mildred asked.

"They are the kindergarten boys," mother said. "They must be put where they can march in after the girls."

She watched the girls arrange their pupils in order on the sink. "Dear, dear," she said. "Your pupils have dreadfully dirty faces, Miss Teacher."

Both girls laughed. "Couldn't we wash their faces for them," they asked.

"Indeed you may," mother smiled.
"The cupboard shelves will be their schoolrooms and you can see that every one of them has a clean face before he marches in."

Frogs that climb trees, burrow and try to fly inhabit the Mexican tropical forests.

FLYING WITH TONY BILL

It was summer and Tony Bill and his grandmother were spending a few weeks at a charming farmhouse in North Conway, New Hampshire.

Grandmother spent her days sitting on the big piazza, never tiring of looking at the mountains, so hazy and purple in the distance.

But Tony was too young and active to while away his time on a piazza. He went out in his plane almost every day.

He had stopped asking his grandmother to go up with him, as she always laughingly put him off.

"No," she would say, "I'll stay here on the ground. I've been on it almost 70 years—and I think I like it."

"You can't imagine how beautiful it is up there, Grandma," said Tony.
"Sometimes the earth looks like a great green carpet with roads and streams making the patterns."

"I'll go with you—in imagination," she said one day, as he offered her an invitation.

He smiled. "I'm ready for that.
The game is all fixed up for you."

She was pleased. "Oh, that flying game. I love to play that. I've been wondering why you didn't suggest it before, up here."

"I couldn't find an atlas until yesterday," explained Tony. "But now
I have one and I've made out a trip.
Not very long this time. And not so many towns."

"Well, what's this going to be a picture of?" she asked. "I'm not hinting."

"Oh, no," he grinned. "All I'll tell you is this. The finished drawing—if you trace it without a mistake—will be a picture or outline of something that is very important at night."

Grandmother Bill wrinkled her brow. "Hum! Something very important at night. A lantern? No? A bed then?"

"You've got to work to find out."
She nodded. "I don't mind. I like it. Where do I start? And when?"

"In a few minutes. And from this place. I'll be back this afternoon some time. But before I hop off I'll get the atlas and the paper."

Tony went into the house and soon returned with a big atlas. Also a sheet of tracing paper and a pencil. These he set before his grandmother on a small table.

"Adios!" he said, kissing her.
"Saying it in Spanish," she said.
"You're not hopping off to South America or Mexico, are you?"

"Oh, no," he laughed. "I just think that's one of the most musical sounding good-bys. Adios!"

"It does sound nice," she nodded.
"Well, adios—and don't run into any mountains, Tony dear."

He was gone. Grandmother Bill smiled grimly as she thought how he was always leaving her to dash up into the sky. Well, she wouldn't have had him otherwise, now she was accustomed to it. He was meant to fly. Something about him suggested it.

She opened the page of the atlas to the biggest map of New Hampshire and Vermont as Tony had told her.
As, North Conway.

Suddenly she heard his motor.
She waited in her map tracing until he should have gone.

Ah, there he was circling low over some distant woodland! Up and then he turned back. With the motor wide open he zoomed down and banked a few hundred feet from where his grandmother sat. And then he headed west.

She spread out the tracing paper on the map and took the pencil.

"North Conway," she murmured.
"He headed west. His list says the first town after leaving here is—hum, isn't a town after all but a mountain. And that makes the first line of this thing. Something very important at night, eh? He can't mean a night-cap because I never wore one. Well, we'll see."

Grandmother Bill went to work. In 15 minutes or so she had her outline finished. "Hah!" she chuckled. "Something very important at night! Well, it certainly is."

What was this thing that Grandmother Bill had traced on the tracing paper, following Tony's printed intinerary?

If you will take the big map of New Hampshire and Vermont in your big atlas and fix a sheet of thin tracing paper over it, you can find out for yourself what she drew.

Just follow Tony's journey as he indicated in the following itinerary, making straight lines from town to town.

North Conway, N. H.
Moosilauke, Vt.
Wheelock, Vt.
Wells Lannon, Vt.
Middlebury, Vt.
Royalton, Vt.
Londonderry, Vt.
West Canaan, Vt.
Loudon, N. H.
Plymouth, N. H.
And back to North Conway.

SEPTEMBER

September is a clown by trade.
Somehow a wistful fellow.
His dusty, baggy trousers striped
With scarlet and with yellow.

He somersaults, grimaces,
Stands on his painted head,
Cutting capers for a laugh,
And people sigh instead.

—Ethel Romig Fuller.

We have made bill holders and many other pretty things. We painted them red and covered them with pretty colored wall paper, which a paint store gave us.

We made handkerchief dolls in which you are to keep your handkerchiefs. We had fun making them.
ELIZABETH.

Lee Avenue Playground.

SKY SHEPHERD

By Eleanor Jewett

Somewhere a shepherd in the sky
Watches his flock of sheep;
Gently nudging in woolen mass,
They cover the sky-hills steep.

Clouds are the sheep, but who
Is their shepherd I do not know, Yet he clips their fleece in the summer

To make our winter snow.
If I were that shepherd, I'd wait
For the drowsy sun to sink
And then I would hurriedly clip my wool

So the snow could be orange and pink!

FAR-AWAY LAND STORIES

JAPAN

If John had been born a Japanese fellow, being a boy he'd be dressed in yellow. As for Anne, she'd be given instead, a little kimono of nice bright red.

In a house built of paper they'd spend their lives, and eat with chopsticks; they'd get no knives, nor spoons, nor forks, for a single dish; they'd just chop-chop at their rice and fish.

On John's fifth birthday he'd feel quite grand, for on that occasion, I understand, his very first trousers he'd have to wear (I think he'd do it with quite an air). Till Anne was three they'd shave her hair on the top of her head, till it looked quite bare.

So you see how important these days would be to John (aged five) and Anne (aged three).

John couldn't stamp around the house in his usual way—he'd move like a mouse—for nobody (even a full-grown man) wears shoes indoors—not in Japan! But I shouldn't like to try to take my walks in clogs so high,
and so queerly shaped, just like stools of wood, I'd tumble about, I'm sure I should.

Anne would carry a nice big doll;
John would parade with a parasol, no one would stare, for every man carries a sunshade in Japan.

In school, when they had to do some writing, surely they'd find it most exciting to make their copies with what you think—a paintbrush! not dull pens and ink.

If John and Anne hunted everywhere, all over the house, they would find no chair. But they wouldn't be worried by things like that. Oh, dear me, no! they'd prefer a mat.

What fun to peep at the streets by night when they're all lit up—not electric light, but with Chinese lanterns of every hue, violet, emerald, pink and blue. Then the rickshaw rides I'm sure they'd like; much more fun than a tram or a bike. Though it must be awfully strange, of course, to be drawn by a man instead of a horse.

Yes, children, I'm sure, must have lots of fun who live in the land of the Rising Sun. And now you know what John and Anne would have done if they'd found themselves in Japan.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little empty home. And later, if you had passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

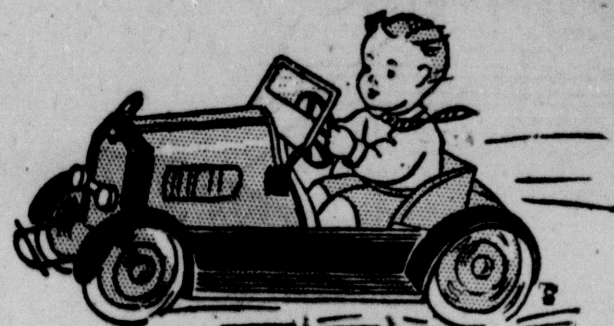

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

children have been taught to care
for all things in the nature world, and
when they saw the robbed nest and
the trouble the blackbirds were in,
they took single eggs from various
nests they knew of which had full
clutches, and placed them in the little
empty home. And later, if you had
passed that way, you would have
come upon an amazing sight—a pair
of happy blackbirds busily feeding
a mixed brood consisting of a startling, a tit, a hedge sparrow, and a
thrush.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

Warning to Children

By Edgar A. Guest

Little children, don't you know
In the street you mustn't go
Rushing after hoop or ball?
If you hear your playmates call,
Look you south and look you north
Ere you dare to venture forth;
Every street is now a place
Where the careless grownups race.

Little children say this o'er:
"We must stop and look before
We attempt to cross the street
Lest disaster we shall meet.
It's our duty to prevent Tragedy and accident.
Vigilance we mustn't drop,
Grownups haven't time to stop."

Grownups in their motor cars
Smoking pipes and big cigars,
Lighting cigarettes, cannot Think about some tiny tot
Who may dash into the street
Carelessly on flying feet.
They've no time for taking care
So the children must beware!

Children once again repeat:
"There is danger in the street.
Watch the corners! Grownups wise
Swing around them and shut their eyes.
Safety people wise discuss
But they leave it all to us.
Watch the streets and stay alive,
That is, where the grownups drive!"

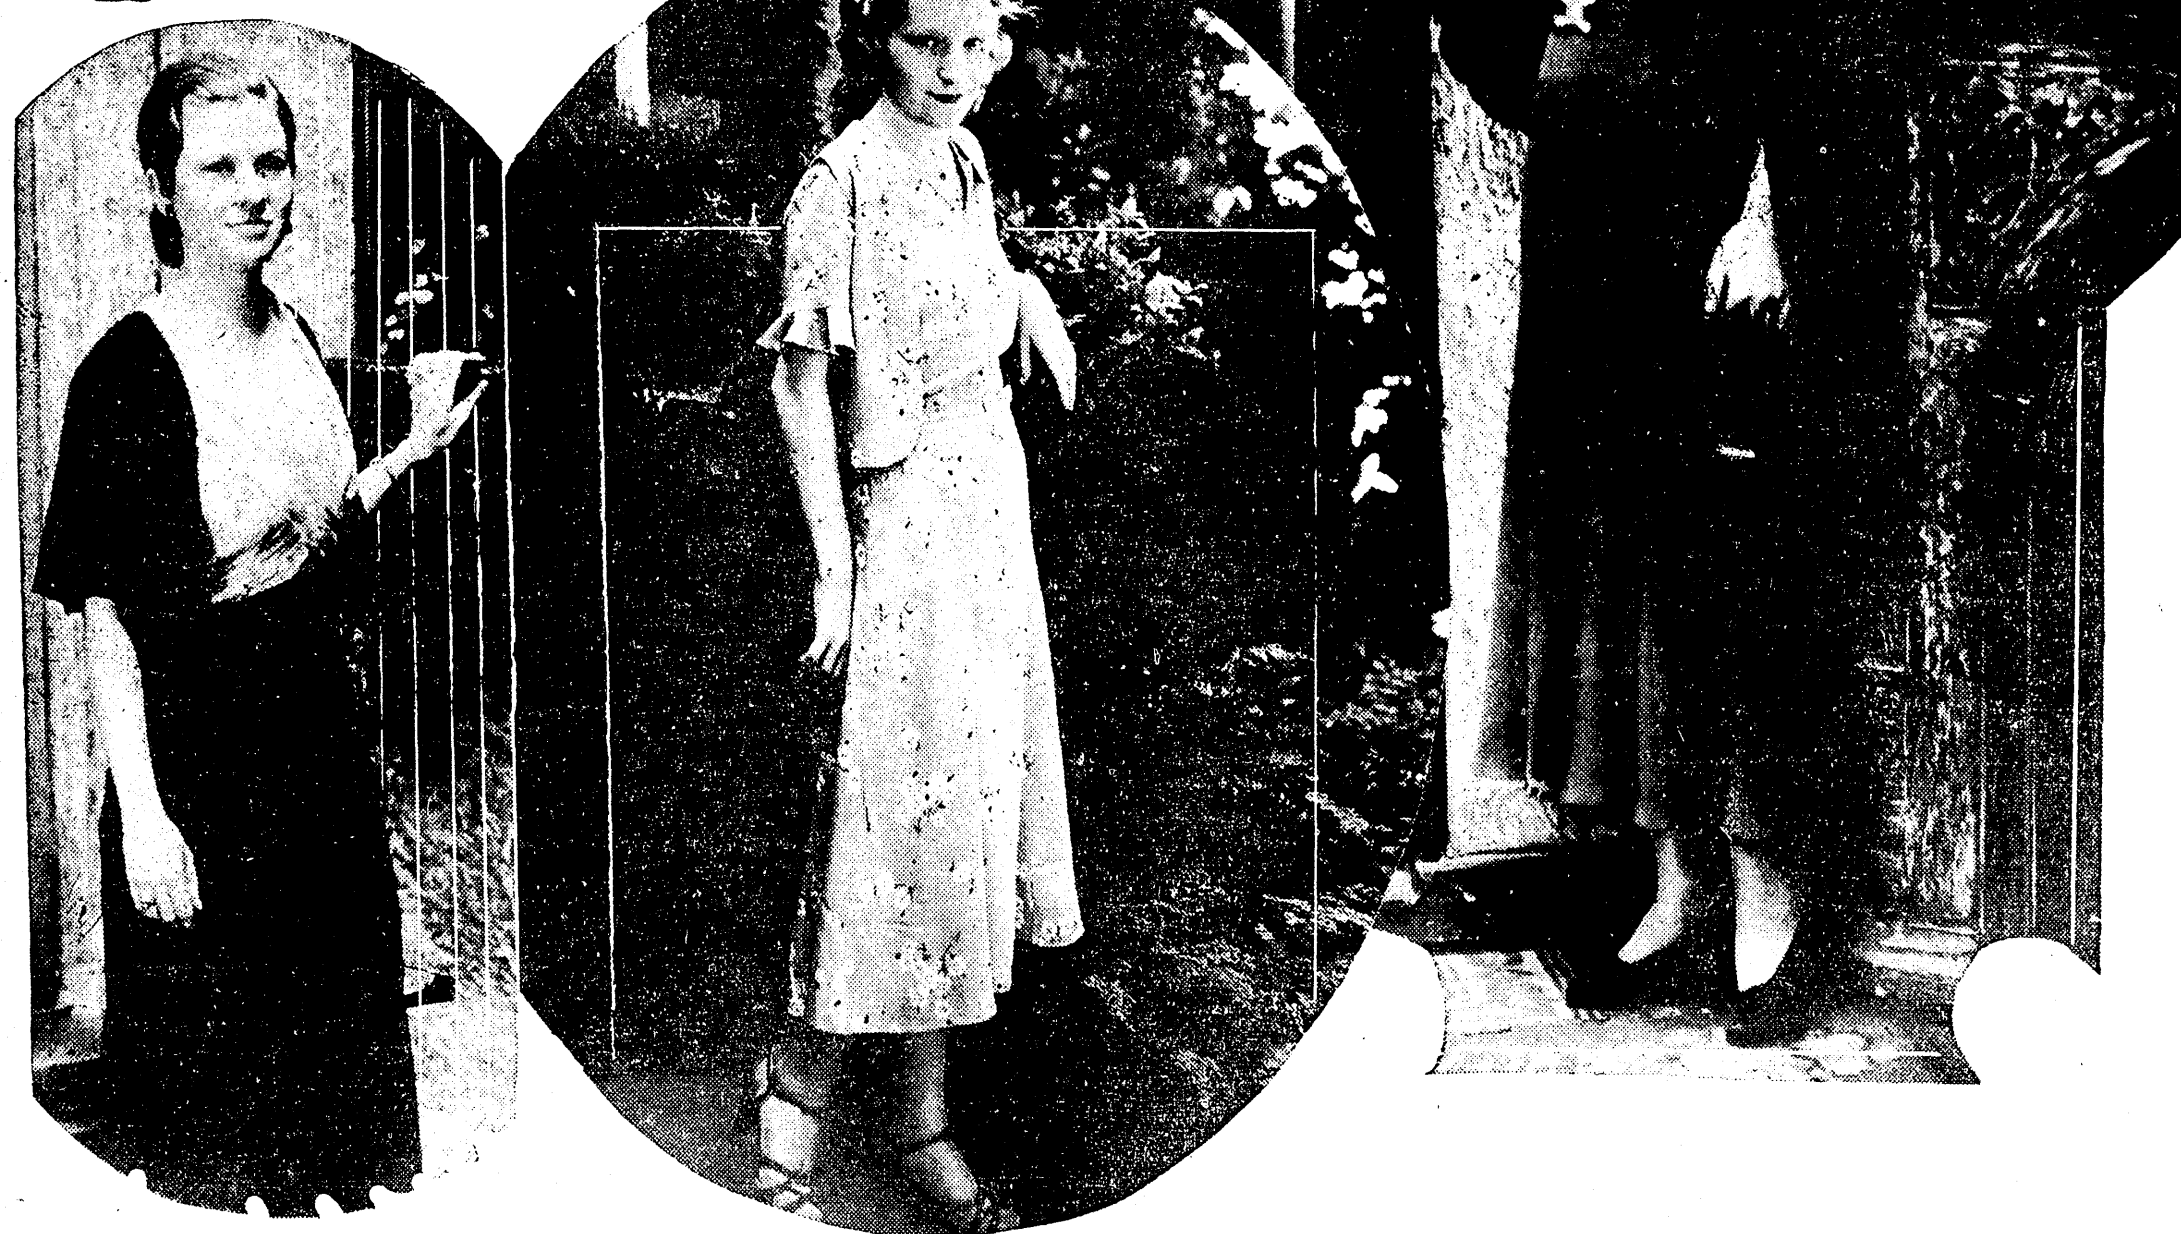

MR. AND MRS. BLACKBIRD'S STRANGE FAMILY

In a tree near Banbury, England, a blackbird and his mate built their nest this year, and soon had a clutch of eggs to look after. And then a sad thing happened. Somebody who did not think how precious those lovely little eggs were to the parent birds found them one day and took them away, probably to add to a collection.

Now, at Sibford, near Banbury,
there is a boarding school where the

SOCIETY

Eve Bradford
EDITOR

Members of Younger Set Guests of Miss Lucille Smith At Beautiful Bridge Affair

Pan-Hellenic Members Meet For Luncheon

Members of Monroe Pan-Hellenic society, alert and keen minded, and ready for a season of great activity enjoying their first luncheon of the season on the Virginia roof, Saturday with their president, Miss Marie Collins, presiding.

Nothing of a definite nature took shape at this meeting as it was more or less of a social nature bringing members together after having disbanded for the summer.

Enjoying the delicious luncheon served at the flower adorned table were:

Mrs. Glenn Backshies, Mrs. T. A. Brown, Mrs. Porter Burgess, Miss Marie Collins, Mrs. W. W. Cooper, Mrs. R. L. Davis, Mrs. R. J. Donovan, Miss Aimee DeGraffenreid, Miss Florence Ferguson, Miss Margie Sutton, Mrs. Claude Harrison, Miss Elizabeth Hudson, Mrs. J. B. Kemmerer, Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mrs. William Leber, Mrs. O. D. Lewis, Mrs. Bernice Nichols, Miss Beryl Madison, Miss Connie McReynolds, Mrs. Gordon Surguine, Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, Miss Pearl Haynes, Miss Elizabeth Platt, Miss Elizabeth McGuire, Miss Elizabeth Breard, Miss Annie Laurie Breard, Mrs. H. F. Madison, Mrs. Lester Corley, Miss Elizabeth McGuire.

Parent-Teacher's Club Resumes Their Work

A few days ago, an appeal was made to the parents in every school community urging them to cooperate with the local board of health in getting the children ready for school and to unite their forces with those of the local Parent-Teacher units because of their interest in these preventive measures. Parent-Teacher members are in a position, as are those of no other organization, to visit the homes, stress the value of sound health, both for the child and the community, round up the children for examination and urge parents to take them to the family physician and dentist for further advice and treatment.

There is need for such a campaign. The pre-school period is a crucial time for the child. Many of the ills of later childhood, adolescence and adult life have their beginning in the interval between infancy and school age. Thousands of children have defective vision, defective hearing and other defects, many of which can be cured by early treatment.

The summer round-up of the children was inaugurated by the National Association of Parents and Teachers in 1937. It is intended to raise parents' interest in their children's health.

(Continued on Seventh Page)

Miss Lucille Smith's charming little bridge affair, at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith brought together several members of the departing college set Wednesday afternoon.

Fragrant clematis and pink Radiance roses, overflowing from picturesque urns formed a decorative background for the guests who were welcomed by the young hostess in a lovely frock of Madelon blue.

Bowls of pink roses were placed on linen covered card tables following the interesting games, for the serving of pink ices and luscious little cakes embossed in green. Pink mints embossed in green were also served.

The gifts for bridge scores were most acceptable. Miss Doris Beaman received beautiful silhouettes, painted by Miss Smith and Miss Mayme Meyers received a handsome vanity. Enjoying the many courtesies extended by the hostess and her mother, assisted by Mrs. H. Lane and Mrs. G. Wygant were: Misses Joel Nichols, Elma Rustin, Virginia Ziegler, Clara Terzia, Nancy Terzia, Audrey Lowery, Polly Anna Shotwell, Gertrude Feazel, Laila Feazel, Marie Dell Horuff, Dorothy Calvert, Doris Beaman, Rachael Haynes, Sara Coon, Carolyn Myers, Mayme Meyers, Sara Mae Adams, Mary Janette Zeigler, Hazel Mitchell, Ann Hardie, Clarissa Davis, Marjorie Chambers, Tookie, Sara Moffet, Beverly Russell, Edith Haynes, Miss Lucille Smith, hostess.

Mrs. Eady Entertains T. E. L. Sunday School Class

Mrs. H. R. Eady was hostess to members of the T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church at her home on North Sixth street with Mrs. C. R. Coats and Mrs. Robert Green co-hostesses. The reception suite was banked with gorgeous summer flowers.

During a short business session the class accepted the resignation of their most loved and efficient secretary who is leaving for Shreveport. Mrs. George Parks was elected to fill the vacancy. It was agreed to have a chicken fry at Fife's park on the Calhoun road Saturday evening.

The "kid" party which is a benefit party was discussed and is to be held at Mrs. John Young's home on 207 Vernon street, Sept. 14, at 8:30 o'clock.

A social hour followed in which some clever contests were introduced by the hostess.

The class colors, green and white were carried out beautifully in the serving of delicious tinted sandwiches and a confectionary course to Mesdames P. E. Pilcher, J. T. Chappell, Elmer Kennedy, Ino, Young, W. D. Clark, J. L. Gates, Fred Thatcher, J. O. Pilcher, D. T. Dennis, J. H. Hammock, John Lewis, Job Goo Parks, J. E. Grandstaff, Steve Alford, S. E. Morris and the hostesses.

In the Pictures

Society revolved around the five lovely girls who were visitors in the city last week. Reading from left to right they are: Miss Ellen Baughman of Farmerville, La., house guest of Miss Happy Tidwell; Miss Rose Audrey McCoy of Shreveport, guest of her aunt, Mrs. William Washburn; Miss D. Lee Taylor of Wichita Falls, Texas, guest of Miss Tidwell and Misses Nita Breazeale of Baton Rouge and Dorothy Brumby of Franklin, La., house guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hudson.

—Portraits by Griffin Studios

Winter Season in Monroe Will Be Filled With Many Forms of Activity This Year

The rhythmic beat of feet tapping the boards and the sharp, staccato notes of the piano reminds us that dancing is again occupying a prominent place in fall activities. The dancing teachers have all returned from profitable summers and looking forward to a winter of great activity.

The dancer today exhibits an entirely different type of girl from that which chose Terpsichore as her goddess some years ago. The modern dancer, and by that designation we mean the dancer who finds in her profession a productive, satisfactory means of livelihood, is no longer a girl who is interested in dancing and nothing else. She has evolved into the collegiate type of girl. If one met her anywhere off the stage one might mistake her for a successful business woman or a well-bred debutante. She is poised, well dressed and well groomed. Her mind is not single-tracked. She is well read, vital, and responds to the American scene of which she is a part.

Monroe is fortunate indeed in having so many experienced instructors of the dance, so much so, that parents experience difficulty in making a final decision. Margaret Stovall is again located in her dance studio at 116 1-2 South Grand street, and will give her pupils the benefit of her experience and the new dance steps acquired in Atlantic City during the summer, when her studio opens on the twenty-third of September. Roberta O'Donnell will open her studio, as customary over the Woodman hall on Jackson street. She has been working hard in New Orleans this summer under celebrated teachers. Regina Moffett has her studio in the Frances hotel and is eager to start her winter work after a season of study in New York and as dance counselor at a girl's camp on Cape Cod. Mrs. Harry Rice has returned from the east with new dance steps and is reopening her studio over Chase and Ammon store on DeSard street. Mrs. Carol Layton has been brushing up on her dance steps and after a period of inactivity has again joined the ranks of professionals. She will open her studio at the Layton Castle at an early date.

Monroe's music instructors are dusting off the keys of studio pianos and preparing for a busy winter. With music becoming more and more a part of our daily lives they will find their pupils steadily increasing in number. And so in this glorious month of September when even the moon decides to be golden and gorgeous let us open our minds and our lives and look at them and weigh and cast out and renew. We never watch an interpretative dancer without an inner voice exclaiming, "and so that is what bodies are! That's what they can be and do!" Dancing instruction should be the rightful inheritance of every girl.

Swiftly the moments fly for college girls who are crowding many pleasures into the few remaining days at home. A group of intimates gathered around the festive board in a private dining room of the Francis hotel Thursday night with Miss Joy Steele, the lovely hostess. The table was developed in shades of pink, centered with silver bowl overflowing with pink carnations and maiden hair. The young girls in lovely dinner frocks made a beautiful picture seated around the table where a five course dinner was served. Miss Steele wore a black velvet dinner dress with metal trimming and Miss D. Lee Taylor of Wichita Falls, Texas, the charming guest of Miss Happy Tidwell, wore a dinner model of beet root crepe with all accessories of the same color. Others present were: Miss Doris Beaman, Miss Margaret Stovall, Miss Vickie Steele.

Peak of Student Departures For School and University Has Been Reached in Monroe

Next week will witness a general exodus of college students from the city. A few have already taken their departure and others are leaving daily. Among the student departures are:

Gretchen Talbot, La. State Normal; Irene Ivy Page, La. State Normal; Virginia Hinkle, La. State Normal; Winifred Culpepper, Missouri university; John Bishop Johnson, Yale; Shirley Haas, Lindenwood; Burton Wolf, Texas U.; Fred Fudickar, Sewanee; Robert Holloway, Sewanee; John Eby, Sewanee; Alva Learned, Texas U.; Cecil Yancey, Sewanee; Carolyn Stubbs, University of Rome, Ga.; Hollis Venable, Texas U.; Nancy Terzia, La. S. U.; Jo Mary McKoin, La. State Normal; Ann Rosalie Herring, La. State Normal; D. Standley, La. State Normal; Dean McKoin, Agnes Scott, Kathryn White, La. S. U.; Kitty Morrison, La. S. U.; Frances Stroud, La. S. U.; Frances Cole, La. S. U.; Ann Hardie, La. S. U.; Ann Platt, La. S. U.; Mildred Cobb, La. S. U.; Leigh Russell, La. S. U.; Ellen Kent Millsaps, La. S. U.; Elizabeth Drew, La. S. U.; M. J. John, La. S. U.; Bobby Tucker, La. S. U.; Jack Anders, La. S. U.; Bill Evans, La. S. U.; Morris Haas, La. S. U.; Earl Stovall, La. S. U.; Jim Sparks, La. S. U.; Owen Ware, La. S. U.; Will Wallace, La. S. U.; Foster Wallace, La. S. U.; Charles Wise, La. S. U.; Roland Brown, La. S. U.; Shelby Calhoun, La. S. U.; Doris Beaman, Newcomb; Elizabeth Cospir, Newcomb; Pargie Hudson, Newcomb; Sally Breard, Newcomb; Suzanne Hirsch, Newcomb; Fred Vaughn, Tulane; Robert Guerrero, Tulane; Will Guerrero, Tulane; Leon Titche, Tulane; Charles Titche, Tulane; Charles Calhoun, Tulane; Mae Oliver, Tulane.

Louis Kusin, Michigan U.; Sue Sperry, Arlington Hall (Washington, D. C.); Elizabeth Biedenharn, King-Smith; Sue Graves, Sweetbriar; Travis Oliver, Washington-Lee; Gilbert Faulk, Washington-Lee; Charles Stubbs, V. M. I.; Joy Steele, Gulf Park; Happy Tidwell, Gulf Park; Gertrude Feazel, Gulf Park; Blanche Deas, University of Alabama; Henry Forshiem, Texas A. and M.; Charles Stewart, Texas A. and M.; Frances Davis, Randolph Macon; Sara Larche, Randolph Macon; Paul Fudickar, V. M. I.; Willie Heard, La. S. U.; Howell Heard, La. S. U.; Oliver Heard, La. S. U.; Clarissa Davis, Gulf Park; Dorothy Davis, Sorbonne university, Paris, France; Eleanor Faulk, Tulane university.

Miss Evelyn Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Brown, who underwent an operation for appendicitis Tuesday morning is now convalescing at the Vaughn, Wright and Bendel clinic and will be glad to have her friends call. Room 312.

Leading Store Will Be Turned Over to Church

Friday will be a busy day indeed for members of the Presbyterian auxiliary with Montgomery Ward and company at their disposal through the kindness and generosity of the manager, Mr. Anders, Mrs. Alden T. Shotwell has been placed in charge of every department and has appointed Mrs. E. D. Holloway, assistant manager. A certain per cent of all sales will be turned over the auxiliary to be used in carrying on the year's work. The store will be open until 9 o'clock Friday night and between the hours of seven and nine an orchestra will supply music and prizes will be awarded. Every customer entering the store on this day will be given a ticket for the grand prize.

Housewives of Monroe are urged to cooperate on this occasion and assist in making this day a memorable one for members of the Presbyterian auxiliary. The following ladies will assist in the various departments:

Piece goods department, Mrs. Bunn Beasley; lingerie department, Mrs. Prioleau Yllis; shoe department, Miss Dorothy Gregg; toilet goods, Mrs. F. V. Allison; hosiery department, Mrs. S. L. Digby; bedding, blankets department, Mrs. H. L. Walton; men's clothing department, Mrs. W. S. Kendall; men's work clothing department, Mrs. W. V. Vice; tire department, Mrs. Louis Hultum; sporting goods department, Mrs. Lucius Hughes; house furnishings department, Mrs. T. A. Brown; electrical supply department, Mrs. W. B. Matthews; ready-to-wear department, Mrs. W. B. Moore; infants' department, Mrs. M. L. Wymond; furniture department, Miss Louise Moore; radio department, Mrs. E. R. Strahan; stoves and kitchen furniture, Mrs. Kate Morrice.

Mrs. Masur Hostess to Contract Club Members

Mrs. Sylvan Masur entertained in charming manner members of her bridge club in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Masur, Saturday afternoon. Late summer roses were placed in the drawing rooms where the interesting games of contract were enjoyed and delicious refreshments, a salad course and ices, served at the card tables.

Miss Alyce Florsheim claimed the trophy for high score and Miss D. Lee Taylor of Wichita Falls, Texas, was remembered with an exquisite crystal scent bottle.

Present were: Miss D. Lee Taylor, Miss Judy Thornton, Miss Happy Tidwell, Miss Alyce Florsheim, Mrs. Faye Hilliard, Miss Vickie Steele.

"SOME of us call it autumn and some of us call it God"—If you love the autumn with its glorious, golden moonlit nights—falling leaves and fading flowers—woods ablaze with color and gypsy trails beckoning, then you call it "God"—If however you hear only the wailing wind and see the meadows brown and sear then it is merely autumn—And aren't homes simply heavenly these first days of autumn when twilight comes early and friends drop in for tea and spicy, fragrant cinnamon toast, nice buttery muffins and sandwiches small and thin—Home, with a fire on the hearth and the air filled with the beguiling scent of cloves and fragrant tea poured from your favorite pot—home seems almost too good to be true these days.

The little paths all lead homeward now and the last vacationist is expected during the week—Katie Mae Thornhill will be back to her native heath after summering in California—attention, sufficient to turn older and wiser heads was bestowed upon her by friends she met while in Los Angeles—The W. J. Meyers will be home next week from Chicago and all the teachers are now having a joyous reunion—refreshed from vacations and attired in smart fall clothes they pause to chat while awaiting the sterner business of teaching—Such interesting news reaches us from Delano Anderson Learie who is studying art in Paris, France—of course you remember Delano—the beautiful golden-haired girl who painted the portrait of her cousin, Caro Webb, while visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. T. Webb—she is forging to the front ranks and is very much a part of the Latin quarter of Paris and at the present moment is enjoying a much needed rest in a beautiful villa, the home of a friend at Deauville—never will we forget the music of her lovely voice and the beauty of her soft brown eyes—Frances Cole, blonde and lovely in a black frock with demure choister collar of white, bidding two college youths farewell at the station Friday night—there was much fond leave taking that night—Underneath the flippant remarks was a vein of sadness as parents watched the train pull out of the station with its precious cargo—A wire from Suzanne Sperry assured those at home that she made a safe landing in Atlanta—Dr. John Hedge dropped nonchalantly down from the clouds yesterday and settled on the Ouachita in his seaplane, breakfast in New Orleans and luncheon in Monroe was his privilege—Unless you have seen fair-haired Robert Layton, Jr., and his adorable curly-headed sister, Carol, dance together you have missed something too delightful for words—Speaking of children the Thomas Munnallards have a lovely new daughter—friends are rejoicing as they know Olive will make a wonderful mother—David Bubb entertaining his friends like a young Chesterfield—what a wonderful time they had viewing Monroe from the heights of the ferris wheel and urging the prancing steeds with their gilded trappings on the merry-go-round—The age of innocence is indeed the golden period of life—We made a discovery last week—Willis Anders is an ideal host and he can count on our everlasting friendship because he did not call upon us for a talk at the Lion's club luncheon last week—Soon the home fires will be burning in a handsome residence recently purchased by a prominent young bachelor—we know who the lucky girl is but have not been given permission to reveal her name, or his either for that matter.

Musical Coterie Resumes Their Fall Activities

Members of the Musical Coterie enjoyed their first meeting of the fall season, following a summer of inactivity, in the home of Mrs. F. V. Allison, Friday afternoon.

A splendid program was featured and during the social hour which followed, the hostess served her guests delicious refreshments. The program follows:

Roll call, current events.
Text Book, introduction, pages 1 to 9, Mrs. George Moffett.
Piano duet, Surprise Symphony, Hayden, Miss Florence Ziegler and Miss Mary Grace Lawn.
Voice, duet, Parle, moi de ma mere (Carmen), Bizet, Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Mrs. Henry Whitfield.

The following members were present: Mrs. M. S. Biedenharn, Mrs. M. C. De Laet, Mrs. R. L. George, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Mrs. Louis Hultum, Mrs. Julius Kugler, Mrs. H. H. Land, Miss Mary Grace Lawn, Mrs. George Moffett, Mrs. M. B. Pearce, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Mrs. William Rodriguez, Mrs. R. B. Rush, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Miss Florence Ziegler.

Little Theater News Notes

(Contributed.)

Now listen all you people in love, I was talking about my own self—If people don't quit having guilty consciences (try saying that word, it's a good one) I'm going to get shot—after this if anything makes you mad, I didn't mean you—a certain business man now answers to the name of David Warfield—and Sarah Bernhardt's here in the building too—and on the strength of it we've acquired a raft of new members—you ought to come act, it's more fun—and you've no idea the way your friends get a kick out of it—I am glad it's warm again.

I would like to put this in capital letters and red ink, it's important; please read it and tell your friends—Tuesday, Sept. 20, is the big business meeting, to elect officers and attend to all business for the next season—please be there—I really can't send you written notice, it's too expensive, and so I am going to mention it in this column every day from now until the 20th.—The election of officers is the most important thing I can think of, because, whether or not we are a success depends on whom you elect.—Try and be there.

I like this Little Theater and I do want it to succeed—so all of you who would make good officers and have the time and the ability to hold office, please accept them—we need you, so come on and give us a hand.

The three act play which will be presented on the 30th of September, will be the last thing done under the original officers and we are going to try to leave a good impression—so bear with us a little longer.—I'll give you the cast in a day or so—I don't think it's final yet—but there's a lot of new talent in it and some of your favorites from the other productions.

SOCIETY

Eve Bradford
EDITOR

Members of Younger Set Guests of Miss Lucille Smith At Beautiful Bridge Affair

Pan-Hellenic Members Meet For Luncheon

Members of Monroe Pan-Hellenic society, alert and keen minded, and ready for a season of great activity enjoying their first luncheon of the season on the Virginia roof, Saturday with their president, Miss Marie Collins, presiding.

Nothing of a definite nature took shape at this meeting as it was more or less of a social nature bringing members together after having disbanded for the summer.

Enjoying the delicious luncheon served at the flower adorned table were:

Mrs. Glenn Backshies, Mrs. T. A. Brown, Mrs. Porter Burgess, Miss Marie Collins, Mrs. W. W. Cooper, Mrs. R. L. Davis, Mrs. R. J. Donovan, Miss Aimee DeGraffenreid, Miss Florence Ferguson, Miss Margie Sutton, Mrs. Claude Harrison, Miss Elizabeth Hudson, Mrs. J. B. Kemmer, Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mrs. William Leber, Mrs. O. D. Lewis, Mrs. Bernice Nichols, Miss Beryl Madison, Miss Connie McReynolds, Mrs. Gordon Surguine, Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, Miss Pearl Haynes, Miss Elizabeth Platt, Miss Elizabeth McGuire, Miss Elizabeth Broad, Miss Annie Laurie Broad, Mrs. H. F. Madison, Mrs. Lester Corley, Miss Elizabeth McGuire.

Parent-Teacher's Club Resumes Their Work

A few days ago, an appeal was made to the parents in every school community urging them to cooperate with the local board of health in getting the children ready for school and to unite their forces with those of the local Parent-Teacher units because of their interest in these preventive measures. Parent-Teacher members are in a position, as are those of no other organization, to visit the homes, stress the value of sound health, both for the child and the community, round up the children for immunization and urge parents to take them to the family physician and dentist for further advice and treatment.

There is need for such a campaign. The pre-school period is a crucial time for the child. Many of the ills of later childhood, adolescence and adult life have their beginning in the interval between infancy and school age. Thousands of children have defective vision, defective hearing and other defects, many of which can be cured or relieved by early treatment.

This summer round-up of the children was inaugurated by the National Association of Parents and Teachers in which is intended to rouse parents

Miss Lucille Smith's charming little bridge affair, at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith brought together several members of the departing college set Wednesday afternoon.

Fragrant clematis and pink Radiance roses, overflowing from picturesque urns formed a decorative background for the guests who were welcomed by the young hostess in a lovely frock of Madelon blue.

Bowls of pink roses were placed on linen covered card tables following the interesting games, for the serving of pink ices and luscious little cakes embossed in green. Pink mints embossed in green were also served.

The gifts for bridge scores were most acceptable. Miss Doris Beaman received beautiful silhouettes, painted by Miss Smith and Miss Mayme Meyers received a handsome vanity. Enjoying the many courtesies extended by the hostess and her mother, assisted by Mrs. H. Lane and Mrs. G. Wygant were: Misses Joel Nichols, Elma Rustin, Virginia Ziegler, Clara Terzia, Nancy Terzia, Audrey Lowery, Polly Anna Shotwell, Gertrude Feazel, Lallage Feazel, Marie Dell Horuff, Dorothy Calvert, Doris Beaman, Rachael Haynes, Sara Coon, Carolyn Myers, Mayme Meyers, Sara Mae Adams, Mary Janette Zeigler, Hazel Mitchell, Ann Hardie, Clarissa Davis, Marjorie Chambers, Tooke, Sara Moffet, Beverly Russell, Edith Haynes, Miss Lucille Smith, hostess.

Mrs. Eady Entertains T. E. L. Sunday School Class

Mrs. H. R. Eady was hostess to members of the T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church at her home on North Sixth street with Mrs. C. R. Coats and Mrs. Robert Green co-hostesses. The reception suite was banked with gorgeous summer flowers.

During a short business session the class accepted the resignation of their much loved and efficient secretary who is leaving for Shreveport. Mrs. George Parks was elected to fill the vacancy. It was agreed to have a chicken fry at Five's park on the Calhoun road Saturday evening.

The "kid" party which is a benefit party was discussed and is to be held at Mrs. John Young's home on 207 Vernon street, Sept. 14, at 8:30 o'clock.

A social hour followed in which some clever contests were introduced by the hostess.

The class colors, green and white were carried out beautifully in the serving of delicious tinted sandwiches and a confectionery course to Mesdames P. E. Pilcher, J. T. Chappell, Elmer Kennedy, Jno. Young, W. D. Clark, J. L. Gates, Fred Thatcher, J. O. Pilcher, D. T. Dennis, J. H. Hammock, John Lewis, Job, Geo. Parks, J. E. Grandstaff, Steve Alford, S. E. Morris and the hostesses.

In the Pictures

Society revolved around the five lovely girls who were visitors in the city last week. Reading from left to right they are: Miss Ellen Baughman of Farmerville, La., house guest of Miss Happy Tidwell; Miss Rose Audrey McCoy of Shreveport, guest of her aunt, Mrs. William Washburn; Miss D. Lee Taylor of Wichita Falls, Texas, guest of Miss Tidwell and Misses Nita Breazeale of Baton Rouge and Dorothy Brumby of Franklin, La., house guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hudson.

—Portraits by Griffin Studios

Winter Season in Monroe Will Be Filled With Many Forms of Activity This Year

The rhythmic beat of feet tapping the boards and the sharp, staccato notes of the piano reminds us that dancing is again occupying a prominent place in fall activities. The dancing teachers have all returned from profitable summers and looking forward to a winter of great activity.

The dancer today exhibits an entirely different type of girl from that which chose Terpelchore as her goddess some years ago. The modern dancer, and by that designation we means the dancer who finds in her profession a productive, satisfactory means of livelihood, is no longer a girl who is interested in dancing and nothing else. She has evolved into the collegiate type of girl. If one met her anywhere off the stage one might mistake her for a successful business woman or a well-bred debutante. She is poised, well dressed and well groomed. Her mind is not single-tracked. She is well read, vital, and responds to the American scene of which she is a part.

Monroe is fortunate indeed in having so many experienced instructors of the dance, so much so, that parents experience difficulty in making a final decision. Margaret Stovall is again located in her dance studio at 116 1-2 South Grand street, and will give her pupils the benefit of her experience and the new dance steps acquired in Atlantic City during the summer, when her studio opens on the twenty-third of September. Roberta O'Donnell will open her studio, as customary over the Woodman hall on Jackson street. She has been working hard in New Orleans this summer under celebrated teachers. Regina Moffett has her studio in the Frances hotel and is eager to start her winter work after a season of study in New York and as dance counsellor at a girl's camp on Cape Cod. Mrs. Harry Rice has returned from the east with new dance steps and is reopening her studio over Chase and Ammon store on DeSiard street. Mrs. Carol Layton has been brushing up on her dance steps and after a period of inactivity has again joined the ranks of professionals. She will open her studio at the Layton Castle at an early date.

Monroe's music instructors are dusting off the keys of studio pianos and preparing for a busy winter. With music becoming more and more a part of our daily lives they will find their pupils steadily increasing in number.

And so in this glorious month of September when even the moon decides to be golden and gorgeous let us open our minds and our lives and look at them and weigh and cast out and renew. We never watch an interpretative dancer without an inner voice exclaiming, "and so that is what bodies are! That's what they can be and do!" Dancing instruction should be the rightful inheritance of every girl.

Miss Joy Steele Hostess At Dinner in Private Dining Room of the Frances Hotel

Swiftly the moments fly for college girls who are crowding many pleasures into the few remaining days at home. A group of intimates gathered around the festive board in a private dining room of the Frances hotel Thursday night with Miss Joy Steele, the lovely hostess. The table was developed in shades of pink centered with silver bowl overflowing with pink carnations and maiden hair. The young girls in lovely dinner frocks made a beautiful picture seated around the table where a five course dinner was served. Miss Steele wore a black velvet dinner dress with metal trimming and Miss D. Lee Taylor of Wichita Falls, Texas, the charming guest of Miss Happy Tidwell, wore a dinner model of beet root crewe with all accessories of the same color. Others present were: Miss Doris Beaman, Miss Margaret Stovall, Miss Vickie Steele.

Peak of Student Departures For School and University Has Been Reached in Monroe

Next week will witness a general exodus of college students from the city. A few have already taken their departure and others are leaving daily. Among the student departures are:

Gretchen Talbot, La. State Normal; Irene Ivy Page, La. State Normal; Virginia Hinkle, La. State Normal; Winfred Culpepper, Missouri university; John Bishop Johnson, Yale; Shirley Haas, Lindenwood; Burton Wolf, Texas U.; Fred Fudickar, Sewanee; Robert Holloway, Sewanee; John Eby, Sewanee; Alva Learned, Texas U.; Cecil Yancey, Sewanee; Carolyn Stubbs, University of Rome, Ga.; Hollis Venable, Texas U.; Nancy Terzia, L. S. U.; Jo Mary McKoin, La. State Normal; Ann Rosalie Herring, La. State Normal; D. Standley, La. State Normal; Dean McKoin, Agnes Scott, Kathryn White, L. S. U.; Kitty Morrison, L. S. U.; Frances Stroud, L. S. U.; Frances Cole, L. S. U.; Ann Hardie, L. S. U.; Ann Platt, L. S. U.; Mildred Cobb, L. S. U.; Leigh Russell, L. S. U.; Ellen Kent Millsaps, L. S. U.; Elizabeth Drew, L. S. U.; M. J. John, L. S. U.; Shelby Tucker, L. S. U.; Jack Anders, L. S. U.; Bill Evans, L. S. U.; Morris Haas, L. S. U.; Earl Stovall, L. S. U.; Jim Sparks, L. S. U.; Owen Ware, L. S. U.; Will Wallace, L. S. U.; Foster Wallace, L. S. U.; Charles Wise, L. S. U.; Roland Brown, L. S. U.; Shelby Calhoun, L. S. U.; Doris Beaman, Newcomb; Elizabeth Cosper, Newcomb; Pargie Hudson, Newcomb; Sally Beard, Newcomb; Suzanne Hirsch, Newcomb; Fred Vaughn, Tulane; Robert Guerrier, Tulane; Will Guerrier, Tulane; Leon Titcher, Tulane; Charles Titcher, Tulane; Charles Calhoun, Tulane; McVae Oliver, Tulane.

Louis Kusin, Michigan U.; Sue Sperry, Arlington Hall (Washington, D. C.); Elizabeth Biedenharn, King-Ditch; Sue Graves, Sweetbriar; Travis Oliver, Washington-Lee; Gilbert Faulk, Washington-Lee; Charles Stubbs, V. M. I.; Joy Steele, Gulf Park; Happy Tidwell, Gulf Park; Gertrude Feazel, Gulf Park; Blanche Deas, University of Alabama; Henry Florsheim, Texas A. and M.; Charles Stewart, Texas A. and M.; Frances Davis, Randolph Macon; Sara Larche, Randolph Macon; Paul Fudickar, V. M. I.; Willie Heard, L. S. U.; Howell Heard, L. S. U.; Oliver Heard, L. S. U.; Clarissa Davis, Gulf Park; Dorothy Davis, Sorbonne university, Paris, France; Eleanor Faulk, Tulane university.

Miss Evelyn Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Brown, who underwent an operation for appendicitis Tuesday morning is now convalescing at the Vaughn, Wright and Bendel clinic and will be glad to have her friends call. Room 312.

Leading Store Will Be Turned Over to Church

Friday will be a busy day indeed for members of the Presbyterian auxiliary with Montgomery Ward and company at their disposal through the kindness and generosity of the manager, Mr. Anders. Mrs. Alden T. Shotwell has been placed in charge of every department and has appointed Mrs. E. D. Holloway, assistant manager. A certain per cent of all sales will be turned over the auxiliary to be used by this splendid organization in carrying on the year's work. The store will be open until 9 o'clock Friday night and between the hours of seven and nine an orchestra will supply music and prizes will be awarded. Every customer entering the store on this day will be given a ticket for the grand prize.

Housewives of Monroe are urged to cooperate on this occasion and assist in making this day a memorable one for members of the Presbyterian auxiliary. The following ladies will assist in the various departments:

Piece goods department, Mrs. Bunn Beasley; lingerie department, Mrs. Pringle Yllis; shoe department, Miss Dorothy Gregg; toilet goods, Mrs. F. V. Allison; Hosiery department, Mrs. S. L. Digby; bedding, blankets department, Mrs. H. L. Walton; men's clothing department, Mrs. W. S. Kendall; men's work clothing department, Mrs. W. V. Vice; Tire department, Mrs. Louis Hullum; sporting goods department, Mrs. Lucius Hughes; house furnishings department, Mrs. T. A. Brown; electrical supply department, Mrs. W. B. Matthews; ready-to-wear department, Mrs. W. B. Moore; infants' department, Mrs. M. L. Wymond; furniture department, Miss Louise Moore; radio department, Mrs. E. R. Strahan; stoves and kitchen furniture, Mrs. Kate Morrice.

Mrs. Masur Hostess to Contract Club Members

Mrs. Sylvan Masur entertained in charming manner members of her bridge club in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Masur, Saturday afternoon. Late summer roses were placed in the drawing rooms where the interesting games of contract were enjoyed and delicious refreshments, a salad course and ices, served at the card tables.

Miss Alyce Florsheim claimed the trophy for high score and Miss D. Lee Taylor of Wichita Falls, Texas, was remembered with an exquisite crystal scent bottle.

Present were: Miss D. Lee Taylor, Miss Judy Thornton, Miss Happy Tidwell, Miss Alyce Florsheim, Mrs. Faye Hilliard, Miss Vickie Steele.

"SOME of us call it autumn and some of us call it God"—If you love the autumn with its glorious, golden moonlit nights—falling leaves and fading flowers—woods ablaze with color and gypsy trails beckoning, then you call it "God"—If however you hear only the wailing wind and see the meadows brown and sear then it is merely autumn—And aren't homes simply heavenly these first days of autumn when twilight comes early and friends drop in for tea and spicey, fragrant cinnamon toast, nice buttery muffins and sandwiches small and thin—Home, with a fire on the hearth and the air filled with the beguiling scent of cloves and fragrant tea poured from your favorite pot—home seems almost too good to be true these days.

The little paths all lead homeward now and the last vacationist is expected during the week—Katie Mae Thornhill will be back to her native heath after summering in California—attention, sufficient to turn older and wiser heads, was heaped upon her by friends she met while in Los Angeles—The W. J. Meyers will be home next week from Chicago and all the teachers are now having a joyous reunion—refreshed from vacations and attired in smart fall clothes they pause to chat while awaiting the sterner business of teaching—Such interesting news reaches us from Delano Anderson Leary who is studying art in Paris, France—of course you remember Delano—the beautiful golden-haired girl who painted the portrait of her cousin, Caro Webb, while visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. T. Webb—she is forging to the front ranks and is very much a part of the Latin quarter of Paris and at the present moment is enjoying a much needed rest in a beautiful villa, the home of a friend at Dea-ville—never will we forget the music of her lovely voice and the beauty of her soft brown eyes—Frances Cole, blonde and lovely in a black frock with demure chorister collar of white, bidding two college youths farewell at the station Friday night—there was much fond leave taking that night—Underneath the flippant remarks was a vein of sadness as parents watched the train pull out of the station with its precious cargo.

A wire from Suzanne Sperry assured those at home that she made a safe landing in Atlanta—Dr. John Hodge dropped nonchalantly down from the clouds yesterday and settled on the Ouchita in his seaplane—breakfast in New Orleans and luncheon in Monroe was his privilege—Unless you have seen fair-haired Robert Layton, Jr., and his adorable curly-headed sister, Carol, dance together you have missed something too delightful for words—Speaking of children the Thomas Munholland's have a lovely new daughter—friends are rejoicing as they know Olive will make a wonderful mother—David Bubb entertaining his friends like a young Chesterfield—what a wonderful time they had viewing Monroe from the heights of the ferris wheel and urging the prancing steeds with their gilded trappings on the merry-go-round—The age of innocence is indeed the golden period of life—We made a discovery last week—Willis Anders is an ideal host and he can count on our everlasting friendship because he did not call upon us for a talk at the Lion's club luncheon last week—Soon the home fires will be burning in a handsome residence recently purchased by a prominent young bachelor—we know who the lucky girl is but have not been given permission to reveal her name, or his either for that matter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colgate Boswell and little daughter, Martha Jean, completed a visit with Mrs. Boswell's parents, Judge and Mrs. Charles Schultz and returned to their home in Bristol, Va.

Musical Coterie Resumes Their Fall Activities

Members of the Musical Coterie enjoyed their first meeting of the fall season, following a summer of inactivity, in the home of Mrs. F. V. Allison, Friday afternoon.

A splendid program was featured and during the social hour which followed, the hostess served her guests delicious refreshments. The program follows:

Roll call, current events. Text Book, introduction, pages 1 to 3, Mrs. George Moffett. Piano duet, Surprise Symphony, Hayden, Miss Florence Ziegler and Miss Mary Grace Lawn. Voice, duet, Parle, moi de ma mere (Carmen), Bizet, Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Mrs. Henry Whitfield. The following members were present: Mrs. M. S. Biedenharn, Mrs. C. De Laet, Mrs. R. L. George, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. Julius Kugler, Mrs. H. H. Land, Miss Mary Grace Lawn, Mrs. George Moffett, Mrs. M. B. Pearce, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Mrs. William Rodriguez, Mrs. R. B. Rush, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Miss Florence Ziegler.

Little Theater News Notes

(Contributed.)

Now listen all you people in love, I was talking about my own self—if people don't quit having guilty consciences (try saying that word, it's a good one) I'm going to get shot—after this if anything makes you mad, I didn't mean you—a certain business man now answers to the name of David Warfield—and Sarah Bernhardt's here in the building too—and on the strength of it we've acquired a raft of new members—you ought to come act, its more fun—and you've no idea the way your friends get a kick out of it—I am I glad it's warm again.

I would like to put this in capital letters and red ink, it's important; please read it and tell your friends—Tuesday, Sept. 20, is the big business meeting to elect officers and attend to all business for the next season—please be there—I really can't send you written notice, it's too expensive, and so I am going to mention it in this column every day from now until the 20th—The election of officers is the most important thing I can think of, because, whether or not we are a success depends on whom you elect—Try and be there—I like this Little Theater and I do want it to succeed—so all of you who would make good officers and have the time and the ability to hold office, please accept them—we need you, so come on and give us a hand. The three act play which will be presented on the 30th of September, will be the last thing done under the original officers and we are going to try to leave a good impression—so bear with us a little longer—I'll give you the cast in a day or so—I don't think it's final yet—but there's a lot of new talent in it and some of your favorites from the other productions.

SOCIETY

Music to Play Important Part Here This Fall

Plato said, "Education is gymnastics for the body and music for the soul." Have you ever noticed that the radiant people are those who have music in their lives. Music belongs to us and we are realizing more and more that we are undernourished without it.

We are glad to note that the Twin City Parent-Teacher council will make music their major project this year and that of course means there will be more beauty in the hearts and in the lives of the music loving public of the Twin Cities.

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, principal of the Georgia Tucker school, and outstanding figure in musical circles is aware of the power of music and is accomplishing much good among the young students of this city. Acting as local head of the Atwater Kent radio audition on the sixth of September, she announces the winners who were selected for their talent and ambition. Miss Dorothy Harris of Ruston, first place; Miss Margaret Grower, West Monroe, second place; Miss Virginia Harris, Fairbanks, third place; Kendall Hearn of Ruston, first place; A. D. Wilder, Jr., of Ruston, second place; Henry Rickey of Monroe, third place. Thirteen contestants were present at the audition including aspirants from Clarks, Fairbanks, Crowville, Ruston and Monroe.

Parent-Teacher's Club Resumes Their Work

(Continued from Sixth Page)

to a sense of their responsibility and to bring the pressure of public opinion to bear upon the need of providing the school with as perfect material as possible. It is not only an educational project; it is also a sound economic project because it prevents waste of educational effort with its attendant cost. Many children are repeaters because of some remediable defect, the correction of which might prevent this waste of time.

Until parents become fully educated to the responsibility for the health of their children and realize that periodic health examinations are desirable from birth on, the summer roundup will be necessary. Parents will then seek for their children periodic examinations by the family physician and dentist and will pay an adequate fee for this service. We have not yet arrived at the time when all parents understand and recognize this need, and an examination in the spring brings to the attention of the parents the physical defects which need correction.

Charles, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Marx is convalescing nicely from a tonsillar operation performed at St. Francis sanitarium.

World and News-Star Pattern

We know that little hints about ways to keep your wardrobe complete, yet compact, are always appreciated... more so this season when budgets hold sway. Consider the important role color plays. Select either black, brown or navy blue for your fundamental color... every woman can wear one of these... and then you are ready to build. Make your most important garment... a coat, for example... that shade and then your frocks of contrasting hues will tuck in correctly whether they're satins, crinkly crepes or sheer woolsens. Other items such as bag, hat, shoes, to harmonize will save you great expense and worry. It's a thought... consider it further!

Pattern 1135. In one of the new delectable fall shades, perhaps a satin fabric, you'd love this frock. Its flattering cowl neck and bodice treatment is so new and becoming. Charming, every bit of it, we say! Pattern 1135 may be ordered only in sizes 16 to 20 and 34 to 42. Size 16 requires 3 7-8 yards 39-inch fabric.

Pattern 1148. Here is a charming model that fits in beautifully with the scheme of carefully chosen colors. With the darker skirt, the bodice may be as gay as you like and still harmonize with the scheme. Pattern 1148 may be ordered only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 2 7-8 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 3-4 yards contrasting.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple, step-by-step cutting and sewing diagrams. Yardage is given for every size.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, THE STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern ordered.

THE NEW FALL AND WINTER CATALOG offers a comprehensive collection of the best of the forthcoming season's styles for morning, afternoon, sports and evening wear. It's 32 pages also include charming models for juniors and kiddies, lingerie, pajamas and carefully selected patterns that make delightful gifts. SEND FOR YOUR COPY. This catalog is FIFTEEN CENTS when ordered alone. Catalog and pattern together, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS. Address all mail and orders to News-Star-World Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York, N. Y.

A delightful event was a birthday party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Blazier of 512 North Fifth street, West Monroe, Friday in honor of their three-year-old daughter, Billie Frances. The little guests who comprised her friends enjoyed being entertained with games played out under the balloon-decorated trees. A unique fishing pond was improvised from which bags were fished containing surprises for the fishermen.

Afterwards the group was led to the dining room where the birthday cake was cut and served with candies and ice cream. Those present were Bendel and June Register, Roy Whittington, Jack Hodge, Sue Elva Hunt, Soule Turner, Harry Russell Wood, Beverly Anne Thatcher, Martha Willis Brown, Marie Auld, Elmer Gene Kennedy, Carol Gene Williamson, Doris Elizabeth Burdeaux, John Anne Lewis, Dorothy Anne Mitchell, Cherry Kay Thomas, Harry Gene Howard, Mesdames Dunbar Hunt, John Lewis, Clyde Howard, Fred G. Thatcher, W. M. Thomas, Williamson, Mitchell, Turner, Francis Blazier, Miss Grace Hodge.

Reverend and Mrs. H. H. Shafer announce the arrival of a daughter in their home on the fifth of September.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Rizzo are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the arrival of a lovely daughter at St. Francis sanitarium on the ninth of September.

Monroe Beauty School

PERMANENTS

Any Style $1.95

Shampoo and Set 50¢

315 Harrison Phone 1296

MULHEARN'S

FUNERAL HOME INCORPORATED

A home of dignified sympathetic service

The modern Sanitarium offers for a consideration, facilities for the care and treatment of its patients that could not possibly be had in the home.

Without any additional cost whatever, we offer the facilities of our Funeral Home, where every convenience is available for the proper conduct of any type of funeral that may be desired. Our institution is not to be confused with the coldly commercial "Funeral Parlor," or "Mortuary Department," frequently the side line of some other business, but is exactly what the name indicates, a "Funeral Home." A real home, combining the sacred atmosphere found nowhere save in a home, with all the most modern equipment and facilities for the rendering of the very highest type of technical service in connection therewith.

Pay us a visit of inspection. You are welcome, and we believe you will be favorably impressed. Ambulance calls answered promptly with the maximum of speed commensurate with a minimum of risk.

Phones 65-66

Mulhearn Funeral Home, Inc.
Phone 65 or 66 500 St. John Street

The government has discovered that inability to escape the family radio will cause irritation and that competition for the bathroom may lead to unhappiness, if not uncleanness.

A government agency—the president's conference on home building and home ownership—has made this discovery in a survey of 3000 homes in forty states, undertaken as part of a study of homemaking and furnishing.

This survey, the report on which has just been issued through the department of commerce, shows that

"poorly planned and inefficient housing is largely responsible for much needless impairment of home and family life in present-day America."

The detailed analysis of 3000 typical urban and rural dwellings scattered throughout the country to discover causes of family friction and unhappiness reveal conditions which practically every reader will recognize as startlingly familiar, however unconscious of them he may have been," says the department.

"Only a single living room for recreation activities of too many people

—children, parents and grandparents; no private place to read, or rest, or play, or entertain personal friends; no chance to escape from the radio; too many people competing for a single bathroom; no convenient closets or cupboards to store things—such serious reflections on housing will strike a universal chord in human experience.

"The commonest defect discovered was lack of adequate storage space for children's clothes and possessions. Next in order came lack of playroom or workshop, lack of privacy, poor sleeping quarters, and inconvenient bath or none at all.

"In its constructive suggestions, the committee especially urges upon parents the wisdom of making a child feel that the house is partly his, to plan for, work for and tuck him in."

The surveyors found a need for "home clinics" to give advice to home-makers.

Dr. John E. Hodge of New Orleans arrived in his seaplane yesterday to enjoy a visit with his sister, Mrs. L. C. Garrett of the west side.

INDEX DIRECTORY

of Monroe's Best Private Schools

Dancing . . Instrumental . . Expression . . Singing . . Art and Music

MRS. HARRY W. RICE

Announces the Opening of Her

SCHOOL OF THE DANCE

Saturday, September 24th

Enroll Now - Call 3435-J or 1567

Studio Located in Chase-Amman Building

MISS BEATRICE SKIRVIN

Teacher of Piano

Fall Term Opens September 19

Studio 213 Talamague

Residence Phone 2173-W

Studio Phone 1251

Address 1705 North Sixth

ROBERTA O'DONNELL

Graduate of Louis Chalif Russian Normal School of Dancing, N. Y. C., takes pleasure in announcing the opening of her

STUDIO OF THE DANCE

Enrollment September 17th, 3 to 5

Classes in individual instruction in all types of dancing

W. O. W. Hall, Jackson and Harrison Sts. Phone 535

The Margaret Stovall School of Dancing

Fall Term Begins Thursday, Sept. 22, at 3:30 P. M.

Every type of Dancing Taught.

Classes for Professionals, Beginners and Advanced Pupils.

Studio 116½ S. Grand St., over Postal Telegraph.

Phone 1116

Mrs. Fannie Livaudais

Teacher of

Organ, Piano, Violin

30 Years' Experience.

Studio 1511 Jackson St.

Students Now Enrolling.

Phone 1147

MISS LILA SCOGIN

Teacher of

PIANO

Studio Located 520 South Grand St. 3013 Lee Ave.

Phone 2728-W and 2542.

Fall Term Opens Sept. 19

MRS. CAROL LAYTON

OPENS HER

DANCE STUDIO

AT LAYTON PLACE

Fall Term Begins Sept. 23

For Information Phone 3888

Violin, Piano and Voice Instructor

Monroe Music School

Studio 1112 N. Third Street

Advanced Students, Private Lesson 1 Hr. each week

Harmony, Theory, History Included.

Latest class methods taught beginners, "Melody way... the easy way." Certificates awarded.

Phone 1950.

ART STUDIO

Stella Vinson

520 S. Grand St., across street from Parish School

Lessons in Charcoal, Water Colors, Pastel, Oil

Orders for Photograph Tinting Solicited

Fall Term Begins Sept. 19

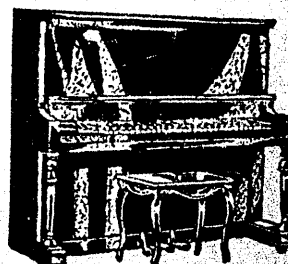

Studio Phone 2728-W.

Home Phone 774.

MUSIC TEACHERS

We welcome each of you back into Monroe again. As usual, this company is anxious to be of service. We do piano tuning and repair work, rent and sell pianos, and musical instruments.

We Heartily Extend Our
Fullest Cooperation to Each
Of You in Any Capacity We Are Able to Serve

BROOK MAYS & CO.

Phone 700

South Grand St.

Just another milestone that should be commemorated by a Photograph

Photographs don't grow up

PHONE NO. 6 FOR APPOINTMENT

SOCIETY

Music to Play Important Part Here This Fall

Plato said, "Education is gymnastics for the body and music for the soul." Have you ever noticed that the radiant people are those who have music in their lives. Music belongs to us and we are realizing more and more that we are undernourished without it.

We are glad to note that the Twin City Parent-Teacher council will make music their major project this year and that of course means there will be more beauty in the hearts and in the lives of the music loving public of the Twin Cities.

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, principal of the Georgia Tucker school, and outstanding figure in musical circles is aware of the power of music and is accomplishing much good among the young students of this city. Acting as local head of the Atwater Kent radio audition on the sixth of September, she announces the winners who were selected for their talent, and ambition. Miss Dorothy Harris of Ruston, first place; Miss Margaret Grower, West Monroe, second place; Miss Virginia Harris, Fairbanks, third place; Kendall Hearn of Ruston, first place; A. D. Wilder, Jr., of Ruston, second place; Henry Rickey of Monroe, third place. Thirteen contestants were present at the audition including aspirants from Clarkes, Fairbanks, Crowville, Ruston and Monroe.

Parent-Teacher's Club Resumes Their Work

(Continued from Sixth Page)

to a sense of their responsibility and to bring the pressure of public opinion to bear upon the need of providing the school with as perfect material as possible. It is not only an educational project; it is also a sound economic project because it prevents waste of educational effort with its attendant cost. Many children are repeaters because of some remediable defect, the correction of which might prevent this waste of time.

Until parents become fully educated to the responsibility for the health of their children and realize that periodic health examinations are desirable from birth on, the summer roundup will be necessary. Parents will then seek for their children periodic examinations by the family physician and dentist and will pay an adequate fee for this service. We have not yet arrived at the time when all parents understand and recognize this need, and an examination in the spring brings to the attention of the parents the physical defects which need correction.

Charles, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Marx is convalescing nicely from a tonsillar operation performed at St. Francis sanitarium.

World and News-Star Pattern

We know that little hints about ways to keep your wardrobe complete, yet compact, are always appreciated... more so this season when budgets hold sway. Consider the important role color plays. Select either black, brown or navy blue for your fundamental color... every woman can wear one of these... and then you are ready to build. Make your most important garment... a coat, for example... that shade and then your frocks of contrasting hues will tuck in correctly whether they're satins, crinkly crepes or sheer wools.

Other items such as bag, hat, shoes, to harmonize will save you great expense and worry. It's a thought... consider it further! Pattern 1185. In one of the new delectable fall shades, perhaps a satin fabric, you'd love this frock. Its flat-topped cowl neck and bodice treatment is so new and becoming. Charming, every bit of it, we say! Pattern 1185 may be ordered only in sizes 16 to 20 and 34 to 42. Size 16 requires 3 7-8 yards 39-inch fabric.

Pattern 1148. Here is a charming model that fits in beautifully with the scheme of carefully chosen colors. With the darker skirt, the bodice may be as gay as you like and still harmonize with the scheme. Pattern 1148 may be ordered only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 2 7-8 yards 39-inch fabric and 1 3-4 yards contrasting.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple, step-by-step cutting and sewing diagrams. Yardage is given for every size. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, THE STYLE NUMBER AND SIZE of each pattern ordered.

THE NEW FALL AND WINTER CATALOG offers a comprehensive collection of the best of the forthcoming season's styles for morning, afternoon, sports and evening wear. It's 32 pages also include charming models for juniors and kiddies, lingerie, pajamas and carefully selected patterns that make delightful gifts. SEND FOR YOUR COPY. This catalog is FIFTEEN CENTS when ordered alone. Catalog and pattern together, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS. Address all mail and orders to News-Star-World Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York, N. Y.

A delightful event was a birthday party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Blazier of 312 North Fifth street, West Monroe, Friday in honor of their three-year-old daughter, Billie Frances. The little guests who comprised her friends enjoyed being entertained with games played out under the balloon-decorated trees. A unique fishing pond was improvised from which bags were fished containing surprises for the fishermen.

Afterwards the group was led to the dining room where the birthday cake was cut and served with candies and ice cream. Those present were Bendel and June Register, Roy Whittington, Jack Hogge, Sue Elva Hunt, Soule Turner, Harry Russell Wood, Beverly Anne Thatcher, Martha Willis Brown, Marjorie Auld, Elmer Gene Kennedy, Carol Gene Williamson, Doris Elizabeth Burdeaux, John Anne Lewis, Dorothy Anne Mitchell, Cherry Kay Thomas, Harry Gene Howard, Mesdames Dunbar Hunt, John Lewis, Clyde Howard, Fred G. Thatcher, W. M. Thomas, Williamson, Mitchell, Turner, Francis Blazier, Miss Grace Hogge.

Reverend and Mrs. H. H. Shafer announce the arrival of a daughter in their home on the fifth of September.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Rizzo are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the arrival of a lovely daughter at St. Francis sanitarium on the ninth of September.

The government has discovered that inability to escape the family radio will cause irritation and that competition for the bathroom may lead to unhappiness, if not uncleanness.

A government agency—the president's conference on home building and home ownership—has made this discovery in a survey of 3000 homes in forty states, undertaken as part of a study of homemaking and furnishing.

This survey, the report on which has just been issued through the department of commerce, shows that

"poorly planned and inefficient housing is largely responsible for much needless impairment of home and family life in present-day America."

The detailed analysis of 3000 typical urban and rural dwellings scattered throughout the country to discover causes of family friction and unhappiness reveal conditions which practically every reader will recognize as startlingly familiar, however unconscious of them he may have been," says the department.

"Only a single living room for recreation activities of too many people

—children, parents and grandparents; no private place to read, or rest, or play, or entertain personal friends; no chance to escape from the radio; too many people competing for a single bathroom; no convenient closets or cupboards to store things—such serious reflections on housing will strike a universal chord in human experience.

"The commonest defect discovered was lack of adequate storage space for children's clothes and possessions. Next in order came lack of playroom or workshop, lack of privacy, poor sleeping quarters, and inconvenient bath or none at all. "In its constructive suggestions, the committee especially urges upon parents the wisdom of making a child feel that the house is partly his, to plan for, work for and use."

The surveyors found a need for "home clinics" to give advice to homemakers.

Dr. John E. Hodge of New Orleans arrived in his seaplane yesterday to enjoy a visit with his sister, Mrs. L. C. Garrett of the west side.

INDEX DIRECTORY of Monroe's Best Private Schools

Dancing . . Instrumental . . Expression . . Singing . . Art and Music

MRS. HARRY W. RICE

Announces the Opening of Her
SCHOOL OF THE DANCE
Saturday, September 24th
Enroll Now - Call 3435-J or 1567
Studio Located in Chase-Amman Building

The Margaret Stovall School of Dancing

Fall Term Begins Thursday, Sept. 22, at 3:30 P. M.
Every type of Dancing Taught.
Classes for Professionals, Beginners and Advanced Pupils.
Studio 116½ S. Grand St., over Postal Telegraph.
Phone 1116

Mrs. Fannie Livaudais

Teacher of
Organ, Piano, Violin
30 Years' Experience. Studio 1511 Jackson St.
Students Now Enrolling. Phone 1147

MISS LILA SCOGIN

Teacher of
PIANO
Studio Located 520 South Grand St. 3013 Lee Ave.
Phone 2728-W and 2542.
Fall Term Opens Sept. 19

MISS ELEANOR MICHIE

Teacher of Piano
Reopens her Studio, 111 Pine St., Monday, Sept. 19. Phone 214.

Miss Regina Moffett

ANNOUNCES
Opening of Her
DANCE STUDIO
Thursday, Sept. 15, Mezzanine Floor Hotel Frances
All Types of Dancing Taught
PHONE 1155
Enrollment Saturday, Sept. 17th—Between 4 and 5 o'clock
Classes on 19th

MISS BEATRICE SKIRVIN

Teacher of Piano
Fall Term Opens September 19
Studio 213 Talamague
Residence Phone 2173-W Studio Phone 1251
Address 1705 North Sixth

ROBERTA O'DONNELL

Graduate of Louis Chalif Russian Normal School of Dancing, N. Y. C., takes pleasure in announcing the opening of her

STUDIO OF THE DANCE

Enrollment September 17th, 3 to 5
Classes in individual instruction in all types of dancing
W. O. W. Hall, Jackson and Harrison Sts. Phone 535

Miss Mamie Ola Heard

Teacher of
PIANO MUSIC
Studio in Crosley School, West Monroe
Students Enrolling Now. Phone 1273.

MRS. CAROL LAYTON

OPENS HER
DANCE STUDIO
AT LAYTON PLACE
Fall Term Begins Sept. 23
For Information Phone 3888

Violin, Piano and Voice Instructor
Monroe Music School
Studio 1112 N. Third Street
Advanced Students, Private Lesson 1 Hr. each week
Harmony, Theory, History Included.
Latest class methods taught beginners, "Melody way... the easy way." Certificates awarded.
Phone 1950.

ART STUDIO

Stella Vinson
520 S. Grand St., across street from Parish School
Lessons in Charcoal, Water Colors, Pastel, Oil
Orders for Photograph Tinting Solicited
Fall Term Begins Sept. 19
Studio Phone 2728-W. Home Phone 774.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

For Students and Teachers

At the Lowest Prices in the City

Ferd Levi Stationery Co., Inc.

107 DeSiard Street Corner Walnut Street

BACK TO SCHOOL

Just another milestone that should be commemorated by a

Photograph

Photographs don't grow up

PHONE NO. 6 FOR APPOINTMENT

Griffin Studios

MULHEARN'S

FUNERAL HOME INCORPORATED

A home of dignified sympathetic service

The modern Sanitarium offers for a consideration facilities for the care and treatment of its patients that could not possibly be had in the home.

Without any additional cost whatever, we offer the facilities of our Funeral Home, where every convenience is available for the proper conduct of any type of funeral that may be desired. Our institution is not to be confused with the coldly commercial "Funeral Parlor" or "Mortuary Department," frequently the side line of some other business, but is exactly what the name indicates, a "Funeral Home." A real home, combining the sacred atmosphere found nowhere save in a Home, with all the most modern equipment and facilities for the rendering of the very highest type of technical service in connection therewith.

Pay us a visit of inspection. You are welcome, and we believe you will be favorably impressed. Ambulance calls answered promptly with the maximum of speed commensurate with a minimum of risk.

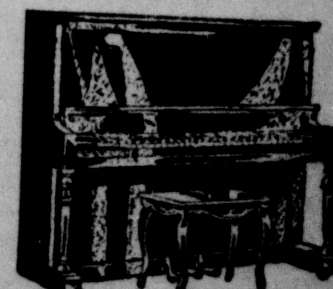

Phones 65-66

Mulhearn Funeral Home, Inc.
Phone 65 or 66 500 St. John Street

MUSIC TEACHERS

We welcome each of you back into Monroe again. As usual, this company is anxious to be of service. We do piano tuning and repair work, rent and sell pianos, and musical instruments.

We Heartily Extend Our
Fullest Cooperation to Each
Of You in Any Capacity We Are Able to Serve

BROOK MAYS & CO.

Phone 700

South Grand St.

COTTON APPEARS BETTER ADJUSTED

Might, However, Suffer Setback in Sympathy With Break in Wheat

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Unless cotton gets a further setback in sympathy with the break in wheat which followed news that the Canadian crop would be 60,000,000 bushels larger than estimated a month ago it would seem the market had pretty well adjusted itself to a yield of 11,306,000 bales.

At 8.05 cents the October contract is 110 points under the season's top of 9.15 on August 29 and at 7.85 cents the average price of middling 7-8-inch is 56 points under 8.41 paid a week ago.

There are some in the trade who do not believe the decline of $5 a bale from the high time has corrected what they considered over-enthusiasm when private estimates fell a slow as 10,750,000 bales and they say it will take the market some time to settle down with liquidation by disappointed longs and increased hedging selling against the new crop offsetting any increase in the volume of trade buying on the scale-down.

But, if only few long contracts come out on the bulge and drygoods men stick to their prices speculative interests will accumulate contracts every time the price is under pressure.

The government's September estimate was only 4000 bales higher than the August and since the figures were compiled rather unfavorable weather has prevailed in the major sections of the belt. The trade quotes a prominent authority as saying the quality of the cotton in the eastern belt is 5 per cent below normal with a large quantity threatening to be unmarketable. Texas and Oklahoma were credited with improvement as a result of August rains but some observers attach only a 50-50 value to that.

They say the real reason the market broke 100 points was because operators generally had expected an estimate of less than 11,000,000 bales whereas a month ago they were keyed up for more than 12,000,000 and had discounted the anticipated drop by boosting prices just before the government's surprise figure was issued.

It is expected the September estimate will be accepted as an approximate picture of the final yield although it made little reference to probable weevil damage, the smallness of bolls and the fact that few except a top crop in any section. The increase was based on reports of acreage abandonment of only 1.8 per cent instead of the 10-year average of 3.1 per cent which was used in August.

Although the estimate, followed by a sharp drop in raw cotton prices, put an abrupt halt to trading in gray goods there was no indication that commission merchants would reduce prices. Some agents were reported to have their mills sold right through October and others to the end of the year. The August figures on cotton goods distribution are expected to show the largest unfilled orders on record and also record sales with a sharp decrease in stocks.

There was said to be far more optimism than a year ago in the domestic textile market and with European shelves reported bare of supplies it was said the mills on that big consumer continent will be compelled to buy before long. It was reported at Atlanta that the decline did not "bring one bale out of the interior" and the government market review said holders of spot cotton, both new and old, were indifferent sellers.

The carryover of American cotton is 1,000,000 bales more than the world consumed last season but some do not consider the addition of 11,000,000 bales from the new crop to the 13,000,000 on hand an insuperable barrier to reasonably fair rises if business improves. With a crop disaster now out of the picture as a price factor any substantial price advance depends on trade recovery.

HEAR

Riley

J.

Wilson

Candidate for Re-election to Congress

MONDAY

12:50 to 1:20

P. M.

KMLB

Will show a Record of Independent Service to the People.

CUT OIL PURCHASE IN EASTERN TEXAS

Humble Oil Company Announces Plans for Reduction of Fifty Per Cent

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Humble Oil and Refining company Monday morning will cut in half its oil purchases from the north and east Texas fields, R. L. Blaffer, vice president, announced tonight.

A general order to all independent operators and leaseholders selling crude oil to the Humble company informing them of the reduction has been mailed. The order applies to Gregg, Rusk, Smith and Upshur counties in the east Texas field; Carson, Hutchinson, Gray, Wheeler, Jones and Fisher counties in the Panhandle, and Wilbarger, Wichita, Archer, Throckmorton, Shackelford, Calahan, Young, Haskell and Coleman counties in North Texas.

The notice says the slash in the purchases of the Humble company will be continued "until further notice."

"The Humble company will purchase only fifty per cent of the crude and in no event will exceed fifty per cent of the allowable of the Texas Railroad commission on leases to which it has authorized pipe line connections," Mr. Blaffer said.

It was further set out that the company would not purchase the other one-half of the production, making it incumbent for the lessees and royalty owners to dispose of the balance of their oil as best they can.

The Humble Pipe Line company also announced that effective at 7 a. m. Monday it will accept for transportation or storage at established tariffs that portion of allowable from leases which is not purchased by the Humble Oil and Refining company.

TODAY

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd.)

(Continued from First Page)

helped select his library. He says, "I was no prodigy," but he is mistaken about that. He had read those 14 books at 12 years of age.

THE OLDEST TITLE of nobility in Europe, according to Voltaire, belonged to descendants of thieves that escaped justice by fleeing to the swamps on which Venice now stands. That or any human name or title would be modern compared to the family trees of 28 of our animal brothers, now studied by scientists of New York's natural history museum.

These iguanas, giant lizards, go back 200,000,000 years in a straight line. Compare "Mayflower aristocracy" with that.

THE IGUANAS ARE kept under ultra-violet ray lamps, in quarters at high temperature, imitating their desert conditions.

Scientists, wishing to raise young iguanas for study, seek to promote courtship among the lizards, and for that you must keep them warm.

Dr. Noble, in charge of experiments, says the big lizard's only sign of affection is a shaking or nodding of the head, and he does not yet know whether the females exercise any discrimination, or whether all iguanas look alike to each other.

THESE HUGE CREATURES, that live 50 years, grow as long as 50 feet, and are useful as destroyers of vermin, may have supplied the foundation for legends about dragons, Perseus and Andromeda, and the respectable British Saint George.

Ancestors of these iguanas were real-winged dragons that could have knocked down brick walls and swallowed Saint George, horse, spear and all.

HERE IS SOMETHING for young inventors. Metals and other substances offer resistance, greater or less, to the passage of electricity. It is found that lead, normally a very poor conductor, offers practically no resistance to the current when reduced to a temperature of some 450 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

Scientists, experimenting with lead in liquid helium, supplying the necessary low temperature, found that the electric current continued to flow for a week and more, and declared results suggest "perpetual motion."

WHY THIS HAPPENS is for young inventors to discover. Scientists "guess" that the very low temperature changes the arrangement of electrons within the atoms through or around which the current passes. They do not know what electricity is, or just what it does, traveling 186,000 miles a second, through various elements.

ONE GUESS IS THAT when the atom is down almost to absolute zero, that electrons, traveling around the proton or nucleus, several trillion times a second, change their course from a very irregular line to a straight line, which aids electricity on its journey.

The young gentleman who can reproduce, without excessively low temperatures that could not be maintained, the necessary conditions within the atom could make many hundreds of millions of dollars, if no one stole his idea and he got what it would be worth.

He could transport electric power at low cost without loss of energy great distances, and perhaps deliver to New York the power of a great cataract in Brazil not used now, and said to be the most powerful in the world.

Much of modern invention, unfortunately for the untrained man, calls for thorough education in chemistry, physics and high mathematics, ability to deal with the molecule and atom, invisible to all but the eye of mathematics.

THE GOVERNMENT is asked to supply money to endow or subsidize a national theater. And it is suggested that the federal reserve board advance money to responsible theatrical producers for their new plays.

The suggestion is interesting in a nation supposed to have such a horror of "paternalism," especially with 10,000,000 and more idle.

It is also interesting to note that a nation with a horror of anything like the dole can dole out $30,000,000 of public money to a bank in trouble, without hesitation. The idea is probably, that you cannot pauperize a bank, whereas you might pauperize the unemployed head of a large family.

The theatrical men say, with some reason that part of the $7,000,000 a year taken from theaters in taxation might well be returned to the theaters, as the gasoline tax is used on new roads.

TRUSTEES OF THE Presbyterian college at Clinton, South Carolina, passed a resolution permitting students to dance on the campus.

Now the Presbyterian synod of South Carolina asks that the decision be reversed. It rejects a suggestion that students of the college be forbidden to dance anywhere, but decides that they must not dance on college property.

This sounds strange in jazz regions of the north. Yet, it is no so long since New York state made it an offense against the law to display flowers in your window, or kiss your wife on Sunday.

BLAZE ON CITY TRUCK Fire early yesterday morning did slight damage to a meter truck of the city water and light department. The blaze was extinguished by company No. 4 of the Monroe fire department.

BATTERY TAKEN FROM CAR A battery was stolen from her automobile parked in the garage of her home at 1117 South Second street during Friday night. Mrs. J. L. Bell reported to Monroe police yesterday morning.

RAYMOND ROBINS IS STILL MISSING

Amnesia or Russian Imperialists Might Be Responsible, It Is Hinted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Belief that either amnesia or Russian imperialists were responsible for the mysterious disappearance of Colonel Raymond Robins, dry leader, gained strength today among federal officers here.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the prohibition bureau, which has been charged with finding Robins, said his Florida agents had discovered nothing so far to substantiate the theory that bootleggers in that state had kidnapped or harmed the colonel as reprisal for his campaign against them.

At the same time, other prohibition officials recalled that Robins had been very active recently for recognition of soviet Russia. He had a conference with soviet officials just last week, they said. Unverified reports of threats by Russian imperialists have been encountered by several investigators, officers asserted.

They said, too, that the Hernando county, Florida, bootleggers do not operate on a nation-wide scale.

There were continuing efforts to find clues substantiating the Russian theory but special agents considered seriously that the 59-year-old man might have lost his memory. They checked reports that he had been seen in Chicago on Thursday afternoon but nothing was said publicly as to their conclusions.

Woodcock, who termed the case "mystifying," said that if the amnesia theory were correct "we have every right to expect that we should hear something shortly." Many people, he said, had seen pictures of Robins since he disappeared while on his way to Washington from New York City to keep a White House appointment.

If Robins were slain, Woodcock continued, these same pictures should bring speedy identification.

Federal agents in Chicago advised their superiors here that they had found no trace of Robins after a thorough check of hotels and hospitals. Some said it was not unlikely that friends who said they saw the dry leader in Chicago the day before his disappearance became known were mistaken.

However, Mrs. W. ReQua Bryant and W. W. Haupt insisted to the federal agents that they were "sure" they had seen Robins.

New York City agents, said Woodcock, established that Robins had mailed a letter to Mrs. Robins at the central postoffice at 7 p. m. last Saturday, nearly two hours after he checked out of his club and said he was coming to Washington. From that hour on, though, there has been no clue—except for the reported Chicago identifications.

NEGROES' CARS CRASH A slight automobile accident occurred last night about 9:30 o'clock at the intersection of Jackson and Tellemaque streets when a car owned by Robert Martin, Bosco negro, and driven by Mose Pace, also a negro of Bosco colored with a car driven by Carl Sims of the Winesboro road. No one was hurt in the accident.

Society Calendar

Monday

Meeting of Fort Miro chapter D. A. R. at the chapter house with Mrs. S. E. Slade, Mrs. F. C. Holden, Mrs. E. W. Murray, Mrs. Allan Scholars and Mrs. H. W. Engstrom, ostesses. 2:30 p. m.

The Miro Delphian chapter will meet at the Hotel Monroe at 2:30. Meeting of the Jumbo club, Cameo room Virginia hotel at 7 p. m. Plans for year's study will be discussed.

Tuesday

The Woman's Council of the First Christian church will meet in circles as follows at 3:00 p. m.:

No. 1—Mrs. R. E. Fuqua, 1022 South First.

No. 2—Mrs. S. J. Hoggett, 1709 Jackson.

No. 3—Mrs. B. B. Martin, 1112 South Second.

No. 4—Mrs. Harry Newhall, 1003 North Fifth.

Important meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at 8 p. m.

The Methodist Missionary society will meet in circles in the following homes at 3 p. m.:

Circle No. 1, Mrs. W. M. Washburn, 205 Arkansas; No. 2, Mrs. Paul Johnson, South First; No. 3, Mrs. J. G. Williamson, 1011 North Fifth; No. 4, Mrs. Eugene Courtney, 500 Hall; No. 5, no report; No. 6, at the "Y. W."; No. 7, Mrs. W. A. Walker, 210 Pine; No. 8, Mrs. D. L. Roper, 2802 Lovers Lane; No. 9, Mrs. Juanita Porter, 1402 Jackson; No. 11, Mrs. J. W. Worthington, 408 Bres; No. 12, Mrs. J. W. Myers, 1110 North Sixth street.

Circles of the Baptist Missionary society will meet at 3 p. m. in the following homes:

No. 1, Mrs. R. E. Major, 305 Park avenue; No. 2, Mrs. O. A. Morgan, 317 L street; No. 4, Mrs. W. T. Baker, 402 Bres avenue; No. 5, Mrs. S. J. Meek, 207 Arkansas; No. 6, Mrs. J. B. Burnett, 509 Broad; No. 7, Mrs. S. W. Tucker, 317 Sixth street; No. 8, Mrs. L. T. Hastings, 1410 South Grand; No. 9, Mrs. W. H. Steen, 102 South Fifth; No. 10, Mrs. W. L. Stevens, 1216 St. John; No. 11, Mrs. B. S. McRaney, 2709 Hayes; No. 12, Mrs. W. H. Hicks, 501 Benton; No. 13, Mrs. J. E. Bradley, 2411 Gordon; No. 14, Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, 1611 North Second; No. 15, Mrs. Warren Batten, Layton.

Circles of the Presbyterian auxiliary will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 as follows:

No. 1—Mrs. D. M. Moore, 1209 Park avenue.

No. 2—Mrs. O. S. McDonald, 2703 Lovers lane.

No. 3—Mrs. J. M. Yarbrough, 601 Rochelle avenue.

No. 4—Mrs. Henry Guerrier, 501 M street.

No. 5—Mrs. W. R. Matchell, 1209 N. 2nd street, West Monroe.

No. 6—Mrs. Louis Hullum, Loop road.

No. 7—Mrs. E. R. Strahan, 201 Rochelle avenue.

Wednesday

Meeting of St. Francis Auxiliary at the sanitarium at 3 p. m.

Meeting of St. Francis auxiliary.

BARBECUE PLANNED

A big barbecue is to be given Thursday by the Monroe Retail Credit Men's association at Herbert Fink's place near Edgewater Gardens. Plans are being perfected by a committee composed of Herbert Fink, W. K. Anders and H. B. Ryland.

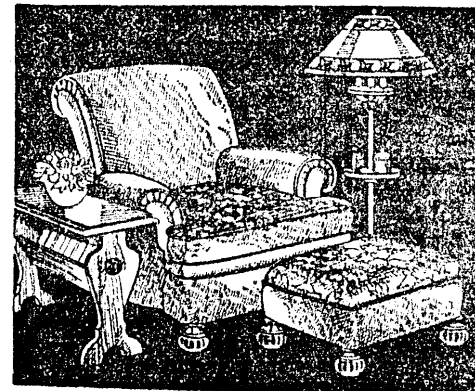

25

WEEK

ALL THIS WEEK AT

HOME FURNITURE CO., INC.

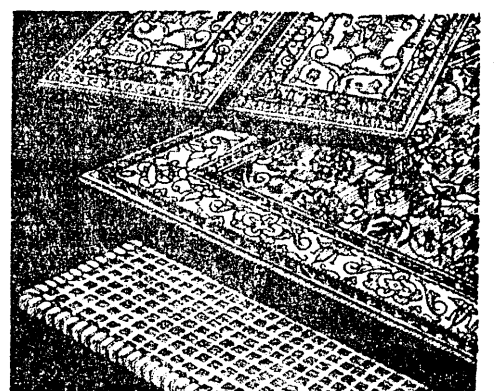

---and Easy Terms on any Purchase

$25

buys this 4-Pc. Lounge Group!

This beautiful group consists of a beautiful English Lounge Chair and Foot Stool, upholstered in high grade Tapestry, attractive mahogany finish End Table and a Smoker Lamp with beautiful metal base and adjustable shade. Here is an investment in comfort and convenience you will never again be able to duplicate.

$25

buys 3 Rugs and Rug Pad!

Think of it! A full room size Wool Fibre Rug (9x12) in your choice of several of the most beautiful Autumn designs—also a full 9x12 size Rug Pad and two small Throw Rugs. All four pieces at this one amazingly low price. Your choice of several beautifully designed bedroom patterns.

$25

gives you choice of Bed, Chest, Vanity or Dresser!

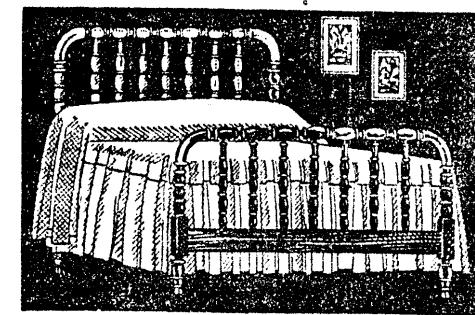

Never before, and perhaps never again will you get an opportunity like this! Imagine being able to get any one of these four major pieces for only $25.00! Walnut finish, very latest style, in combination with other fine woods!

$25

buys Buffet, Table, China or set of 6 Chairs

Make up your own dining room suite of any combination of pieces you wish! $25.00 buys the buffet, the table, the china cabinet, or a set of six chairs! Genuine walnut veneer in combination with other fine woods! A most unusual opportunity!

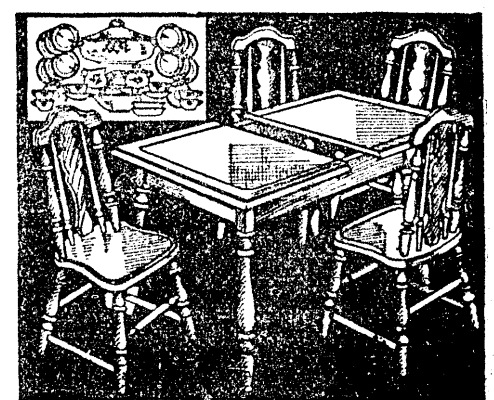

Jenny Lind Bed, Coil Spring and Inner-Spring Mattress

$25

buys this complete 3-Piece Jenny Lind Bed Outfit

Here is another remarkable bargain for $25.00 Week. This beautiful walnut finish Jenny Lind Bed, genuine Inner Spring Mattress and a splendid Coil Spring—All three pieces at one sensationally low price and on convenient credit terms if desired.

$25

buys this Enamel Breakfast Set and 42-Pc. Dinner Set!

Here it is! The greatest breakfast set outfit offer we have ever made! Extension style table, four chairs to match, all in Enamel, handsomely finished, and you get a 42-pc. dinner set besides! Who ever heard of an outfit like this at such an amazingly low price as $25.00? Order yours early!

DeSiard and North Fifth Sts.

HOME FURNITURE COMPANY

Monroe, La.

YOU MUST BE SATISFIED

That Is Why I Guarantee My Work—To Protect You.

You Can Never Go Wrong Here. It's You That Must Be Satisfied.

Nobody wants Cheap Dentistry—Everybody wants GOOD DENTISTRY at low prices. That is exactly what you get at DR. SMITH'S—(25 years of successful practice).

Hecolite Plates . . . $25
Vulcanite Plates as low as . . . $10

(GROUP DENTISTRY) We want the whole FAMILY for our patients. Bring two or three other patients with you and get a substantial reduction on the price of your own work.

PYORRHEA TREATED

Special Attention to Out-of-Town Patients
GRADUATE NURSE IN ATTENDANCE

DR. W. E. SMITH
Over Woolworth's Store Phone 767

Note our low Summer Prices—Just One-Half our regular prices.

Beautiful Bridgework . . . $5
Gold Inlay . . . $3 up
Gold Filling . . . $3 up
22k. Gold Crowns . . . $5
Silver Fillings . . . $1 up
Porcelain Fillings . . . $2 up
Plates Repaired . . . $1 up
Painless Extraction . . . $1

COTTON APPEARS BETTER ADJUSTED

Might, However, Suffer Set-back in Sympathy With Break in Wheat

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Unless cotton gets a further setback in sympathy with the break in wheat which followed news that the Canadian crop would be 60,000,000 bushels larger than estimated a month ago it would seem the market had pretty well adjusted itself to a yield of 11,306,000 bales.

At 8.05 cents the October contract is 110 points under the season's top of 9.15 on August 29 and at 7.85 cents the average price of middling 7-8 inch is 56 points under 8.41 paid a week ago.

There are some in the trade who do not believe the decline of $5 a bale from the high time has corrected what they considered over-enthusiasm when private estimates fell a slow as 10,750,000 bales and they say it will take the market some time to settle down with liquidation by disappointed longs and increased hedge selling against the new crop offsetting any increase in the volume of trade buying on the scaledown.

But, if only few long contracts come out on the bulges and drygoods men stick to their prices speculative interests will accumulate contracts every time the price is under pressure.

The government's September estimate was only 4000 bales higher than the August and since the figures were compiled rather unfavorable weather has prevailed in the major sections of the belt. The trade quotes a prominent authority as saying the quality of the cotton in the eastern belt is 5 per cent below normal with a large quantity threatening to be untenderable. Texas and Oklahoma were credited with improvement as a result of August rains but some observers attach only a 50-50 value to that.

They say the real reason the market broke 100 points was because operators generally had expected an estimate of less than 11,000,000 bales whereas a month ago they were keyed up for more than 12,000,000 and had discounted the anticipated drop by boosting prices just before the government's surprise figure was issued.

It is expected the September estimate will be accepted as an approximate picture of the final yield although it made little reference to probable weevil damage, the smallness of bolls and the fact that few except a top crop in any section. The increase was based on reports of acreage abandonment of only 1.8 per cent instead of the 10-year average of 3.1 per cent which was used in August.

Although the estimate, followed by a sharp drop in raw cotton prices, put an abrupt halt to trading in gray goods there was no indication that commission merchants would reduce prices. Some agents were reported to have their mills sold right through October and others to the end of the year. The August figures on cotton goods distribution are expected to show the largest unfilled orders on record and also record sales with a sharp decrease in stocks.

There was said to be far more optimism than a year ago in the domestic textile market and with European shelves reported bare of supplies it was said the mills on that big consumer continent will be compelled to buy before long. It was reported at Atlanta that the decline did not "bring one bale out of the interior" and the government market review said holders of spot cotton, both new and old, were indifferent sellers.

The carryover of American cotton is 1,000,000 bales more than the world consumed last season but some do not consider the addition of 11,000,000 bales from the new crop to the 13,000,000 on hand an insuperable barrier to reasonably fair rises if business improves. With a crop disaster now out of the picture as a price factor any substantial price advance depends on trade recovery.

TODAY

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd.)

(Continued from First Page)

helped select his library. He says, "I was no prodigy," but he is mistaken about that. He had read those 14 books at 12 years of age.

THE OLDEST TITLE of nobility in Europe, according to Voltaire, belonged to descendants of thieves that escaped justice by fleeing to the swamps on which Venice now stands. That or any human name or title would be modern compared to the family trees of 23 of our animal brothers, now studied by scientists of New York's natural history museum. These iguanas, giant lizards, go back 200,000,000 years in a straight line. Compare "Mayflower aristocracy" with that.

THE IGUANAS ARE kept under ultra-violet ray lamps, in quarters at high temperature, imitating their desert conditions.

Scientists, wishing to raise young iguanas for study, seek to promote courtship among the lizards, and for that you must keep them warm.

Dr. Noble, in charge of experiments, says the big lizard's only sign of affection is a shaking or nodding of the head, and he does not yet know whether the females exercise any discrimination, or whether all iguanas look alike to each other.

THESE HUGE CREATURES, that live 50 years, grow as long as 50 feet, and are useful as destroyers of vermin, may have supplied the foundation for legends about dragons, Perseus and Andromeda, and the respectable British Saint George.

Ancestors of these iguanas were real-winged dragons that could have knocked down brick walls and swallowed Saint George, horse, spear and all.

HERE IS SOMETHING for young inventors.

Metals and other substances offer resistance, greater or less, to the passage of electricity. It is found that lead, normally a very poor conductor, offers practically no resistance to the current when reduced to a temperature of some 450 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

Scientists, experimenting with lead in liquid helium, supplying the necessary low temperature, found that the electric current continued to flow for a week and more, and declared results suggest "perpetual motion."

WHY THIS HAPPENS is for young inventors to discover. Scientists "guess" that the very low temperature changes the arrangement of electrons within the atoms through or around which the current passes. They do not know what electricity is, or just what it does, traveling 186,000 miles a second, through various elements.

ONE GUESS IS THAT when the atom is down almost to absolute zero, that electrons, traveling around the proton or nucleus, several trillion times a second, change their course from a very irregular line to a straight line, which aids electricity on its journey.

The young gentleman who can reproduce, without excessively low temperatures that could not be maintained, the necessary conditions within the atom could make many hundred millions of dollars, if no one stole his idea and he got what it would be worth.

He could transport electric power at low cost without loss of energy great distances, and perhaps deliver to New York the power of a great cataract in Brazil not used now, and said to be the most powerful in the world.

Much of modern invention, unfortunately for the untrained man, calls for thorough education in chemistry, physics and high mathematics, ability to deal with the molecule and atom, invisible to all but the eye of mathematics.

THE GOVERNMENT is asked to supply money to endow or subsidize a national theater. And it is suggested that the federal reserve board advance money to responsible theatrical producers for their new plays.

The suggestion is interesting in a nation supposed to have such a horror of "paternalism," especially with 10,000,000 and more idle.

It is also interesting to note that a nation with a horror of anything like the dole can dole out $80,000,000 of public money to a bank in trouble, without hesitation. The idea is probably, that you cannot pauperize a bank, whereas you might pauperize the unemployed head of a large family.

The theatrical men say, with some reason that part of the $7,000,000 a year taken from theaters in taxation might well be returned to the theaters, as the gasoline tax is used on new roads.

TRUSTEES OF THE Presbyterian college at Clinton, South Carolina, passed a resolution permitting students to dance on the campus.

Now the Presbyterian synod of South Carolina asks that the decision be reversed. It rejects a suggestion that students of the college be forbidden to dance anywhere, but decides that they must not dance on college property.

This sounds strange in jazz regions of the north. Yet, it is no so long since New York state made it an offense against the law to display flowers in your window, or kiss your wife on Sunday.

BLAZE ON CITY TRUCK

Fire early yesterday morning did slight damage to a meter truck of the city water and light department. The blaze was extinguished by company No. 4 of the Monroe fire department.

BATTERY TAKEN FROM CAR

A battery was stolen from her automobile parked in the garage of her home at 1117 South Second street during Friday night. Mrs. J. L. Bell reported to Monroe police yesterday morning.

RAYMOND ROBINS IS STILL MISSING

Amnesia or Russian Imperialists Might Be Responsible, It Is Hinted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Belief that either amnesia or Russian imperialists were responsible for the mysterious disappearance of Colonel Raymond Robins, dry leader, gained strength today among federal officers here.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the prohibition bureau, which has been charged with finding Robins, said his Florida agents had discovered nothing so far to substantiate the theory that bootleggers in that state had kidnapped or harmed the colonel as reprisal for his campaign against them.

At the same time, other prohibition officials recalled that Robins had been very active recently for recognition of soviet Russia. He had a conference with soviet officials just last week, they said. Unverified reports of threats by Russian imperialists have been encountered by several investigators, officers asserted.

They said, too, that the Hernando county, Florida, bootleggers do not operate on a nation-wide scale.

There were continuing efforts to find clues substantiating the Russian theory but special agents considered seriously that the 59-year-old man might have lost his memory. They checked reports that he had been seen in Chicago on Thursday afternoon but nothing was said publicly as to their conclusions.

Woodcock, who termed the case "mystifying," said that if the amnesia theory were correct "we have every right to expect that we should hear something shortly." Many people, he said, had seen pictures of Robins since he disappeared while on his way to Washington from New York City to keep a White House appointment.

If Robins were slain, Woodcock continued, these same pictures should bring speedy identification.

Federal agents in Chicago advised their superiors here that they had found no trace of Robins after a thorough check of hotels and hospitals. Some said it was not unlikely that friends who said they saw the dry leader in Chicago the day before his disappearance became known were mistaken.

However, Mrs. W. ReQua Bryant and W. W. Haupt insisted to the federal agents that they were "sure" they had seen Robins.

New York City agents, said Woodcock, established that Robins had mailed a letter to Mrs. Robins at the central postoffice at 7 p. m. last Saturday, nearly two hours after he checked out of his club and said he was coming to Washington. From that hour on, though, there has been no clue—except for the reported Chicago identifications.

NEGROES' CARS CRASH

A slight automobile accident occurred last night about 9:30 o'clock at the intersection of Jackson and Tella-maque streets when a car owned by Robert Martin, Bosco negro, and driven by Mose Pace, also a negro of Bosco, collided with a car driven by Carl Sims of the Winnboro road. No one was hurt in the accident.

Society Calendar

Monday

Meeting of Fort Miro chapter D. A. R. at the chapter house with Mrs. S. E. Slade, Mrs. F. C. Holden, Mrs. E. W. Murray, Mrs. Allan Sholars and Mrs. H. W. Engstrom, hostesses. 2:30 p. m.

The Miro Delphian chapter will meet at the Hotel Monroe at 2:30.

Meeting of the Juntio club, Cameo room Virginia hotel at 7 p. m. Plans for year's study will be discussed.

Tuesday

The Woman's Council of the First Christian church will meet in circles as follows at 3:00 p. m.:

No. 1—Mrs. R. E. Fuqua, 1022 South First.

No. 2—Mrs. S. J. Hoggett, 1709 Jackson.

No. 3—Mrs. B. B. Martin, 1112 South Second.

No. 4—Mrs. Harry Newhall, 1003 North Fifth.

Important meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at 8 p. m.

The Methodist Missionary society will meet in circles in the following homes at 3 p. m.:

Circle No. 1, Mrs. W. M. Washburn, 205 Arkansas; No. 2, Mrs. Paul Johnston, South First; No. 3, Mrs. J. G. Williamson, 1011 North Fifth; No. 4, Mrs. Eugene Courtney, 500 Hall; No. 5, no report; No. 6, at the "Y. W.," No. 7, Mrs. W. A. Walker, 210 Pine; No. 8, Mrs. D. L. Roper, 2802 Lovers Lane; No. 9, Mrs. Juanita Porter, 1402 Jackson; No. 11, Mrs. J. W. Worthington, 408 Bres; No. 12, Mrs. J. W. Myers, 1116 North Sixth street.

Circles of the Baptist Missionary society will meet at 3 p. m. in the following homes:

No. 1, Mrs. R. E. Major, 305 Park avenue; No. 2, Mrs. O. A. Morgan, 317 L street; No. 4, Mrs. W. T. Baker, 402 Bres avenue; No. 5, Mrs. S. J. Meek, 207 Arkansas; No. 6, Mrs. J. B. Burnett, 509 Breard; No. 7, Mrs. S. W. Tucker, 317 Sixth street; No. 8, Mrs. L. T. Hastings, 1410 South Grand; No. 9, Mrs. W. H. Steen, 102 South Fifth; No. 10, Mrs. W. L. Stevens, 1216 St. John; No. 11, Mrs. B. S. McRaney, 2700 Hawes; No. 12, Mrs. W. H. Ricks, 501 Benton; No. 13, Mrs. J. B. Bradley, 2411 Gordon; No. 14, Mrs. J. H. Thatcher, 1611 North Second; No. 15, Mrs. Warren Batten, Layton.

Circles of the Presbyterian auxiliary will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 as follows:

No. 1—Mrs. D. M. Moore, 1209 Park avenue.

No. 2—Mrs. O. S. McDonald, 2703 Lovers lane.

No. 3—Mrs. J. M. Yarbrough, 601 Rochelle avenue.

No. 4—Mrs. Henry Guerrero, 501 M street.

No. 5—Mrs. W. R. Matchell, 1209 N. 2nd street, West Monroe.

No. 6—Mrs. Louis Hullum, Loop road.

No. 7—Mrs. E. R. Strahan, 201 Rochelle avenue.

Wednesday

Meeting of St. Francis Auxiliary at the sanitarium at 3 p. m.

Meeting of St. Francis auxiliary.

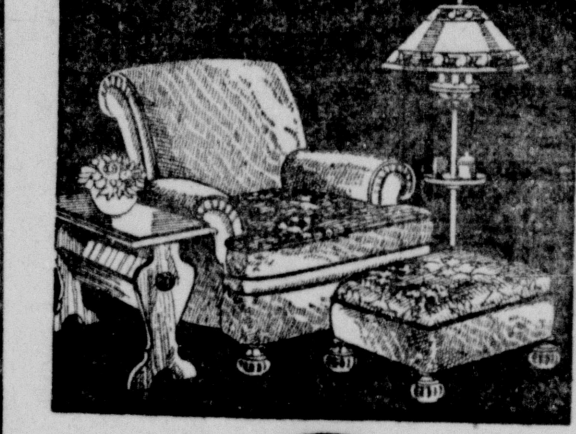

BARBECUE PLANNED

A big barbecue is to be given Thursday by the Monroe Retail Credit Men's association at Herbert Fink's place near Edgewater Gardens. Plans are being perfected by a committee composed of Herbert Fink, W. K. Anders and H. B. Ryland.

WEEK ALL THIS WEEK AT HOME FURNITURE CO., INC.

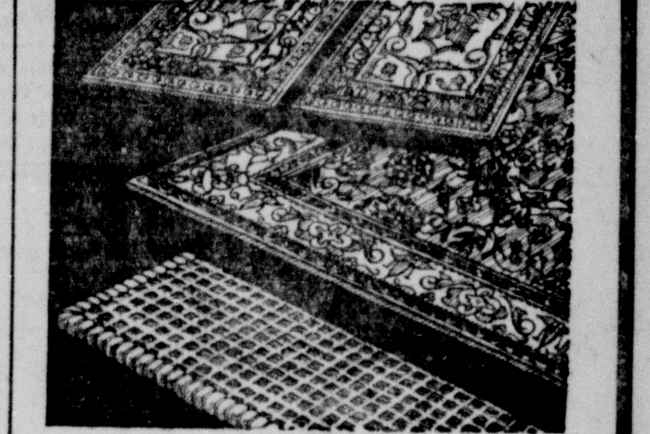

--and Easy Terms on any Purchase

$25

buys this 4-Pc. Lounge Group!

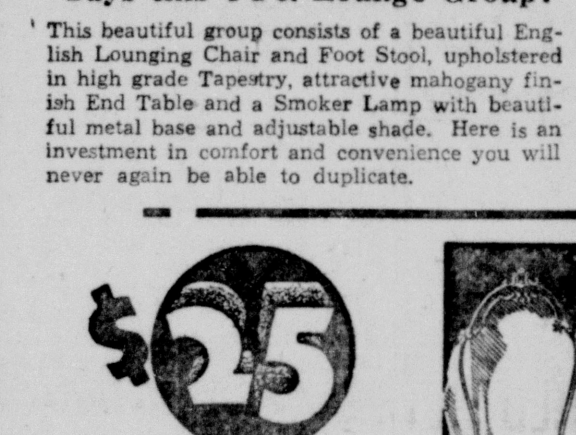

This beautiful group consists of a beautiful English Lounging Chair and Foot Stool, upholstered in high grade Tapestry, attractive mahogany finish End Table and a Smoker Lamp with beautiful metal base and adjustable shade. Here is an investment in comfort and convenience you will never again be able to duplicate.

$25

buys 3 Rugs and Rug Pad!

Think of it! A full room size Wool Fibre Rug (9x12) in your choice of several of the most beautiful Autumn designs—also a full 9x12 size Rug Pad and two small Throw Rugs. All four pieces at this one amazingly low price. Your choice of several beautifully designed bedroom patterns.

$25

gives you choice of Bed, Chest, Vanity or Dresser!

Never before, and perhaps never again will you get an opportunity like this! Imagine being able to get any one of these four major pieces for only $25.00! Walnut finish, very latest style, in combination with other fine woods!

$25

buys Buffet, Table, China or set of 6 Chairs

Make up your own dining room suite of any combination of pieces you wish! $25.00 buys the buffet, the table, the china cabinet, or a set of six chairs! Genuine walnut veneer in combination with other fine woods! A most unusual opportunity!

$25

Jenny Lind Bed, Coil Spring and Inner-Spring Mattress

$25

buys this Enamel Breakfast Set and 42-Pc. Dinner Set!

$25

buys this complete 3-Piece Jenny Lind Bed Outfit

$25

Here is another remarkable bargain for $25.00. This beautiful walnut finish Jenny Lind Bed, genuine Inner Spring Mattress and a splendid Coil Spring—All three pieces at one sensationally low price and on convenient credit terms if desired.

$25

Here it is! The greatest breakfast set outfit offer we have ever made! Extension style table, four chairs to match, all in Enamel, handsomely finished, and you get a 42-pc. dinner set besides! Who ever heard of an outfit like this at such an amazingly low price as $25.00? Order yours early!

$25

HOME FURNITURE COMPANY
DeSiard and North Fifth Sts. Monroe, La.

HEAR

Riley
J.
Wilson

Candidate for Re-election to Congress

MONDAY
12:50 to 1:20
P. M.

KMLB

Will show a Record of Independent Service to the People.

YOU MUST BE SATISFIED

That is Why I Guarantee My Work—To Protect You.

You Can Never Go Wrong Here. It's You That Must Be Satisfied.

Nobody wants Cheap Dentistry—Everybody wants GOOD DENTISTRY at low prices. That is exactly what you get at DR. SMITH'S—(25 years of successful practice).

Hecolite Plates ..$25
Vulcanite Plates as low as$10

(GROUP DENTISTRY) We want the whole FAMILY for our patients. Bring two or three other patients with you and get a substantial reduction on the price of your own work.

PHYORRHEA TREATED

Special Attention to Out-of-Town Patients
GRADUATE NURSE IN ATTENDANCE

DR. W. E. SMITH
Over Woolworth's Store Phone 767

Our PLATES Assure COMFORT

Note our low Summer Prices—Just One-Half our regular prices.

Beautiful Bridgework$5
Gold Inlay$3 up
Gold Filling$3 up
22k. Gold Crowns$5
Silver Fillings$1 up
Porcelain Fillings$2 up
Plates Repaired$1 up
Painless Extraction$1

Are You Penny Wise?

Repairmen can tell you what cheap oils and cheap, inferior gasoline does to your automobile motor. Many overhaul jobs are occasioned by no other cause.

These stations handle nothing but high grade, legitimate products made by responsible, nationally known refineries from high grade crude oils. Let them help you avoid repair bills by furnishing the grade of gasoline and oil your motor needs.

Phone 2359 Benoit-Nash Motor Co. 200 Hall Goodyear Tires

Phone 481 Central Service & Storage, Inc. Grammont and Jackson General Tires

Phone 55 Circle "S" Oil Co., Inc. 401 DeSiard Firestone Tires

Phone 360 Knowles Motor Co. Distributors Quaker State Oils and Greases, Fisk Tires and Tubes 309-11 Trenton West Monroe

Phone 707 Seven-O-Seven Tire Co. 501 Harrison Seiberling Tires

Phone 3008 Seven-O-Seven Tire Co., No. 2 2318 DeSiard Seiberling Tires

EDITED BY GEORGE V. LOFTON

SPORTS of the WORLD

FIRST NEWS
EXPERT VIEWS
ON ALL THE SPORTS

Vines Retains National Tennis Crown by Defeating Cochet In Straight Sets at Forest Hills

Frenchman Literally Crushed by Brilliant Play of Pasadena Youth

WILMER ALLISON BEATEN

Losing Finalist Was Tired
After Continuing Play
With Texas Star

WINNER WORLD CHAMPION

By Galye Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, Jr., today won the national and unofficial world's tennis championships with an amazing victory over Henri Cochet of France, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

With 14,500 wildly cheering fans looking on, the 20-year-old wonder from Pasadena met his foremost rival for world honors, and literally crushed him under an avalanche of cannonball serves and fiery placements.

For an hour and five minutes Vines ran the little Frenchman ragged, pounded him from the baseline, closed in to harass him with searing volleys, and withal, gave him one of the worst beatings Cochet has received since he became a world tennis figure a decade ago. The "ballboy from Lyons" virtually was outclassed.

Only one factor rose to mar Vines' triumph. Cochet, in order to reach the finals, had been forced a few hours earlier to play and win a hard set from Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas. Their semi-final match had been interrupted the previous night by darkness after each had won two sets, and Cochet had to play "full out" to take the final set today, 7-5. But if the famous Frenchman had been given a week's rest, it is doubtful if he could have fought back the fireball he encountered in the final. Vines, known to have resented disparaging statements that followed his triumph over Cochet in the Davis cup challenge round to Paris in July, when he rallied to win after dropping two sets, obviously was out to smash his rival in such a manner there could be no doubt of his superiority.

Where the previous day, in stumbling through a semi-final victory over Clifford Suter, Vines had played ragged tennis, he came back to play probably the greatest three sets of his career today. From the start his service raced into the baffled Cochet, either aching the French star or forcing him to fly to the outfield. For three sets he sent his fore and backhand drives sailing down the sidelines with almost unerring accuracy, running Cochet back and forth. When he needed a point badly, he charged into the net behind one of his deep drives and smashed Cochet's weak returns.

A summary of the three sets disclosed that Vines scored six service aces to none for Cochet, closing both the second and third sets with them. He piled up 31 placements to 10 for the Frenchman, who made only four in the first and second sets. In an earlier match against Johnny Van Ryn, Cochet had shot 27 placements in a single set.

Otherwise the former world tennis master held his own. He made only 22 out to 26 for Vines; 35 nets to 44 for Vines, and committed two double faults against the American's four.

COCHET VOWS NEVER TO PLAY AGAIN IN U. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Vowing he never again would play in an American championship, Henri Cochet of France, beaten for the national tennis singles title by Ellsworth Vines this afternoon, sailed for France tonight on the Champlain.

Cochet was openly critical of the manner in which the tournament was handled on its last two days.

"Early in the tournament," he said, "they had a great many matches, 74 on the first day, 32 the second and so on until yesterday, when they played only two matches. Yet they could not find a court for me to play on in the semi-finals and put me on at 5:45 p.m., instead of 4 o'clock as had been arranged."

The result was that Cochet's match with Wilmer Allison was halted by darkness after four sets, and the final set had to be played this morning.

"It is too difficult to play in the semi-finals in the morning and in the final on the same afternoon," the French star said. "I had to get up at 7:30 o'clock this morning and practice with my partner, and that put an additional strain on me. It is the last time I am coming to play for the championship in America."

FERRIDAY TEAM WILL SCRIMPAGE THIS WEEK

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 8 (Special)—Scrimmaging and signal work will be in order at the Ferriday high school training camp on Monday as the Bulldogs, 35 strong, under the direction of Coach Hugh A. Bateman, youthful athletic director of the local school, begin their second week of work in preparation for a hard schedule of games.

The first week's work was rather light. Only light exercises and drills were indulged in by the squad, including the 12 lettermen on hand, but with cooler weather and more experience, things will take on a different aspect the coming week, Coach Bateman said.

NEW OUTFIELDER

His name is Debs Garms and he's playing regularly in the outfield of the St. Louis Browns. Garms, shown above, is a 26-year-old Texan, a former football, baseball and track star at Howard-Payne college. He jumped from the college campus to minor league baseball in 1928 and has played for Abilene, Spangsbury, Topeka, Wichita Falls and Longview in the southwest. Garms is a brother-in-law of Bryan (Slim) Harris, the tall boy who used to pitch in the American league and is still going strong in the association.

DARKNESS HALTS NEGRO WORLD TILT

Score Tied at End of Sixth Game Between Monarchs and Crawfords

The Monroe Monarchs made a desperate effort to even the negro world series with the Pittsburgh Crawfords yesterday afternoon at Casino park, but the best the local team could do was to earn a tie, 6 to 6, by scoring four runs in the ninth and last inning. Darkness called a halt to the game.

This afternoon, when the series is resumed, the Monarchs will start either Williams or Morris on the mound in an effort to even the series. The Crawfords will probably start either Streeter or Radcliff.

The Pittsburgh team holds a one-game advantage in the series, having won two games and lost one.

Continuing the series, the teams will play each afternoon until one club has won four games.

Gates of Casino park will be opened at 12 o'clock noon preceding each game.

Box score: PITTSBURGH AB R H PO A E. T. Page, rf., 5 0 1 0 0 0. Crutcher, cf., 5 1 2 1 0 0. Johnson, 2b., 4 1 2 1 0 0. Wilson, lf., 4 1 2 1 0 0. Gibson, c., 4 1 2 1 0 0. Charleston, 1b., 4 0 0 2 15 0. Russell, 2b., 4 0 0 2 15 0. Stevens, 3b., 3 1 0 5 3 0. Murray, p., 3 1 1 2 0 0. Radcliff, p., 0 0 0 0 0 0. Paige, 0 0 0 0 0 0.

Totals: 35 6 10 27 15 1.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

TECH HAS PLENTY EXTRA MATERIAL

Bulldog Squad Expected to Show Speed in Contests
This Season

RUSTON, Sept. 10 (Special)—The largest football group at Louisiana Tech since G. M. Bohler took charge of athletics three years ago rounded out their first week of the 1932 practice period Saturday with two facts well established in regards to their training accomplishment. In the first place, the Bulldogs will have more reserves this fall for almost every position. The Techmen are also due to display worlds of speed from the backfield.

The backfield to replace the Gilbert, Baker, Mangham and Swayze of '31 is due to be light and fast with a couple of quarters in prospect. Linemen will not be as plentiful as ball toters, but Bohler will have ample material for the forward wall.

Since the first day every available candidate has reported for the team, and the roll is considered complete. Second day of training found Sanders Adams, Bogalusa; Ernest Brown, Doyaline; J. H. Cockerham, Coushatta; Will Radesch, Winnfield; C. E. Horton, Coushatta; J. B. Colvin, Bernice and A. E. Wilder, Ruston, joining the squad.

Signal drills with three elevens on the field, have the principle work for the Bulldogs during the week's toil, but calisthenics, blocking and charging and other fundamentals have found a place on the program. It is believed that the elevens will start scrimmaging next week, but Coach Bohler may wait until the freshman team is organized before sending the upperclass team into action.

With Captain J. B. Durham and Johnny Moffett, lettermen in '29 and '30, in the role of quarterbacks, the Canins have the principle work for the Bulldogs during the week's toil, but calisthenics, blocking and charging and other fundamentals have found a place on the program. It is believed that the elevens will start scrimmaging next week, but Coach Bohler may wait until the freshman team is organized before sending the upperclass team into action.

C. E. Horton, Oren McCleary and Frank Tindal have had experience in the varsity backfield and will be among the leading contenders for a regular berth this season.

A wealth of material will be up

(Continued on Tenth Page.)

BLAIR LED HITS IN LOOP SERIES

First in Batting Averages of Playoff Contests in Big Six League

WINNABO, Sept. 10 (Special)—Figures just released by the statisticians for the Winnabow baseball club shows that in the seven games of the playoff series Nathan Blair led the members of the two teams in batting with an average of .407. Jones, Cotton Picker outfielder, ranked second. Averages of the two teams in the playoff follow:

Box score: WINNABO AB R H PO A E. Fleming, 2b., 22 3 10 161. Hackney, 2b., 20 5 172. Corcoran, 2b., 21 11 387. Case, 2b., 27 7 267. Radcliff, 2b., 27 11 407. C. Jones, 2b., 11 2 181. Orlin, 2b., 4 0 000. Dunaway, 2b., 13 0 000. LeBlanc, 2b., 13 0 384. Ullmer, 2b., 8 2 230.

Totals: 256 61 233.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

2x Batted for Alexander in ninth.

3x Batted for Williams in ninth.

Score by innings: 000 002 002-6.

Summary: Two-base hits—Monroe, Russell, Johnson, Gibson, Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Three-base hits—Charleston, Murray, Stevens, Paige. Left on base—Pittsburgh 9, Monroe 9. Innings pitched—By Smith 5.23 with 4 runs and 6 hits, by Harvey 2.00 with 0 runs and 0 hits. Earned runs—Pittsburgh 6, Monroe 6. Balk—Kincaid, bases on balls—Off Kincaid 3, off Radcliff 2, off Murray 2. Struck out—By Smith 2, by S. Paige 1. Umpires—Comer and Jones.

Standings

Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.
Chicago	82	56	.594
Pittsburgh	77	62	.554
Brooklyn	73	67	.521
Philadelphia	71	69	.507
Boston	69	72	.489
St. Louis	64	74	.464
New York	63	74	.460
Cincinnati	58	83	.411

Yesterday's Results
Pittsburgh 5-3; Philadelphia 2-4.
Cincinnati 5; Boston 2.
Chicago 9; Brooklyn 2.
St. Louis 7; New York 11.

Today's Games
St. Louis at New York.
Chicago at Brooklyn.
Cincinnati at Boston.
Only games scheduled.

Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York	93	42	.700
Philadelphia	85	55	.607
Washington	82	55	.599
Cleveland	78	59	.569
Detroit	68	68	.500
St. Louis	57	80	.416
Chicago	43	92	.319
Boston	39	99	.283

Yesterday's Results
Boston, 6; Chicago, 3.
Philadelphia, 4; Cleveland, 3.
Washington, 10; St. Louis, 4.
New York, 11-4; St. Louis, 10-1.

Today's Games
Boston at St. Louis.
Washington at Chicago.
New York at Cleveland.
Philadelphia at Detroit.

Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.
Chattanooga	97	51	.655
Memphis	100	53	.654
Little Rock	76	74	.507
Nashville	74	78	.486
Birmingham	67	82	.450
New Orleans	69	83	.442
Atlanta	60	92	.391
Knoxville	60	92	.391

Yesterday's Results
Nashville, 7-1; Atlanta, 8-2.
Birmingham, 1-2; Little Rock, 5-6.
Chattanooga, 13; Knoxville, 5.
New Orleans, 2; Memphis, 8.

Today's Games
Birmingham at Little Rock.
New Orleans at Memphis.
Chattanooga at Knoxville.
Atlanta at Nashville.

Teams	Won	Lost	Pct.
Dallas	50	22	.694
Beaumont	51	24	.680
Houston	40	35	.533
Longview	30	44	.405
Galveston	30	44	.405
San Antonio	24	46	.343

Yesterday's Results.
San Antonio 4-1; Beaumont 1-7.
Houston 6-3; Galveston 3-4.
Longview 3; Dallas 4.
Tyler-Fort Worth results not received.

Today's Games.
Longview at Dallas.
Tyler at Fort Worth.
Houston at Galveston.
Beaumont at San Antonio.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE.
Baltimore 9-10; Jersey City 7-9.
Newark 6-13; Albany 6-1.
Rochester 0; Buffalo 4.
Montreal 6-12; Toronto 5-0.

RUTH'S IMPROVEMENT MEETS SLIGHT CHECK

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Babe Ruth did not feel as well today as yesterday, but there was nothing in the daily report from his Riverside drive apartment to cause undue concern over the condition of the famous slugger's inflamed appendix.

During the night a fever came back to add to the Babe's discomfort, but by mid-day his temperature had dropped from 101.2 to 100.2. The pain in his side continued, however, according to Mrs. Ruth.

Although the Babe did not make as much improvement in the last 24 hours as he did in the previous 24, there is no immediate danger of an operation. His stomach is still packed in ice, according to Mrs. Ruth. He is still restless, Mrs. Ruth said, and considerably irked by the doctors' orders, which keep him in bed.

Miss Rawls' time was 12 minutes, 35.3 seconds, for the 880-yard event, but less than a minute slower than Helen Madison's 1930 world mark of 11:41.1-5.

It was the first time in the history of women's national A. U. competition a single competitor has been able to win four championships in one set.

The Florida girl retained her own titles in the 300-meter medley and the 220-yard breast stroke, and won two new ones, the 100-foot springboard diving and the 880-yard free style.

But Danny always has been an athlete. He pitched for Somerville high school and Hebron academy, in Maine, where he went to prepare for Dartmouth. In his off-season, he goes in strongly for winter sports, skating and the like, and coaches the Hebron hockey team.

It was in MacFayden's blood to become a lifesaver. His father, who died when Danny was five, patrolled the sand-swept beaches with the Race Point lifesaving crew.

Danny got hooked up with the Red Sox quite by accident. He was a pretty fair curve ball pitcher in the Somerville twilight league. Red Sox scouts, combing the country in search of talent to help lift the Sox, finally looked close to home as a last resort. They found Danny and signed him immediately. The poor fellow wasn't even permitted the pleasure of pitching for a minor league team.

His full name is Daniel Knowles MacFayden-Scotch. His grandfather came direct from the Highlands to settle on Cape Cod.

But Danny always has been an athlete. He pitched for Somerville high school and Hebron academy, in Maine, where he went to prepare for Dartmouth. In his off-season, he goes in strongly for winter sports, skating and the like, and coaches the Hebron hockey team.

It was in MacFayden's blood to become a lifesaver. His father, who died when Danny was five, patrolled the sand-swept beaches with the Race Point lifesaving crew.

Danny got hooked up with the Red Sox quite by accident. He was a pretty fair curve ball pitcher in the Somerville twilight league. Red Sox scouts, combing the country in search of talent to help lift the Sox, finally looked close to home as a last resort. They found Danny and signed him immediately. The poor fellow wasn't even permitted the pleasure of pitching for a minor league team.

His full name is Daniel Knowles MacFayden-Scotch. His grandfather came direct from the Highlands to settle on Cape Cod.

But Danny always has been an athlete. He pitched for Somerville high school and Hebron academy, in Maine, where he went to prepare for Dartmouth. In his off-season, he goes in strongly for winter sports, skating and the like, and coaches the Hebron hockey team.

It was in MacFayden's blood to become a lifesaver. His father, who died when Danny was five, patrolled the sand-swept beaches with the Race Point lifesaving crew.

Danny got hooked up with the Red Sox quite by accident. He was a pretty fair curve ball pitcher in the Somerville twilight league. Red Sox scouts, combing the country in search of talent to help lift the Sox, finally looked close to home as a last resort. They found Danny and signed him immediately. The poor fellow wasn't even permitted the pleasure of pitching for a minor league team.

YANKS WIN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE

Last Minute Rallies Defeat
Detroit Tigers in Last
Tilts of Series

DETROIT, Sept. 10 (AP)—The New York Yankees came through with two last minute rallies today and defeated the Tigers in both games of their closing double header. A three-run outburst in the ninth inning gave them the opening slugfest, 11 to 10, and three runs in the tenth brought them the second triumph, 4 to 1.

The double victory left the Yankees in need of only two more victories to clinch the pennant.

The opening game was a weird affair, marked by tremendous rallies. Gomez was credited with his 24th victory of the season against six defeats.

Walter Brown, the Yanks' 240-pound relief hurler, made his first appearance as a starting pitcher in the second game and held the Tigers to five hits in a duel with Tommy Bridges. The game was the playoff of the contest which Detroit protested August 1.

Box scores:

NEW YORK	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Phyllis, 3b.	5	0	1	2	1	0
Fewell, 3b.	5	0	1	2	1	0
Combs, lf.	5	1	1	0	0	0
Gehrig, 1b.	4	1	2	6	2	0
Lazzeri, 2b.	2	1	0	4	0	0
Farrell, 2b.	0	0	0	1	2	0
McRuffing, 2b.	0	0	0	0	1	0
Lucy, ss.	5	0	2	1	1	0
Dieck, c.	5	1	2	9	1	0
McKissack, c.	0	1	0	0	0	0
Moore, p.	0	0	0	0	0	0
Gumpman, cf.	4	1	1	4	0	0
Crossett, ss-2b.	4	1	1	4	0	0
Gomez, p.	4	1	1	0	0	0
Jorgens, c.	1	0	0	1	1	0

Totals: 39 11 13 27 11 1.

2x Batted for Farrell in 8th.

3x Batted for Dieck in 8th.

Candidates for Junior College Gridiron Team Make Camp Today And Begin Training for Season

Athletes Gather at School, Where Week's Grind Will Start Tomorrow

COATES ASSISTS KEMERER

Seventeen Veterans and New

All-State Material to Be Available

BUSINESS STAFF NAMED

Candidates for Ouachita Parish Junior college's second gridiron team will assemble at the college this afternoon and make camp for a week's training grind. Approximately 40 athletes are expected to register at the camp, including 17 veterans of last year's squad.

The camp program this afternoon will consist of establishing living quarters in the college gymnasium. Each candidate is to bring his own bedding, clothing, extra equipment and toilet articles. Cots will be provided by the athletic department. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. The camp meals will be prepared and served in the college cafeteria under direction of Mrs. Harold Mouk, dietitian.

The first workout will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock and the second at 3 p. m. on the same day. Practice sessions will be held daily at the same hour, until Saturday, when a regulation game will be played in the college stadium in the afternoon. An invitation to attend the game, and the workouts earlier in the week, is extended to the public.

Coach Paul Kemerer will be assisted in the task of molding another winning Indian combination by Vernon "Skeet" Coates, former Louisiana Tech star in football, track and basketball. Coates will also assist in other branches of athletics following the close of the gridiron season. He will be a special student at the college.

Veterans of last year's squad who are returning are: Backfield—Paul "Buddy" Moore, McLeod, O. H. Bynum, John Cerniglia, Syl Cerniglia, Amos Smelser, Gurvie Coates, ends—Paul Martin, Pete Ingram, Alvin Turner, Otto Scoggin, guards—Bill Frisbie, Charles Stewart, Billy Carlton, Charles Jacobs, tackles—Ray Green, Wade Chambers.

Ouachita Parish high school will contribute five of its last year's graduates to the Indian squad. This material is composed of Bill Bickham and Rush Poulton, tackles, Mickey Whit, guard, John Parsons, end, and Tenille McEnery, full carrier.

Neville high will contribute four of its last year's players, Roland Adcock and Sam Jones, backfield players, Jack Adcock, center, and Woodrow Hawthorne, all-state end.

Among candidates from other cities are: Maurice Miller, all-state end from Haynesville; "Squatty" Young, all-state fullback from Bastrop; Joe Pankey, all-state guard from Ruston; Fred Beckett, end, from Shreveport.

"Business affairs of the Indians will be handled by Harold Dennis, general manager, and four managers, Bill Sullivan, Charles Cason, C. C. Bell, Jr., and Frank Smith. The latter four will be on hand tomorrow morning to issue equipment. Two trainers, Keeney Devereaux and Francis Hamilton, are also scheduled to be on hand.

The Indians begin the season with an adequate supply of new equipment and plenty of equipment left over from last year.

Following is the Indians' tentative schedule, arranged last spring:

Sept. 30—College of Marshall at Marshall, Texas.

Oct. 7—Loyola Freshmen, here.

Oct. 14—Centenary Freshmen, here.

Oct. 21—Austin college at Nacogdoches, Texas.

Oct. 28—Lion Morris Junior college at Jacksonville, Texas.

Nov. 4—Southeastern Junior college at Hammond.

Nov. 11—L. S. U. Freshmen, here.

Nov. 17—Texarkana Junior college, here.

Nov. 24—Little Rock Junior college, here.

TICKETS TO FOOTBALL GAME SELLING NICELY

Sales of tickets for a football game to be played here Saturday, October 15, between Louisiana State university and Mississippi A. & M. is progressing satisfactorily, it was stated last night by persons in charge of the sale. It was announced that a ticket office will be opened next Friday at the offices of the chamber of commerce.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.
Indianapolis 6; Columbus 3.
Milwaukee 6; St. Paul 0.
Kansas City 2; Minneapolis 10.
Louisville 0; Toledo 3.

Eighty per cent of the world's motorcycles are in Europe, where Germany has 760,000, United Kingdom 640,000, France 469,000, and Italy 95,500.

Negro World Series
PITTSBURGH CRAWFORDS vs.
MONROE MONARCHS
SOUTHERN LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Today at 4 o'clock, Casino Park, Monroe, La.

Admission: Grandstand 50c, Box 75c

The winners of this series will be Negro Champions of the world.

NOOGANS-SMOKIES CONTEST UPHELD

Landis Reaffirms Ruling on Game Played After Being Called Labor Day

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 10 (AP)—In a decision he said was organized baseball's final word, Commissioner Keneaw M. Landis today put the Southern association pennant within the reach of Chattanooga by upholding the Lookouts' 12 to 4 victory yesterday over the Knoxville Smokies.

Commissioner Landis reaffirmed at Chicago his previous ruling that Chattanooga and Knoxville had a right to play off their unfinished game of Labor day, dealing a blow to Memphis' hopes that not even the Chicago's 8 to 2 victory over New Orleans this afternoon could lessen. By virtue of their 13 to 5 win over Knoxville today, the Lookouts can gain the 1932 championship by another victory over Knoxville in the final game of the season tomorrow. A Chick victory again tomorrow will leave Memphis behind Chattanooga by the slimmest margin of percentage points, unless Chattanooga should suffer a defeat.

The standing at the end of today's contests showed Chattanooga with an average of .555 as a result of 97 victories and 31 defeats, and Memphis with an average of .534 for 100 games won and 53 lost.

Thomas R. Watkins, president of the Memphis club, made two desperate efforts today to have yesterday's game ruled out on the theory that Chattanooga and Knoxville had no right to play off their three-three tie game of Labor day at Chattanooga, since the Smokies had no more regularly scheduled games at Engel stadium.

Landis stuck by his guns. He said his decision of yesterday permitting the playing of the game would stand. Martin polled league directors on Watkins' protest to Southern headquarters, and there was a possibility that the vote would uphold the Memphis club. Since the directors previously voted five to three to overrule Martin's action in allowing the playing of the disputed game, but Commissioner Landis said the directors' action would not prevail against his decision.

Watkins was frankly disappointed when he left Landis' Chicago offices, but he did not indicate to correspondents whether he would take any further action.

Commissioner Landis told correspondents that he could not rule out yesterday's disputed game, basing his decision largely on a precedent established earlier in the season when Knoxville and Little Rock were permitted to play off a postponed game on August 15.

After making his decision, Landis emphasized that his authority was the "last word" in baseball, including the power to sustain or overrule any decision in organized baseball, even the verdicts of the national board of arbitration.

WHITNEY'S POLO TEAM LOSES TO TEMPLETON

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—As one-sided a final as ever was played in the open polo championship, the young Templeton team, led by Winston Gents, today rode over John Hay Whitney's Greentree four 16-om to 3 to win the most prized title in American polo.

From the opening going Greentree never had a chance with Gents' team, which had more power and accuracy than he has shown since the international series of 1930 and piling up the amazing individual total of nine goals, three times as many as the whole Greentree team could score.

The whole team rode with him at the same tempo, always on the ball, always hurrying Greentree and driving with astonishing length and accuracy.

Centenary Gents Facing Ambitious Schedule Boasting Six Major Games

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 10 (Special)—Realizing the fact that a team must be in tip-top shape to go through a nine-game schedule boasting of six major games and emerge victorious in a majority of them, Coaches Norton and Parker of Centenary college have been putting their charges through a severe and strenuous practice session each day this past week.

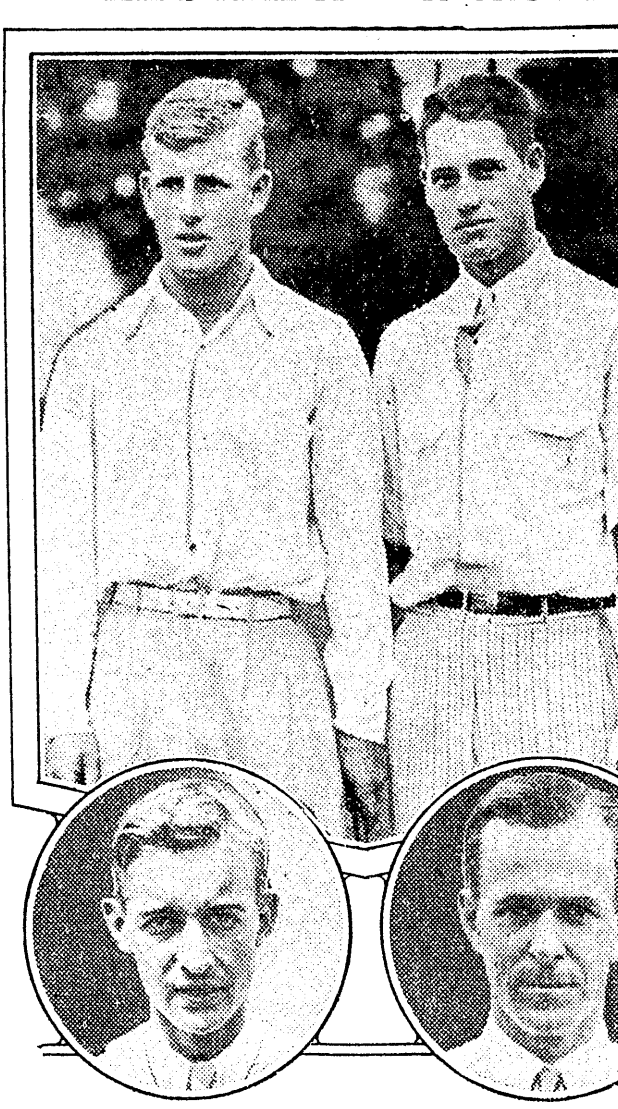

Thirty-two candidates, comprised of 14 lettermen, three squadmen and 14 freshmen, reported for duty this week and with only one first year man yet to arrive, the Gents will go through the season short on reserves. Of the lettermen returning, Allums, Geisler, Morgan and Osborne are listed as ends, Oliphant and Taylor as tackles, H. Blakemore, Wilson and Waters as guards, Young as center, Smith, Cameron, Oslin and Townson as backs. Brown, guard, Ames, center, and Gibson, halfback, are the three squadmen left in camp. Allen, Matthews, Levy and R. Parker, ends, Guillory and Harper, tackles, Ellerbe and Tom Smith, guards, Williams and Hunter, centers, Glumac, Barnhart, "Bud" Parker, Sellers and Widman, backs, are the sophomores returning.

The Henderson Teachers from Arkadelphia will help the Gents usher in the 1932 playing season. This will be the third meeting of the two teams with the Gents having the edge with one win and a tie. One of the stars in the first battle between these two foes will be coaching the Teachers. He is "Bo" Sherman.

The Texas Longhorns will be the first major opposition for the Maroon and White gridders. Texas has a veteran team with most of the personnel composed of seniors. Clyde Littlefield, Steeplechase, and only "Bull" Elkins from his backfield and one guard from the line that made up most of his starting lineup.

Following the Texas struggle, the locals will be called upon to meet

KIDS ARE AFTER CROWN

These youngsters, challenging the veteran Francis Ouimet, national amateur golf champion, are entered in the annual championship tournament opening tomorrow. Left to right, the challengers are (above) Charley Seaver and Gus Moreland; (below) Billy Howell and Jack Westland.

American League Averages

Club	G.	A.B.	R.	O.R.	H.	T.B.	3b.	HR.	RBI.	SB.	BB.	SO.	Pct.
Philadelphia	138	4954	891	687	1448	2252	271	43	149	815	31	583	.552
New York	139	4712	872	629	1381	2179	236	70	147	841	31	698	.540
Washington	138	4708	749	641	1384	1968	262	58	678	56	628	387	.537
Cleveland	135	4632	747	669	1398	1985	282	56	71	682	47	510	.528
St. Louis	133	4791	677	687	1330	1981	231	67	62	617	65	427	.523
Detroit	131	4580	637	630	1280	1908	251	73	73	630	57	280	.514
Chicago	132	4628	576	787	1223	1654	235	50	32	519	73	399	.504
Boston	135	4547	803	823	1182	1656	218	56	48	475	42	418	.500

Club	G.	A.B.	R.	O.R.	H.	T.B.	3b.	HR.	RBI.	SB.	BB.	SO.	Pct.
Philadelphia	137	79	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	.500
Washington	137	79	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	.500
Cleveland	137	79	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	.500
Detroit	137	79	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	.500
St. Louis	137	79	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	.500
Boston	137	79	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	55	137	.500

Club	G.	A.B.	R.	O.R.	H.	T.B.	3b.	HR.	RBI.	SB.	BB.	SO.	Pct.
Hoag, N. Y.	38	14	14	14	14	14	14	14	14	14	14	14	.500
Alexander, Bost.	314	46	114	159	297	364	46	114	159	297	364	46	.500
Ruth, N. Y.	445	117	154	297	364	46	114	159	297	364	46	114	.500
Manush, Wash.	544	107	187	295	344	46	114	159	297	364	46	114	.500
Colman, Phila.	73	13	25	37	46	114	159	297	364	46	114	159	.500
Gehrig, N. Y.	633	192	321	321	321	321	321	321	321	321	321	321	.500
Sullivan, Chi.	227	23	27	33	33	33	33	33	33	33	33	33	.500
English, Wash.	147	26	49	82	82	82	82	82	82	82	82	82	.500
G. Walker, Det.	379	56	124	179	239	239	239	239	239	239	239	239	.500
Cronin, Wash.	472	86	154	216	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	.500
Gray, N. Y.	488	72	123	169	222	222	222	222	222	222	222	222	.500
Combs, N. Y.	520	135	169	240	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	.500
P. Perrell, St. L.	381	124	163	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	.500
Simmons, Phila.	592	129	191	272	272	272	272	272	272	272	272	272	.500
Jolley, Bost.	523	48	168	255	255	255	255	255	255	255	255	255	.500
Miller, Phila.	240	34	77	115	121	121	121	121	121	121	121	121	.500
Rayburn, Wash.	217	42	69	92	92	92	92	92	92	92	92	92	.500
Cissell, Cleve.	513	74	162	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	.500
Weaver, Wash.	76	13	24	32	32	32	32	32	32	32	32	32	.500
Gray, N. Y.	559	101	172	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	.500
Crutcher, Det.	468	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Stone, Det.	517	82	168	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	242	.500
Scharen, St. L.	234	30	70	83	83	83	83	83	83	83	83	83	.500
Levey, St. L.	124	14	36	49	49	49	49	49	49	49	49	49	.500
Burns, St. L.	537	98	167	237	237	237	237	237	237	237	237	237	.500
Porter, Cleve.	567	96	176	240	240	240	240	240	240	240	240	240	.500
Gray, N. Y.	488	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Hass, Phila.	487	80	149	206	206	206	206	206	206	206	206	206	.500
Vosmik, Cleve.	553	93	168	244	244	244	244	244	244	244	244	244	.500
Dixey, N. Y.	488	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Lazzeri, N. Y.	473	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Chapman, N. Y.	503	87	151	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	236	.500
Levey, St. L.	124	14	36	49	49	49	49	49	49	49	49	49	.500
Goslin, St. L.	502	80	149	238	238	238	238	238	238	238	238	238	.500
R. Johnson, Bost.	475	80	149	238	238	238	238	238	238	238	238	238	.500
Rayburn, Wash.	217	42	69	92	92	92	92	92	92	92	92	92	.500
West, Wash.	484	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Reynolds, Wash.	444	43	102	159	159	159	159	159	159	159	159	159	.500
Burnett, Cleve.	440	70	131	171	171	171	171	171	171	171	171	171	.500
Gray, N. Y.	488	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Corbanc, Phila.	452	82	132	222	222	222	222	222	222	222	222	222	.500
Seeds, Chi.	459	48	104	135	135	135	135	135	135	135	135	135	.500
Gray, N. Y.	488	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Jenkins, St. L.	62	5	18	19	19	19	19	19	19	19	19	19	.500
Morgan, Cleve.	485	85	159	199	199	199	199	199	199	199	199	199	.500
Gray, N. Y.	488	72	142	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	204	.500
Kamm, Cleve.	473	70	136	185	185	185	185	185	185	185	185	185	.500
Selph, Chi.	482	48	104	142	142	142	142	142	142	142	142	142	.500

Sullivan, Chi.	27	23	76	92	335	Myer, Wash.	504	103
Harris, Wash.	147	26	49	82	333	Davis, Det.	487	75
G. Walker, Det.	379	56	124	179	330	Hering, Phila.	76	14
Cronin, Wash.	472	85	154	216	326	Riel, Det.	238	29
Cramer, Phila.	377	72	123	168	326	Byrd, Bost.	382	36
Combs, N. Y.	520	135	169	240	325	Oller, N. Y.	137	30
St. Ferrell, St. L.	381	62	124	165	325	Regel, Det.	468	69
Simmons, Phila.	592	129	191	322	322	Dykens, Phila.	495	71
Miller, Bost.	523	48	168	255	321	Pickering, Bost.	391	42
Miller, Phila.	540	34	77	115	321	L. Sewell, Cleve.	272	35

Quimet Ready to Defend Title In National Amateur Golf Meet Opening on Five Farms Course

Defending Champ States He Has Recovered Following Brief Illness

SEAVER PICK OF YOUTHS

Gus Moreland and Howell Are Also Considered Strong
Crown Contenders

OLD STARS ENTER PLAY

By Dillon Graham
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (AP)—The United States amateur golf championship starting on the Five Farms course here Monday appeared as wide open today as it was a year ago.

With Bobby Jones out of the competition for the second year, there was no player the experts could agree upon as a favorite. Some thought Francis Ouimet of Boston who accomplished a spectacular comeback at Beverly last summer to regain the crown he wore in 1914, might slip through again.

Charles Seaver, the Stanford halfback from Los Angeles, was the pick among the younger generation, although Gus Moreland of Dallas, Texas, the western amateur title-holder, and Billy Howell of Richmond, Va., a semi-finalist in 1931, had their followers.

Ross Somerville, the Canadian, and T. A. Tamm, captain of the British Walker cup team, who won 68 yesterday was the best of the pre-tournament scores, stood out among the foreign challengers.

Quimet today hushed all gossip about his physical condition. "I'm in fine shape, thoroughly recovered from my brief illness of ten days ago and am hitting my shots well," he said. There had been some doubt as to whether the slender, brown-headed stamina to last through a week of grueling matches.

Seven former champions—Ouimet,
Jesse, Guilford of Boston, Max Marston of Philadelphia, Harrison Johnston of Minneapolis, Charles Evans of Chicago, Jess Weaver of Mount Vernon and Chandler Egan of Del Monte,
Calif., are seeking the crown again.

However, there was a possibility that Guilford might not play. The 1921 titleholder was ill at his hotel with a temperature of 101. Moreland also was kept from practice by an injured hand.

Among those playing practice rounds today, and their scores, were:
Billy Howell, Richmond, 73; Bill Mc-
Williams, Rome, Ga., 73; Sam Perry, Birmingham, 77; Charles Yates, Atlanta, 75; Emmett Spicer, Memphis, 76; Eugene Vinson, Meridian, Miss., 77.

L. S. U. PREPS FOR GAME WITH T. C. U.

This Week's Practice to Have Important Bearing on Sept. 24 Contest

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 10 (Special).
—Just what kind of showing the Louisiana State university eleven will make against the strong Texas Christian team here September 24 will be determined by the progress the candidates make during this week's practice session. Thus far the progress has been all that could be asked during the early stages, but beginning Monday Coach Lawrence (Biff) Jones will have to issue the "double-time" order.

The former West Point mentor and his staff have lost little time thus far, sending their 75 candidates through scrimmage sessions this week.
But the real work to be accomplished before the Texas Christian game must be done this week, as next week will be devoted to polishing off the rough spots in the first and second string machines.

The spirit of the large squad of ambitious youngsters has been good thus far, with the seniors showing just as much pep and dash as the sophomores. The work of Jim Malone of Reform, Ala., Roy Wilson and Je Almy of Shreveport, Bill Lob-del of Baton Rouge, and several other of the older players has brought smiles to the mentors' faces.

It's still too early to guess at a probable line-up for the opening game and judging from the way Coach Jones has been shifting men from one team to the other, he doesn't know himself who will trot out on the field Saturday week. The veterans, however, because of their experience, hold an edge over the greener youngsters, but Coach Jones will pick his starting line-up from the players who show the most this week.

Much interest is being shown throughout the state in the Texas Christian-Louisiana State game which is to be played at night, and a special train will be run to this city from New Orleans. The train will return to the Crescent City immediately after the game.

UNWANTED CHIVALRY

He had been reading knightly romances and grew dissatisfied with the present unromantic state of the world.
He believed it his duty to inject some romance into the daily grind.

On a rainy, muddy day he sallied forth to perform some knightly errand. He saw a pretty girl about to step from her car to a dirty pavement. Hastening forward, he spread his coat under her dainty feet.

"Well, of all the darned fools!" she exclaimed.—Tit-Bits

Sports Through Edgren's Eyes

By Robert Edgren.

Johnny Dundee, trying to come back after a short layoff, drops a decision to a youngster. Johnny is not quite as successful in coming back as Benny Leonard, who has won 22 straight fights in his comeback.
But then Johnny did a lot more fighting than Benny. Oh yes, Benny did plenty, but Johnny topped his record by a few hundred and in fact claims to have fought more bouts than any other man living. He was fighting during those years when Benny was playing the "undefeated retired champion" and taking a rest.
A fighter does get tired.

I watched Johnny Dundee through many years of fighting, always expecting him to slow up and never seeing him slow up—until quite recently. Dundee had an amazing style of fighting. He hopped and leaped and danced continually at top speed, ducking and dodging and suddenly coming in with furious short attacks.
It did seem impossible that any human legs or heart could keep up so much action without wearing out.

A Tough Career.
Back about 1913, when Johnny fought Johnny Kilbane for the featherweight title, and only got a draw.
I remember remarking, "Well, this bird may look like perpetual motion, but there isn't anything such. He's about due to run down." But did he run down? Not at all. He went right on fighting the best men in his class at the rate of one a week or so. He didn't pick any soft ones. The names of his opponents in those days were names to carry in the headlines. He fought Charlie White, Joe Rivers,
Joe Shumaker, Pat Moran, Matt Wells,
Joe Mandel, Willie Ritchie, Freddy Welsh, Benny Leonard, Ever Hammer, Joe Welling, Rocky Kansas,
Patsy Cline, and scores of others.

He fought them over and over if they weren't satisfied the first time. He earned no more for a champion or for ten pounds of weight than for a training bout with a sparring partner.
And through all these fights he never slowed up at all. He fought on for years and years, and always at top speed. If Dempsey had Dundee's legs he'd be champion today. They were the greatest pair of legs ever seen in a ring, judging by the amount of work they did.

In all this time Johnny won innumerable fights, fought a lot of no-decision fights, in most of the states no-decision fights were the only kind allowed, and was knocked out just once. That was by Will Jackson, who now sells papers somewhere uptown in New York, or did that time I heard about him. This Jackson was a killing wallop, and he smacked Dundee on the button in the first round, back in 1917, dropping him as cold as a piece of last week's apple pie. Dundee was very much surprised when he woke up.
But he went on fighting, and beat Jackson in a return bout and beat a long list of others for five years.

Then in 1924 Dundee achieved his ambition by winning the world's featherweight championship. He beat Eugene Ciriqli of France, who had knocked out Johnny Kilbane. In time he passed the title on, but didn't stop fighting. And apparently he hasn't stopped yet, although all the opponents of his great ring days are now a life to put on a glove with him. That is, not one is left in active competition. As a rule fighters come and go, and don't take a lot of time doing it. Johnny Dundee, with 22 years in the ring, is a great exception.

Jack Britton had a little on Dundee, in time and perhaps in number of bouts fought. Britton began fighting in 1904 and stopped in 1929—a quarter of a century for him. He was pretty good when he stopped. Too good, he has been teaching boxing but may be tempted to come out again and challenge his old rival, Benny Leonard. They fought when Benny was lightweight and Jack world's featherweight champion.

And Still Going.
Benny Leonard lacks only a year of being equal to Dundee as a veteran. Dundee started fighting in 1911.
Leonard in 1912. But Leonard retired undefeated with the lightweight title, and rested seven years before he had to come out to fatten the old bank-roll a little. Benny has been quite successful. Benny says he has "salted away" $65,000 in cash earned in his comeback bouts—and he'll add real money to that when he fights Jimmy McLarnin. That ought to chase the wolf over the county line.

Jack Johnson had an up and down, in and out boxing career scattered over 25 years. He thinks he can still fight, but none of the boxing commissions are able to agree with him after reading the reports of the commission examining physicians. He has little chance to show. If I remember rightly his last advertised comeback, a few years ago out in Iowa or Nebraska, was stopped by some colored novice with little knowledge and much ambition, who swatted the ex-champ and knocked him out.

Fitz Without a Peer.

The really great example of longlived fighting ability, in all the history of the ring, past and modern, was Bob Fitzsimmons. Bob began fighting in New Zealand in 1880. He fought his way through all opposition in the Antipodes and came to America, where he cleaned up like the champion he was. In 1891 Bob knocked out Jack Dempsey the Nonpareil for the world's middleweight championship. In 1897 he knocked out Jim Corbett for the world's heavyweight championship. In 1903 he won the world's light-heavyweight championship from George Gardner in 20 rounds—the only fight in freckled Bob's career that ever went over 14 rounds. Fitzsimmons was the greatest knockout artist in history. He had to be, weighing only 156½ pounds, to knock out a heavyweight champion as clever as Jim Corbett was.

Also Fitzsimmons seemed to have no age limit. He was 39 when he beat Gardner to win his third world title.
He was 47 when he went to Australia to fight Bill Lang, Australian champion, for the Australian title. Fitz was getting old then. He battered Lang but couldn't knock him out, and in the twelfth round nature gave out.
Bob's arms dropped and Lang put over the winning punch. Later, age 52, old Bob Fitzsimmons took on one more fight, with K. O. Sweeney, and it went six rounds to no-decision.
He was a grand old man. There has never been another like him.
(Copyright, 1932, By Robert Edgren.)

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB.

N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens
Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before had played older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened strong three days ago with a snappy 68, three under par, slumped
in the second round to a 74, picked up a bit on the third round this morning with a 70 and soared home
with a 68.

Willie MacFarlane carried off second place with his 283. The veteran from Luckhane and Shute fought for first place through the last round.
Shute's putting and pin-pointing iron
work carried him ahead.

Public Forum

(This newspaper publishes all articles addressed to it in the public interest, on request, and if they are not more than 300 words in length.
Shorter ones to be given preference.
Letters must be original, free from libel and personal abuse, and the author's name must be known to the Editor, together with city and street address. Anonymous contributions and correspondence is entertained with regard to them.)

WATERWAYS AND FLOOD CONTROL.

To the Editor:

When I first went to congress, we needed more than $1,000,000 additional appropriations to complete the system of locks and dams on the Ouachita river. That was secured and we now have an all-the-year-round navigable waterway to the Gulf of Mexico and on to the markets of the world. I worked with your chamber of commerce and air-minded citizens of Monroe in securing the designation of the southern transcontinental airline through Monroe and other cities and towns in the fifth congressional district. By further cooperation as your congressman, we secured $200,000
for a new federal building for Monroe which will house the postoffice
and other federal activities for northeast Louisiana. That project has been advanced rapidly; the contract has been let and the work is ready to begin now.

The control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in the alluvial valley was adopted
as a national project by the flood control act of 1928, and $325,000,000
was authorized to be appropriated.
The main features of the project, the levees on the main stem of the river
and the floodways at New Madrid,
Mo., and above New Orleans, are now
estimated to be completed by 1935,
three years in advance of the time expected when the flood control act
was passed.

This leaves for adjustment the features of the project in controversy,
that is, the floodways through the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins south
of the Arkansas river and flood control on the tributaries embraced in the alluvial valley, such as the Arkansas, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers. With the main channel work completed, the remainder of the $325, 000,000 and other appropriations will
be allotted for that project.

Surveys and re-examinations are
now under way and nearing completion for the readjustment of all engineering features in dispute. Legislative measures are also prepared, some advanced to the point of favorable committee report, for definite settlement of the economic phases of the project. These measures provide compensation for all lands and damages to improvements thereon, taken or used for the passage or storage of flood waters in the execution of the flood control plans. Also appropriations made and available and plans practically completed for adequate flood protection on the Ouachita river which will make secure the cities of
Monroe and West Monroe and adjacent territory from destructive flood waters.

With this progress being made for adequate and definite protection against floods; every means of transportation, water, rail, air and highways; and public building for all purposes, confidence and optimism
should prevail.

Then when we consider the natural resources of northeast Louisiana, in the fifth congressional district, its agricultural and industrial possibilities,
our policy should be one of cooperation for progress.

RILEY J. WILSON.

SATISFIED

"They tell me your engagement is broken."
"Yes; and Bill behaved admirably."
"But I thought you broke it yourself!"
"So I did, but he made absolutely no fuss about it."—Halifax Chronicle.

CHICAGO DEFEATS DODGERS, 9 TO 2

(Continued From Ninth Page)

to Urbanski to Jordan. Left on base:
Cincinnati 4; Boston 6. Base on balls:
of Johnson 1; Seibold 2. Struck out by:
Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruett 1. Hits:
off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruett 0 in 1.
Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—"Dizzy"
Dean, who beat the Giants twice in St. Louis, was the victim of the Cardinals' seventh straight defeat as
New York hammered out an 11-to-7
victory in the series opener. The victory left the Giants only a half game
behind the sixth-place Cards.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The
Giants, who were the victim of the Cardinals' seventh straight defeat as
New York hammered out an 11-to-7
victory in the series opener. The victory left the Giants only a half game
behind the sixth-place Cards.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—The
Giants, who were the victim of the Cardinals' seventh straight defeat as
New York hammered out an 11-to-7
victory in the series opener. The victory left the Giants only a half game
behind the sixth-place Cards.

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB.

N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's
brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens
Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before
had played older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened strong three days ago with a snappy 68, three under par, slumped
in the second round to a 74, picked up a bit on the third round this morning with a 70 and soared home
with a 68.

Willie MacFarlane carried off second place with his 283. The veteran from Luckhane and Shute fought for first place through the last round.
Shute's putting and pin-pointing iron
work carried him ahead.

Public Forum

(This newspaper publishes all articles addressed to it in the public interest, on request, and if they are not more than 300 words in length.
Shorter ones to be given preference.
Letters must be original, free from libel and personal abuse, and the author's name must be known to the Editor, together with city and street
address. Anonymous contributions and correspondence is entertained
with regard to them.)

WATERWAYS AND FLOOD CONTROL.

To the Editor:

When I first went to congress, we needed more than $1,000,000 additional appropriations to complete the system
of locks and dams on the Ouachita
river. That was secured and we now have an all-the-year-round navigable waterway to the Gulf of Mexico and
on to the markets of the world. I worked with your chamber of commerce and air-minded citizens of Monroe in securing the designation of
the southern transcontinental airline through Monroe and other cities
and towns in the fifth congressional district. By further cooperation as your congressman, we secured $200,000
for a new federal building for Monroe which will house the postoffice
and other federal activities for northeast Louisiana. That project has been advanced rapidly; the contract has been let and the work is ready to begin now.

The control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in the alluvial valley was adopted
as a national project by the flood control act of 1928, and $325,000,000
was authorized to be appropriated.
The main features of the project, the levees on the main stem of the river
and the floodways at New Madrid,
Mo., and above New Orleans, are now
estimated to be completed by 1935,
three years in advance of the time
expected when the flood control act
was passed.

This leaves for adjustment the features of the project in controversy,
that is, the floodways through the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins south
of the Arkansas river and flood control on the tributaries embraced in
the alluvial valley, such as the Arkansas, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers. With the main channel work completed, the remainder of the $325, 000,000 and other appropriations will
be allotted for that project.

Surveys and re-examinations are
now under way and nearing completion for the readjustment of all engineering features in dispute. Legislative measures are also prepared, some advanced to the point of favorable
committee report, for definite settlement of the economic phases of the project. These measures provide compensation for all lands and damages to improvements thereon, taken
or used for the passage or storage of flood waters in the execution of the flood control plans. Also appropriations made and available and plans
practically completed for adequate
flood protection on the Ouachita river
which will make secure the cities of
Monroe and West Monroe and adjacent territory from destructive flood waters.

With this progress being made for adequate and definite protection against floods; every means of transportation, water, rail, air and highways; and public building for all purposes, confidence and optimism
should prevail.

Then when we consider the natural resources of northeast Louisiana, in
the fifth congressional district, its agricultural and industrial possibilities,
our policy should be one of cooperation for progress.

RILEY J. WILSON.

SATISFIED

"They tell me your engagement is broken."
"Yes; and Bill behaved admirably."
"But I thought you broke it yourself!"
"So I did, but he made absolutely no fuss about it."—Halifax Chronicle.

YANKS WIN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE

(Continued From Ninth Page)

10. Struck out by Sorrell 1; Wyatt 2; Gomez 6; Moore 1. Hits: off Sorrell 7 in 2-3 innings; Wyatt 5 in 6; Whitehill 1 in 1-3; Gomez 8 in 6; Moore 2 in 1. Hit by pitcher: by Sorrell (Lazzeri); by Wyatt Parrell. Winning pitcher: Gomez. Losing pitcher: Wyatt. Umpires: Ormsby, McGowan and Owens. Time: 2:22.

NEW YORK

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

X-Batted for Farrell in 10th.

DETROIT

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

X-Batted for Farrell in 10th.

DETROIT

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

X-Batted for Farrell in 10th.

DETROIT

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

X-Batted for Farrell in 10th.

DETROIT

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

X-Batted for Farrell in 10th.

DETROIT

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

X-Batted for Farrell in 10th.

DETROIT

Byrd, cf. 4 1 2 1 0
Seibold, 1b. 5 0 0 2 3 0
Combs, lf. 4 1 2 0 0
Gehrig, 1b. 3 1 2 1 5 1
Lazzeri, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shafer, 1b. 1 0 0 0 0 0
Lary, 2b. 0 1 0 0 0 0
Pascarella, 2b. 0 0 2 4 2 0
Chapman, rf. 4 0 1 0 1 0
Crossett, ss. 4 0 0 2 5 0
Brown, p. 4 0 0 0 3 0

Totals 38 4 8 30 15 1

Quimet Ready to Defend Title In National Amateur Golf Meet Opening on Five Farms Course

Defending Champ States He Has Recovered Following Brief Illness

SEAVEY PICK OF YOUTHS Cus Moreland and Howell Are Also Considered Strong Crown Contenders

OLD STARS ENTER PLAY

By Dillon Graham (Associated Press Staff Writer) BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (AP)—The United States amateur golf championship starting over the Five Farms course here Monday appeared as wide open today as it was a year ago.

With Bobby Jones out of the competition for the second year, there was no player the experts could agree upon as a favorite. Some thought Francis Quimet of Boston who accomplished a spectacular comeback at Beverly last summer to regain the crown he wore in 1914, might slip through again.

Charles Seavey, the Stanford pick-back from Los Angeles, was the pick among the younger generation, although Gus Moreland of Dallas, Texas, the western amateur titleholder, and Billy Howell of Richmond, Va., semi-finalist in 1931, had their followers.

Ross Sorenson, the Canadian, and T. A. Torrance, captain of the British Walker cup team, whose 68 yesterday was the best of the pre-tournament scores, stood out among the foreign challengers. Quimet today hushed all gossip about his physical condition. "I'm in fine shape, thoroughly recovered from my brief illness of ten days ago and am hitting my shots well," he said. There had been some doubt as to whether the slender crown-holder possessed the stamina to last through a week of grueling matches.

Seven former champions—Quimet, Jesse Guilford of Boston, Max Marston of Philadelphia, Harrison Johnston of Minneapolis, Charles Evans of Chicago, Jess Sweetser of Mount Vernon and Chandler Egan of Del Monte, Calif., are seeking the crown again.

However, there was a possibility that Guilford might not play. The 1921 titleholder was ill at his hotel with a temperature of 101. Moreland also was kept from practice by an injured hand.

Among those playing practice rounds today, and their scores, were: Billy Howell, Richmond, 73; Bill McWilliams, Rome, Ga., 78; Sam Perry, Birmingham, 77; Charles Yates, Atlanta, 75; Emmett Spicer, Memphis, 76; Eugene Vinson, Meridian, Miss., 77.

L. S. U. PREPS FOR GAME WITH T. C. U.

This Week's Practice to Have Important Bearing on Sept. 24 Contest

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 10 (Special)—Just what kind of showing the Louisiana State university eleven will make against the strong Texas Christian team here September 24 will be determined by the progress the candidates make during this week's practice session. Thus far the progress has been all that could be asked during the early stages, but beginning Monday Coach Lawrence (Biff) Jones will have to issue the "double-time" order.

The former West Point mentor and his staff have lost little time thus far, sending their 75 candidates through scrimmage sessions this week. But the real work to be accomplished before the Texas Christian game must be done this week, as next week will be devoted to polishing off the rough spots in the first and second string machines.

The spirit of the large squad of ambitious youngsters has been good thus far, with the seniors showing just as much pep and dash as the sophomores. The work of Jim Malone of Reform, Ala., Roy Wilson and Je Almkay of Shreveport, Bill Lobdell of Baton Rouge, and several other of the older players has brought smiles to the mentors' faces.

It's still too early to guess at a probable line-up for the opening game and judging from the way Coach Jones has been shifting men from one team to the other, he doesn't know himself who will trot on the field Saturday week. The veterans, because of their experience, hold an edge over the greener youngsters, but Coach Jones will pick his starting line-up from the players who show the most this week.

Much interest is being shown throughout the state in the Texas Christian-Louisiana State game which is to be played at night, and a special train will be run to this city from New Orleans. The train will return to the Crescent City immediately after the game.

UNWANTED CHIVALRY He had been reading knightly romances and grew dissatisfied with the present unromantic state of the world. He believed it his duty to inject some romance into the daily grind. On a rainy, muddy day he sallied forth to perform some knightly deed. He saw a pretty girl about to step from her car to a dirty pavement. Hastening forward, he spread his coat under her dainty feet. "Well, of all the darned fools," she exclaimed.—Tit-Bits

Sports Through Edgen's Eyes

By Robert Edgen.

Johnny Dundee, trying to come back after a short layoff, drops a decision to a youngster. Johnny is not quite as successful in coming back as Benny Leonard, who has won 22 straight fights in his comeback. But then Johnny did a lot more fighting than Benny. Oh yes, Benny did plenty, but Johnny topped his record by a few hundred and in fact claims to have fought more bouts than any other man living. He was fighting during those years when Benny was playing the "undefeated retired champion" and taking a rest.

I watched Johnny Dundee through many years of fighting, always expecting him to slow up and never seeing him slow up—until quite recently. Dundee had an amazing style of fighting. He hopped and leaped and danced continually at top speed, ducking and dodging and suddenly leaping in with furious short attacks. It did seem impossible that any human legs or heart could keep up so much action without wearing out.

A Tough Career. Back about 1913, when Johnny fought Johnny Kilbane for the featherweight title, and only got a draw. I remember remarking, "Well, this bird may look like perpetual motion, but there isn't any such thing. He's about due to run down." But did he run down? Not at all. He went right on fighting the best men in his class at the rate of one a week or so. He didn't pick any soft ones. The names of his opponents in those days were names to carry in the headlines. He fought Charlie White, Joe Rivers, Joe Shugrue, Pat Moore, Matt Wells, Joe Mandot, Willie Ritchie, Freddy Welsh, Benny Leonard, Ever Hammer, Joe Welling, Rocky Kansas, Patsy Cline, and scores of others. He fought them over and over if they weren't satisfied the first time. He cared no more for a champion or for ten pounds of weight than for a training bout with a sparring partner. And through all these fights he never slowed up at all. He fought on for years and years, and always at top speed. If Dempsey had Dundee's legs he'd be champion today. They were the greatest pair of legs ever seen in a ring, judging by the amount of work they did.

In all this time Johnny won innumerable fights, fought a lot of no-decisions because in most of the states no-decision fights were the only kind allowed, and was knocked out just once. That was by Willie Jackson, who now sells papers some where uptown in New York, or did last time I heard about him. This Jackson was a killing wallop, and he smacked Dundee on the button in the first round, back in 1917, dropping him as cold as a piece of last week's apple pie. Dundee was very much surprised when he woke up. But he went on fighting, beat Jackson in a return bout and beat a long list of others for five years.

Then in 1923 Dundee achieved his ambition by winning the world's featherweight championship. He beat Eugene Ciqui of France, who had knocked out Johnny Kilbane. In time he raised the title on, but didn't stop fighting. And apparently he hasn't stopped yet, although all the opponents of his great ring days are not one is left to put on a glove with him. That is, not one is left in active competition. As a rule fighters come and go, and don't take a lot of time doing it. Johnny Dundee, with 22 years in the ring, is a great exception.

Jack Britton had a little on Dundee, in time and perhaps in number of bouts fought. Britton began fighting in 1904 and stopped in 1929—a quarter of a century for him. He was pretty good when he stopped, too. Jack has been teaching boxing but may be tempted to come out again and challenge his old rival, Benny Leonard. They fought when Benny was lightweight and Jack world's welterweight champion.

And Still Going. Benny Leonard lacks only a year of being equal to Dundee as a veteran. Dundee started fighting in 1911. Leonard in 1912. But Leonard retired undefeated with the lightweight title and rested seven years before he had to come out to fatten the old bankroll a little. Benny has been quite successful. Benny says he has "salted away" $65,000 in cash earned in his comeback bouts—and he'll add real money to that when he fights Jimmy McLarnin. That ought to chase the wolf over the county line.

Jack Johnson had an up and down, in and out boxing career scattered over 25 years. He thinks he can still fight, but none of the boxing commissions are able to agree with him after reading the reports of the commission examining physicians, so he has little chance to show. If I remember rightly his last advertised comeback, a few years ago out in Iowa or Nebraska, was stopped by some colored novice with little knowledge and much ambition, who swatted the ex-champ and knocked him out.

Fitz Without a Peer. The really great example of longevity in fighting ability, in all the history of the ring, past and modern, was Bob Fitzsimmons. Bob began fighting in New Zealand in 1880. He fought his way through all opposition in the Antipodes and came to America, where he cleaned up like the champion he was. In 1891 Bob knocked out Jack Dempsey in the world's middleweight championship. In 1897 he knocked out Jim Corbett for the world's heavyweight championship. In 1903 he won the world's light-heavyweight championship from George Gardner in 20 rounds of the ring, past and modern.

Bob's career that ever went over 14 rounds. Fitzsimmons was the greatest knockout artist in history. He had to be weighing only 156½ pounds, to knock out a heavyweight champion as clever as Jim Corbett was. Also Fitzsimmons seemed to have no age limit. He was 30 when he beat Gardner to win his third world title. He was 47 when he went to Australia to fight Bill Lang, Australian champion, for the Australian title. Fitz was getting old then. He battered Lang but couldn't knock him out, and in the twelfth round nature gave out. Bob's arms dropped and Lang put over the winning punch. Later, age 52, old Bob Fitzsimmons took on one more fight, with K. O. Sweeney, and it went six rounds to no-decision. He was a grand old man. There has never been another like him. (Copyright, 1932, By Robert Edgen.)

champion as clever as Jim Corbett was. Also Fitzsimmons seemed to have no age limit. He was 30 when he beat Gardner to win his third world title. He was 47 when he went to Australia to fight Bill Lang, Australian champion, for the Australian title. Fitz was getting old then. He battered Lang but couldn't knock him out, and in the twelfth round nature gave out. Bob's arms dropped and Lang put over the winning punch. Later, age 52, old Bob Fitzsimmons took on one more fight, with K. O. Sweeney, and it went six rounds to no-decision. He was a grand old man. There has never been another like him. (Copyright, 1932, By Robert Edgen.)

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before had put older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened three days ago with a snappy 68, three under par, slumped in the second round to a 74, picked up a bit on the third round this morning with a 70 and soared home with a 68.

Willie MacFarlane carried off second place with his 285. The veteran from Tuckahoe and Shute fought for first place through the last round. Shute's putting and pin-splitting iron work carried him ahead.

Public Forum

(This newspaper publishes all letters addressed to it in the public interest, and requests that they be not more than 300 words in length. Shorter ones to be given preference. Letters must be original, free from libel, and signed by the author's name must be known to the Editor, together with city or town. Anonymous communications are not published. No correspondence is entertained with regard to them.)

WATERWAYS AND FLOOD CONTROL.

To the Editor: When I first went to congress, we needed more than $4,000,000 additional appropriations to complete the system of locks and dams on the Ouachita river. That was secured and we now have an all-the-year-round navigable waterway to the Gulf of Mexico and on to the markets of the world. I worked with your chamber of commerce and air-minded citizens of Monroe in securing the designation of the southern, transcontinental air mail line through Monroe and other cities and towns in the fifth congressional district. By further cooperation as your congressman, we secured $300,000 for a new federal building for Monroe which will house the postoffice and other federal activities for north-east Louisiana. That project has been advanced rapidly; the contract has been let and the work is ready to begin now.

The control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in the alluvial valley was adopted as a national project by the flood control act of 1928, and $325,000,000 was authorized to be appropriated. The main features of the project, the levees on the main stem of the river and the floodways at New Madrid, Mo., and above New Orleans, are now estimated to be completed by 1935, three years in advance of the time expected when the flood control act was passed.

This leaves for adjustment the features of the project in controversy, that is, the floodways through the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins south of the Arkansas river and flood control on the tributaries embraced in the alluvial valley, such as the Arkansas, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers. With the main channel work completed, the remainder of the $325,000,000 and other appropriations will be allotted for that purpose.

Surveys and re-examinations are now under way and nearing completion for the readjustment of all engineering features in dispute. Legislative measures are also prepared, some advanced to the point of favorable committee report, for definite settlement of the economic phases of the project. These measures provide compensation for all lands and damages to improvements thereon, taken or used for the passage or storage of flood waters in the execution of the flood control plans. Also appropriations made and available and plans practically completed for adequate flood protection on the Ouachita river which will make secure the cities of Monroe and West Monroe and adjacent territory from destructive flood waters.

With this progress being made for adequate and definite protection against floods, every means of transportation, water, rail, air and highway, and public building for all purposes, confidence and optimism should prevail.

Then when we consider the natural resources of northeast Louisiana, in the fifth congressional district, its agricultural and industrial possibilities, our policy should be one of cooperation for progress.

RILEY J. WILSON.

SATISFIED

"They tell me your engagement is broken." "Yes, and Bill behaved admirably." "But I thought you broke it yourself." "So I did, but he made absolutely no fuss about it."—Halifax Chronicle.

CHICAGO DEFEATS YANKS WIN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE

(Continued From Ninth Page)

to Urbanski to Jordan. Left on base: Cincinnati 4; Boston 6. Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—"Dizzy" Dean, who beat the Giants twice in St. Louis, was the victim of the Cardinals' seventh straight defeat today as New York hammered out an 11-to-7 victory in the series opener. The victory left the Giants only a half game behind the sixth-place Cards.

ST. LOUIS	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Cincinnati, 4	22	2	2	2	1	0
Boston, 6	22	6	11	12	1	0
Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before had put older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened three days ago with a snappy 68, three under par, slumped in the second round to a 74, picked up a bit on the third round this morning with a 70 and soared home with a 68.

Willie MacFarlane carried off second place with his 285. The veteran from Tuckahoe and Shute fought for first place through the last round. Shute's putting and pin-splitting iron work carried him ahead.

Public Forum

(This newspaper publishes all letters addressed to it in the public interest, and requests that they be not more than 300 words in length. Shorter ones to be given preference. Letters must be original, free from libel, and signed by the author's name must be known to the Editor, together with city or town. Anonymous communications are not published. No correspondence is entertained with regard to them.)

WATERWAYS AND FLOOD CONTROL.

To the Editor: When I first went to congress, we needed more than $4,000,000 additional appropriations to complete the system of locks and dams on the Ouachita river. That was secured and we now have an all-the-year-round navigable waterway to the Gulf of Mexico and on to the markets of the world. I worked with your chamber of commerce and air-minded citizens of Monroe in securing the designation of the southern, transcontinental air mail line through Monroe and other cities and towns in the fifth congressional district. By further cooperation as your congressman, we secured $300,000 for a new federal building for Monroe which will house the postoffice and other federal activities for north-east Louisiana. That project has been advanced rapidly; the contract has been let and the work is ready to begin now.

The control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in the alluvial valley was adopted as a national project by the flood control act of 1928, and $325,000,000 was authorized to be appropriated. The main features of the project, the levees on the main stem of the river and the floodways at New Madrid, Mo., and above New Orleans, are now estimated to be completed by 1935, three years in advance of the time expected when the flood control act was passed.

This leaves for adjustment the features of the project in controversy, that is, the floodways through the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins south of the Arkansas river and flood control on the tributaries embraced in the alluvial valley, such as the Arkansas, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers. With the main channel work completed, the remainder of the $325,000,000 and other appropriations will be allotted for that purpose.

Surveys and re-examinations are now under way and nearing completion for the readjustment of all engineering features in dispute. Legislative measures are also prepared, some advanced to the point of favorable committee report, for definite settlement of the economic phases of the project. These measures provide compensation for all lands and damages to improvements thereon, taken or used for the passage or storage of flood waters in the execution of the flood control plans. Also appropriations made and available and plans practically completed for adequate flood protection on the Ouachita river which will make secure the cities of Monroe and West Monroe and adjacent territory from destructive flood waters.

With this progress being made for adequate and definite protection against floods, every means of transportation, water, rail, air and highway, and public building for all purposes, confidence and optimism should prevail.

Then when we consider the natural resources of northeast Louisiana, in the fifth congressional district, its agricultural and industrial possibilities, our policy should be one of cooperation for progress.

RILEY J. WILSON.

SATISFIED

"They tell me your engagement is broken." "Yes, and Bill behaved admirably." "But I thought you broke it yourself." "So I did, but he made absolutely no fuss about it."—Halifax Chronicle.

(Continued From Ninth Page)

to Urbanski to Jordan. Left on base: Cincinnati 4; Boston 6. Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDS

ST. LOUIS	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Cincinnati, 4	22	2	2	2	1	0
Boston, 6	22	6	11	12	1	0
Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before had put older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened three days ago with a snappy 68, three under par, slumped in the second round to a 74, picked up a bit on the third round this morning with a 70 and soared home with a 68.

Willie MacFarlane carried off second place with his 285. The veteran from Tuckahoe and Shute fought for first place through the last round. Shute's putting and pin-splitting iron work carried him ahead.

Public Forum

(This newspaper publishes all letters addressed to it in the public interest, and requests that they be not more than 300 words in length. Shorter ones to be given preference. Letters must be original, free from libel, and signed by the author's name must be known to the Editor, together with city or town. Anonymous communications are not published. No correspondence is entertained with regard to them.)

WATERWAYS AND FLOOD CONTROL.

To the Editor: When I first went to congress, we needed more than $4,000,000 additional appropriations to complete the system of locks and dams on the Ouachita river. That was secured and we now have an all-the-year-round navigable waterway to the Gulf of Mexico and on to the markets of the world. I worked with your chamber of commerce and air-minded citizens of Monroe in securing the designation of the southern, transcontinental air mail line through Monroe and other cities and towns in the fifth congressional district. By further cooperation as your congressman, we secured $300,000 for a new federal building for Monroe which will house the postoffice and other federal activities for north-east Louisiana. That project has been advanced rapidly; the contract has been let and the work is ready to begin now.

The control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in the alluvial valley was adopted as a national project by the flood control act of 1928, and $325,000,000 was authorized to be appropriated. The main features of the project, the levees on the main stem of the river and the floodways at New Madrid, Mo., and above New Orleans, are now estimated to be completed by 1935, three years in advance of the time expected when the flood control act was passed.

This leaves for adjustment the features of the project in controversy, that is, the floodways through the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins south of the Arkansas river and flood control on the tributaries embraced in the alluvial valley, such as the Arkansas, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers. With the main channel work completed, the remainder of the $325,000,000 and other appropriations will be allotted for that purpose.

Surveys and re-examinations are now under way and nearing completion for the readjustment of all engineering features in dispute. Legislative measures are also prepared, some advanced to the point of favorable committee report, for definite settlement of the economic phases of the project. These measures provide compensation for all lands and damages to improvements thereon, taken or used for the passage or storage of flood waters in the execution of the flood control plans. Also appropriations made and available and plans practically completed for adequate flood protection on the Ouachita river which will make secure the cities of Monroe and West Monroe and adjacent territory from destructive flood waters.

With this progress being made for adequate and definite protection against floods, every means of transportation, water, rail, air and highway, and public building for all purposes, confidence and optimism should prevail.

Then when we consider the natural resources of northeast Louisiana, in the fifth congressional district, its agricultural and industrial possibilities, our policy should be one of cooperation for progress.

RILEY J. WILSON.

SATISFIED

"They tell me your engagement is broken." "Yes, and Bill behaved admirably." "But I thought you broke it yourself." "So I did, but he made absolutely no fuss about it."—Halifax Chronicle.

YANKS WIN BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE

(Continued From Ninth Page)

to Urbanski to Jordan. Left on base: Cincinnati 4; Boston 6. Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDS

ST. LOUIS	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Cincinnati, 4	22	2	2	2	1	0
Boston, 6	22	6	11	12	1	0
Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before had put older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened three days ago with a snappy 68, three under par, slumped in the second round to a 74, picked up a bit on the third round this morning with a 70 and soared home with a 68.

Willie MacFarlane carried off second place with his 285. The veteran from Tuckahoe and Shute fought for first place through the last round. Shute's putting and pin-splitting iron work carried him ahead.

Public Forum

(This newspaper publishes all letters addressed to it in the public interest, and requests that they be not more than 300 words in length. Shorter ones to be given preference. Letters must be original, free from libel, and signed by the author's name must be known to the Editor, together with city or town. Anonymous communications are not published. No correspondence is entertained with regard to them.)

WATERWAYS AND FLOOD CONTROL.

To the Editor: When I first went to congress, we needed more than $4,000,000 additional appropriations to complete the system of locks and dams on the Ouachita river. That was secured and we now have an all-the-year-round navigable waterway to the Gulf of Mexico and on to the markets of the world. I worked with your chamber of commerce and air-minded citizens of Monroe in securing the designation of the southern, transcontinental air mail line through Monroe and other cities and towns in the fifth congressional district. By further cooperation as your congressman, we secured $300,000 for a new federal building for Monroe which will house the postoffice and other federal activities for north-east Louisiana. That project has been advanced rapidly; the contract has been let and the work is ready to begin now.

The control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries in the alluvial valley was adopted as a national project by the flood control act of 1928, and $325,000,000 was authorized to be appropriated. The main features of the project, the levees on the main stem of the river and the floodways at New Madrid, Mo., and above New Orleans, are now estimated to be completed by 1935, three years in advance of the time expected when the flood control act was passed.

This leaves for adjustment the features of the project in controversy, that is, the floodways through the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins south of the Arkansas river and flood control on the tributaries embraced in the alluvial valley, such as the Arkansas, Ouachita, Red and Black rivers. With the main channel work completed, the remainder of the $325,000,000 and other appropriations will be allotted for that purpose.

Surveys and re-examinations are now under way and nearing completion for the readjustment of all engineering features in dispute. Legislative measures are also prepared, some advanced to the point of favorable committee report, for definite settlement of the economic phases of the project. These measures provide compensation for all lands and damages to improvements thereon, taken or used for the passage or storage of flood waters in the execution of the flood control plans. Also appropriations made and available and plans practically completed for adequate flood protection on the Ouachita river which will make secure the cities of Monroe and West Monroe and adjacent territory from destructive flood waters.

With this progress being made for adequate and definite protection against floods, every means of transportation, water, rail, air and highway, and public building for all purposes, confidence and optimism should prevail.

Then when we consider the natural resources of northeast Louisiana, in the fifth congressional district, its agricultural and industrial possibilities, our policy should be one of cooperation for progress.

RILEY J. WILSON.

SATISFIED

"They tell me your engagement is broken." "Yes, and Bill behaved admirably." "But I thought you broke it yourself." "So I did, but he made absolutely no fuss about it."—Halifax Chronicle.

SWIM MEET WON BY NEW ORLEANS

(Continued From Ninth Page)

to Urbanski to Jordan. Left on base: Cincinnati 4; Boston 6. Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDS

ST. LOUIS	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Cincinnati, 4	22	2	2	2	1	0
Boston, 6	22	6	11	12	1	0
Struck out by Johnson 1; Seibold 2; Pruet 1. Hits: off Seibold 8 in 6 innings; Pruet 0 in 1. Losing pitcher: Seibold. Umpires: Quigley and Barr. Time: 1:40.

SHUTE TAKES FIRST HONORS IN TOURNEY

GLENS FALLS COUNTRY CLUB, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Densmore Shute's brilliant iron shots and deadly putting won him top place in the $3500 Glens Falls open today.

The wiry young Denny, who before had put older stars to rout on other tricky courses of the country, turned in a total of 280 for the 72 holes. He opened three days ago with a

LEADING STOCKS ARE HELPED BY RALLY DURING FINAL ROUND

On Whole, Shares Fail to Give Very Clearcut Performance Saturday; Receive Some Stimulus Late in Session From Favorable Car Loadings Report and Prominent Issues Close With Small Gains.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Stocks failed to give a very clear-cut performance in the weekend market today.

Realizing sales, which affected the general list, gave way to a rally in the last hour when leaders recovered under the stimulus of a favorable car loadings report and the closing average, covering 90 issues, closed with a small gain. In the rank and file, however, there were more declines than advances. Volume dwindled to 1,482,220 shares.

Not changes were the narrowest in nearly two weeks and it was apparent to some observers that the market was hesitating over which way to turn. Doubtless indecision was in large measure due to imminence of the U. S. Steel unfilled tonnage statement, which appeared just after the close, and which Wall Street, during trading hours, could only guess at. Final variations of pivotal issues were generally fractional.

Steel common, Bethlehem, American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, General Motors, DuPont and National Biscuit, among industrials, finished unchanged to 3-4 higher. Southern Pacific again piloted the rail group, showing a 2-point rise, while Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Delaware & Hudson averaged half a point up. American Telephone, helped by word that the August installation figures had shown improvement over July, rose one.

Western Union firmed nearly 4, while Coca Cola again rallied. Copper was still indispensed.

The steel corporation's backlog gained 3222 tons in August. As usual, the actual figures made some of the preliminary guesses look ridiculous, as for instance an extravagant "rumor" that a rise of 800,000 tons had occurred. The best predictions proved to be those which held that little change would be reported.

On the whole, the figures were probably viewed as favorable, since they meant that despite substantial operations against its reserve accumulation the corporation's new orders had slightly exceeded the draft on old orders. Furthermore, it is being freely assumed that a fair volume of new business has been received since September 1, or too late to be included in the August 31, total. Incidentally, this was the first increase reported since March, 1931, when the steel industry was definitely heading for starvation times.

Freight loadings last week were 21,754 cars larger than in the preceding period, another good seasonal gain. With heavy crop movements starting, there is promise of further changes in a constructive direction. Many roads have so reduced expenses that even a small improvement in traffic will be quickly reflected in earnings.

Latest figures on the stock market short interest are more than a week old, so that the September 1 statistics, showing a decrease of nearly 250,000 shares, may not accurately reflect the current position. It is reported that the recent resistance of some leading shares has been a signal for larger short account offerings, thus strengthening the technical status of the market.

Hesitancy in bonds became a little more pronounced; should this continue it would doubtless be noted by shares. Cotton closed with small advances, while grains eased a little.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—The bond market developed further uncertainties today and drifted to slightly lower levels despite the firmness of some special issues.

Buyers and sellers were unable to get together in the majority of cases with the result that the trading volume dropped to its lowest since June 25. Sales totaled only $5,182,000, per value, and the average for 60 corporate loans again declined two-tenths of a point.

The speculative rail group continued under pressure notwithstanding a pickup in freight car loadings figures and indications of slightly better conditions in trade and industry. Some of the earlier bonds rallied moderately before the close but not sufficiently to erase the average decline. Most of the higher grade issues, however, held to a firm position.

Among the soft railroad loans were some of Allegheny corporation, Chesapeake corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Illinois Central, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate and Wabash. Improvement was shown by loans of Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, Reading and Southern Pacific.

The largest turnover in the domestic list was in Armour & Co. 5 1-2 which advanced 3 points. Morris & Co. 4 1-2 was also in demand at a gain of 1-3-8 points. Power and light company bonds were barely steady.

The United States government section improved in light trading, the Liberty first 4 1-4 and treasury 3 3-8 of 1940-43 recording new highs for the year.

DAILY COTTON TABLE

Port movement:	Mdgs.	Receipts	Exports	Sales	Stock
New Orleans	8.09	5,309	4,400	3,140	450
Galveston	8.00	4,400	3,140	450	435,105
Mobile	7.90	1,710	232	353	86,168
Savannah	8.07	1,745	464	205,792	464
Charleston	8.07	3,042	15,233	83,252	8,808
Wilmington	8.07	202	18	42,777	84
Norfolk	8.07	202	18	42,777	84
Baltimore	8.07	202	18	42,777	84
New York	8.10	202	18	42,777	84
Boston	8.10	202	18	42,777	84
Houston	8.10	202	18	42,777	84
Minor ports	8.10	202	18	42,777	84
Corpus Christi	8.10	202	18	42,777	84
Total day	21,400	26,771	11,074	3,318,941	26,771
For week	21,400	26,771	11,074	3,318,941	26,771
For season	21,400	26,771	11,074	3,318,941	26,771
Port movement:	Mdgs.	Receipts	Shipments	Sales	Stock
Memphis	7.55	4,377	3,121	8,443	264,031
Atlanta	7.55	1,710	232	353	86,168
St. Louis	7.55	261	261	308	308
Port Worth	7.55	210	210	308	40,488
Little Rock	7.55	210	210	308	40,488
Albany	7.55	210	210	308	40,488
Dallas	7.55	210	210	308	40,488
Montgomery	7.55	210	210	308	40,488
Total today	6,618	4,080	14,400	40,993	40,993

NEW YORK COTTON TRADE IS STEADY

Early Declines Are Followed by Rallies

MARKET IS MOSTLY QUIET

Closing Shows Advances of 1 to 4 Points

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cotton was somewhat irregular but generally steady in a comparatively quiet market today with early declines followed by rallies on trade buying and covering.

December contracts, after selling off to 8.14, advanced to 8.28 or 7 points above Friday's closing quotation and closed at 8.25 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 1 to 4 points.

The opening was unchanged to 4 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables, later eased off under liquidation and scattered offerings inspired by expectations of increased hedging if the weather continues favorable for the movement next week. October contracts eased off from 8.10 to 7.99, and March from 8.45 to 8.34, making net declines of about 6 to 8 points on the active positions.

The declines seemed to bring in covering and some additional trade buying, which was sufficient to steady the market and send prices up to 8.11 for October and 8.48 for March or 5 to 7 points net higher. The demand then slackened and prices eased slightly under renewed realizing or liquidation and southern selling.

There were rumors of bullish carded cloth statistics following the large liquidation report in the domestic goods market last month. According to local cotton men who have recently returned from Europe, stocks of goods in the channels of distribution abroad are extremely light, but houses with continental connections seemed to have very few buying orders here today, while Liverpool and Japanese interests were credited with selling during the early trading.

NEW YORK SPOT COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Spot cotton quiet; middling 8.10.

N. O. SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Spot cotton closed steady and unchanged. Sales 6020; mid-middling 7.64; middling 8.09; good middling 8.44; receipts 3509; stock 890,867.

N. O. COTTON FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cotton futures closed steady net 5 points up to one down.

	High	Low	Close
October	8.14	8.01	8.11
December	8.31	8.13	8.26-27
January	8.38	8.22	8.33
March	8.47	8.36	8.48B-8.49A
May	8.62	8.46	8.58
July	8.55	8.55	8.66B-8.68A

N. Y. COTTON FUTURES

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cotton futures closed steady, 1-4 higher. Spot quiet; middling 8.10.

COTTON FUTURES CLOSED:

	High	Low	Close
October	8.11	7.99	8.07-08
December	8.28	8.14	8.26-27
January	8.35	8.23	8.31
March	8.44	8.34	8.44-46
May	8.61	8.47	8.56
July	8.59	8.55	8.65

N. Y. COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cottonseed oil easy. Prime summer yellow 4.50-4.60; prime crude 3.75-3.87 1-2; September 4.80; October 4.90; November 4.90; December 4.94; January 4.94; March 4.95; Sales: 3 contracts.

N. O. COTTONSEED OIL

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10 (AP)—Cottonseed oil easy. Prime summer yellow 4.50-4.60; prime crude 3.75-3.87 1-2; September 4.80; October 4.90; November 4.90; December 4.94; January 4.94; March 4.95; Sales: 3 contracts.

FINANCES

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Foreign exchange firm. Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain demand 8.40; cables 3.49 1-4; 60-day bills 3.47 3-4; France demand 3.91 5-8; cables 3.91 11-16; Italy demand 5.12 1-4; cables 5.12 3-4. Demands:

Belgium 13.85; Germany 23.77 1-2; Holland 40.14; Norway 17.53; Sweden 17.91; Denmark 18.10; Switzerland 19.24 1-2; Spain 8.04 1-2; Portugal 3.18; Greece x.59 3-4; Poland x.11 3-8; Czechoslovakia x.26 1-4; Jugoslavia x.17 8; Austria x.11 3-8; Rumania x.59 3-4; Argentine 25.79; Brazil x.75; Tokyo 24.31 1-2; Shanghai 31.00; Montreal 9.06B 3-4; Mexico City (silver peso) 29.75.

(x)—Nominal.

Silk is considered unclean by the Mohammedans because it is the product of a worm.

Hester's Weekly Cotton Report

(Comparisons are to actual dates, not to close of corresponding weeks.)

In sight for week: 271,000
Year ago: 271,000
For the month: 271,000
For the season: 271,000
For the year: 271,000
For the two years ago: 271,000
For the three years ago: 271,000
For the four years ago: 271,000
For the five years ago: 271,000
For the six years ago: 271,000
For the seven years ago: 271,000
For the eight years ago: 271,000
For the nine years ago: 271,000
For the ten years ago: 271,000

Statement of World's Visible Supply

Total visible this week: 8,710,000
Week ago: 8,710,000
Year ago: 8,710,000
Two years ago: 8,710,000
Three years ago: 8,710,000
Four years ago: 8,710,000
Five years ago: 8,710,000
Six years ago: 8,710,000
Seven years ago: 8,710,000
Eight years ago: 8,710,000
Nine years ago: 8,710,000
Ten years ago: 8,710,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

Statement of American Cotton

Total American this week: 8,000,000
Week ago: 8,000,000
Year ago: 8,000,000
Two years ago: 8,000,000
Three years ago: 8,000,000
Four years ago: 8,000,000
Five years ago: 8,000,000
Six years ago: 8,000,000
Seven years ago: 8,000,000
Eight years ago: 8,000,000
Nine years ago: 8,000,000
Ten years ago: 8,000,000

NEW YORK STOCKS

Sales in 1000s High Low Close

	High	Low	Close
Adams Express	41 1/8	41 1/8	41 1/8
Affiliated Prod.	1 1/2	1 1/2	1 1/2
Air Reduction	22 5/8	22 5/8	22 5/8
Alaska June	50 1/2	50 1/2	50 1/2
Allegheny	50 1/2	50 1/2	50 1/2
Al Ch & Dye	69 3/8	69 3/8	69 3/8
Allis Ch Mfg	13 1/8	13 1/8	13 1/8
American Can	170 5/8	170 5/8	170 5/8
Am Car & Fwy	10 1/2	10 1/2	10 1/2
Am Coml A	23 1/4	23 1/4	23 1/4
Am F & P	138 1/2	138 1/2	138 1/2
Am Home Prod	3 1/4	3 1/4	3 1/4
Am Internat	4 1/2	4 1/2	4 1/2
Am Loco	13 1/8	13 1/8	13 1/8
Am Mach & F	101 1/8	101 1/8	101 1/8
Am Pow & L	101 1/8	101 1/8	101 1/8
Am Rad St San	101 1/8	101 1/8	101 1/8
Am Roll Mill	49 1/8	49 1/8	49 1/8
Am Sm & R	69 3/8	69 3/8	69 3/8
Am Sugar Ref	32 1/2	32 1/2	32 1/2
Am T & T	165 1/8	165 1/8	165 1/8
Am Tobacco	1 7/8	1 7/8	1 7/8
Am Water Works	44 1/8	44 1/8	44 1/8
Am Woolen	25 1/8	25 1/8	25 1/8
Am Z	26 1/8	26 1/8	26 1/8
Am Z	2

ORLEANS COTTON TRADE MODERATE

Closing Is 5 Points Up to 1
Off, Net

CABLES BETTER THAN DUE
No Particular Price Trend Developed

points better than due. Private cables stated the continent and Alexandria, Egypt, bought and the Japanese sold. Manchester cabled there was a fair cloth business pending with India. First trades here showed gains of 3 points on December while October was inactive, and the former month advanced a point additional soon after the start. Prices soon turned easier on hedge selling and some long liqui-

The market rallied in the second hour owing to an unfavorable forecast for the weather during the coming week. Stocks were also firmer and a good spot demand was reported. October advanced to 8.14 up 13 points from its low and December rallied to 8.31 up 18 points from its low. Prices eased 3 to 5 points from the top at the end of realizing. October closed at 8.11 up 2 points net for the day and December closed at 8.26, up 3 points net.

Port receipts 21,400, for season 676,823, last season 388,386, exports 28,771, for season 703,148, last season 337,276. Port stock 3,318,941, last year 2,815,997. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 85,500, last year 39,736. Spot sales at southern markets 25,388, last year 15,584.

♦♦♦♦♦

DIRECTORS TO MEET

DIRECTORS TO MEET.
The board of directors of the colored kindergarten and child welfare work will meet in a business session tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at Martin Temple C. M. E. church. David Hodge, Herman H. Marbles and Sallie P. Thompson have been added to the board. Mary A. Duncan was made an honorary member. The kindergarten opens Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

55, nomin; heavy weights 250-350 pounds 3.85-4.50, nominal; packing sows, medium and good 275-500 lbs.
3.20-4.00, nominal; pigs, good and choice 100-130 pounds 3.40-4.00, nominal.

ON

OFF--
R CUT

Size the Name and Convey They Are

upports dding

ected, will be

POLLS ON ER 13TH
FOR SENATE

ATOR
REBY
OF TY, OOD
TY

"Complete the work. Don't swap horses in the middle of the stream."

ELECTION

IS BUT TWO DAYS OFF-- THE ISSUE IS CLEAR CUT

Are We to Recognize the Right of One Man to Name
All Our Officials and Control Them After They Are Elected . . . ?

Is Louisiana to remain under the domination of a money-mad, extravagant administration that's heaped taxes upon our shoulders until the load is almost unbearable, and yet, according to the indiscreet Attorney General, will add a sales tax in January?

It Is Well Known That Long Supports Only Those Who Do His Bidding

Has anyone the slightest doubt that Overton, if elected, will be anything but a blind follower of Long?

If the people elect Overton they may be sure of one thing. This administration, and by that we mean the Long administration, has spent and is spending money with a recklessness and debauchery that would shame even the dissolute emperors of ancient Rome. They cannot spend this money unless they get it by increased taxes. You may be sure that they will continue to add taxes unless you make it clear by your vote that you are tired of going down in your pockets to raise money for this bunch of spendthrifts.

Let Them Know Expenditures Must Be Reduced and Taxes Must Be Kept Within Reason

*How Will You
Do This?*

The one sure way is to VOTE AGAINST LONG'S MAN OVERTON.

"Ed" is again asking the people's support on his past record, his sincerity of purpose and loyal devotion to duty.

GO TO THE POLLS ON SEPTEMBER 13TH
VOTE FOR
THE REELECTION OF SENATOR
BROUSSARD AND THEREBY
PLACE YOUR STAMP OF APPROVAL UPON HONESTY, SINCERITY OF PURPOSE, GOOD CITIZENSHIP, DECENCY STATESMANSHIP, AND LOYALTY

Phone 4800

CLASSIFIED SECTION

Phone 4800

FEES IN CLASSES FOR TECH SLICED

Applies to Both Correspondence and Extension Work of the School

RUSTON, Sept. 10 (Special).—Through action of the state board of education, fees for both correspondence and extension classes at Louisiana Tech have been reduced from $7.50 to $6 for each course, effective now. It has been announced here. Reductions in fees and living expenses for resident students attending summer terms and the regular sessions at Tech were made by the board several weeks ago.

Several hundred persons will profit by the cut in the price of off-campus instruction offered through the Louisiana Tech extension division. During the past year, 307 different people took one or more courses by the home-study method, and 256 were enrolled in group-lecture classes conducted off the campus, according to D. G. Armstrong, director of the Tech extension division.

The 256 people, including teachers, business men and women and persons engaged in other occupations, were students enrolled in 15 classes which were conducted in Monroe, Bastrop, Sparsville, Jena and Ruston. The classes were taught by members of the regular Tech faculty. Work in the past year was given in the fields of education, psychology, English, history, home economics, and art.

Courses in all departments of Tech are offered by mail. Instruction may be obtained in practically all subjects, except some of the laboratory courses, according to Mr. Armstrong.

The extension division of Louisiana Tech has been maintained for several years to give to persons who can not do college residence work an opportunity to obtain at least part of the educational advantages of the institution. Any person may begin courses for which he is qualified at any time. All courses given either by correspondence or in group-lecture centers by the Tech extension division may count for regular credit at Louisiana Tech.

WILL URGE ANNUAL PARISH FAIR BE HELD IN MONROE

George Breece, manager of the George E. Breece Lumber company, and member of the police jury, states that he will bring up the matter of holding a parish fair at the next meeting of the jury on Wednesday.

He is of the opinion that an annual show could be held in this city and, while it is too late to make the start this year, he is anxious to see action taken now and this, and for the reason of 1933.

He is making two should be included in the program, in the belief of Mr. Breece, he believes this would be a success.

CROSSETT MAN DIES

CROSSETT, Ark., Sept. 10 (Special).—Robert W. Burt, age 72, and an employee of the Cresset Lumber company for 20 years, died at the home of his son, Clyde, here Friday afternoon. He was born in Leake county, Mississippi, where he lived until he moved to Crossett in 1909. He had been a member of the Baptist church for 50 years. Mr. Burt is survived by his wife, by five sons, Ernest T. Austin and Clyde, all of Crossett, Herbert of Trout, La., and Dr. Elmer Burt of Little Rock; by three daughters, Mrs. Jack Crittenden, of Fayetteville, Ark., Bernard Gray, of Crossett, and Mrs. Felton Goodwin, of Shreveport, La. One brother and one sister living in Leake county, Mississippi. Funeral services were conducted at Unity Saturday afternoon.

COTTON BEING GINNED

Considerable cotton is now being ginned in Ouachita parish, according to information obtained at the Monroe and West Monroe plants of the Standard Gin and Manufacturing company. Each plant reported that it had ginned approximately 1000 bales of cotton to date.

SERUM ADMINISTERED

Typhoid serum was administered to residents of the Bosco community yesterday by Dr. John W. Williams, director, and assistants of the Ouachita parish health unit.

Motor Coach and Railroad Schedules

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM
EAST BOUND—	Arrive	Depart
No. 204—Fast	10:42 am	10:47 am
No. 202—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
WEST BOUND—
No. 201—Fast	9:45 am	9:50 am
No. 203—Fast	6:40 pm	6:45 pm
MISSOURI PACIFIC LINES
MAIN LINE—North	Arrive	Depart
No. 116—Fast	8:28 am	8:38 am
No. 102—Fast	8:26 am	8:30 am
MAIN LINE—South	Arrive	Depart
No. 101—Fast	8:00 am	8:08 am
No. 113—Fast	8:55 pm	9:03 pm
NATCHEZ-DELA DORADO
No. 110—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 112—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 114—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 116—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 118—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 120—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 122—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 124—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 126—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 128—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 130—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 132—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 134—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 136—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 138—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 140—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 142—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 144—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 146—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 148—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 150—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 152—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 154—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 156—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 158—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 160—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 162—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 164—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 166—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 168—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 170—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 172—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 174—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 176—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 178—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 180—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 182—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 184—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 186—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 188—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 190—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 192—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 194—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 196—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 198—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 200—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 202—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 204—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 206—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 208—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 210—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 212—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 214—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 216—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 218—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 220—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 222—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 224—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 226—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 228—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 230—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 232—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 234—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 236—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 238—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 240—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 242—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 244—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 246—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 248—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 250—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 252—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 254—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 256—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 258—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 260—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 262—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 264—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 266—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 268—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 270—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 272—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 274—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 276—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 278—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 280—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 282—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 284—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 286—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 288—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 290—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 292—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 294—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 296—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 298—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 300—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 302—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 304—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 306—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 308—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 310—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 312—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 314—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 316—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 318—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 320—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 322—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 324—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 326—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 328—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 330—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 332—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 334—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 336—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 338—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 340—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 342—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 344—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 346—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 348—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 350—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 352—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 354—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 356—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 358—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 360—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 362—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 364—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 366—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 368—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 370—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 372—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 374—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 376—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 378—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 380—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 382—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 384—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 386—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 388—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 390—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 392—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 394—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 396—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 398—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 400—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 402—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 404—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 406—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 408—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 410—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 412—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 414—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 416—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 418—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 420—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 422—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 424—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 426—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 428—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 430—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 432—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 434—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 436—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 438—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 440—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 442—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 444—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 446—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 448—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 450—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 452—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 454—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 456—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 458—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 460—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 462—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 464—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 466—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 468—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 470—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 472—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 474—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 476—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 478—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 480—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 482—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 484—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 486—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 488—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 490—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 492—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 494—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 496—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 498—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 500—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 502—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 504—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 506—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 508—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 510—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 512—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 514—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 516—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 518—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 520—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 522—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 524—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 526—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 528—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 530—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 532—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 534—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 536—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 538—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 540—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 542—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 544—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 546—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 548—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 550—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 552—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 554—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 556—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 558—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 560—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 562—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 564—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 566—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 568—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 570—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 572—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 574—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 576—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 578—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 580—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 582—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 584—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 586—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 588—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 590—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 592—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 594—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 596—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 598—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 600—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 602—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 604—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 606—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 608—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 610—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 612—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 614—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 616—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 618—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 620—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 622—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 624—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 626—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 628—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 630—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 632—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 634—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 636—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 638—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 640—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 642—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 644—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 646—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 648—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 650—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 652—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 654—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 656—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 658—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 660—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 662—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 664—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 666—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 668—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 670—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 672—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 674—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 676—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 678—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 680—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 682—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 684—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 686—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 688—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 690—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 692—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 694—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 696—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 698—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 700—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 702—Fast	8:00 pm	8:05 pm
No. 704—Fast

Phone 4800

CLASSIFIED SECTION

Phone 4800

FEES IN CLASSES FOR TECH SLICED

Applies to Both Correspondence and Extension Work of the School

RUSTON, Sept. 10 (Special)—Through action of the state board of education, fees for both correspondence and extension classes at Louisiana Tech have been reduced from $7.50 to $5 for each course, effective now, it has been announced here. Reductions in fees and living expenses for resident students attending summer terms and the regular sessions at Tech were made by the board several weeks ago.

Several hundred persons will profit by the cut in the price of off-campus instruction offered through the Louisiana Tech extension division. During the past year, 307 different people took one or more courses by the home-study method, and 256 were enrolled in group-lecture classes conducted off the campus, according to D. G. Armstrong, director of the Tech extension division.

The 256 people, including teachers, business men and women and persons engaged in other occupations, were students enrolled in 15 classes which were conducted in Monroe, Bastrop, Spearsville, Jena and Ruston. The classes were taught by members of the regular Tech faculty. Work in the past year was given in the fields of education, psychology, English, history, home economics, and art.

Courses in all departments of Tech are offered by mail. Instruction may be obtained in practically all subjects except some of the laboratory courses, according to Mr. Armstrong.

The extension division of Louisiana Tech has been maintained for several years to give to persons who cannot do college residence work an opportunity to obtain at least part of the educational advantages of the institution. Any person may begin courses for which he is qualified at any time. All courses given either by correspondence or in group-lecture centers by the Tech extension division may count for regular credit at Louisiana Tech.

WILL URGE ANNUAL PARISH FAIR BE HELD IN MONROE

George Breece, manager of the George E. Breece Lumber company, and member of the police jury, states that he will bring up the matter of holding a parish fair at the next meeting of the jury on Wednesday.

He is of the opinion that an annual show could be held in this city and, while it is too late to make the start this year, he is anxious to see action taken toward this end for the season of 1933.

Home racing, too, should be included in the program, in the belief of Mr. Breece as he believes this would add much interest.

CROSSETT MAN DIES

CROSSETT, Ark., Sept. 10 (Special)—Robert W. Burt, age 72, and an employee of the Cross-t Lumber company for 20 years, died at the home of his son, Clyde, here Friday afternoon. He was born in Leake county, Mississippi, where he lived until he moved to Crossett in 1909. He had been a member of the Baptist church for 50 years. Mr. Burt is survived by his wife, by five sons, Ernest T. Austin and Clyde, all of Crossett, Herbert of Trout, La., and Dr. Elmer Burt of Little Rock; by three daughters, Mrs. Jack Crittenden, of Fayetteville, Mrs. Bernard Gray, of Crossett, and Mrs. Felton Goodwin, of Shreveport, La. One brother and one sister living in Leake county, Mississippi. Funeral services were conducted at Unity Sunday afternoon.

COTTON BEING GINNED

Considerable cotton is now being ginned in Ouachita parish, according to information obtained at the Monroe and West Monroe plants of the Standard Gin and Manufacturing company. Each plant reported that it had ginned approximately 1000 bales of cotton to date.

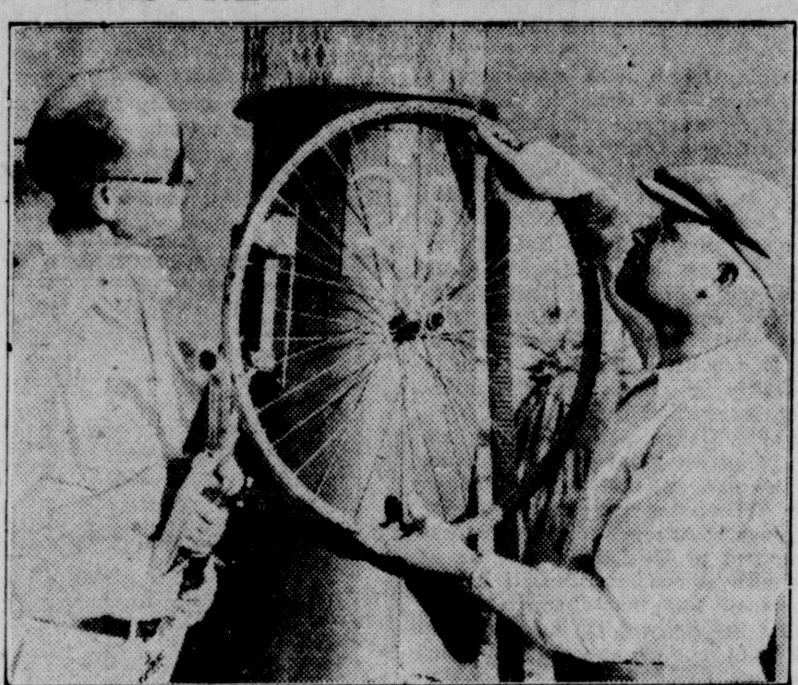

SERUM ADMINISTERED

Typhoid serum was administered to residents of the Bosco community yesterday by Dr. John W. Williams, director, and assistants of the Ouachita parish health unit.

Motor Coach and Railroad Schedules

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM
EAST BOUND— Arrive 10:45 am
 No. 202—Fast 8:00 pm
WEST BOUND— Arrive 8:00 am
 No. 201—Fast 9:45 am
MISSOURI PACIFIC COACHES
MAIN LINE—North Arrive 8:30 am
 No. 102—Fast 9:30 pm
MAIN LINE—South Arrive 8:08 am
 No. 101—Fast 8:55 pm
NATCHEZ-EL DORADO
 No. 810-811 9:30 am
 No. 812-813 9:00 pm
FARMVILLE— Arrive 8:30 am
 No. 814-815 9:30 pm
AMERICAN AIRWAYS
EAST BOUND— Arrive 1:15 pm
WEST BOUND— Arrive 1:15 pm
TELE-STATE MOTOR COACHES
EAST BOUND— Arrive 12:30 pm
 No. 102—Fast 12:30 pm
 No. 101—Fast 12:30 pm
MISSOURI PACIFIC COACHES
 From St. Louis and Little Rock, arrives 3:25 pm
 To St. Louis and Little Rock, departs 12:15 am or 3:25 pm
 From Natchez, arrives 11:15 am or 3:25 pm
 To Natchez, departs 5:35 am or 4:30 pm
 From Bastrop, arrives 7:25 am or 3:25 pm
 To Bastrop, departs 12:15 pm or 3:25 pm

GAS FREE—IF YOU'RE LUCKY

Nevada permits gambling so a Los Vegas gasoline station installed a wheel of chance giving free gasoline to customers picking the lucky numbers. Business is good, said its owner, G. C. Cox, (left), shown with a tourist who is about to try his luck. (Associated Press Photo).

TUBA

By James J. Montague

"Well, said the farmer, 'If you want a room with a bath I'll be glad to charge you half a dollar extra. Tuba, he lives in the bathtub mostly, an' if he's put out the sort of get down an' sorry for himself, so I feel I have to hire Judson's boy to fetch him for him. He done me a good turn one time, Tuba did, an' I sort of like to pleasure him as much as I kin, especially now when he's gettin' along in years. Do you want to go as high as half a dollar extra?'"

The little parlor of the farmer's house was scrupulously neat, promising much for the bedroom which we needed for our overnight use. It is not always one finds such places in a lonely countryside. Who Tuba was didn't matter, as long as he would insist in occupying the bathroom during the night. As to his predilections for flies—well, one must expect to meet curious people in one's travels. We got the baggage out of the car, and the farmer carried it up the creaky stairs, promising that our room and bath should be ready in a few minutes.

As we sat on the little stuffy, "tidy" covered chairs waiting we suddenly heard a loud deep note, half guttural and half musical, such a sound as the hoarse voice of a donkey would be if he were the voice of a donkey could be educated. It was repeated once, and then came to us muffled, as if some one had stuffed a handkerchief in the bell of a slide trombone which was just going into action. Presently, our host appeared, and inquired if Tuba had disturbed us. We said he had not particularly, and being unable to repress my curiosity I inquired who Tuba was.

"Well, I couldn't say as you could call him 'who' for a 'who' has got to be a person, it would of sorta seem. Tuba would probably be a 'it' if he was anything. But he's all right now. He's out in the hogg trough, with a string tied to him so he can't get away an' make no trouble, an' has plenty of room to swim around. He knows when he's well off, Tuba does. He's got that much sense."

There was the kind of a look on my wife's face which indicated very poorly suppressed curiosity about Tuba. But we were both hot and tired, and from what the farmer had said already I was convinced that if he opened up on the subject of Tuba we should be a long time getting to our quarters. I directed toward her a look which said all these things, and she did not make any inquiries. When the baggage was taken upstairs I came down to get some cigars out of the car, and was starting back again when I heard an unmistakable scream in an unidentifiable voice.

Instantly, there flashed through my mind a thought I knew I should have had before—that Tuba was an insane person, and had come back to the room as soon as I left it. I found my wife sitting with a white face on the edge of a chair. She said nothing as I came in—but pointed excitedly to the bathroom. I half opened the door, and just as I entered a dark object about the size of a cat appeared to shoot from the bathtub out of the window.

"Tuba!" said my wife, but not in the horror stricken tones I had expected. Before she could explain there was a rap on the door and the farmer's voice inquired: "He come back, did he? Dern him! But he won't come back no more. I'll fetch him and hog tie him. He flopped out of that hogg trough like he was a maulard duck, an' before I could get a hand onto him he had jumped up on the lean-to and into your window. He must of give the lady a bad turn." I opened the door and our protector entered. A long stride took him into the bathroom where he stood for a minute, puzzled. Then he said, "There he is jest hoppin' down off'n the lean-to roof. I'll jest leave the window a mite open, an' then you can get air without havin' him come back on you."

I glanced at my wife. I was about to say that she shouldn't be attacked by this wildcat or whatever it was that had paid her this visit, but she only smiled pleasantly and said to the host:

"Truly, I didn't mind him. Only he did frighten me a bit at first. But it would be just as well if we did keep the window open just a crack."

"He won't bother you no more, lady," said our host, "Trust me to take keer of him." Then turning to me:

"I s'pose I ought to tell ye about Tuba. He's nawthin' but a bullfrog, but he's the biggest one I ever see."

Classification Index

MONROE NEWS-STAR
— and —
MORNING WORLD
Classified Advertising RATES
PHONE 4800

CLOSING TIME FOR WANT ADS
MORNING WORLD 9 P. M.
NEWS-STAR 6 P. M.
ALL ADS RUN IN Morning World
AND News-Star

OR SUNDAY NEWS-STAR-WORLD
1 Time 15¢ per line
3 Times, Consecutively 12¢ per line
7 Times, Consecutively 11¢ per line
MINIMUM CHARGE 40¢
Count five words to the line.

PHONE YOUR WANT-ADS
PHONE 4800
Want-Ads will be accepted over telephone for all classifications except "Situations." Wanted All telephone ads are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our customers in transacting business over the telephone—no ledger account is kept on account of the great number of want-ads. Therefore, it is necessary to make prompt collections.

Classification Index

The following classifications are arranged alphabetically under group headings and numbered for quick reference.
Legal Notices—1
ANNOUNCEMENTS
Lost, Found, Strayed—2
Special Notices—3
BUSINESS SERVICES
Dressmaking, Sewing—4
Educational—5
Miscellaneous—6
Radio Repair—7
Hauling, Storage, Transfer—8
CONTRACTORS
Carpenters and Contractors—9
Building—10
Electrical Works and Supplies—11
Painting and Plumbing—12
Roofing and Sheet Metal—13
TYPEWRITERS—14
EMPLOYMENT
Agents, Salesmen—15
Female Help Wanted—16
Male Help Wanted—17
Situations Wanted—18
MISCELLANEOUS
Household Goods—19
Musical Instruments—20
Machinery and Tools—21
Office and Store Fixtures—22
Typewriters—23
Farm Products—24
Farms and Farms—25
Livestock for Sale—26
Seeds and Plants—27
Dogs, Cats and Pets—28
Wanted to Purchase—29
FINANCIAL
Business Opportunities—30
Investments—31
Money to Loan—32
RENTALS
Apartments for Rent—33
Boarding Houses—34
Furnished Rooms—35
Light Housekeeping—36
Unfurnished Rooms—37
Wanted to Rent—38
REAL ESTATE
Acreage and Farms—39
Business Property—40
Houses for Sale—41
Lots for Sale—42
Rural Estate for Sale—43
Rural Estate for Lease—44
Rural Estate for Rent—45
Rural Estate for Lease—46
AUTOMOBILES
Automobiles for Sale—47
Automobiles for Lease—48
Service, Tires and Accessories—49

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lost, Found, Strayed 2
LOST—BUNCH OF KEYS IN LEATHER CASE. IF FOUND PLEASE PHONE 2288 TO SOUTH SECOND.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

LOST—Bunch of keys with "M. J. Foster, Monroe, La." on key ring. Finder please return to News-Star-World office. Reward.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

THE TOTEM POLE
OF THE INDIAN IS NOT JUST AN ORNAMENT!
THE HISTORY AND LEGENDS OF INDIAN FAMILIES ARE RECORDED IN THESE GROTESQUE CARVINGS.

EMPLOYMENT

Agents, Salesmen 14
NEW LIQUID METAL MENDS objects of metal, porcelain, rubber, glass, etc. without heat. Agents-distributors make $60 to $200 weekly. Write for free sample showing uses. Metal-X, Elkhart, Ind.

WANTED—Salesmen for fast-selling household necessities. Must be fast, ambitious and have car. Liberal commission, unlimited opportunities. Apply 217 South Fifth Friday or Saturday mornings.

Female Help Wanted 15
SPECIAL WORK for married women demonstrating amazing styles. Start at about $16 weekly. No experience or investment. Not home to house. Write fully Dept. C-1284, Hartford Frocks, 432 Fourth Ave., New York City.

WANTED—Energetic young woman to work in millinery and posery department. Must be experienced and able to meet the public. Write letter stating your experience and age. All communications treated confidential. Write Box V, care News-Star-World.

Male Help Wanted 16
WANTED—Automobile painter. Must be capable of doing fender and body work. Apply 3111 South Grand.

MEN WANTED to establish and conduct Raleigh city business in and near cities of Raleigh and Winston. Reliable master can start earning $25 weekly and increase rapidly. Write immediately, Raleigh Co. Dept. LA-23-V, Memphis, Tenn.

WANT reliable party to sell nationally advertised article. Good profits and sure investment required. Factory representative to be in Monroe for interview. Box "X," care News-Star-World.

WANTED—Twenty batch trucks for concrete haul at Monroe. Apply Meyer-Greenwald Construction Co., Bernhardt building.

TEA AND COFFEE route men. Big reliable national company needs 3 more men immediately. Previous experience unnecessary but must be physically able and willing to service 250 steady consumers on regular route and work 8 hours a day for about $27.50 weekly. Write Albert Mills, route manager, 4348 Monmouth, Cincinnati, O.

If you like bargain hunting—you will enjoy yourself in the Classified Section.

MISCELLANEOUS

Household Goods 18
FOR SALE—Garland range, two heaters, radio, kitchen cabinet, underwood typewriter, office desk and chair. Phone 1556.

FOR SALE—Beautiful nine-piece dining room set. Practically new. Phone 342.

Chicks 23-A
Officially blood-tested accredited chicks. Leghorn pullets, pre-war prices. Catalogue free. Drums Egg Farms, Hattiesburg, Miss.

BABY CHICKS shipped C. O. D. Rocks, Red, Wyandottes, 88, Leghorns and mixed. E. Rucka Hatchery, Jackson, Miss.

Wanted to Purchase 28
WANTED TO BUY—Second-hand furniture. New York Furniture Co., 611 DeBard Street. Phone 1056.

HIGHEST cash prices paid for old gold and platinum. Tick Tock Repair Shop, opposite Ouachita Bank.

WANTED—To purchase used furniture. Mills Furniture company, West Monroe. Phone 420.

WANTED TO BUY—Good second-hand bicycle must be in good condition and reasonable. Write Sidney Patton, General Delivery, Monroe, La.

Business Opportunities 29
CAFE FOR SALE—Good location, paying business. Owner leaving town. Phone 603.

ADVERTISE in out-of-town newspapers. Catalog covering all states mailed free. Postpaid. Standard Advertising Agency, St. Louis, Mo.

ENROLL now for the fall class. Earn while you learn. Monroe Beauty School, 315 Harrison.

WANTED—Names men-women, 18 to 50, wishing steady post-depression government jobs. $15.00-$150.00 month. Common education sufficient. Full particulars and sample coaching free. Apply today Box 1067-D, News-Star-World.

FINANCIAL

Money to Loan 31
MONEY LOANED ON AUTOMOBILES. LATE MODELS ONLY. 411 BERNHARDT BUILDING.

RENTALS

Houses for Rent 36

FOR RENT—ONE FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED HOUSE, FOUR MILES ON COLUMBIA ROAD OR PETER'S PLACE. ALSO ONE UNFURNISHED HOUSE, 305 SOUTH THIRD. Phone 2655-J.

FOR RENT—Furnished bungalow, interior decoration, all conveniences, up to date. Apply to Mrs. McHenry, 303 McKenley or 1000 Jackson.

Light Housekeeping 37
FOR RENT—FURNISHED FRONT BEDROOM AND KITCHENETTE. MODERN CONVENIENCES. CLOSE IN. 611 CALYPSO.

FOR RENT—One and two rooms for light housekeeping. Sink. Close in. Reasonable. Phone 1645. 510 Broad street.

REAL ESTATE
Acreage and Farms 40

FOR SALE—Lots of 8 to 22 acres, subdivision of Bon Air Plantation, adjoining Baptist Orphanage, for sale by Union Central Life Ins. Co. on long-time easy payments. Water, lights and gas available. Call on D. M. Stevenson, financial correspondent, Ouachita National Bank Building.

FOR RENT OR LEASE—New modern home with filling station and small acreage. Two blocks from school. Five miles out Ruston road. Phone 3828-J.

FOR SALE—Lease and furnishings of best located apartment house in Monroe. Splendid possibilities. P. O. Box 332.

FOR SALE—DESIRABLE NEW FIVE-ROOM HOME, NEAR JUNIOR COLLEGE. TWO ACRES. CHEAP FOR CASH. WHITE BOX "T." CARE NEWS-STAR-WORLD OR CALL 4205-W.

SUBURBAN HOME FOR SALE
Wonderful three-bedroom, brick-veneer home, situated on lot 106x485. This is a real bargain at $3500. Also other homes for sale or rent in good neighborhoods. Price right.

PHONE 1094, MRS. R. E. DAVIS

Lots for Sale 43
FOR SALE—Two acres near Brown Paper mill. Gas, electricity, mail and good well water. $300.00. Terms, J. J. Reese, Route 2, Eros, La.

AUTOMOBILES
Automobiles for Sale 47

WHO in this vicinity wants a good Ford for business use? Original purchaser unable to continue payments. Address: Motors Securities Company, Shreveport, La.

RENTALS
Wanted to Rent 39

FOR RENT—One two-room furnished apartment. Garage. Phone 542. 101 Pine street.

UNFURNISHED (four-room apartment downstairs, $16.00; upstairs two-room apartment, $11.00. 801 Park avenue. Three and four-room apartment, 803 Walnut. Nicely furnished house, 312 McKinley. Phone 1307.

FOR RENT—Modern furnished apartment. Also bedroom. Close in. Phone 979.

FOR RENT—Nice apartment with sink. Upstairs apartment, adjoining bath. 208 Ouachita.

FOR RENT—Four-room furnished or unfurnished apartment; modern; southern exposure. 1114 South Second. Phone 1772.

Boarding Houses 33
FOR RENT—Nice room for gentleman. Close in. Excellent meals. 320 North Third. Mrs. Cook.

FOR RENT—Nicely furnished room. Connecting bath and meals. 209 Washington. Phone 3837.

ROOMS $1.50 TO $2.50 PER WEEK WITH BOARD $5.00 PER WEEK. PHONE 4815.

ROOM AND BOARD—LARGE ROOMS. NICE LOCATION. 1411 SOUTH GRAND. PHONE 7151.

Furnished Rooms 34
FOR RENT—Front bedroom. Private entrance. Close in. Garage. Reasonable. 200 Layton avenue.

FOR RENT—BEDROOMS AND APARTMENTS. CONVENIENTLY LOCATED. APPLY 711 SOUTH GRAND ST.

FOR RENT—Large cool front room, sleeping porch, connecting bath. Garage. Close in. Rent reasonable. For one or two gentlemen. Phone 1404.

FOR RENT—Two nicely furnished rooms with couple. Close in. Phone 584-W. 304 Layton.

FOR RENT—Front bedroom in private home, in Sherrouse Addition, within two blocks of Junior College. Convenient for student. Reasonable. Men preferred. Phone 1926-W, or write P. O. Box 1086.

FOR RENT—Newly furnished room next to bath. New home, private entrance, garage. Phone 2218.

FOR RENT—Furnished rooms adjoining bath; private home; nice for working couple, teachers or students; near school. 808 North Fourth street, West Monroe.

FOR RENT—Furnished room, adjoining bath. 303 Arkansas avenue.

FOR RENT—Front bedroom; private entrance, garage; $12.00 per month. 508 North Fifth.

FOR RENT—Furnished bedroom, adjoining bath. Garage. 1103 North Third.

COMFORTABLE bedroom with outside entrance. Near bath. Phone 2486.

FOR RENT—Furnished room with a garage. 1919 North Second. Phone 435.

SEVERAL nice, newly painted offices. Lights, gas and janitor service furnished. Prices reduced. See A. H. Bates in Kusun Building. Phone 461.

Houses for Rent 36
FOR RENT—Five-room house, all modern conveniences. Newly papered. 205 Seventh street. Phone 948.

FOR RENT—In front of Junior college, six-room modern house. Screened front and back porches. Sherrouse Realty company

PRINTING ORDER IS ONE OF LARGEST

Six Hundred Thousand Four-Page Circulars Are to Be Printed Here

One of the largest printing orders ever placed with a local firm was yesterday given to the Monroe Printing company by the Montgomery Ward stores in the southwestern area.

The order is the second in recent weeks that has been placed with the Monroe Printing company through the cooperation of W. D. Anders, manager of the Montgomery Ward store of Monroe. A month ago a similar order for 380,000 four-page circulars was printed by the local concern for distribution throughout the southwestern area.

Manager Jack Boyer of the Monroe Printing company, commenting on the huge order, said: "It is a fine thing for Monroe to get recognition of this kind. It simply means that a big organization like Montgomery Ward realizes the advantage of placing its orders with a plant that can handle satisfactorily its enormous printing business. The fact that a second order of the kind was given to us immediately after completion of the first one shows that the work done met with entire approval."

All of the work on the big order will be done entirely in the plant of the Monroe Printing company, which is located in The News-Star and World building.

WHEN IT'S TIME TO MOVE

THINK OF
MONROE TRANSFER & WAREHOUSE COMPANY INC.
PHONE 780

For safety's sake it is better to travel in a motorboat rather than a canoe. For safety's sake too, it is BEST to store your furniture and valuables in our bonded warehouse. Ask about rates.

ONE NATION-SPANNER TO ANOTHER

Captain James G. Hatzlip is shown as he returned to Cleveland from New York after his record-breaking cross country flight, to be greeted by Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, holder of the women's record from the same trip. Senator Hiram Bingham is behind Mrs. Putnam. (Associated Press Photo)

Old Courthouse at Paulding, Nearly Century Old, Burns

PAULDING, Miss., Sept. 10 (P)—Fire destroyed one old building here today and made this historic town a deserted village.

It was a courthouse—a musty thing that clung precariously together by the grace of gravity and around which Mississippians gathered to discuss the atrocity of the Alamo when that massacre was fresh in the minds of Americans.

Jasper county invested its fortune in the red brick structure in 1837 and folk came from all over south Mississippi to water their horse at its trough and gaze in rapt wonder at its two-storyed magnificence.

Fire of undetermined origin ate it quickly today and destroyed all records and equipment.

There was no fire department in Paulding. In fact there is nothing left in Paulding except some tumbledown mansions, some shady burial grounds and an aloof pride. It is a village that a railroad dodged and in its declining years it changed from a bustling little city to a drowsy hamlet where hogs roamed in the muddy streets and darkies whittled soft pine around the "co'te'ouse."

A hundred years ago Paulding was the center of activity in these parts. All wagon roads led here. Irish settlers came from the old country, built their little chapel and with their fists and brains fought their way to leadership of Mississippi affairs. They intermarried with the old families of Jasper and together they made Paulding a city.

Then came the railroad. The town divided over the wisdom of granting a right of way and the railroad, anxious to lay its tracks from Meridian to New Orleans, ducked Paulding and built through Vossburg. Paulding didn't care much then—after all the noise of those chubby little engines frightened fine horses and the smoke was bad on the damask of the manors.

So Paulding started dying. The first blow came when Bay Springs was made a county seat, and the county had two capitals. Business naturally drifted away and so did the families.

until only the courthouse remained. Some times the judge and lawyers would drive over from the river at Vossburg and hold court but they usually would go to some nearby town for the nights.

The courthouse had big iron stars on its sides and the voices of Mississippi's great have been heard in its corridors.

There gathered the heads of the families in those days when America was quaking to news that South Carolina had left the Union. Jasper county was to instruct its delegate to the secession convention. Neighboring Jones county had voted against secession and all the south was watching this strategic county.

The men parked their gold headed canes against the courthouse's walls. Spat tobacco out of its windows and roared so the crowd outside heard—"Jasper county goes for secession."

COURSE IN CITIZENSHIP IS TO BE GIVEN AT Y. W. C. A.

A six-week course in "Citizenship" under the auspices of the Monroe Y. W. C. A. will begin at the "Y" building Monday evening. Lectures will be given at 6:45 each Monday night during the course by Fred Williamson, managing editor of The News-Star and World. The subjects will be as follows: "What Price Citizenship?" "Rights and Obligations of the Citizen." "Government and the Citizen." "Civil Liberty and Public Welfare." "Woman's Place in the American Scene." "The American Constitution."

The lectures will be given before the Business Women's club of the Y. W. C. A. but all women of the city are invited to attend.

2700 BALES GINNED
WISNER, Sept. 10 (Special)—According to reports from T. B. Gilbert and company, local ginners, ginning has been in progress about 30 days and approximately 2700 bales have been ginned up to and including Thursday night. Two hundred bales were ginned Wednesday and 216 ginned Thursday. With good weather prevailing the bulk of the crop in this vicinity will be ginned in another 40 days.

COLLEGE SCHEDULES
The schedules of the Ouachita junior college, which were completed yesterday, will come from the press the early part of next week, according to C. C. Colvert, president of the college. A number of new courses, including a full musical course, will be listed in the printed schedules.

LARGER CORN, HAY, OATS CROP SEEN

Indicated Increase in Production Reported by Agriculture Dept.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (P)—Indicated larger production of corn, hay and oats was reported by the department of agriculture late yesterday in a survey showing a slight increase in crop prospects during August.

Wheat and rice were among the crops for which estimates were reduced during the month.

Aided by good August rains in the central and upper Mississippi valley area, the corn production was estimated at 2,854,000,000 bushels, an increase of 1 per cent over the August forecast. This was higher than last year's crop, which was 2,563,000,000 bushels, and compared with a 5-year average from 1924 to 1928 of 2,625,000,000 bushels.

The corn crop was reported maturing at an unusually early date, thereby reducing the danger from frost.

A probable production of 714,538,080 bushels of all wheat was estimated, compared with 723,000,000 indicated on August 1 and a crop of 894,000,000 bushels last year.

The combined production of durum and other spring wheat was estimated at 272,750,000 bushels, a decrease of 1,453,000 from the August figure. Most of the decline was in durum wheat, which matured later than red wheat and suffered more severely from the continued dry weather, particularly in North Dakota.

The indicated durum wheat crop declined from 51,095,000 bushels indicated on August 1 to 44,779,000 on September 1, while other spring wheat dropped from 229,804,000 to 227,971,000 bushels at the beginning of the present month.

The board figured the probable oat crop at 1,244,781,000 bushels, a gain of 2 per cent over last month's forecast and an increase over the 1931 production which was 1,112,037,000 bushels.

Tame hay production was estimated at 68,600,000 tons as compared with an indicated yield on August 1 of 67,400,000 tons.

Prospects for potatoes declined 3 per cent as a result of blight in Maine and drought damage from eastern Colorado to northwestern Minnesota. Grain sorghums fell 6 per cent and broom corn 6 per cent from the August 1 estimate, attributed to the continued drought in the Panhandle area in Texas and portions of nearby states.

Rice estimates were also reduced 3 1/2 per cent from last month because of hurricane damage in the west gulf area. Pastures continued much below average although better than on the first of September during the last two years.

Crop yields generally were estimated to average 6.4 per cent below those of last season and 4.5 per cent below the average during the ten years of 1919 to 1928.

Indicated production of some of the other crops follow, with comparative figures for the forecast a month ago and statistics of production last year:

Rye: 42,500,000 bushels compared with 42,500,000 and 32,500,000.
Rice: 37,700,000 bushels compared with 39,100,000 and 45,200,000.
Hay (tame): 68,600,000 tons compared with 67,400,000 and 64,200,000.
Peanuts: 1,028,000,000 pounds, compared with 1,083,000,000 last year.
Apples: 138,000,000 bushels compared with 136,000,000 and 202,000,000.
Potatoes: 357,000,000 bushels compared with 367,000,000 and 376,000,000.
Sweet potatoes: 76,200,000 bushels, compared with 76,000,000 and 62,900,000.
Tobacco: 1,028,000,000 pounds compared with 1,020,000,000 and 1,601,000,000.
Condition of the various crops on Sept. 1 was:
Corn: 74.6 per cent of a normal; oats, 75.4; rye, 79.9; hay (tame), 75.8; pasture, 67.6; peanuts, 67.8; apples, 50.6; potatoes 70.7; sweet potatoes, 71.3; tobacco, 61.8.
The department figures showed in-

Jim Yarrell to Resist Any Attempts at His Extradition

While Jim Yarrell, escaped convict and bank bandit, was fighting extradition from Indiana his alleged confederate in the robbery of the Olla State bank, Edgar Turner, 22, of Orange, Texas, was being held at the Ouachita parish jail last night.

Information reaching here from Indianapolis said Yarrell had declared officers would not have captured him "without a fight if I hadn't had my wife with me." Louisiana officers had predicted the bandit might show fight if accosted by police.

Turner, who was arrested at Orange Friday morning, was brought to the parish jail here yesterday afternoon by officers from Jena and Columbia. Earlier in the day the alleged bandit had been taken to the bank he is accused of robbing and was said to have been identified as the man who entered the institution with Yarrell at the time of the holdup, which netted the robbers $6000.

Deputy Sheriff King, of Jena, said Turner had declared he knew nothing of the robbery, despite the fact that, according to officers, Porter Boyd had made a complete confession of the various roles four men played in the robbery.

Boyd, who was arrested recently at Clarksville after he had taken Turner to Texas and Yarrell to Indianapolis in a car, was being held in jail at Columbia last night. He was captured at Clarksville when he appeared there in a car which officers said they identified as Yarrell's. At Indianapolis Yarrell was said to have bought a new car and given his old one to Boyd.

Lannie Dortch, who was recently arrested at his home in Caldwell parish on a charge of harboring a criminal, was being held last night at Jena, where he is charged with being an accessory before and after the fact in the Olla robbery. Officers said they believed Yarrell and Turner went to the Dortch home after the robbery and that James ("Chili") Pace, of West Monroe, was the man who drove the robbers to the Dortch home. Pace was taken to Columbia by officers yesterday afternoon for further questioning.

Walter Owens, who is being held in the parish jail here as a suspect in the case, was said to "look enough like Turner that they could pass for brothers." At one time Owens was identified by Olla bank employees as Yarrell's companion. Sheriff Milton Coverdale said that although Owens might be innocent of implication in the bank robbery, he was of the opinion that Owens was the man who robbed L. C. Hammonds of the latter's taxicab on the night before the robbery of the bank.

EUROPEAN STYLE IS USED FOR WINDOW TRIM HERE

As an example of artistic window dressing, Mark Ringheim has produced a charming bit of continental European in the show window of the store of Sig Haas and Sons, at 119 DeSiard street.

This idea originated with the largest shops of the large cities of Europe, and started first in German cities, was brought to America recently. It was demonstrated in some of the smartest shops of Fifth avenue, New York, and the idea has spread.

Mr. Ringheim spent much time and careful thought over the particular setting of the local window and that his talent found approval, has already been shown by the compliments given to his artistry. The idea is carried out with the use of linen crash in a neutral shade of tan.

A distinctive feature is an absence of all frills and furbelows and with a dignified background that sets forth the displays of goods with pleasing effect.

One of the largest trade journals in the country, realizing the distinctiveness shown by this progressive Monroe store, has instructed a photographer to get views for reproduction in their magazine.

San Marino, a tiny country on the eastern slope of the Apennines, about 40 miles southeast of Ravenna, Italy, is regarded as the oldest republic in the world.

Dental Work

Done at a Price Anyone Can Afford to Pay

I Guarantee to Fit, and Fit Perfectly Any Shape Mouth—and You Are to Be the Judge.

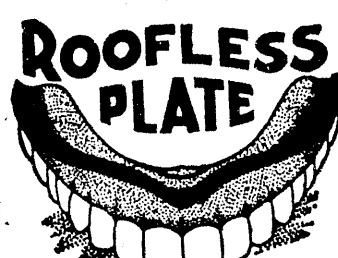

MY WORK IS ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED

To do things perfectly you must have perfect cooperation—I have that from my reception room to my laboratory. When you leave my office, your guarantee calls for perfect satisfaction—I do not depend on ONE patient paying my bill. I charge a JUST and HONEST fee—no more. I don't promise you a peach and deliver a "lemon."

EVERY PLATE GUARANTEED

SET OF TEETH $10, $15 and $20 Made of best vulcanite, and all good teeth.

ROOTLESS PLATES (Guaranteed Satisfactory) $25

Solid Comfort

HECOLITE PLATES (Odorless, light and lifetime guarantee) $30 All Truebite Teeth, and gold pins used.

CROWN and BRIDGE WORK, per tooth $5

FILLING, EXTRACTION and CLEANING $1

Extractions FREE where other work is done.

X-RAY SERVICE $1.00 per picture, or $7.50 for entire mouth.

"Out-of-Town Patients Finished Same Day"

DR. HARBERSON, DENTIST

339 1/2 DeSiard St. Phone 1781 Monroe, La.

"Finest Dental Office South"

RADIATOR FENDER and BODY REPAIRS

All Work Guaranteed

SHEFFIELD RADIATOR SHOP

Phone 9239 107 Riverfront "Between River Bridges" West Monroe

"Coming to Town"

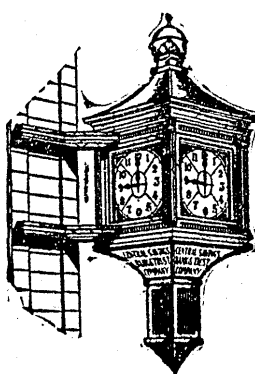

When the Farmer of Northeast Louisiana "comes to town"—he comes to Monroe. He's coming now in increasing numbers—coming with products to sell, with money to pay, with money to spend judiciously, and with money to bank.

And, as the farmer is emerging from his cloud of gloom, so is his city cousin. Business has revived—in the 1932 vernacular, business is fast "coming to town."

It is gratifying to us to realize that the "Central" has played no small part in this business revival—through sound loans and helpful counsel to farmer and townsman alike—playing the game square and riding it through.

Prosperity is no longer just around the proverbial corner. Like the farmer, and industry and commerce, Dame Better Times has rounded the big curve in the paved highway, and is "headed for town!"

And the green lights are ON.

Central Savings Bank & Trust Co.

AT YOUR SERVICE

Judge Percy Sandel

Candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeal in the Second District

Is entitled to the support of this district by every standard of comparison, as he is the best qualified man for the office he seeks.

Judge Sandel's record in the past, as District Judge of the Fourth District of Louisiana, has demonstrated not only his integrity as a judge and the high standard to which he adheres in the administration of justice, but it likewise clearly shows his splendid equipment for the impartial discharge of the duties that devolve upon the judiciary.

Judge Sandel's appeal to the voters for their support is based on their knowledge of his fitness for the high office. Because of that widespread knowledge his friends are convinced that

OUACHITA AND MOREHOUSE PARISHES SHOULD VOTE 100 PER CENT FOR JUDGE SANDEL AS JUDGE OF THE COURT OF APPEAL.

YOUR HOME MAN HAS MADE GOOD AND IS ENTITLED TO YOUR SUPPORT

Primary Election Tuesday, September 13, 1932

(This advertisement paid for by friends of Judge Sandel)

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT ... When Buying Ice Cream

Smooth Texture Richness Full-Flavor No Ice Crystals Uniformity

Seale-Lily Ice Cream "Smoothfrozen" is not only Full-flavored, but you can better enjoy its flavor, because all the rough ice crystals have been removed to give you the satin-smooth texture.

All Seale-Lily Ice Cream is "Smoothfrozen." They all have a smooth texture; extra richness; no ice crystals. It is Full-flavored and is uniform.

Smoothfrozen

Seale-Lily ICE CREAM
YOU EAT IT WITH A SMILE

PRINTING ORDER IS ONE OF LARGEST

Six Hundred Thousand Four-Page Circulars Are to Be Printed Here

One of the largest printing orders ever placed with a local firm was yesterday given to the Monroe Printing company by the Montgomery Ward stores in the southwestern area.

The order is the second in recent weeks that has been placed with the Monroe Printing company through the cooperation of W. D. Anders, manager of the Montgomery Ward store of Monroe. A month ago a similar order for 380,000 four-page circulars was printed by the local concern for distribution throughout the southwestern area.

Manager Jack Boyer of the Monroe Printing company, commenting on the huge order, said: "It is a fine thing for Monroe to get recognition of this kind. It simply means that a big organization like Montgomery Ward realizes the advantage of placing its orders with a plant than can handle satisfactorily its enormous printing business. The fact that a second order of the kind was given to us immediately after completion of the first one shows that the work done with entire approval."

All of the work on the big order will be done entirely in the plant of the Monroe Printing company, which is located in The News-Star and World building.

WHEN IT'S TIME TO MOVE

For safety's sake it is better to travel in a motorboat rather than a canoe. For safety's sake too, it is BEST to store your furniture and valuables in our bonded warehouse. Ask about rates.

ONE NATION-SPANNER TO ANOTHER

Captain James G. Halzlip is shown as he returned to Cleveland from New York after his record-breaking cross country flight, to be greeted by Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, holder of the women's record from the same trip. Senator Hiram Bingham is behind Mrs. Putnam. (Associated Press Photo)

Old Courthouse at Paulding, Nearly Century Old, Burns

PAULDING, Miss., Sept. 10 (AP)—Fire destroyed one old building here today and made this historic town a deserted village.

It was a courthouse—a musty thing that clung precariously together by the grace of gravity and around which Mississippians gathered to discuss the atrocity of the Alamo when that massacre was fresh in the minds of Americans.

Jasper county invested its fortune in the red brick structure in 1837 and folk came from all over south Mississippi to water their horse at its trough and gaze in rapt wonder at its two-story magnificence.

Fire of undetermined origin ate it quickly today and destroyed all records and equipment.

There was no fire department in Paulding. In fact there is nothing left in Paulding except some tumbled down mansions, some shady burial grounds and an aloof pride. It is a village that a railroad dodged and in its declining years it changed from a bustling little city to a drowsy hamlet where hogs rooted in the muddy streets and darkies whittled soft pine around the "go-to-house."

A hundred years ago Paulding was the center of activity in these parts. All wagon roads led here. Irish settlers came from the old country, built their little chapel and with their fists and brains fought their way to leadership of Mississippi affairs. They intermarried with the old families of Jasper and together they made Paulding a city.

Then came the railroad. The town divided over the wisdom of granting a right of way and the railroad, anxious to lay its tracks from Meridian to New Orleans, ducked Paulding and built through Vossburg. Paulding didn't care much then—after all the noise of those chubby little engines frightened fine horses and the smoke was bad on the damask of the manors.

So Paulding started dying. The first blow came when Bay Springs was made a county seat, and the county had two capitals. Business naturally drifted away and so did the families.

until only the courthouse remained. Some times the judge and lawyers would drive over from the river at Vossburg and hold court but they usually would go to some nearby town for the night.

The courthouse had big iron stars on its sides and the voices of Mississippi's great have been heard in its corridors.

There gathered the heads of the families in those days when America was quickening to news that South Carolina had left the Union. Jasper county was to instruct its delegate to the secession convention. Neighboring Jones county had voted against secession and all the south was watching this strategic county.

The men parked their gold headed canes against the courthouse's walls, spat tobacco out of its windows and roared so the crowd outside heard—"Jasper county goes for secession."

COURSE IN CITIZENSHIP IS TO BE GIVEN AT Y. W. C. A.

A six-week course in "Citizenship" under the auspices of the Monroe Y. W. C. A. will begin at the "Y" building Monday evening. Lectures will be given at 6:45 each Monday night during the course by Fred Williamson, managing editor of The News-Star and World. The subjects will be as follows: "What Price Citizenship?" "Rights and Obligations of the Citizen." "Civil Liberty and Public Welfare." "Woman's Place in the American Scene." "The American Constitution."

The lectures will be given before the Business Women's club of the Y. W. C. A., but all women of the city are invited to attend.

2700 BALES GINNED
WISNER, Sept. 10 (Special)—According to reports from T. B. Gilbert and company, local ginners, ginning is well under way here. Ginning has been in progress about 30 days and approximately 2700 bales have been ginned up to and including Thursday night. Two hundred bales were ginned Wednesday and 216 ginned Thursday. With good weather prevailing the bulk of the crop in this vicinity will be ginned in another 40 days.

COLLEGE SCHEDULES
The schedules of the Ouachita junior college, which were completed yesterday, will come from the press the early part of next week, according to C. C. Colvert, president of the college. A number of new courses, including a full musical course, will be listed in the printed schedules.

LARGER CORN, HAY, OATS CROP SEEN

Indicated Increase in Production Reported by Agriculture Dept.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Indicated larger production of corn, hay and oats was reported by the department of agriculture late yesterday in a survey showing a slight increase in crop prospects during August.

Wheat and rice were among the crops for which estimates were reduced during the month.

Aided by good August rains in the central and upper Mississippi valley area, the corn production was estimated at 2,854,000,000 bushels, an increase of 1 per cent over the August forecast. This was higher than last year's crop, which was 2,563,000,000 bushels, and compared with a 5-year average from 1924 to 1928 of 2,625,000,000.

The corn crop was reported maturing at an unusually early date, thereby reducing the danger from frost.

A probable production of 774,538,080 bushels of all wheat was estimated, compared with 723,000,000 indicated on August 1 and a crop of 894,000,000 bushels last year.

The combined production of durum and other spring wheat was estimated at 272,750,000 bushels, a decrease of 8,149,000 from the August figure. Most of the decline was in durum wheat, which matured later than red wheat and suffered more severely from the continued dry weather, particularly in North Dakota.

The indicated durum wheat crop declined from 51,095,000 bushels indicated on August 1 to 44,779,000 on September 1, while other spring wheat dropped from 229,804,000 to 227,971,000 bushels at the beginning of the present month.

The board figured the probable oat crop at 1,244,781,000 bushels, a gain of 2 per cent over last month's forecast and an increase over the 1931 production which was 1,112,037,000 bushels.

Tame hay production was estimated at 68,600,000 tons as compared with an indicated yield on August 1 of 67,400,000 tons.

Prospects for potatoes declined 3 per cent as a result of blight in Maine and drought damage from eastern Colorado to northwestern Minnesota. Grain sorghums fell 6 per cent and broom corn 6 per cent from the August 1 estimate, attributed to the continued drought in the Panhandle area in Texas and portions of nearby states.

Rice estimates were also reduced 3 1-2 per cent from last month because of hurricane damage in the west gulf area. Pastures continued much below average although better than on the first of September during the last two years.

Crop yields generally were estimated to average 6.4 per cent below those of last season and 4.5 per cent below the average during the ten years of 1919 to 1928.

Indicated production of some of the other crops follow, with comparative figures for the forecast a month ago and statistics of production last year:

Rye: 42,500,000 bushels compared with 42,500,000 and 32,500,000.

Rice: 37,700,000 bushels compared with 39,100,000 and 45,200,000.

Hay (tame): 68,600,000 tons compared with 67,400,000 and 64,200,000.

Peanuts: 1,026,000,000 pounds, compared with 1,083,000,000 last year.

Apples: 138,000,000 bushels compared with 136,000,000 and 202,000,000.

Potatoes: 357,000,000 bushels compared with 367,000,000 and 376,000,000.

Sweet potatoes: 76,200,000 bushels, compared with 76,000,000 and 62,900,000.

Tobacco: 1,028,000,000 pounds compared with 1,020,000,000 and 1,601,000,000.

Condition of the various crops on Sept. 1 was:

Corn: 74.6 per cent of a normal; oats, 75.4; rye, 79.9; hay (tame), 75.8; pasture, 67.6; peanuts, 67.8; apples, 50.6; potatoes 70.7; sweet potatoes, 71.3; tobacco, 61.8.

The department figures showed in-

Jim Yarrell to Resist Any Attempts at His Extradition

While Jim Yarrell, escaped convict and bank bandit, was fighting extradition from Indiana his alleged confederate in the robbery of the Olla State bank, Edgar Turner, 22, of Orange, Texas, was being held at the Ouchita parish jail last night.

Information reaching here from Indianapolis said Yarrell had declared officers would not have captured him "without a fight if I hadn't had my wife with me." Louisiana officers had predicted the bandit might show fight if accosted by police.

Turner, who was arrested at Orange Friday morning, was brought to the parish jail here yesterday afternoon by officers from Jena and Columbia. Earlier in the day the alleged bandit had been taken to the bank he is accused of robbing and was said to have been identified as the man who entered the institution with Yarrell at the time of the holdup, which netted the robbers $600.

Deputy Sheriff King, of Jena, said Turner had declared he knew nothing of the robbery, despite the fact that, according to officers, Porter Boyd had made a complete confession of the various roles four men played in the robbery.

Boyd, who was arrested recently at Clarks after he had taken Turner to Texas and Yarrell to Indianapolis in a car, was being held in jail at Columbia last night. He was captured at Clarks when he appeared there in a car which officers said they identified as Yarrell's. At Indianapolis Yarrell was said to have bought a new car and given his old one to Boyd.

Jannie Dortch, who was recently arrested at his home in Caldwell parish on a charge of harboring a criminal, was being held last night at Jena, where he is charged with being an accessory before and after the fact in the Olla robbery. Officers said they believed Yarrell and Turner went to the Dortch home after the robbery and that James ("Chili") Pace, of West Monroe, was the man who drove the robbers to the Dortch home. Pace was taken to Columbia by officers yesterday afternoon for further questioning.

Walter Owens, who is being held in the parish jail here as a suspect in the case, was said to "look enough like Turner that they could pass for brothers." At one time Owens was identified by Olla bank employees as Yarrell's companion. Sheriff Milton Coverdale said that although Owens might be innocent of implication in the bank robbery, he was of the opinion that Owens was the man who robbed L. C. Hammonds of the latter's taxicab on the night before the robbery of the bank.

PLAYGROUNDS SEASONAL REPORT MADE SATURDAY

The total number of attendances for the 12 weeks on the playgrounds of Monroe was 19,317 children and adults, stated Miss Lucyle Godwin, director of the municipal recreation department.

There were many activities initiated on the various grounds. These included three baseball leagues, stunt day, racing, stilt walking, puppet shows, rope contests, dramatics, pet shows and handicraft exhibitions.

A big water pageant was staged on the Fourth of July. Also there was a big doll day, and a circus to crown the season's achievements.

Funeral services for Lee H. Dickerson, 71, who was found dead yesterday morning, will take place at 2:15 today at the family residence at 215 Miller street in West Monroe. Interment will be made at Mt. Vernon cemetery.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the First Baptist church of West Monroe.

Besides his widow, Mr. Dickerson, who is a member of the Woodmen of the World and who had resided for several years in West Monroe, is survived by several children.

Mrs. Dickerson found that her husband was dead when she attempted to awaken him early yesterday morning. She immediately notified authorities, and an investigation was made by Sheriff Milton Coverdale and Deputy Coroner M. B. Pearce. The latter stated that Mr. Dickerson's death resulted from natural causes.

TWO GRASS FIRES

Two grass fires—one at Crescent Bend and the other at Jackson and Plum streets—were extinguished yesterday by the Monroe fire department. Company No. 1 responded to the latter alarm and company No. 4 to the former.

EUROPEAN STYLE IS USED FOR WINDOW TRIM HERE

As an example of artistic window dressing, Mark Ringheim has produced a charming bit of continental Europe in the show window of the store of Sig Haas and Sons, at 119 DeSiard street.

This idea originated with the largest shops of the large cities of Europe, and started first in German cities, was brought to America recently. It was demonstrated in some of the smartest shops of Fifth avenue, New York, and the idea has spread.

Mr. Ringheim spent much time and careful thought over the particular setting of the local window and that his talent found approval, has already been shown by the compliments given to his artistry.

The idea is carried out with the use of linen crash in a neutral shade of tan.

A distinctive feature is an absence of all frills and furbelows and with a dignified background that sets forth the displays of goods with pleasing effect.

One of the largest trade journals in the country, realizing the distinctiveness shown by this progressive Monroe store, has instructed a photographer to get views for reproduction in their magazine.

San Marino, a tiny country on the eastern slope of the Apennines, about 40 miles southeast of Ravenna, Italy, is regarded as the oldest republic in the world.

MY WORK IS ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED

To do things perfectly you must have perfect cooperation—I have that from my reception room to my laboratory. When you leave my office, your guarantee calls for perfect satisfaction—I do not depend on ONE patient paying my bill. I charge a JUST and HONEST fee—no more. I don't promise you a peach and deliver a "lemon."

EVERY PLATE GUARANTEED

SET OF TEETH $10, $15 and $20 Made of best vulcanite, and all good teeth.

ROOFLESS PLATES (Guaranteed Satisfactory) $25

RECOLITE PLATES (Odorless, light and lifetime guarantee) $30 All Truebite Teeth, and gold pins used.

CROWN and BRIDGE WORK, per tooth $5

FILLING, EXTRACTION and CLEANING $1

Extractions FREE where other work is done.

"Out-of-Town Patients Finished Same Day"

DR. HARBERSON, DENTIST

339 1/2 DeSiard St. Phone 1781 Monroe, La.

"Finest Dental Office South"

Solid Comfort

X-RAY SERVICE $1.00 per picture, or $7.50 for entire mouth.

Judge Percy Sandel

Candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeal in the Second District

Is entitled to the support of this district by every standard of comparison, as he is the best qualified man for the office he seeks.

Judge Sandel's record in the past, as District Judge of the Fourth District of Louisiana, has demonstrated not only his integrity as a judge and the high standard to which he adheres in the administration of justice, but it likewise clearly shows his splendid equipment for the impartial discharge of the duties that devolve upon the judiciary.

Judge Sandel's appeal to the voters for their support is based on their knowledge of his fitness for the high office. Because of that widespread knowledge his friends are convinced that

OUACHITA AND MOREHOUSE PARISHES SHOULD VOTE 100 PER CENT FOR JUDGE SANDEL AS JUDGE OF THE COURT OF APPEAL.

YOUR HOME MAN HAS MADE GOOD AND IS ENTITLED TO YOUR SUPPORT

Primary Election Tuesday, September 13, 1932

(This advertisement paid for by friends of Judge Sandel)

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT ... When Buying Ice Cream

Smooth Texture Richness Full-Flavor No Ice Crystals Uniformity

Seale-Lily Ice Cream "Smoothfrozen" is not only Full-flavored, but you can better enjoy its flavor, because all the rough ice crystals have been removed to give you the satin-smooth texture.

All Seale-Lily Ice Cream is "Smoothfrozen." They all have a smooth texture; extra richness; no ice crystals. It is Full-flavored and is uniform.

"Coming to Town"

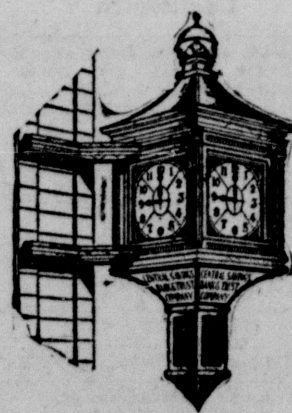

When the Farmer of Northeast Louisiana "comes to town"—he comes to Monroe. He's coming now in increasing numbers—coming with products to sell, with money to pay, with money to spend judiciously, and with money to bank.

And, as the farmer is emerging from his cloud of gloom, so is his city cousin. Business has revived—in the 1932 vernacular, business is fast "coming to town."

It is gratifying to us to realize that the "Central" has played no small part in this business revival—through sound loans and helpful counsel to farmer and townsman alike—playing the game square and riding it through.

Prosperity is no longer just around the proverbial corner. Like the farmer, and industry and commerce, Dame Better Times has rounded the big curve in the paved highway, and is "headed for town!"

And the green lights are ON.

Central Savings Bank & Trust Co.

AT YOUR SERVICE

Fiction and Features

Monroe Morning World

AND NEWS-STAR

Comics and Magazine

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1932

PROGRESS OF FLIGHT

HUBERT LATHAM.

LATHAM MADE A SECOND ATTEMPT TO CROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL IN HIS ANTOINETTE MONOPLANE, POWERED BY AN 8-CYLINDER V-TYPE ENGINE OF 55 HORSE-POWER, BUT AGAIN HIS PLANE WAS FORCED DOWN HALF WAY TO DOVER. HIS ATTEMPT FAILED BUT HE MADE HISTORY. FOR ON BOTH OCCASIONS HIS SHIP FLOATED WHILE HE WAITED NONCHALANTLY TO BE SAVED.

LT. WOODRUFF DE SILVA

TAILSPIN TOMMY

By HAL FORREST and GLENN CHAPPIN.

IT BEGINS TO LOOK AS IF EVERYTHING WERE NOT GOING TO BE SUNSHINE AND ROSES IN THE PLANS FOR THE TRIP TO THE NORTH POLE IN THE DIRIGIBLE. ALREADY THE CHIEF ENGINEER HAS UNCOVERED ONE VERY DEFINITE EVIDENCE OF TREACHERY-- TWO MOTORS HAVING BEEN DELIBERATELY FOULED. A CAREFUL CHECK-UP OF THE CREW, HOWEVER, HAS NOT REVEALED ANY CLUE AS TO THE IDENTITY OF THE PERSON-OR PERSONS-- RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ACT.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THE DAMAGE HAS BEEN REPAIRED, SIR! SHALL WE PROCEED WITH THE FLIGHT?

YOU BET YOUR WHISKERS! NO TAD-POLE'S GOIN' TO KNOCK TH' KEEL OUT FROM UNDER YOUR UNCLE ABNER!

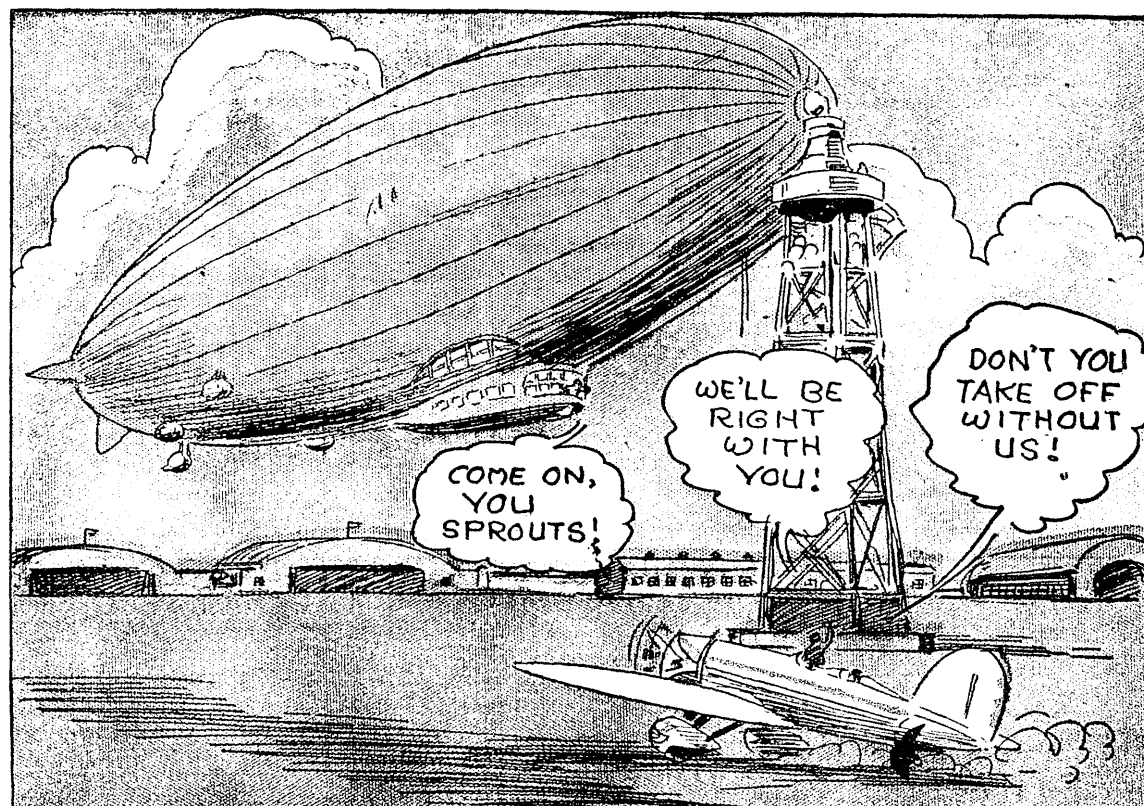

GET YOUR AIRY-PLANE OUT, SON! WE'RE GOIN' UP. WHERE'S BETTY AND TOMMY?

JUST CRUISIN' AROUND. I'LL GO UP AND WAGGLE 'EM DOWN FOR YOU IN A LITTLE WHILE IF YOU WANT 'EM!

HE ISN'T CLOWNING, BETTY! HE'S TELLING US TO LAND! MAYBE YOUR UNCLE IS GOING TO INVITE US TO TAKE A RIDE IN THE DIRIGIBLE.

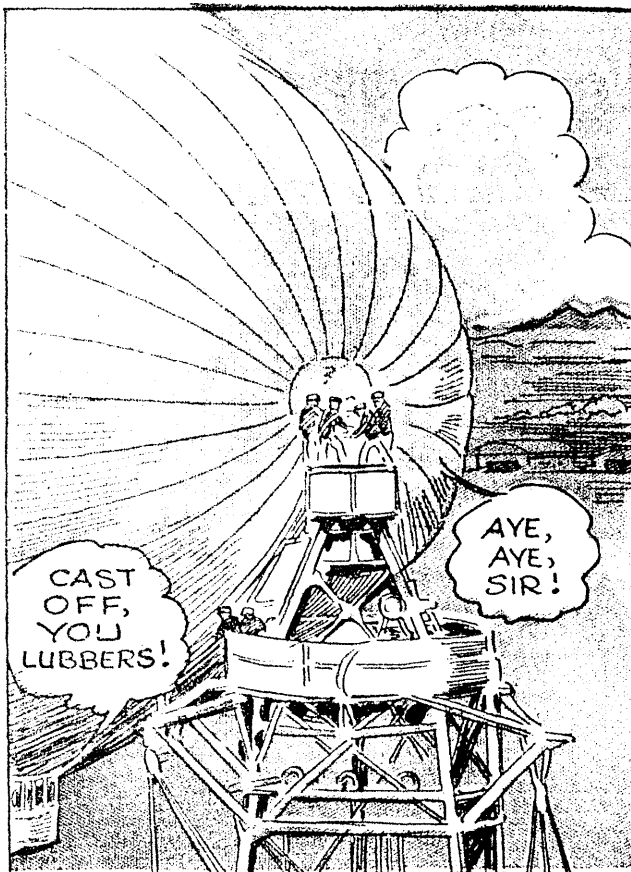

LOOK, TOMMY, THERE'S SKEETER! WHAT'S HE CLOWNING ABOUT?

COME ON, YOU SPROUTS!

WE'LL BE RIGHT WITH YOU!

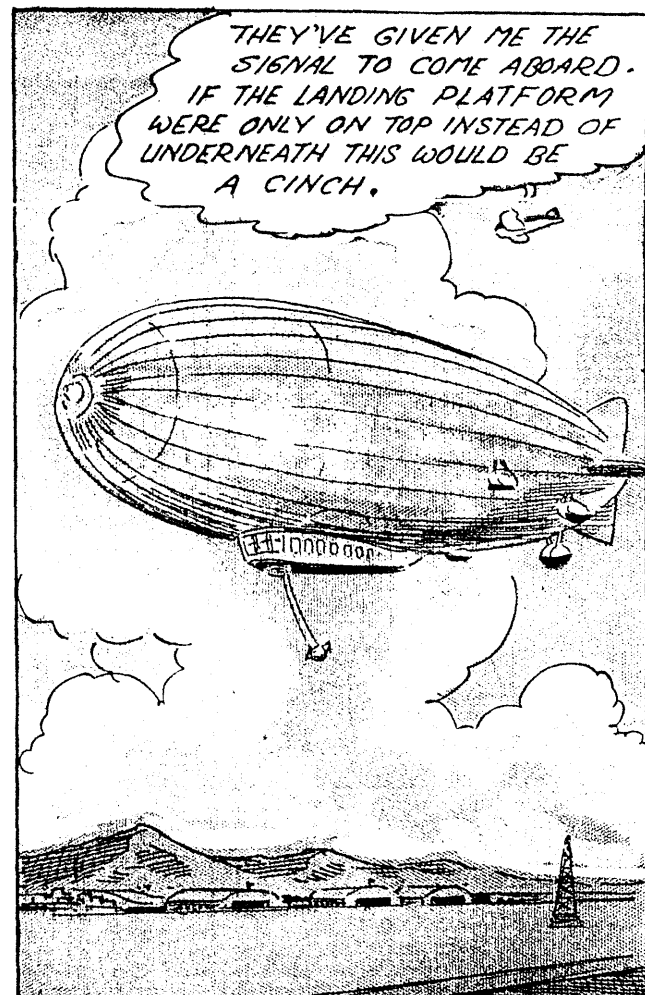

DON'T YOU TAKE OFF WITHOUT US!

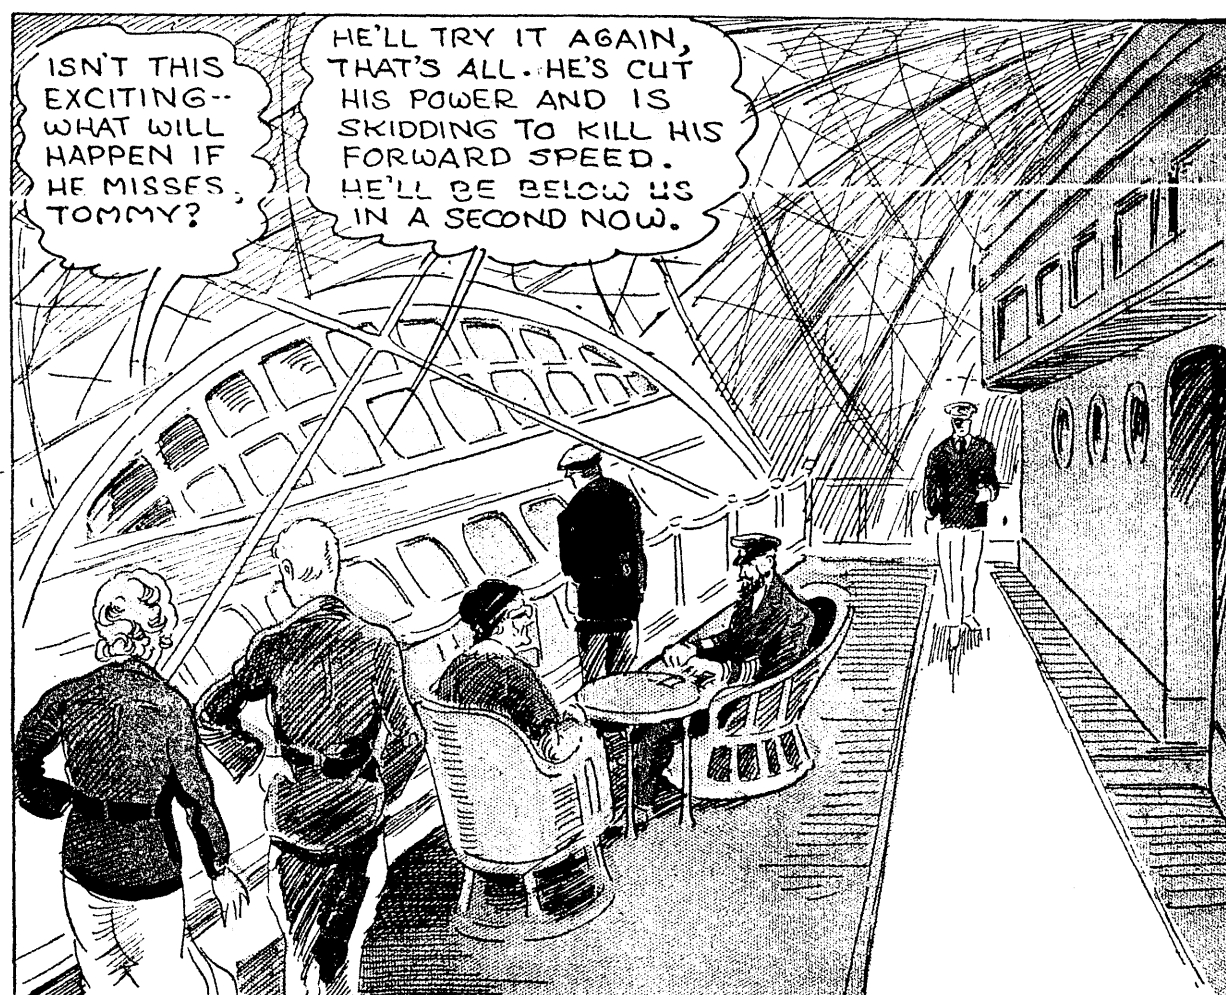

CAST OFF, YOU LUBBERS!

AYE, SIR!

ALL SET FOR THE TAKE OFF ON A TRIAL FLIGHT TO GIVE SKEETER HIS FIRST LANDING ABOARD THE GIANT SKY LINER FROM AN AIRPLANE!

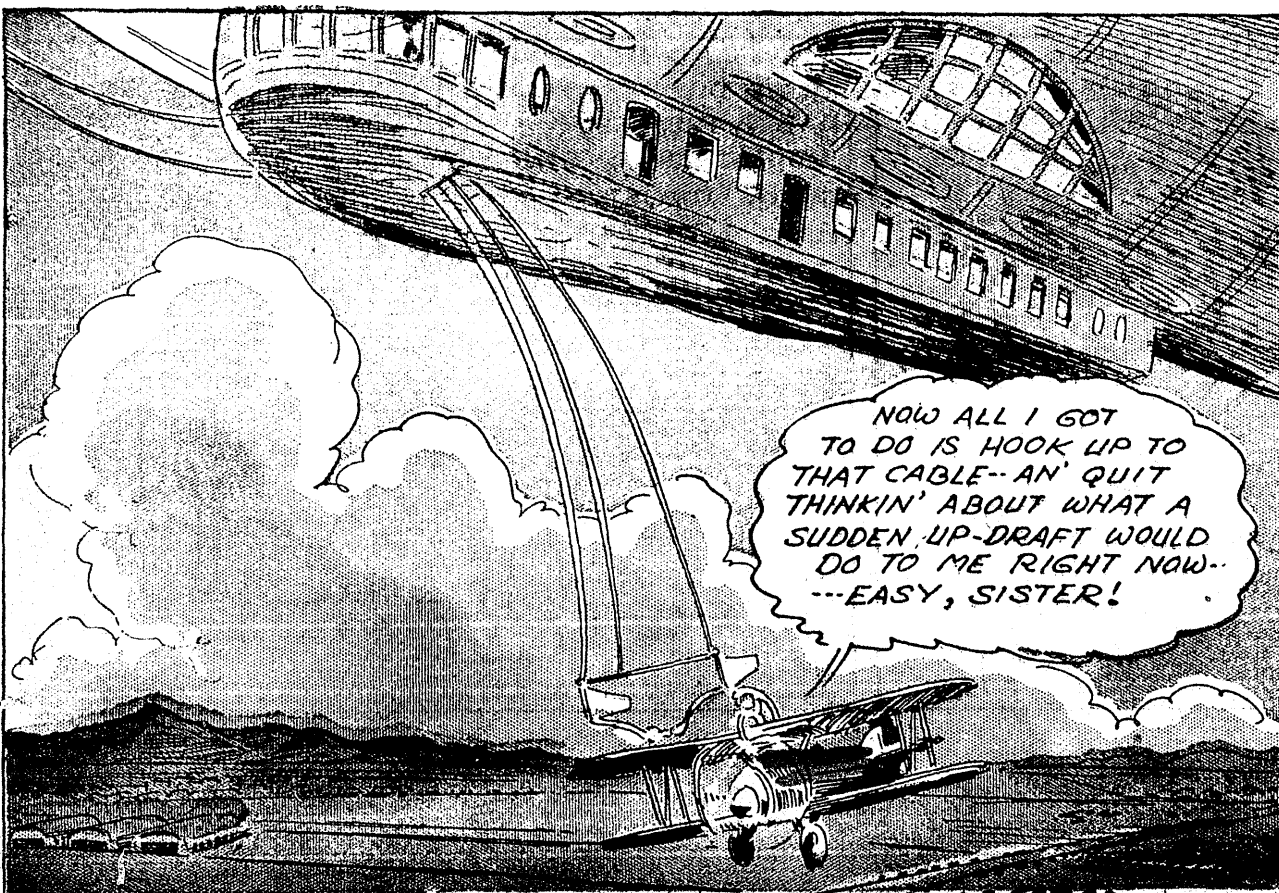

THEY'VE GIVEN ME THE SIGNAL TO COME ABOARD. IF THE LANDING PLATFORM WERE ONLY ON TOP INSTEAD OF UNDERNEATH THIS WOULD BE A CINCH.

ISN'T THIS EXCITING-- WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF HE MISSES, TOMMY?

HE'LL TRY IT AGAIN, THAT'S ALL. HE'S CUT HIS POWER AND IS SKIDDING TO KILL HIS FORWARD SPEED. HE'LL BE BELOW US IN A SECOND NOW.

NOW ALL I GOT TO DO IS HOOK UP TO THAT CABLE-- AN' QUIT THINKIN' ABOUT WHAT A SUDDEN UP-DRAFT WOULD DO TO ME RIGHT NOW-- EASY, SISTER!

I KNEW SKEETS WOULDN'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE. HE'S AS STEADY AS A GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK.

A BULLS-EYE! THE CREAM OF THE NAVY COULDN'T BEAT THAT FOR A LANDING!

AND TALK ABOUT NERVE-- THAT CRAZY GALOOT ISN'T WEARIN' A PARACHUTE!

Hal Forrest

Fiction and Features

Monroe Morning World

AND NEWS-STAR

Comics and Magazine

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1932

PROGRESS OF FLIGHT—

HUBERT LATHAM.

LATHAM MADE A SECOND ATTEMPT TO CROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL IN HIS ANTOINETTE MONOPLANE, POWERED BY AN 8-CYLINDER V-TYPE ENGINE OF 55 HORSE-POWER, BUT AGAIN HIS PLANE WAS FORCED DOWN HALF WAY TO DOVER. HIS ATTEMPT FAILED BUT HE MADE HISTORY. FOR ON BOTH OCCASIONS HIS SHIP FLOATED WHILE HE WAITED NONCHALANTLY TO BE SAVED.

LT. WOODRUFF DE SILVA

TAILSPIN TOMMY

by HAL FORREST and GLENN CHAFFIN

IT BEGINS TO LOOK AS IF EVERYTHING WERE NOT GOING TO BE SUNSHINE AND ROSES IN THE PLANS FOR THE TRIP TO THE NORTH POLE IN THE DIRIGIBLE. ALREADY THE CHIEF ENGINEER HAS UNCOVERED ONE VERY DEFINITE EVIDENCE OF TREACHERY-- TWO MOTORS HAVING BEEN DELIBERATELY FOULED. A CAREFUL CHECK-UP OF THE CREW, HOWEVER, HAS NOT REVEALED ANY CLUE AS TO THE IDENTITY OF THE PERSON-OR PERSONS-- RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ACT.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THE DAMAGE HAS BEEN REPAIRED, SIR! SHALL WE PROCEED WITH THE FLIGHT?

YOU BET YOUR WHISKERS! NO TAD-POLE'S GOIN' TO KNOCK TH' KEEL OUT FROM UNDER YOUR UNCLE ABNER!

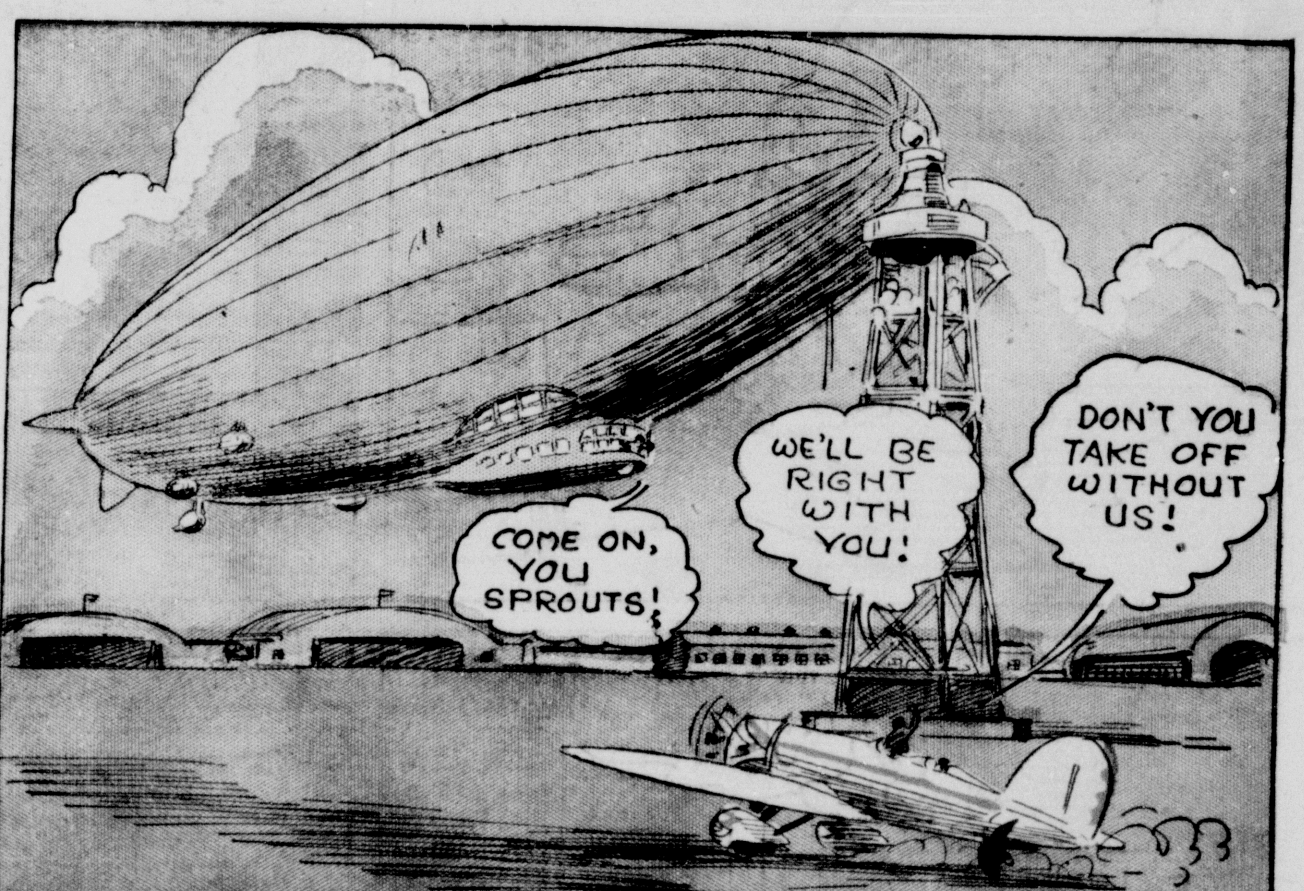

GET YOUR AIRY-PLANE OUT, SON! WE'RE GOIN' UP. WHERE'S BETTY AND TOMMY?

JUST CRUISIN' AROUND. I'LL GO UP AND WAGGLE 'EM DOWN FOR YOU IN A LITTLE WHILE IF YOU WANT 'EM!

HE ISN'T CLOWNING, BETTY! HE'S TELLING US TO LAND! MAYBE YOUR UNCLE IS GOING TO INVITE US TO TAKE A RIDE IN THE DIRIGIBLE.

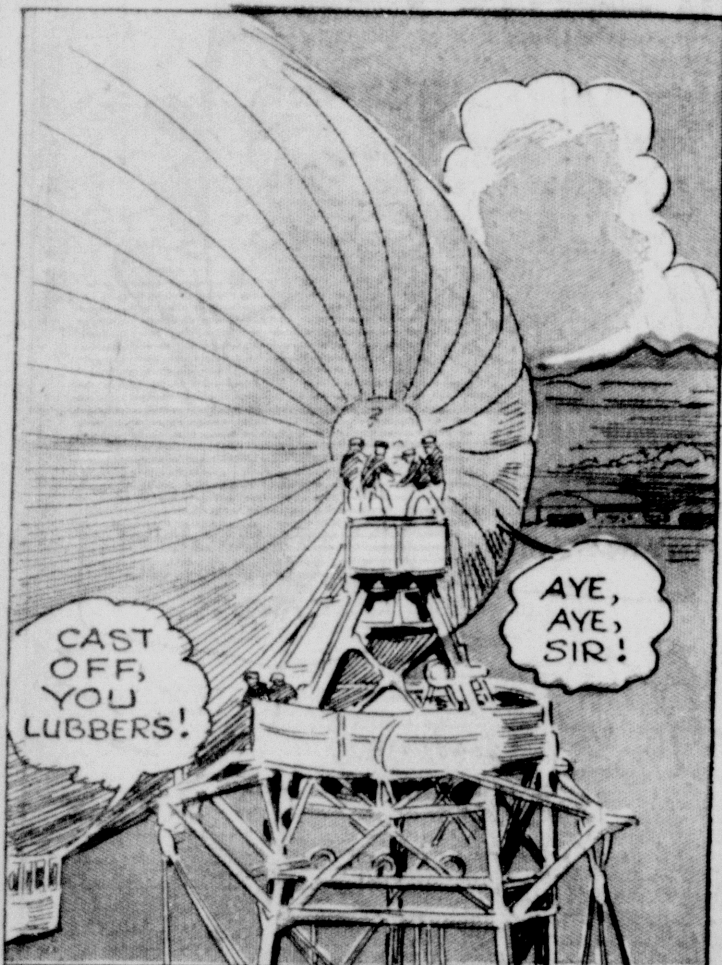

LOOK, TOMMY, THERE'S SKEETER! WHAT'S HE CLOWNING ABOUT?

COME ON, YOU SPROUTS!

WE'LL BE RIGHT WITH YOU!

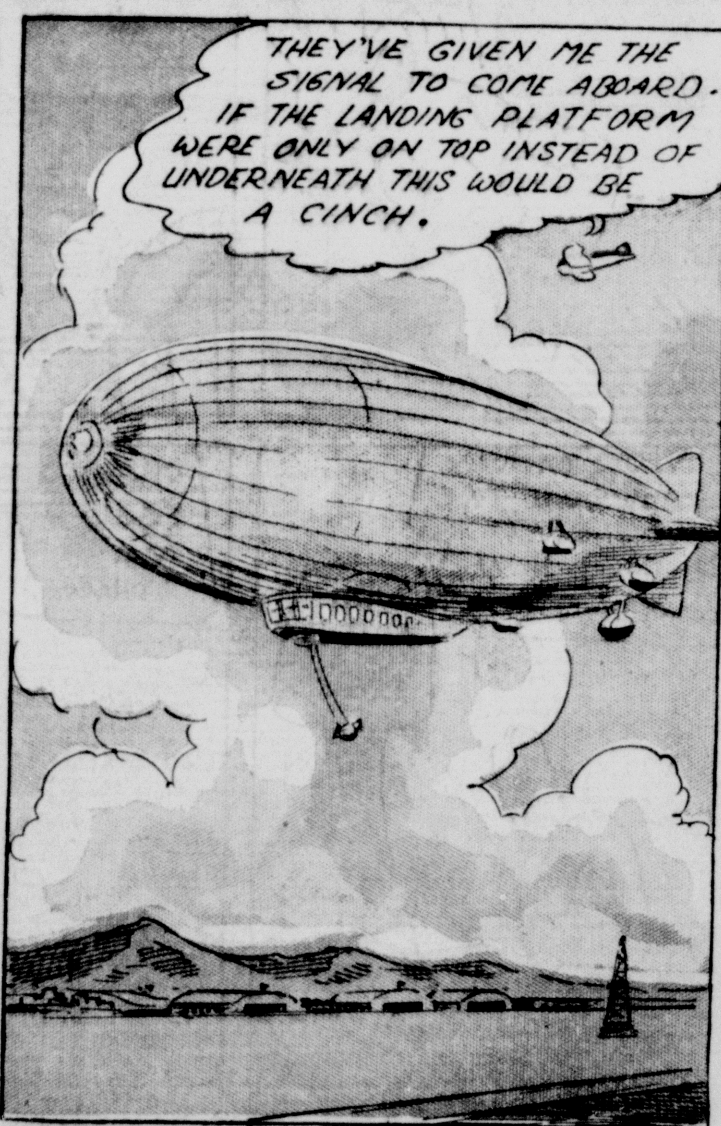

DON'T YOU TAKE OFF WITHOUT US!

CAST OFF, YOU LUBBERS!

AYE, AYE, SIR!

ALL SET FOR THE TAKE OFF ON A TRIAL FLIGHT TO GIVE SKEETER HIS FIRST LANDING ABOARD THE GIANT SKY LINER FROM AN AIRPLANE!

THEY'VE GIVEN ME THE SIGNAL TO COME ABOARD. IF THE LANDING PLATFORM WERE ONLY ON TOP INSTEAD OF UNDERNEATH THIS WOULD BE A CINCH.

ISN'T THIS EXCITING-- WHAT WILL HAPPEN IF HE MISSES, TOMMY?

HE'LL TRY IT AGAIN, THAT'S ALL. HE'S CUT HIS POWER AND IS SKIDDING TO KILL HIS FORWARD SPEED. HE'LL BE BELOW US IN A SECOND NOW.

NOW ALL I GOT TO DO IS HOOK UP TO THAT CABLE-- AN' QUIT THINKIN' ABOUT WHAT A SUDDEN UP-DRAFT WOULD DO TO ME RIGHT NOW-- EASY, SISTER!

I KNEW SKEETS WOULDN'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE. HE'S AS STEADY AS A GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK.

A BULLS-EYE! THE CREAM OF THE NAVY COULDN'T BEAT THAT FOR A LANDING!

AND TALK ABOUT NERVE-- THAT CRAZY GALLOOT ISN'T WEARIN' A PARACHUTE!

Hal Forrest

MONROE, LA., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1932

THE FIRST FALL HATS

Velvet Turbans, Draped Berets and Small Smart Felt, the Trend

WHEN you get your new Fall hat on the right side of your head, tilted way over your nose and covering your forehead, you are going to resemble those photographs of your grandmother, "all dressed up and no place to go", that you have laughed at so many times.

Along with the revival of leg-of-mutton sleeves and their crinoline linings, come the new turbans. They are stiff and perky affairs and most becoming.

Felt will be one of the most fashionable materials in the millinery world this Fall. This fabric is particularly featured in turbans that show much of the hair at one side and are pulled down very low on the other. Bows, feathers and exquisite ornaments will decorate your hat.

Today we have sketched for you on this page a group of the most striking of the new season's chapeaux.

THE DRUM SILHOUETTE

Is accentuated in the chic black satin model sketched at the left. It is trimmed with scalloped ribbon bands of black taffeta. A black taffeta bow at the top adds a perky touch. The very dressy black satin hat at the right reveals a clipped brim, low crown and bows of the same material trimming each side.

TWO DRESSY VERSIONS

New Fall turbans that cover the forehead. The model at the left is of shiny black velvet trimmed with a flat disk of white ermine that comes to right above the eyebrows. The second model, a very tightly swathed turban in a warm golden beige velvet, features decorative banding held together by a gold ornament that falls over the right eye.

YOUTHFUL BERETS

Beige velvet makes the cunning model at the left of the group sketched at the lower right. Note the new looped-over draping. The small black felt hat in the center is trimmed with two white pompons and a white ribbon band which passes under the brim in front, circles the back of the head and appears again through a slit at the right. If you like tricorneres, we suggest the brown felt model with its slit brim, encrusted crown and feathers at the top.

STRIKING AND UNUSUAL

On the dark brown felt model sketched below the brim rolls tight to the crown at the left side and slopes to the right. Two wine-colored felt quills are twisted at the back to form the only trimming.

MUTT AND JEFF

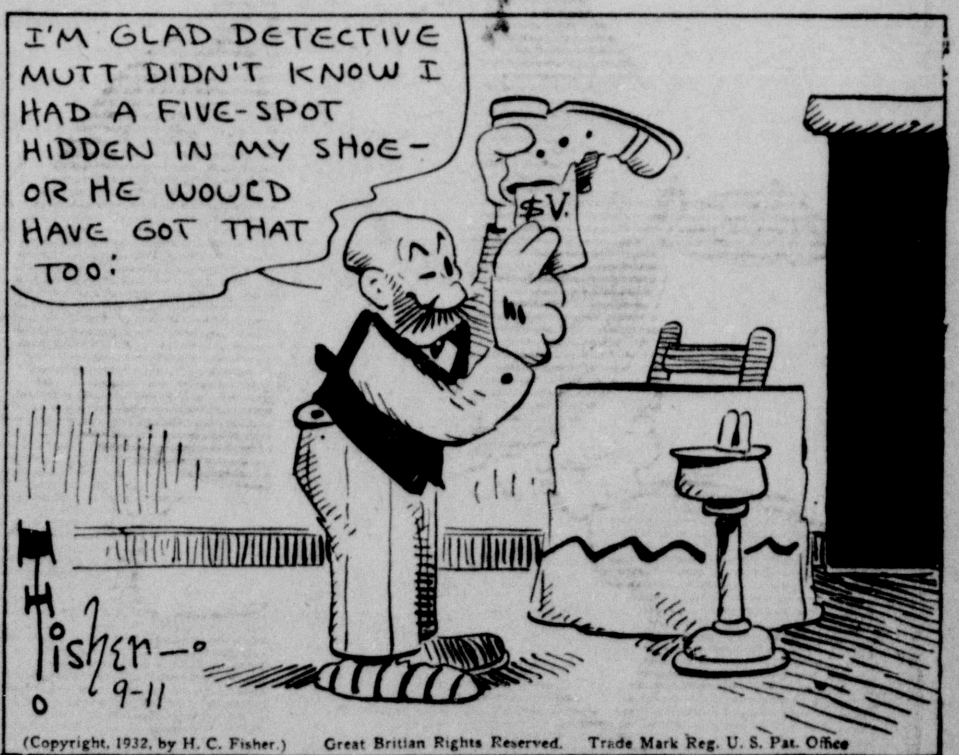

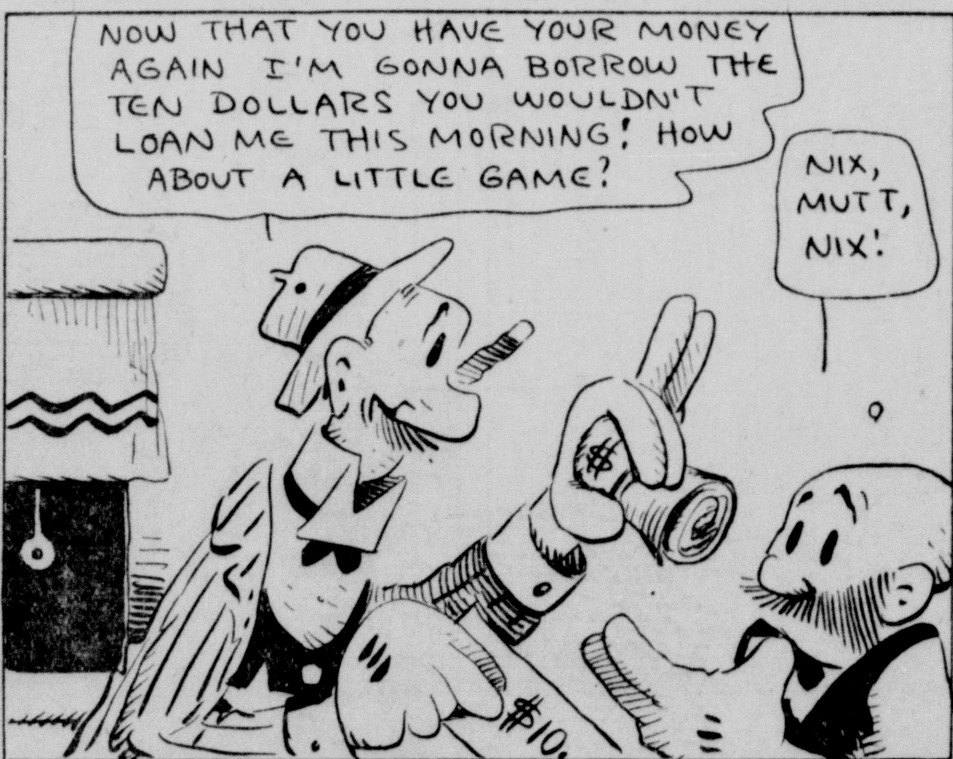

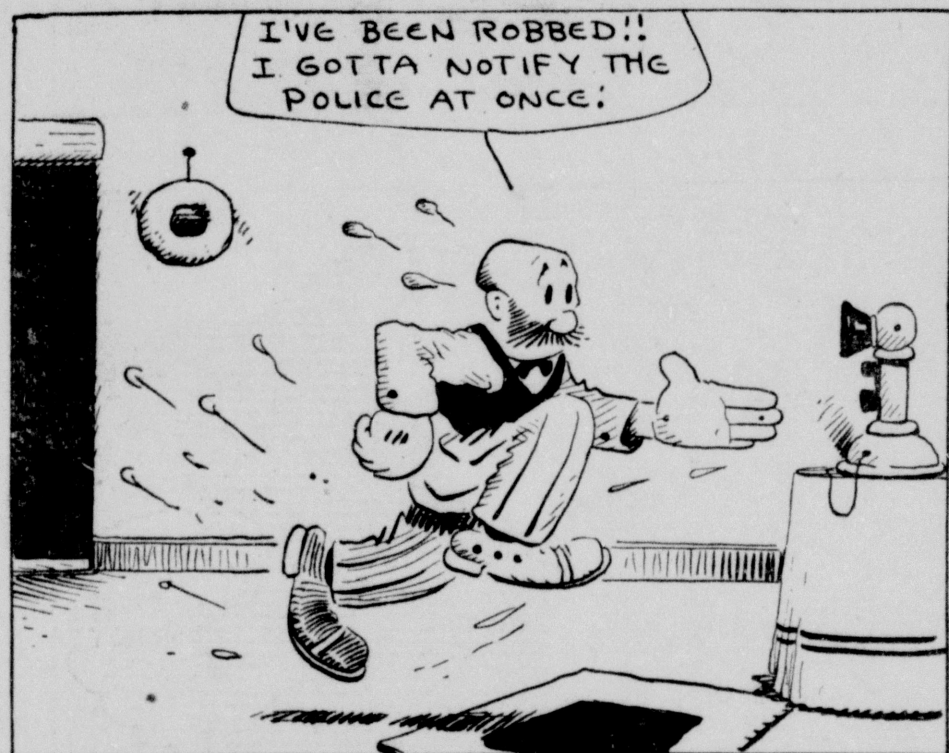

Detective Mutt

By BUD FISHER

(Copyright, 1932, by H. C. Fisher. Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. & Great Britain Rights Reserved)

I WAS seated with old Dad Tully, owner of the 70 Ranch, on the veranda of his comfortable ranch house. Dad is often inclined to grow reminiscent; at such times not infrequently he spins a tale worth listening to.

"I see by the paper," he announced presently, "that a passel o' them New York gangsters, whilst tryin' to eliminate a competitor with a machine gun, miss the intended victim an' shoot up half a dozen innocent children. Naturally, these ornery pups make a clean get-away an' them New Yorkers are wonderin' why. I could tell 'em."

"Indeed?" I remarked politely. "Yes, sir-ee! In a state where it's a felony to pack a gun without goin' to a lot o' red tape to get a permit to pack it, the law-abidin' citizens naturally don't go heeled. Consequently, when some felon pulls a gun play in public there ain't nobody to protest — an' the felon gets away with murder. Even if there's a policeman handy, nine times out o' ten he can't shoot worth a hoot."

"Did I ever tell you about Arch Parkerson an' how a trio o' New York gangsters kidnaped the boy an' held him for ransom?"

Without awaiting my answer Dad rambled on:

"Arch owns the O-Bar-O outfit over on the Chewaucan River in southeastern Oregon, which he inherits the same from his old man, who's as good a cowman as ever gets stacked by his pony on a frosty mornin'. He has three sons, o' which Arch is the baby."

BUT the two oldest boys get town-hungry; they don't display no more interest in the cattle business than a complete stranger would.

"So when the two oldest boys refuse to stay with the business, Old Man Parkerson has the outfit appraised an' splits it three ways between his boys. The two oldest boys take their share in cash an' sign clear, agreein' never to bother young Arch after the old man dies, while Arch stays with the old man an' the business. For seven years, from 1914 to 1921, the old man sure piles up the profits, like all of us did durin' the Great War, an' just before the big break come he says to Arch: 'Son, these high prices are too good to be true. Let's unload every cow-brute we've got an' take a trip to Yurrupe.' As Arch is only twenty at the time an' a change o' scenery looks good to him, he agrees an' they sell the cattle an' spend a year in vain pursuits."

"But the only music them two give a hoot for is the bawlin' of a good-grade Hereford calf. So they go back an' stock up the O-Bar-O with twenty-dollar cattle."

"In two years beef starts on the upgrade; in 1926, the old man does the only foolish thing he ever done an' it killed him. A smart Aleck comes up to his ranch with a motion-picture company, an' says as how he's goin' to make a world-resoundin' picture called 'Custer's Last Stand.' Old Man Parkerson's a fine-lookin' man o' fifty-eight but lookin' forty an' he has a mustache an' a goatee an' a long yellow mane. The picture director says he's just the type to play General Custer, which the old man falls for the idea an' without charge furnishes cowboys an' horses for Custer's cavalry an' induces two hundred Indians to come down from the Umatilla Reservation to pose as Sioux warriors."

"The Chewaucan's the Little Big Horn an' Custer leads his troop through it. Naturally, he gets wet while sweatin' with excitement, so he catches a chill an' pneumonia gets him, an' Arch gets the outfit an' all the money in bank, which it's close to three hundred thousand dollars after the estate's settled."

"In 1929, beef's sellin' at ten cents on the ranch. It looks like war-time days again to young Arch. It's too good to be true, so he takes a leaf from the old man's book an' sells every head o' stock on the ranch. Promptly the stock market goes to pieces an' beef drops to five cents with no buyers; but Arch Parkerson is now worth better'n a million, with all of it in cash except the ranch."

"He don't know nothin' about stocks an' bonds, so he lays off'n them. All he knows is cattle an' he don't aim to fuss none with them while so many folks is out of employment they can't afford beef. So he leaves the foreman in charge, while he hearkens to his repressed instincts an' lopes off to New York.

NOW, Arch Parkerson's idea o' dress is the idea o' his class. He has two pair o' sixty-five-dollar fancy-stitched boots made by Justin, o' Texas, a dozen plain white silk shirts with collars an' cuffs attached, maybe half a dozen plain black silk four-in-hand ties an' three fifty-five-dollar ready-made suits o' plain black worsted. His hat proclaims him a real cowman. It's wide-brimmed, pearl-gray in color an' costs him eighty dollars.

"His jewelry consists of a gold-plated huntin'-case watch he's got as a premium for cigar-store certificates, an' a ring made from a horseshoe nail. Havin' lived all o' his life in a peaceable country he's never carried a gun, but on account he's been readin' about New York gangsters it occurs to him he might as well be on the safe side an' travel heeled, which he does."

"When he arrives in New York he takes a taxicab to a big hotel. He hires a bedroom, parlor an' bath, an' it costs him forty dollars a day."

"Art summons the valet an' has his clothes pressed. Without bein' asked, the valet unpacks Art's bags an' while he's thus engaged he comes across the forty-five Old Man Parkerson used to wear when he was havin' trouble with some sheep-men."

"Is this part of your regular costume, sir?" says the valet, holdin' up the gun.

"Not where I come from," says Arch, "but I brought it along, thinkin' it might come in handy here."

"Keep it in your bureau drawer, sir. You can't carry a pistol in this state, sir, unless you first secure a permit, and a permit is very hard to get."

"Arch takes the valet's advice an' leaves the gun in his room when he sallies forth to mingle in the night life o' which he's heard. Also, seein' as how the valet's a neighborly feller, Arch asks him which is the most prominent night club in town."

"The valet directs Arch to a place called the Hot Potato. Well, Arch takes a taxicab to the Hot Potato, arrivin' there about ten o'clock, when his troubles begin. He rings the bell an' a feller opens a wicket in the middle o' the door an' looks him over real suspicious."

"I don't know you," this feller says. "You got a card?" "A permit to spend money, eh? Well, I ain't got a card, but I want to come in."

"Scram, youse," says the man at the wicket.

"I don't know what you mean. Talk English," says Arch. "Let him in, Jimmy. I'll guarantee him," says a female voice behind the man — an' the door swung open. Arch stands aside, bows low to the lady, says "Thank you ma'am," an' steps in. Inside, they turn to look at each other. The lady's lovely eyes start in at Arch's fancy boots with the high heels, roam up his person an' come to rest on Arch's face. "Innocent one," she says, "what are you doing in this joint?"

"The valley up at my hotel recommended it, ma'am." "A hat girl relieves Arch o' his hat an' the girl says to him, 'Come with me. I'll introduce you.'"

"She takes him by the arm an' leads him into the main chance o' the Hot Potato. A fat man in a dinner jacket comes bustlin' up an' leads 'em to a table. 'Louie,' says the girl, 'this is my friend, Mr. Arch Parkerson, of the Chewaucan Valley, out in Oregon. He has come to New York for to see and to admire. He's thirsty. Also, he's a good Indian with wampum in his pocket. He drinks Bourbon straight and he doesn't care for a chaser. Be nice to him.'"

"Louie bows like a quincunx owl an' moves away to give the waiter the order. The girl bends down to Arch. He'll bring the hostess to keep you company. When you ask her to have something she'll order wine. Wine means champagne — at twenty dollars a quart — only it's California Sauterne, charged to make it bubble."

"I don't want no hostess," says Arch. "I prefer you."

"Impossible. I work in the show. Don't exhibit too much money at once and when you leave this place don't let obliging strangers outside shoo you into a taxi. Walk two blocks and get one."

"Thanks," says Arch. "I'll watch my step. How come you know me?"

"But the girl only smiles an' leaves him an' goes out in back; the waiter arrives with Arch's Bourbon an' pretty soon Louie comes over with a yellow-haired young woman an' says: 'Mr. Parkerson, meet May.'"

"Don't get up, Mr. Parkerson," says May, an' seats herself. She's beautiful.

"Won't you have some refreshment, Miss May?" Arch begs the lady.

"Sure," she says. An' to the waiter: "Wine."

"The waiter brings the wine, all wrapped up in a napkin. Arch takes it out o' his hand, looks at it, shakes it an' hands it back. 'Vamus with that slop,' he says, 'an' bring the lady some wine.'"

"This is all we have," says the waiter.

"You're cheap," says May.

"Nobody asked you over here," says Arch. "Besides, you're jumpin' a claim that's already been staked. I'm lonely but not that lonely. Scram!"

"Then keep it. Bring her a high ball."

"You're cheap," says May.

"Nobody asked you over here," says Arch. "Besides, you're jumpin' a claim that's already been staked. I'm lonely but not that lonely. Scram!"

"By the way May dusted out o' there Arch learned what 'scram' meant. Then the waiter comes back an' sells him a roast-beef sandwich for two dollars. He downs it an' his liquor an' sets there watchin' the folks dance."

"Then a trumpet is blown an' the floor is cleared an' out from a side door comes troopin' a dozen girls without enough clothes between 'em to stuff in a busted winduppane. They dance an' sing, an' then the trumpet blows again an' out comes the girl that got Arch into the Hot Potato. She starts tap-dancin' from time to time smilin' at Arch."

"A feller at the table in back of Arch yells: 'Rotten!' so Arch throws a backhand slap at him, connects an' knocks him to the floor."

"Louie comes rushin' over. 'Mr. Parkerson, you mustn't do that again.'"

"Don't have to," says Arch. "Once is enough."

"There ain't no comeback from nobody, Arch has another drink an' the show goes on. When it's over, the dancin' starts again, an' Louie comes an' says: 'Mr. Parkerson, would you like to dance?'"

"Sure," says Arch. So Louie brings over a nice little girl an' Arch floats away with her. She tells him her name is Mildred an' asks him his.

"Mildred is good-lookin' an' sociable an' refined an' takes a great interest in Arch. She asks him what his business is an' his post-office address, an' after two more drinks Arch gets loose-about the fifteen-thousand head o' cattle he sold just before the market broke."

"Mildred is no end interested, an' when she has to leave him an' rejoin her friends she asks him if he's comin' round the followin' night, which Arch gallantly informs her he is, provided he can get a card an' provided, further, she's goin' to be there. She says she will be there, an' pretty soon Louie comes with a card."

"Arch stays until the last show is over, about three a. m. He just can't get enough o' that little tap-dancer's art. When the last show is over he says to her: 'I'd like to see you afterwards.' She says: 'Take with me. I'll meet you outside in ten minutes.'"

"For the time being. He owns a piece of the Hot Potato, so naturally he wouldn't kill you there. A killing would be bad for business. It's easier and less expensive to send a couple of gorillas to beat you up or take you for a ride."

"Well, I'll be dog-goned," says Arch. "I reckon I'd better heel myself."

"They travel a dark street an' when the driver stops, Mildred gets out first. 'Why, driver,' she says, 'this ain't the place,' an' her an' the driver starts arguin', until there's an interruption. Three men come out of a dark doorway, an' while two o' them sweep Mildred aside, the third climbs into the cab an' pokes a gun in Arch Parkerson's ribs an' runs his hands over him for weapons. 'Findin' none, he advises Arch to keep his mouth shut. The other two men then get in; they set Arch between two o' 'em, pull his hat off, an' crown him with one not quite so conspicuous."

"Well, they ride Arch around an' around through dark streets, an' finally they all get out an' enter the lobby of an apartment house. They enter an apartment an' the chief kidnaper locks the door an' puts the key in his pocket."

"They frisk Arch again for weapons. They find his check book an' observe he has seventy-five thousand odd dollars on deposit in the Multnomah National Bank o' Portland, Oregon."

"We'll give you a break, Big Boy," says the chief. "Draw us a check for twenty-five thousand. A bigger one might make the bank suspicious." An' he hands Arch a pen an' his check book.

"Gentlemen," says Arch, "you appear to have all the votes. I've read stories about deals like this an' you don't have to furnish me with no set o' blue prints." An' he writes the check. "Which this is one check that won't bounce back, gentlemen," he says, "because I realize I'd be playin' in tough luck if it did. What do we do next?"

"Well, you can lie down on that couch yonder, Mr. Parkerson," says the chief, "an' try to get some sleep. Bill, you'll guard him until eight o'clock, when you'll be relieved. At ten I'll go downtown an' deposit this check. You will be our guest, Mr. Parkerson, until the check has been paid. After that, you'll be given something to make you remember to keep out o' night clubs an' never, under no circumstances, slap a strange gentleman in the snoot."

"I see I done wrong," says Arch, an' stretches himself out on the couch. He tosses an' tumbles for maybe half an hour, then settles down an' pretty soon he's snorin'. The guard sets across the room from him, an' the other two kidnappers retire to their bedrooms."

"Along about two a. m. Arch rolls over an' sets up. 'Any objection to givin' me a drink o' water, mister?' he asks."

"None at all, Mr. Parkerson. Go into the bathroom an' help yourself."

"Thank you kindly, sir," says Arch, an' he goes into the bathroom. He turns on the faucet, like he was wantin' to let the water run until it got cold, but meanwhile he watches the guard through the crack o' the door near the hinges. An' when he sees the guard set his automatic on the table beside him an' start loadin' a pipe, Arch steps out o' the bathroom softly — because he's in his stockin' feet now. He has his boots in his left hand, but in his right he's holdin' his old single-action forty-five."

"I think I can beat you to the draw, mister," says Arch softly, as the guard looks up an' into what must have seemed like the mouth of a tunnel to him. 'Up with your hands, my beamish boy,' says Arch. 'No outcries, please, although if you want war, fly to it. I'm agreeable.'"

"You poor dear," says Patricia, "you'd be a marked man with that hat and those boots."

"If you do you'll go up the river. What you'll do, young man, is change your hat to something more modern and keep out of night clubs."

"Thanks for your advice, Patricia," says Arch, "but seein' as how this is a free country, no racketeer or gangster is goin' to make me hunt my hole, so you can look for me in the Hot Potato tomorrow night. I sure do admire to see you dance."

"Sure I'm the sole attraction?" says Patricia O'Reilly. "I noticed you picked an acquaintance this evening with a pretty lady. Which calls for more advice. It's well known that she's Fuzzy Kane's sweetheart. What's more, I heard once that your girl friend is supposed to be the finger for a mob of Fuzzy Kane's snatchers."

"Meanin' what by them strange words?"

"Kidnapers. She digs up the prospect, fascinates him and puts him on the spot, where the mob takes him."

"What do these here kidnappers do with a feller?"

"They take him to a house where they won't be disturbed, hand him a fountain pen and a check. Then they tell him to fill in the check for the amount of his ransom, or if he's a stranger in town, or if he's a local man he can send out a letter to somebody who will deposit the money at a designated spot. If he refuses they torture him."

"Arch considers this. 'Seems to me, now that I think of it, that girl Mildred was sure a glut for information. Me, I'd oiled my neck twice too often an' I talked right free about my personal affairs. I remember I told her what a smart Aleck I was to sell fifteen thousand head o' cattle just before the market went to glory.'"

"You poor dear," says Patricia, "you'd be a marked man with that hat and those boots."

"He took it, didn't he?"

"You're cheap," says May.

"Nobody asked you over here," says Arch. "Besides, you're jumpin' a claim that's already been staked. I'm lonely but not that lonely. Scram!"

"Then keep it. Bring her a high ball."

"You're cheap," says May.

"Nobody asked you over here," says Arch. "Besides, you're jumpin' a claim that's already been staked. I'm lonely but not that lonely. Scram!"

"By the way May dusted out o' there Arch learned what 'scram' meant. Then the waiter comes back an' sells him a roast-beef sandwich for two dollars. He downs it an' his liquor an' sets there watchin' the folks dance."

"Then a trumpet is blown an' the floor is cleared an' out from a side door comes troopin' a dozen girls without enough clothes between 'em to stuff in a busted winduppane. They dance an' sing, an' then the trumpet blows again an' out comes the girl that got Arch into the Hot Potato. She starts tap-dancin' from time to time smilin' at Arch."

"A feller at the table in back of Arch yells: 'Rotten!' so Arch throws a backhand slap at him, connects an' knocks him to the floor."

"Louie comes rushin' over. 'Mr. Parkerson, you mustn't do that again.'"

"Don't have to," says Arch. "Once is enough."

"There ain't no comeback from nobody, Arch has another drink an' the show goes on. When it's over, the dancin' starts again, an' Louie comes an' says: 'Mr. Parkerson, would you like to dance?'"

"Sure," says Arch. So Louie brings over a nice little girl an' Arch floats away with her. She tells him her name is Mildred an' asks him his."

"Mildred is good-lookin' an' sociable an' refined an' takes a great interest in Arch. She asks him what his business is an' his post-office address, an' after two more drinks Arch gets loose-

about the fifteen-thousand head o' cattle he sold just before the market broke."

"Mildred is no end interested, an' when she has to leave him an' rejoin her friends she asks him if he's comin' round the followin' night, which Arch gallantly informs her he is, provided he can get a card an' provided, further, she's goin' to be there. She says she will be there, an' pretty soon Louie comes with a card."

"Arch stays until the last show is over, about three a. m. He just can't get enough o' that little tap-dancer's art. When the last show is over he says to her: 'I'd like to see you afterwards.' She says: 'Take with me. I'll meet you outside in ten minutes.'"

"For the time being. He owns a piece of the Hot Potato, so naturally he wouldn't kill you there. A killing would be bad for business. It's easier and less expensive to send a couple of gorillas to beat you up or take you for a ride."

"Well, I'll be dog-goned," says Arch. "I reckon I'd better heel myself."

"They travel a dark street an' when the driver stops, Mildred gets out first. 'Why, driver,' she says, 'this ain't the place,' an' her an' the driver starts arguin', until there's an interruption. Three men come out of a dark doorway, an' while two o' them sweep Mildred aside, the third climbs into the cab an' pokes a gun in Arch Parkerson's ribs an' runs his hands over him for weapons. 'Findin' none, he advises Arch to keep his mouth shut. The other two men then get in; they set Arch between two o' 'em, pull his hat off, an' crown him with one not quite so conspicuous."

"Well, they ride Arch around an' around through dark streets, an' finally they all get out an' enter the lobby of an apartment house. They enter an apartment an' the chief kidnaper locks the door an' puts the key in his pocket."

"They frisk Arch again for weapons. They find his check book an' observe he has seventy-five thousand odd dollars on deposit in the Multnomah National Bank o' Portland, Oregon."

"We'll give you a break, Big Boy," says the chief. "Draw us a check for twenty-five thousand. A bigger one might make the bank suspicious." An' he hands Arch a pen an' his check book."

"Gentlemen," says Arch, "you appear to have all the votes. I've read stories about deals like this an' you don't have to furnish me with no set o' blue prints." An' he writes the check. "Which this is one check that won't bounce back, gentlemen," he says, "because I realize I'd be playin' in tough luck if it did. What do we do next?"

"Well, you can lie down on that couch yonder, Mr. Parkerson," says the chief, "an' try to get some sleep. Bill, you'll guard him until eight o'clock, when you'll be relieved. At ten I'll go downtown an' deposit this check. You will be our guest, Mr. Parkerson, until the check has been paid. After that, you'll be given something to make you remember to keep out o' night clubs an' never, under no circumstances, slap a strange gentleman in the snoot."

"I see I done wrong," says Arch, an' stretches himself out on the couch. He tosses an' tumbles for maybe half an hour, then settles down an' pretty soon he's snorin'. The guard sets across the room from him, an' the other two kidnappers retire to their bedrooms."

"Along about two a. m. Arch rolls over an' sets up. 'Any objection to givin' me a drink o' water, mister?' he asks."

"None at all, Mr. Parkerson. Go into the bathroom an' help yourself."

"Thank you kindly, sir," says Arch, an' he goes into the bathroom. He turns on the faucet, like he was wantin' to let the water run until it got cold, but meanwhile he watches the guard through the crack o' the door near the hinges. An' when he sees the guard set his automatic on the table beside him an' start loadin' a pipe, Arch steps out o' the bathroom softly — because he's in his stockin' feet now. He has his boots in his left hand, but in his right he's holdin' his old single-action forty-five."

"I think I can beat you to the draw, mister," says Arch softly, as the guard looks up an' into what must have seemed like the mouth of a tunnel to him. 'Up with your hands, my beamish boy,' says Arch. 'No outcries, please, although if you want war, fly to it. I'm agreeable.'"

"You poor dear," says Patricia, "you'd be a marked man with that hat and those boots."

"If you do you'll go up the river. What you'll do, young man, is change your hat to something more modern and keep out of night clubs."

"Thanks for your advice, Patricia," says Arch, "but seein' as how this is a free country, no racketeer or gangster is goin' to make me hunt my hole, so you can look for me in the Hot Potato tomorrow night. I sure do admire to see you dance."

"Sure I'm the sole attraction?" says Patricia O'Reilly. "I noticed you picked an acquaintance this evening with a pretty lady. Which calls for more advice. It's well known that she's Fuzzy Kane's sweetheart. What's more, I heard once that your girl friend is supposed to be the finger for a mob of Fuzzy Kane's snatchers."

"Meanin' what by them strange words?"

"Kidnapers. She digs up the prospect, fascinates him and puts him on the spot, where the mob takes him."

"What do these here kidnappers do with a feller?"

"They take him to a house where they won't be disturbed, hand him a fountain pen and a check. Then they tell him to fill in the check for the amount of his ransom, or if he's a stranger in town, or if he's a local man he can send out a letter to somebody who will deposit the money at a designated spot. If he refuses they torture him."

"Arch considers this. 'Seems to me, now that I think of it, that girl Mildred was sure a glut for information. Me, I'd oiled my neck twice too often an' I talked right free about my personal affairs. I remember I told her what a smart Aleck I was to sell fifteen thousand head o' cattle just before the market went to glory.'"

"You poor dear," says Patricia, "you'd be a marked man with that hat and those boots."

"He took it, didn't he?"

TOWN HUNGRY

by Peter B. Kyne

"Arch, he drops Patricia off in front o' where she lives an' goes home to his hotel considerable sobered, but not to such an extent that he ain't back at the Hot Potato the followin' night."

Mildred spots him an' fills in the evenin' for him until about twelve o'clock, when she says: 'Mr. Parkerson, it's so noisy here. Let's go to some other night club. You've come to New York to see the sights, so let's see 'em. Let little Mildred be your guide.'"

"Although he hates to miss seein' Patricia dance again, Arch also dislikes the idea o' rejectin' the guidance an' friendly society of a knock-out like Mildred, so away they go. A cab sweeps up to the entrance an' Mildred directs the driver to go to another club."

"Central," says Arch, when the girl asks for his number, "what's the number o' this telephone I'm usin'?"

"She gives it to him an' Arch writes it in his check book. 'Now, gimme police headquarters,' he says, an' when police headquarters answer, Arch gives 'em his telephone number. "I don't know where I am, but I been kidnaped an' I'm bein' held for ransom. Three men made me sign a check for twenty-five thousand dollars. You can find out where I am by checkin' up the telephone number. We're on the fifteenth floor, Apartment H. I got one o' the gang tied up now an' in about five minutes I'll have the other two restin' easy. The door'll be open, so you can walk in an' take 'em."

"We'll be there in ten minutes," says the desk sergeant. So Arch walked into one bedroom, switched on the light an' socked the man in bed over the head with the butt o' his forty-five. Then he took a pair o' handcuffs out of one boot an' handcuffed his man to the bedstead. He performed a similar deed to the sleepin' man in the other room. His boot yields two pair o' handcuffs which he'd bought in a pawnshop that day."

"Havin' done this, Arch frisks the clothin' o' the kidnappers an' appropriates all the funds he finds there, which the same amounts to close on forty-five hundred dollars. He also takes back his check. Then he gets in to his boots, puts his forty-five down his right bootleg, where them kidnappers would have found it if they'd been smart enough to look, leaves the keys to the handcuffs on the table an' departs in a hurry."

"He's walkin' up the street when a police car comes dashin' by an' Arch grins as he sees a squad boil out an' go into the apartment house. 'Which they'll find unauthorized pistols on that gang,' says Arch, 'but I'll be dog-goned if I'm goin' to linger around to tell my tale—an' me with a forty-five down my bootleg! No, sir, I'll let well enough alone. Ain't I collected forty-five hundred dollars as exemplary damages?'"

HE hails a taxi an' goes back to the Hot Potato. Patricia is doin' her stuff when Arch comes in. He walks right out on the floor an' takes her by the arm."

"Pat," says Arch, "I been havin' adventures, just as you thought I might. I've had enough o' this town, an' so have you, but I've made enough on the side tonight to pay for one hell of a honeymoon. You come with me. I got a better job for you — darnin' my socks an' sewin' buttons on my shirts an' lookin' after the future here to the O-Bar-O Ranch. I been lookin' for a girl like you for quite a spell. From now on, you'll jig for a dog-gone select audience, an' that's me."

"Did you manhandle 'em?" asks Pat.

"Sure did. The police got 'em now."

"Then we've got to move fast, darlin'," says Patricia, "because Fuzzy Kane's mouthpiece will spring that mob by noon and once they're loose your life won't be worth a squeezed lemon. Are we goin' back to the Chewaucan Valley?"

"By airplane, sweetheart," says Arch.

"They're out o' the Hot Potato in five minutes an' they're married in Chicago next day an' the day after they light in Arch Parkerson's big meadow."

Dad Tully sipped his second alfalfa cocktail. "Which proves to me, son, that brains, like gold an' oil, is where you find 'em. Arch an' Patricia, sure are happy on the Chewaucan, an' I reckon neither o' them is ever goin' to get town-hungry no more. No, sir, never no more!"

"The guard made a half grab or his gun but thought better of it. His arms went up. 'Face the wall an' put your hands behind you,' says Arch, while the feller done—an' Arch hit him a punch behind the ear, laid him out an' had him gagged with his handkerchief an' hog-tied at knees, ankles an' wrists before he come to."

"The bindin' material consisted o' heavy copper wire, quite a quantity o' which Arch had thoughtfully provided for just this emergency by wrappin' it round an' round his leg, an' then tuckin' said leg into his boots with his pants leg drawn over them. He leaves

MONROE, LA., SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1932

THE FIRST FALL HATS

Velvet Turbans, Draped Berets and Small Smart Felts, the Trend

WHEN you get your new Fall hat on the right side of your head, tilted way over your nose and covering your forehead, you are going to resemble those photographs of your grandmother, "all dressed up and no place to go", that you have laughed at so many times.

Along with the revival of leg-of-mutton sleeves and their crinoline linings, come the new turbans. They are stiff and perky affairs and most becoming.

Felt will be one of the most fashionable materials in the millinery world this Fall. This fabric is particularly featured in turbans that show much of the hair at one side and are pulled down very low on the other. Bows, feathers and exquisite ornaments will decorate your hat.

Today we have sketched for you on this page a group of the most striking of the new season's chapeaux.

THE DRUM SILHOUETTE

Is accentuated in the chic black satin model sketched at the left. It is trimmed with scalloped ribbon bands of black taffeta. A black taffeta bow at the top adds a perky touch. The very dressy black satin hat at the right reveals a clipped brim, low crown and bows of the same material trim ming each side

TWO DRESSY VERSIONS

New Fall turbans that cover the forehead. The model at the left is of shiny black velvet trimmed with a flat disk of white ermine that comes to right above the eyebrows. The second model, a very tightly swathed turban in a warm golden beige velvet, features decorative banding held together by a gold ornament that falls over the right eye

YOUTHFUL BERETS

Beige velvet makes the cunning model at the left of the group sketched at the lower right. Note the new looped-over draping. The small black felt hat in the center is trimmed with two white pompons and a white ribbon band which passes under the brim in front, circles the back of the head and appears again through a slit at the right. If you like tricor nes, we suggest the brown felt model with its slit brim, encrusted crown and feathers at the top.

STRIKING AND UNUSUAL

On the dark brown felt model sketched below the brim rolls tight to the crown at the left side and slopes to the right. Two wine-colored felt quills are twisted at the back to form the only trimming

The Kansas City Girl's Unnatural Testimony Against Her Mother

Irene Sloan, who told a jury that her mother had been eccentric and cruel . . . but who failed to make the jury believe it.

"Each day she made me feed the birds. I slept with them, as many as 50 in my room. And there were hundreds of goldfish to tend to every day. Mother was wild about goldfish, birds, parrots and dogs . . . I hated them."

"I was not allowed to open my window because a draft might chill the birds" . . . said the daughter, charging that she was just a maid for goldfish and birds.

A DUEL between a mother and daughter, with a fortune of one-half million dollars at stake, has ended in the probate court at Kansas City, Mo., in a victory for the mother. And now that the lawsuit is over, Kansas City is trying to recover from the jar it got from the sight of an only daughter taking her mother into court and levelling at her a series of charges as unusual as any ever heard in court.

The daughter, 29-year-old Miss Irene M. Sloan, began by charging that although she lived in a mansion, she was nothing more than a maid for goldfish and birds.

"Before I went to school each day I had to feed the birds," she said. "I slept with them, as many as 50 in my room. And there were hundreds of goldfish to tend to every day. Mother was wild about parrots, goldfish, birds and dogs. I hated them."

As the dark and slender Irene launched into the story of her home life, the serious-faced yet kindly-looking mother, Mrs. Minnie Long Sloan, clutched the sleeve of her lawyer, Frank P. Walsh, who gave up important business in his New York office to go to Kansas City to defend his old friend.

"I'm going to insist on taking the stand to deny all this, whether it's necessary for the case or not," Mrs. Sloan insisted. After the mother had been quieted, the daughter proceeded with her story, intended to convince a jury that her mother was of unsound mind and incapable of managing her affairs.

UNDER questioning of her attorney, J. Francis O'Sullivan, Miss Sloan said her earliest recollections of her mother were of fear.

"I remember one time I tore my dress while swinging in a neighbor's yard," she said. "I remember the neighbor woman sewed my dress before I went home, because I was so afraid mother would scold and punish me."

"Mother nagged and managed me. When I was in high school she bought birds, saying she would rather have me play with them instead of going with boys. Before I went to school I had to feed the birds. I slept with them, as many as 50 in my bedroom, and I was not allowed to open a window because a draft might chill the birds."

"There were goldfish, too, hundreds of them. I would come home from high school and have to clean the bird cages. I not only had to change papers in the bottoms of the cages, and wash the water cups, but I had to take each perch and clean it, scrape it with sandpaper and then bake it so as to kill any lice.

"One time a friend was visiting me, and meal time came. We usually went to a cafeteria near our home. Mother took the friend to the cafeteria and made me stay home to care for a sick goldfish in a bowl of water on the piano."

"And Poll, the parrot! Mother was wild about parrots, too. I hated them, as well as the other pets. When Poll died mother had a casket made for Poll and buried the bird in a cemetery."

"I WAS a very small child then. I remember later when we would drive by Mt. Washington cemetery mother would tell me, 'Poor Polly is buried there. I put a headstone by her grave, but I do not want you to tell anybody about it, because parrots are not supposed to be buried in human graveyards.'"

"When Kingfin, the goldfish, died, was he put to rest?" interposed Miss Sloan's attorney.

"Kingfin was a rather large goldfish with a large tail, and he was a great favorite of mother's," the girl replied. "She ordered a casket made for him. He was buried in Forest Hill cemetery in a satin-lined casket. There also was a special casket for Bonnie Boy, the dog."

Miss Sloan said she never was allowed to join in the conversation when guests were present, her mother making the excuse, "Irene doesn't know anything."

"She never liked

The Sloan home in Kansas City, where Irene Sloan asserted her bedroom had been turned into a regular aviary.

for me to take a bath," the daughter continued, "as she said I used too much water, or that the running water disturbed the maid."

"DID your mother ever exhibit to you any affection?" Miss Sloan was asked.

"Never in her life has she shown any real affection toward me," she replied. "I saw her once since I left home two years ago. All my life I have wanted a mother's love and I wondered that day I met my mother if she would only speak to me."

"I went up to her and said, 'How do you do? I just wanted to speak to you.' But she did not answer me. She never has kissed me or put her arms around me."

After relating her tribulations with the goldfish, other home pets and with what she termed her mother's peculiarities, Miss Sloan admitted her mother had sent her to three private schools, three colleges and a business college; that her mother had sent her to Europe, to the Orient and that she had taught a year at Bryn Mawr.

Concerning her associations with boy friends, Miss Sloan said she had one embarrassing experience when a hospital interne who had taken her out came home with her at 10:30 o'clock.

"Mother met us in the street in front of the house and called us names," she said. "Later mother apologized to the interne."

WHEN the mother's side of the case was called, so many witnesses, including business men and matrons of the best families of Kansas City, responded that the court, simply in order to save time, urged that the list be pared.

In behalf of Mrs. Sloan, real estate men and bankers told of her business sagacity and mental balance. They related how, as the daughter of a prosperous German grocer, she had inherited an estate worth $100,000 33 years ago and had increased it to its present value of more than one-half million dollars. They testified that during the depression she had increased her holdings $70,000 in investments so sound her banker envied them.

Flower lovers told of Mrs. Sloan's energetic and intelligent work in that endeavor. She is secretary of the National Rose Association.

As one woman standing up for another, Mrs. Laura Coates Reed, from a family that dates back to the time Kansas City was little more than a landing place on the river, told what she thought about "that goldfish story Irene told the jury."

"If I wanted a $50, a $100 or even a $200 goldfish, I'm sure my children would have chipped together and bought it for me instead of accusing me of being insane for desiring one," Mrs. Reed testified.

ANOTHER woman told of Mrs. Sloan going on wild flower hunts with her. "And if Mrs. Sloan is insane for doing that, then I'm insane, too," the witness retorted.

Regarding Irene's departure from her home two years ago, one woman friend of Mrs. Sloan said the mother had had Irene's room put in order several times, expecting her daughter to return.

The hearing then resolved itself into a parade of witnesses who testified that Mrs. Sloan was kind and thoughtful, charitable and of keen business mind.

Many of Kansas City's most prominent people came to testify. All of them bore witness to her good character.

A cemetery superintendent testified that because a person went to extremes in the burial of pets, it was no sign he or she was insane. "Many of our best families pay for special burial services for pets," the cemetery representative said.

Mrs. Sloan was not put on the witness stand, her counsel pleading that she was ill and could not stand the strain. She herself insisted that she wanted to testify, but her counsel would not permit her to do so. Doubtless they felt that she would win the case without taking the stand herself—and they were quite correct.

Although the plaintiff attempted to make capital of this, charging the defense was afraid to have her on the stand, the jury evidently thought otherwise and after only 25 minutes of deliberation returned a verdict in favor of the mother.

Mrs. Minnie Long Sloan . . . a parade of witnesses testified that she was kind, thoughtful and charitable.

Copyright, 1932, by EveryWeek Magazine—Printed in U. S. A.

I WAS seated with old Dad Tully, owner of the 70 Ranch, on the veranda of his comfortable ranch house. Dad is often inclined to grow reminiscent; at such times not infrequently he spins a tale worth listening to.

"I see by the paper," he announced presently, "that a passel o' them New York gangsters, whilst tryin' to eliminate a competitor with a machine gun, miss the intended victim an' shoot up half a dozen innocent children. Naturally, these ornery pups make a clean get-away an' them New Yorkers are wonderin' why. I could tell 'em."

"Indeed?" I remarked politely. "Yes, sir-ee! In a state where it's a felony to pack a gun without goin' to a lot o' red tape to get a permit to pack it, the law-abidin' citizens naturally don't go heeled. Consequently, when some felon pulls a gun play in public there ain't nobody to protest — an' the felon gets away with murder. Even if there's a policeman handy, nine times out o' ten he can't shoot worth a hoot.

"Did I ever tell you about Arch Parkerson an' how a trio o' New York gangsters kidnaped the boy an' held him for ransom?"

Without awaiting my answer Dad rambled on:

"Arch owns the O-Bar-O outfit over on the Chewaucan River in southeastern Oregon, which he inherits the same from his old man, who's as good a cowman as ever gets stacked by his pony on a frosty mornin'. He has three sons, o' which Arch is the baby.

"BUT the two oldest boys get town-hungry; they don't display no more interest in the cattle business than a complete stranger would.

"So when the two oldest boys refuse to stay with the business, Old Man Parkerson has the outfit appraised an' splits it three ways between his boys. The two oldest boys take their share in cash an' sign clear, agreein' never to bother young Arch after the old man dies, while Arch stays with the old man an' the business. For seven years, from 1914 to 1921, the old man sure piles up the profits, like all of us did durin' the Great War, an' just before the big break come he says to Arch: 'Son, these high prices are too good to be true. Let's unload every cow-brute we've got an' take a trip to Yurrupe.' As Arch is only twenty at the time an' a change o' scenery looks good to him, he agrees an' they sell the cattle an' spend a year in vain pursuits.

"But the only music them two give a hoot for is the bawlin' of a good-grade Hereford calf. So they go back an' stock up the O-Bar-O with twenty-dollar cattle.

"In two years beef starts on the upgrade; in 1926, the old man does the only foolish thing he ever does an' it killed him. A smart Aleck comes up to his ranch with a motion-picture company, an' says as how he's goin' to make a world-resoundin' picture called 'Custer's Last Stand.' Old Man Parkerson's a fine-lookin' man o' fifty-eight but lookin' forty an' he has a mustache an' a goatee an' a long yellow mane. The picture director says he's just the type to play General Custer, which the old man falls for the idea an' without charge furnishes cowboys an' horses for Custer's cavalry an' induces two hundred Indians to come down from the Umatilla Reservation to pose as Sioux warriors.

"The Chewaucan's the Little Big Horn an' Custer leads his troop through it. Naturally, he gets wet while sweatin' with excitement, so he catches a chill an' pneumonia gets him, an' Arch gets the outfit an' all the money in bank, which it's close to three hundred thousand dollars after the estate's settled.

"In 1929, beef's sellin' at ten cents on the ranch. It looks like war-time days again to young Arch. It's too good to be true, so he takes a leaf from the old man's book an' sells every head o' stock on the ranch. Promptly the stock market goes to pieces an' beef drops to five cents with no buyers; but Arch Parkerson is now worth better'n a million, with all of it in cash except the ranch.

"He don't know nothin' about stocks an' bonds, so he lays off'n them. All he knows is cattle an' he don't aim to fuss none with them while so many folks is out of employment they can't afford beef. So he leaves the foreman in charge, while he

hearkens to his repressed instincts an' lopes off to New York.

"NOW, Arch Parkerson's idea o' dress is the idea o' his class. He has two pair o' sixty-five-dollar fancy-stitched boots made by Justin, o' Texas, a dozen plain white silk shirts with collars an' cuffs attached, maybe half a dozen plain black silk four-in-hand ties an' three fifty-an-dollar ready-made suits o' plain black worsted. His hat proclaims him a real cowman. It's wide-brimmed, pearl-gray in color an' costs him eighty dollars.

"His jewelry consists of a gold-plated huntin'-case watch he's got as a premium for cigar-store certificates, an' a ring made from a horseshoe nail. Havin' lived all o' his life in a peaceable country he's never carried a gun, but on account he's been readin' about New York gangsters it occurs to him he might as well be on the safe side an' travel heeled, which he does.

"When he arrives in New York he takes a taxicab to a big hotel. He hires a bedroom, parlor an' bath, an' it costs him forty dollars a day.

"Art summons the valet an' has his clothes pressed. Without bein' asked, the valet unpacks Art's bags an' while he's thus engaged he comes across the forty-five Old Man Parkerson used to wear when he was havin' trouble with some sheep-men.

"Is this part of your regular costume, sir?" says the valet, holdin' up the gun.

"Not where I come from," says Arch, "but I brought it along, thinkin' it might come in handy here."

"Keep it in your bureau drawer, sir. You can't carry a pistol in this state, sir, unless you first secure a permit, and a permit is very hard to get."

"Arch takes the valet's advice an' leaves the gun in his room when he sallies forth to mingle in the night life o' which he's heard. Also, seein' as how the valet's a neighborly feller, Arch asks him which is the most prominent night club in town.

"The valet directs Arch to a place called the Hot Potato. Well, Arch takes a taxicab to the Hot Potato, arrivin' there about ten o'clock, when his troubles begin. He rings the bell an' a feller opens a wicket in the middle o' the door an' looks him over real suspicious.

"I don't know you," this feller says. "You got a card?"

"A permit to spend money, eh? Well, I ain't got a card, but I want to come in."

"Scram, youse," says the man at the wicket.

"I don't know what you mean. Talk English," says Arch. "Let him in, Jimmy. I'll guarantee him," says a female voice behind the man — an' the door swung open. Arch stands aside, bows low to the lady, says "Thank you ma'am," an' steps in. Inside, they turn to look at each other. The lady's lovely eyes start in at Arch's fancy boots with the high heels, roam up his person an' come to rest on Arch's face. "Innocent one," she says, "what are you doing in this joint?"

"The valley up at my hotel recommended it, ma'am."

"A hat girl relieves Arch o' his hat an' the girl says to him, 'Come with me. I'll introduce you.'

"She takes him by the arm an' leads him into the main chance o' the Hot Potato. A fat man in a dinner jacket comes bustlin' up an' leads 'em to a table. 'Louie,' says the girl, 'this is my friend, Mr. Arch Parkerson, of the Chewaucan Valley, out in Oregon. He has come to New York for to see and to admire. He's thirsty. Also, he's a good Indian with wampum in his pocket. He drinks Bourbon straight and he doesn't care for a chaser. Be nice to him.'

"Louie bows like a squinch owl an' moves away to give the waiter the order. The girl bends down to Arch. 'He'll bring the hostess to keep you company. When you ask her to have something she'll order wine. Wine means champagne — at twenty dollars a quart — only it's California Sauterne, charged to make it bubble.'

"I don't want no hostess," says Arch. "I prefer you."

"Impossible. I work in the show. Don't exhibit too much money at once and when you leave this place don't let obliging strangers outside shoo you into a taxi. Walk two blocks and get one."

"Thanks," says Arch. "I'll watch my step. How come you know me?"

"But the girl only smiles an' leaves him an' goes out in back; the waiter arrives with Arch's Bourbon an' pretty soon Louie comes over with a yellow-haired young woman an' says: 'Mr. Parkerson, meet May.'

"Don't get up, Mr. Parkerson," says May, an' seats herself. She's beautiful.

"Won't you have some refreshment, Miss May?" Arch begs the lady.

"Sure," she says. An' to the waiter: "Wine."

"The waiter brings the wine, all wrapped up in a napkin. Arch takes it out o' his hand, looks at it, shakes it an' hands it back. 'Vamos with that slop,' he says, 'an' bring the lady some wine.'

"This is all we have," says the waiter.

"You're cheap," says May. "Nobody asked you over here," says Arch. "Besides, you're jumpin' a claim that's already been staked. I'm lonely but not that lonely. Scram!"

"Then keep it. Bring her a high ball."

"You're cheap," says May.

"Nobody asked you over here," says Arch. "Besides, you're jumpin' a claim that's already been staked. I'm lonely but not that lonely. Scram!"

"By the way May dusted out o' there Arch learned what 'scram' meant. Then the waiter comes back an' sells him a roast-beef sandwich for two dollars. He downs it an' his liquor an' sets there watchin' the folks dance.

"Then a trumpet is blown an' the floor is cleared an' out from a side door comes troopin' a dozen girls without enough clothes between 'em to stuff in a busted windowpane. They dance an' sing, an' then the trumpet blows again an' out comes the girl that got Arch into the Hot Potato. She starts tap-dancin', from time to time smilin' at Arch.

"A feller at the table in back of Arch yells: 'Rottn!' so Arch throws a backhand slap at him, connects an' knocks him to the floor.

"Louie comes rushin' over. 'Mr. Parkerson, you mustn't do that again.'

"Don't have to," says Arch. "Once is enough."

"There ain't no comeback from nobody, Arch has another drink an' the show goes on. When it's over, the dancin' starts again, an' Louie comes an' says: 'Mr. Parkerson, would you like to dance?'

"Sure," says Arch. So Louie brings over a nice little girl an' Arch floats away with her. She tells him her name is Mildred an' asks him his.

"Mildred is good-lookin' an' sociable an' refined an' takes a great interest in Arch. She asks him what his business is an' his post-office address, an' after two more drinks Arch gets loose-tongued an' confides to her all about the fifteen-thousand head o' cattle he sold just before the market broke.

"Mildred is no end interested, an' when she has to leave him an' rejoin her friends she asks him if he's comin' round the followin' night, which Arch gallantly informs her he is, provided he can get a card an' provided, further, she's goin' to be there. She says she will be there, an' pretty soon Louie comes with a card.

"Arch stays until the last show is over, about three a. m. He just can't get enough o' that little tap-dancer's art. When the last show is over he says to her: 'I'd like to see you afterwards.' She says: 'Jake with me. I'll meet you outside in ten minutes.'

"For the time being. He owns a piece of the Hot Potato, so naturally he wouldn't kill you there. A killing would be bad for business. It's easier and less expensive to send a couple of gorillas to beat you up or take you for a ride."

"Well, I'll be dog-goned," says Arch. "I reckon I'd better heel myself."

"Although he hates to miss seein' Patricia dance again, Arch also dislikes the idea o' rejectin' the guidance an' friendly society of a knock-out like Mildred, so away they go. A cab sweeps up to the entrance an' Mildred directs the driver to go to another club.

"THEY travel a dark street an' when the driver stops, Mildred gets out first. 'Why, driver,' she says, 'this ain't the place,' an' her an' the driver starts arguin', until there's an interruption. Three men come out of a dark doorway, an' while two o' them sweep Mildred aside, the third climbs into the cab an' pokes a gun in Arch Parkerson's ribs an' runs his hands over him for weapons. 'Findin' none, he advises Arch to keep his mouth shut. The other two men then get in; they set Arch between two o' 'em, pull his hat off, an' crown him with one not quite so conspicuous.

"Well, they ride Arch around an' around through dark streets, an' finally they all get out an' enter the lobby of an apartment house. They enter an apartment an' the chief kidnaper locks the door an' puts the key in his pocket.

"They frisk Arch again for weapons. They find his check book an' observe he has seventy-five thousand odd dollars on deposit in the Multnomah National Bank o' Portland, Oregon.

"We'll give you a break, Big Boy," says the chief. "Draw us a check for twenty-five thousand. A bigger one might make the bank suspicious." An' he hands Arch a pen an' his check book.

"Gentlemen," says Arch, "you appear to have all the votes. I've read stories about deals like this an' you don't have to furnish me with no set o' blue prints." An' he writes the check. "Which this is one check that won't bounce back, gentlemen," he says, "because I realize I'd be playin' in tough luck if it did. What do we do next?"

"Well, you can lie down on that couch yonder, Mr. Parkerson," says the chief, "an' try to get some sleep. Bill, you'll guard him until eight o'clock, when you'll be relieved. At ten I'll go downtown an' deposit this check. You will be our guest, Mr. Parkerson, until the check has been paid. After that, you'll be given something to make you remember to keep out o' night clubs an' never, under no circumstances, slap a strange gentleman in the snoot."

"I see I done wrong," says Arch, an' stretches himself out on the couch. He tosses an' tumbles for maybe half an hour, then settles down an' pretty soon he's snorin'. The guard sets across the room from him, an' the other two kidnappers retire to their bedrooms.

"Along about two a.m. Arch rolls over an' sets up. 'Any objection to givin' me a drink o' water, mister?' he asks. "None at all, Mr. Parkerson. Go into the bathroom an' help yourself."

"Thank you kindly, sir," says Arch, an' he goes into the bathroom. He turns on the faucet, like he was wantin' to let the water run until it got cold, but meanwhile he watches the guard through the crack o' the door near the hinges. An' when he sees the guard set his automatic on the table beside him an' start loadin' a pipe, Arch steps out o' the bathroom softly — because he's in his stockin' feet now. He has his boots in his left hand, but in his right he's holdin' his old single-action forty-five.

"I think I can beat you to the draw, mister," says Arch softly, as the guard looks up an' into what must have seemed like the mouth of a tunnel to him. "Up with your hands, my beamish boy," says Arch. "No outcries, please, although if you want war, fly to it. I'm agreeable."

"You poor dear," says Patricia, "you'd be a marked man with that hat and those boots."

"What do these here kidnappers do with a feller?" "They take him to a house where they won't be disturbed, hand him a fountain pen and a check. Then they tell him to fill in the check for the amount of his ransom, if he's a stranger in town, or if he's a local man he can send out a letter to somebody who will deposit the money at a designated spot. If he refuses they torture him."

"Arch considers this. 'Seems to me, now that I think of it, that girl Mildred was sure a glutton for information. Me, I'd oiled my neck twice too often an' I talked right free about my personal affairs. I remember I told her what a smart Aleck I was to sell fifteen thousand head o' cattle just before the market went to glory.'

"You poor dear," says Patricia, "you'd be a marked man with that hat and those boots."

TOWN HUNGRY

by Peter B. Kyne

"The guard made a half grab or his gun but thought better of it. His arms went up. 'Face the wall an' put your hands behind you,' says Arch, which the feller done — an' Arch hit him a punch behind the ear, laid him out an' had him gagged with his handkerchief an' hog-tied at knees, ankles an' wrists before he come to.

"The bindin' material consisted o' heavy copper wire, quite a quantity o' which Arch had thoughtfully provided for just this emergency by wrappin' it round an' round his leg, an' then tuckin' said leg into his boots with his pants leg drawn over them. He leaves the kidnaper, goes to the telephone an' observes the number card has been removed.

"Central," says Arch, when the girl asks for his number, 'what's the number o' this telephone I'm usin'?'"

"She gives it to him an' Arch writes it in his check book. 'Now, gimme police headquarters,' he says, an' when police headquarters answer, Arch gives 'em his telephone number. "I don't know where I am, but I been kidnaped an' I'm bein' held for ransom. Three men made me sign a check for twenty-five thousand dollars. You can find out where I am by checkin' up the telephone number. We're on the fifteenth floor, Apartment H. I got one o' the gang tied up now an' in about five minutes I'll have the other two restin' easy. The door'll be open, so you can walk in an' take 'em."

"We'll be there in ten minutes," says the desk sergeant. So Arch walked into one bedroom, switched on the light an' socked the man in bed over the head with the butt o' his forty-five. Then he took a pair o' handcuffs out of one boot an' handcuffed his man to the bedstead. He performed a similar deed to the sleepin' man in the other room. His boot yields two pair o' handcuffs which he'd bought in a pawnshop that day.

"Havin' done this, Arch frisks the clothin' o' the kidnappers an' appropriates all the funds he finds there, which the same amounts to close on forty-five hundred dollars. He also takes back his check. Then he gets into his boots, puts his forty-five down his right bootleg, where them kidnappers would have found it if they'd been smart enough to look, leaves the keys to the handcuffs on the table an' departs in a hurry.

"He's walkin' up the street when a police car comes dashin' by an' Arch grins as he sees a squad roll out an' go into the apartment house. 'Which they'll find unauthorized pistols on that gang,' says Arch, 'but I'll be dog-goned if I'm goin' to linger around to tell my tale — an' me with a forty-five down my bootleg! No, sir, I'll let well enough alone. Ain't I collected forty-five hundred dollars as exemplary damages?'

"HE hails a taxi an' goes back to the Hot Potato. Patricia is doin' her stuff when Arch comes in. He walks right on to the floor an' takes her by the arm. "Pat," says Arch, "I been havin' adventures, just as you thought I might. I've had enough o' this town, an' so have you, but I've made enough on the side tonight to pay for one hell of a honeymoon. You come with me. I got a better job for you — darnin' my socks an' sewin' buttons on my shirts an' lookin' after the future heir to the O-Bar-O Ranch. I been lookin' for a girl like you for quite a spell. From now on, you'll jig for a dog-gone select audience, an' that's me."

"Did you manhandle 'em?" asks Pat. "Sure did. The police got 'em now." "Then we've got to move fast, darlin'," says Patricia, "because Fuzzy Kane's mouthpiece will spring that mob by noon and once they're loose your life won't be worth a squeezed lemon. Are we goin' back to the Chewaucan Valley?"

"By airplane, sweetheart," says Arch.

"They're out o' the Hot Potato in five minutes an' they're married in Chicago next day an' the day after they light in Arch Parkerson's big meadow."

Dad Tully sipped his second alfalfa cocktail. "Which proves to me, son, that brains, like gold an' oil, is where you find 'em. Arch an' Patricia, sure are happy on the Chewaucan, an' I reckon neither o' them is ever goin' to get town-hungry no more. No sir, never no more!"

Where Jobless Men Hunt for Gold

A number of women can be found among those who pan the Platte river at Denver for gold . . . and, as this picture shows, they wear a variety of costumes.

THE electrifying cry of GOLD is going up once more in Colorado. And—just as in the days of '59—it is luring thousands of men, and a few score of women, to the creeks and streams from which may be wrested small flakes of the precious metal. Rugged men, many of them beaten back in the uneven battle to live in industry while a depression goes on, line the most famous of the old streams with their gold pans, shovels, sluice boxes and rockers.

Within the city limits of Denver itself, it is not uncommon to run across a small band of men, overall-clad and booted, panning the mud of the Platte River for the few tiny "colors" which will pay for their beans and coffee.

Nearly 10,000 men and a few score women have learned in organized classes the intricate business of finding the elusive gold amid the rocks and gravel and muddy water of one creek or another.

Uncounted others have called forth experiences from the past or picked up the knowledge as they might and trudged out to try their hand at scraping from the ground the gold that will keep a hungry wolf from the door.

Some have found the task too great, the work too arduous or the returns too small. For experience and skill, a strong back and a patient heart, a site and a right to work it, a practical knowledge of placer mining or geology and no small measure of luck are as essential as a gold pan and a sluice box to the man who will unlock the treasure chest of nature.

BUT many are averaging enough—perhaps 50 cents or $1 a day—to keep bread, butter and beans in the house until the call to regular employment comes again.

Still others, with a little more experience, a little better equipment and a deal more luck, are making wages from the gravel and mud of the bed streams. A few, with the best knowledge and the greatest luck, average better than wages. From some claims in the choicest ground a man may take $7 or $8 a day.

And always in the heart and mind of the real prospector is the age-old, though seldom spoken, hope that "I'll strike it rich tomorrow."

For there's still "gold in them thar hills" just as there was when the rugged frontiersmen fought their way along rutted wagon trails in the early '60's in the gold boom that gave Colorado its birth and laid a foundation for the west of the modern day.

It's economic depression which beckons men to the toiling and battling for the precious stuff. It was national panic in the late '50's which turned men's ears to the far off cry in California, Nevada and Colorado that "there's gold for men who can come and take it."

AND it was sinking commodity value levels and unemployment which turned men's thoughts back to the gold streams and the metal mines in the last year or so.

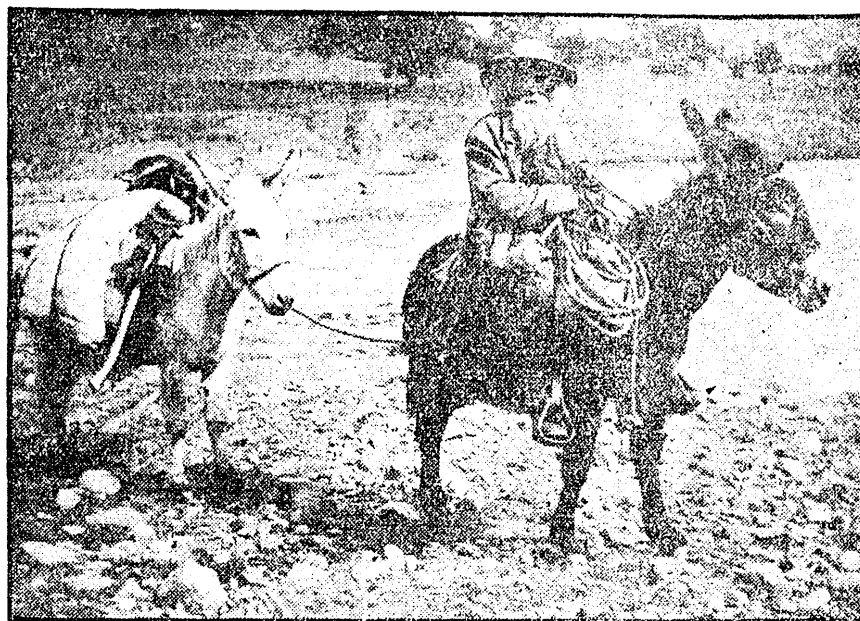

The level of wages was dropping. The cost of recovering gold was lower. Yet the value of the yellow metal remained the same and Uncle Sam stood ready to accept it at his mints for dollars.

So it was not without reason that gold mining ventures were stimulated and that properties long idle began once more to hum. "Ghost" towns of all but forgotten eras took on a little of the life that had been denied them since the turn of the century. Streams in California, Nevada, Colorado and other states are being "panned" once more for the precious yellow flakes.

Prospectors began following their burros into the rocky gulches and up dizzy hillsides in the quest for a "strike."

Other men, men to whom the doors of regular employment seemed closed, heard the call and heeded it. Closer to home they began to pan the mud of river and creek. The word

Thousands of the unemployed are panning for stray grains of the precious metal along Colorado rivers where a day's toil may yield only 50 cents

The new "gold rush" in the west is drawing many of the old-time prospectors back into activity again . . . men like "Hank" Peters, one of the best-known of the old California gold-hunters.

spread that gold still was to be had for the taking.

Gold pans, long relegated to dusty attics, came forth, and stores began again to offer "mining supplies" to the lone prospector.

Uncle Sam did his bit. Through Frank E. Shepard, superintendent of the U. S. Mint in Denver, it was announced a year ago that under instructions from Washington, gold in the natural state would be purchased in quantities as small as two ounces at a time—worth about $41. The previous minimum purchase was $100.

THE order of the government was the answer to a steadily increasing tender of small amounts of gold. Panners, working to meet their necessities of living, often found it impossible to keep going until they had $100 worth of the precious flakes.

"This permission is being granted," read the

An indication of the response to this invitation can be found in the fact that the number of gold deposits at the mint in Denver has increased 51 per cent in the first six months of 1932 over the same period of the last year.

The value of the total deposits increased only slightly—from $6,711,421.95 in 1931 to $6,725,332.05 this year—but the number of tenders has grown steadily, indicating that the individual producers who are panning the streams for wages are playing an increasing part.

MINING men, prospectors and geologists were watching the trek back to the hills and the gold bearing streams and they began to suggest that here lay one answer to the unemployment problem.

The Citizens Employment Committee of Denver accepted the idea. Classes were organized to learn the intricate business of find-

T. A. Davis, hunting gold in the vicinity of Denver, finds on old trying pan will do to pan gold.

"Rugged men beaten by the industrial depression in the cities line the most famous of the old streams with their gold pans, shovels, sluice boxes and rockers."

graduates who knew nowhere to turn for work, housewives whose sons and husbands were idle and a scattering of men and women seeking adventure, thrills or literary material.

The school lasted several weeks. The "graduates" are now out along the streams, testing their new found knowledge—some succeeding, some failing.

BUT the fame of the schools has spread, carrying across the nation the cry of gold. From every corner of the land, letters of inquiry about the new "bonanza" are pouring in to the Colorado School of Mines, city and state officials, employment committees and mining men in and near Denver.

So great has been the flood of inquiries to the School of Mines that they are being answered with mimeographed copies of a reply; a warning that here is not opportunity to get rich, that the placer fields are no opening for those who lack experience, a strong physique, a knowledge of geology and a claim to which one has a legal right.

On every hand mining men are warning against the exaggerated reports of huge sums to be made with the gold pan and shovel.

One conservative mining man advanced the belief that the thousands now whipping the streams of Colorado are not averaging 25 cents a day.

Other estimates—probably more accurate—are that the average runs in the neighborhood of 50 cents a day.

John T. Joyce, Colorado commissioner of mines, points out that gold production in Colorado in one year will total about $5,000,000, of which about $52,000 is from placer operations.

He estimates the average for the thousands along the streams is under 50 cents a day.

"THERE are individuals," he said, "making a living wage panning gold in Colorado today. But they are miners, equipped with knowledge of where and how to placer."

Joyce warns against outsiders flocking into the state to seek a living with a gold pan.

Miners, prospectors and the state's own unemployed have staked or leased virtually all the worthwhile placer claims, he says.

Out among the men and women who actually are rocking the pans back and forth and shoveling the gravel through sluice boxes, one meets a variety of stories.

There are men in golf knickers and sport oxfords, in overalls and work shoes, in khaki and rubber boots. There are women in house dresses, in trousers, in mother hubbards.

There are men who have sifted the pay dirt from the gravel for years and made a living wage, and men who have been accustomed to drawing a weekly envelope from shop or factory.

But the bulk of those who can be found any day along the banks of the Platte River or of Clear Creek, within or near the city limits of Denver, are men who hope to make a wage that will tide a family over a rough spot.

These lads have found a choice hole back from the running stream . . . though young, they are working their sluice box like veterans.

a nouncement, "for the purpose of giving what encouragement we can to placer mining during the present season."

ing and capturing gold.

Manuals and textbooks were provided and arrangements were made to obtain equipment at cost. Experienced mining men gathered their students in school rooms and expounded on the theories of placer mining.

They gave instruction in field methods of identifying gold and minerals which resemble gold; in the theory and the manipulation of the gold pan, the horn spoon, the rocker and the sluice box; in the proper method of handling a retort for the separation of gold and mercury; in the geology of placer deposits, and in methods of locating likely looking ground.

Attorneys explained the way to gain the right to work a placer claim.

PROSPECTORS—men with years of experience in scratching the rocky gulches and panning the running streams for gold—took the classes to the banks of the Platte River for actual experience.

Employed men and women paid $2.50 for the course. The unemployed were taught free.

Nearly 1000 men and women from Denver took the course. Throughout the state, instruction was given to almost 10,000. Among them were coal miners for whom there was no work underground, wage earners who could find no employment, college and high school

The Kansas City Girl's Unnatural Testimony Against Her Mother

Irene Sloan, who told a jury that her mother had been eccentric and cruel . . . but who failed to make the jury believe it.

"Each day she made me feed the birds. I slept with them, as many as 50 in my room. And there were hundreds of goldfish to tend to every day. Mother was wild about goldfish, birds, parrots and dogs . . . I hated them."

"I was not allowed to open my window because a draft might chill the birds," said the daughter, charging that she was just a maid for goldfish and birds.

A DUEL between a mother and daughter, with a fortune of one-half million dollars at stake, has ended in the probate court at Kansas City, Mo., in a victory for the mother. And now that the lawsuit is over, Kansas City is trying to recover from the jar it got from the sight of an only daughter taking her mother into court and leveling at her a series of charges as unusual as any ever heard in court.

The daughter, 29-year-old Miss Irene M. Sloan, began by charging that although she lived in a mansion, she was nothing more than a maid for goldfish and birds.

"Before I went to school each day I had to feed the birds," she said. "I slept with them, as many as 50 in my room. And there were hundreds of goldfish to tend to every day. Mother was wild about parrots, goldfish, birds and dogs. I hated them."

As the dark and slender Irene launched into the story of her home life, the serious-faced yet kindly-looking mother, Mrs. Minnie Long Sloan, clutched the sleeve of her lawyer, Frank P. Walsh, who gave up important business in his New York office to go to Kansas City to defend his old friend.

"I'm going to insist on taking the stand to deny all this, whether it's necessary for the case or not," Mrs. Sloan insisted. After the mother had been quieted, the daughter proceeded with her story, intended to convince a jury that her mother was of unsound mind and incapable of managing her affairs.

UNDER questioning of her attorney, J. Francis O'Sullivan, Miss Sloan said her earliest recollections of her mother were of fear. "I remember one time I tore my dress while swinging in a neighbor's yard," she said. "I remember the neighbor woman sewed my dress before I went home, because I was so afraid mother would scold and punish me."

"Mother nagged and managed me. When I was in high school she bought birds, saying she would rather have me play with them instead of going with boys. Before I went to school I had to feed the birds. I slept with them, as many as 50 in my bedroom, and I was not allowed to open a window because a draft might chill the birds."

"There were goldfish, too, hundreds of them. I would come home from high school and have to clean the bird cages. I not only had to change papers in the bottoms of the cages, and wash the water cups, but I had to take each perch and clean it, scrape it with sandpaper and then bake it so as to kill any lice.

"One time a friend was visiting me, and meal time came. We usually went to a cafeteria near our home. Mother took the friend to the cafeteria and made me stay home to care for a sick goldfish in a bowl of water on the piano.

"And Poll, the parrot! Mother was wild about parrots, too. I hated them, as well as the other pets. When Poll died mother had a casket made for Poll and buried the bird in a cemetery.

"I WAS a very small child then. I remember later when we would drive by Mt. Washington cemetery mother would tell me, 'Poor Polly is buried there. I put a headstone by her grave, but I do not want you to tell anybody about it, because parrots are not supposed to be buried in human graveyards.'

"When Kingfin, the goldfish, died, was he put to rest?" interposed Miss Sloan's attorney.

"Kingfin was a rather large goldfish with a large tail, and he was a great favorite of mother's," the girl replied. "She ordered a casket made for him. He was buried in Forest Hill cemetery in a satin-lined casket. There also was a special casket for Bonnie Boy, the dog."

Miss Sloan said she never was allowed to join in the conversation when guests were present, her mother making the excuse, "Irene doesn't know anything."

"She never liked

The Sloan home in Kansas City, where Irene Sloan asserted her bedroom had been turned into a regular aviary.

for me to take a bath," the daughter continued, "as she said I used too much water, or that the running water disturbed the maid."

"DID your mother ever exhibit to you any affection?" Miss Sloan was asked.

"Never in her life has she shown any real affection toward me," she replied. "I saw her once since I left home two years ago. All my life I have wanted a mother's love and I wondered that day I met my mother if she would only speak to me."

"I went up to her and said, 'How do you do? I just wanted to speak to you.' But she did not answer me. She never has kissed me or put her arms around me."

After relating her tribulations with the goldfish, other home pets and with what she termed her mother's peculiarities, Miss Sloan admitted her mother had sent her to three private schools, three colleges and a business college; that her mother had sent her to Europe, to the Orient and that she had taught a year at Bryn Mawr.

Concerning her associations with boy friends, Miss Sloan said she had one embarrassing experience when a hospital interne who had taken her out came home with her at 10:30 o'clock.

"Mother met us in the street in front of the house and called us names," she said. "Later mother apologized to the interne."

WHEN the mother's side of the case was called, so many witnesses, including business men and matrons of the best families of Kansas City, responded that the court, simply in order to save time, urged that the list be pared.

In behalf of Mrs. Sloan, real estate men and bankers told of her business sagacity and mental balance. They related how, as the daughter of a prosperous German grocer, she had inherited an estate worth $100,000 33 years ago and had increased it to its present value of more than one-half million dollars. They testified that during the depression she had increased her holdings $70,000 in investments so sound her banker envied them.

Flower lovers told of Mrs. Sloan's energetic and intelligent work in that endeavor. She is secretary of the National Rose Association.

As one woman standing up for another, Mrs. Laura Coates Reed, from a family that dates back to the time Kansas City was little more than a landing place on the river, told what she thought about "that goldfish story Irene told the jury."

"If I wanted a $50, a $100 or even a $200 goldfish, I'm sure my children would have chipped together and bought it for me instead of accusing me of being insane for desiring one," Mrs. Reed testified.

A NOTHER woman told of Mrs. Sloan going on wild flower hunts with her. "And if Mrs. Sloan is insane for doing that, then I'm insane, too," the witness retorted.

Regarding Irene's departure from her home two years ago, one woman friend of Mrs. Sloan said the mother had had Irene's room put in order several times, expecting her daughter to return.

The hearing then resolved itself into a parade of witnesses who testified that Mrs. Sloan was kind and thoughtful, charitable and of keen business mind.

Many of Kansas City's most prominent people came to testify. All of them bore witness to her good character.

A cemetery superintendent testified that because a person went to extremes in the burial of pets, it was no sign he or she was insane. "Many of our best families pay for special burial services for pets," the cemetery representative said.

Mrs. Sloan was not put on the witness stand, her counsel pleading that she was ill and could not stand the strain. She herself insisted that she wanted to testify, but her counsel would not permit her to do so. Doubtless they felt that she would win the case without taking the stand herself—and they were quite correct.

Although the plaintiff attempted to make capital of this, charging the defense was afraid to have her on the stand, the jury evidently thought otherwise and after only 25 minutes of deliberation returned a verdict in favor of the mother.

Mrs. Minnie Long Sloan . . . a parade of witnesses testified that she was kind, thoughtful and charitable.

Will Love Make Marion Talley an "Immortal" Singer?

By DEXTER TEED

NOW that Marion Talley, the apple-checked opera singer from Kansas, has found romance and love and marriage, she will have a fine chance to acquire the divine fire of inspiration which makes immortals of those who have the gift of beautiful voices.

Many of the most famous opera singers and composers admit that to reach the heights it is necessary to experience heartbreak, passion, romance and the throbbing ebb and flood of living. Not a few have by their very lives proved this.

And Marion Talley, the "never-never" girl who sought solace at a farm home on the sun-baked plains of Kansas after three years of success in opera, may well return eventually with the flaming urge of experience to lift her above mere mechanical perfection.

When she slipped out of New York recently and married Michael Raucheisen, 43-year-old, divorced German pianist, she took a step that many experts had urged her to take. Her secluded, virgin existence was not the proper background for a great artist, all agreed.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the beloved singer, now past 70 years old, looks back and finds in her varied experiences sources for her early inspiration.

"Ah, how I suffered in Europe," she says eloquently. "I labored to the limit of my strength, and yet I was often happy. I married young—the first time. I had to study songs and parts, literally with children in my arms. But you know that for me was good."

And Madame Schumann-Heink, so strong at her age, so full of the joy of living, knows now that her suffering gave her strength later and enabled her to go so far.

Madame Emma Eames, opera star of the nineteenth century, pressed for a recipe for her success, once declared with the fervor characteristic of great artists:

"After all, I do not think one can attain anything worth having, unless one has suffered deeply."

Marion Talley, who rather proudly admitted that she had none of the inclinations and experiences of many modern young women, never suffered.

She might well have turned to the great figures in music and opera singing, who lived before her. From their lives she could have drawn conclusions.

THERE was Madame Nordica, who met bitter disappointments when she sang under her own name, Lillian Norton. When she changed it to a typical opera name, her fame grew faster. But her early struggles as a young girl from Farmington, Conn., left their impression and later she was to say:

"Success comes from much misery."

The immortal composer, Beethoven, often disappointed in love but still pouring out his soul in music that will live forever, moaned in middle age:

"Love, and love alone, can give me a happy life. O God! Let me find her who will keep me in the path of virtue."

Heartbreak made him great.

Haydn, with a shrew of a wife, found inspiration in a Neapolitan mistress. Mozart, living in poverty and obscurity and constant struggle, produced great works of genius—and died at 35.

Madame Melba, born Nellie Mitchell in Australia, was noted only as a girl who could hum beautifully when she was in school. None guessed she had a remarkable voice until she married at 17, and then found inspiration that carried her along to the top.

AND remember how Chopin grieved when he lost his beloved Gladkovska in Warsaw, and then wandered over Europe composing music that will be played when happy artists are long forgotten. His affair with the novelist, George Sand, is memorable—and revealing.

It is all quite clear: the great artists, either

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, who rose to greatness through suffering.

Marion Talley, the "never-never" girl from Kansas who has finally found romance.

consciously or otherwise, were swept out into the turbulent stream of life, there to face bitter defeat, unhappiness, sometimes joy and always experience. In short, they lived.

Now contrast them with Marion Talley, the girl who came out of the west at 18 to win the plaudits of thousands at the Metropolitan Opera house. Critics admitted her voice was marvelous, but usually there was a "but" somewhere in the criticism.

That "but" meant that the immortal spark of genius was not there.

She sang beautifully, but she did not have the divine personality and fervent feeling that might make her immortal.

Rather proudly she and her parents described her as a "never" girl. She never had her hair bobbed, never used make-up, never smoked nor drank, never danced, never disobeyed her mother, never went on parties—and never had a beau. With her limited experience, could she be great?

When she went to Europe last year, there to meet the man she was to marry, she said naively:

(Copyright, 1932, by EveryWeek Magazine—Printed in U. S. A.)

Now that she is married, critics hope the Kansas nightingale will become a truly great opera star

Haydn, with a shrew of a wife, found inspiration in a Neapolitan mistress. . . . A sketch, at the left, by Dorothy Urfer.

was realized Marion was sent east to study two years and acquire the musical education necessary to make her famous.

Her mother came with her, to protect her from naughty New York and the influences that are said to make worldly, sophisticated girls from pure and sweet damsels who know none of the pitfalls of the great city.

And when February, 1926, came along, the hullabaloo about the girlish opera star from the wheat belt was started. Having been abroad in the meantime, where Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan, heard her sing and engaged her, she was started in the correct manner.

The event of her debut is too well remembered to be recorded in detail. A special train brought 200 admirers from Kansas City. Police were called out to prevent a riot in front of the opera house as thousands fought to get in.

THOSE who did get in, to hear her sing as Gilda in "Rigoletto," saw a round-faced, rather plumpish girl with wide, China blue eyes, a clear complexion and a sweet, unworldly manner. If some great artist could have painted her in oils, an appropriate name would have been "Sweet Chastity."

The reception she received, with applause reverberating through the historic opera house and even reaching the crowd outside, assured her future. It was a triumph, a popular triumph.

But the more astute critics, who still had their feet on the ground, could see that she was far from an immortal.

There is no need to go back over the three years she spent as a singer. There were successes in New York and in other American cities. The simple fact that she was so young and had shot up so quickly from obscurity was enough to lend a romantic touch to her career and make huge crowds certain.

But when, in the spring of 1929, she abruptly announced that she was through, that she had bought a farm at Colby, Kansas, and would live there from then onward, the reason was not quite clear.

True, despite her success, she had lived quietly in New York, without any social flourishes. Her mother and sister were with her and she still clung to her "never" code. But that was the way she wanted it; that was the way she had been trained.

Having made half a million dollars, she could not want money. Perhaps, living so close to nature, she believed she would find inspiration. Anyway, the secret was locked up in her heart.

She might still be out there raising cows and chickens if she had not decided to go to Europe last November.

She has never revealed the details of her romance, but friends admit that she met the German pianist, Raucheisen, in Berlin. When love developed is a matter for conjecture. But it did.

THREE weeks before they were married Raucheisen was divorced. And then one day the demure, plumpish and pretty mid-western girl, by then 25 years old, and the man 18 years her senior slipped out of New York to White Plains, bought a marriage license from a justice of the peace and were married very quietly and romantically.

It was all done so quietly, the metropolitan press didn't find it out until a day later. And thus Marion Talley started on the adventure of love and passion and marriage without benefit of publicity. In New York, grand old divas applauded and said: "Ah, now she will find it, the great inspiration."

Raucheisen, gifted as a coach as well as being a pianist of note, is apparently a fine husband for Marion Talley. A man of the world, who has touched real life in many spots, he will, in the opinion of many, undoubtedly bring her experience that she has needed to round out her personality.

And when, and if, she returns to opera, more than a few who have found inspiration in living a full life will expect that she will bring a new fire, a new force and feeling to her singing of operatic airs.

The lives of the old masters and the great opera singers prove that a secluded life is a poor background for great achievement. And now that Marion Talley has found love, she will find new notes to sing. That is what the past teaches the present. That has been the case with all great artists.

Chopin, famous composer (left), found inspiration for his great melodies in his love affair with the French woman novelist, George Sand (above).

Michael Raucheisen, German pianist and a gifted coach of singers, who made Marion Talley his wife.

"I have never had a romance, and if a man asked me to marry him, I'd be afraid that he might be after my money . . ."

Recall her rather sheltered life? She is the daughter of a Kansas City telegraph operator. Her mother, one of 15 children in a German shoemaker's family, raised her in the tradition that insists on regularity, propriety and safety.

She found her voice when she was a mere child. When she was five years old she attracted attention by singing a song in church. She continued to sing in church and at various gatherings until she was 15, when she went with the Kansas City Opera company.

THERE, of course, weren't any beaus then. And after she sang, her conservative parents soon had her home and in bed early.

She wasn't exposed to any of the life that swirled about her. She was a nice girl, one beloved by the church-going people and appreciated by thousands who heard her sing.

Eventually the reputable citizens in Kansas City decided that she must have a chance. They organized a benefit and with the $10,000 that

Where Jobless Men Hunt for Gold

A number of women can be found among those who pan the Platte river at Denver for gold . . . and, as this picture shows, they wear a variety of costumes.

THE electrifying cry of GOLD is going up once more in Colorado. And—just as in the days of '59—it is luring thousands of men, and a few score of women, to the creeks and streams from which may be wrested small flakes of the precious metal. Rugged men, many of them beaten back in the uneven battle to live in industry while a depression goes on, line the most famous of the old streams with their gold pans, shovels, sluice boxes and rockers.

Within the city limits of Denver itself, it is not uncommon to run across a small band of men, overall-clad and booted, panning the mud of the Platte River for the few tiny "colors" which will pay for their beans and coffee.

Nearly 10,000 men and a few score women have learned in organized classes the intricate business of finding the elusive gold amid the rocks and gravel and muddy water of one creek or another.

Uncounted others have called forth experiences from the past or picked up the knowledge as they might and trudged out to try their hand at scraping from the ground the gold that will keep a hungry wolf from the door.

Some have found the task too great, the work too arduous or the returns too small. For experience and skill, a strong back and a patient heart, a site and a right to work it, a practical knowledge of placer mining or geology and no small measure of luck are as essential as a gold pan and a sluice box to the man who will unlock the treasure chest of nature.

BUT many are averaging enough—perhaps 50 cents or $1 a day—to keep bread, butter and beans in the house until the call to regular employment comes again.

Still others, with a little more experience, a little better equipment and a deal more luck, are making wages from the gravel and mud of the bed streams. A few, with the best knowledge and the greatest luck, average better than wages. From some claims in the choicest ground a man may take $7 or $8 a day.

And always in the heart and mind of the real prospector is the age-old, though seldom spoken, hope that "I'll strike it rich tomorrow."

For there's still "gold in them thar hills" just as there was when the rugged frontiersmen fought their way along rutted wagon trails in the early '60's in the gold boom that gave Colorado its birth and laid a foundation for the west of the modern day.

It's economic depression which beckons men to the toiling and battling for the precious stuff. It was national panic in the late '30's which turned men's ears to the far off cry in California, Nevada and Colorado that "there's gold for men who can come and take it."

AND it was sinking commodity value levels and unemployment which turned men's thoughts back to the gold streams and the metal mines in the last year or so.

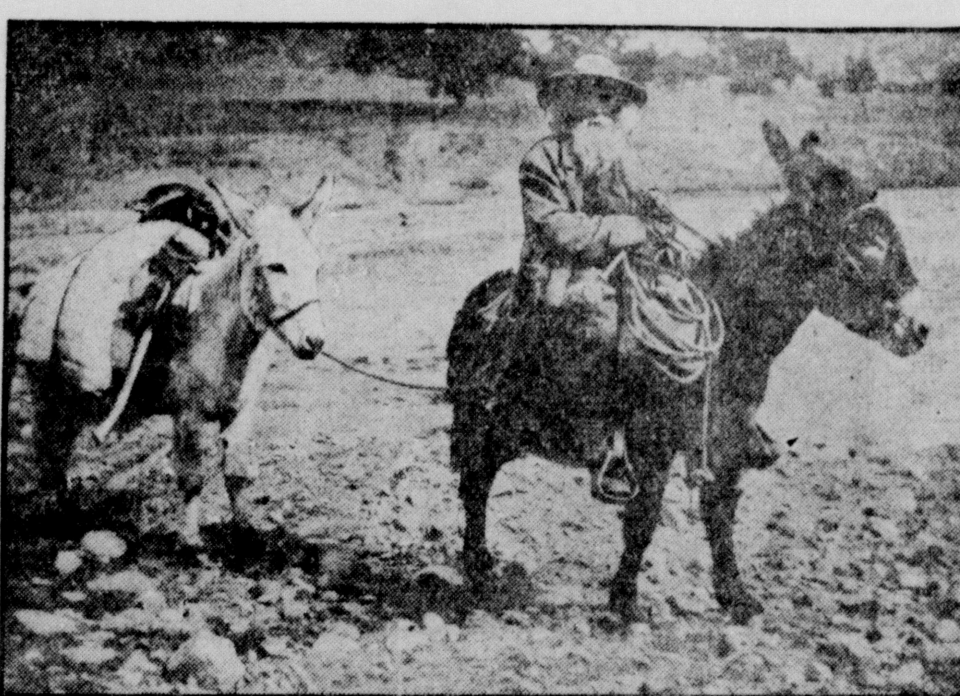

The level of wages was dropping. The cost of recovering gold was lower. Yet the value of the yellow metal remained the same and Uncle Sam stood ready to accept it at his mints for dollars.

So it was not without reason that gold mining ventures were stimulated and that properties long idle began once more to hum. "Ghost" towns of all but forgotten eras took on a little of the life that had been denied them since the turn of the century. Streams in California, Nevada, Colorado and other states are being "panned" once more for the precious yellow flakes.

Prospectors began following their burros into the rocky gulches and up dizzy hillsides in the quest for a "strike."

Other men, men to whom the doors of regular employment seemed closed, heard the call and heeded it. Closer to home they began to pan the mud of river and creek. The word

Thousands of the unemployed are panning for stray grains of the precious metal along Colorado rivers where a day's toil may yield only 50 cents

The new "gold rush" in the west is drawing many of the old-time prospectors back into activity again . . . men like "Hank" Peters, one of the best-known of the old California gold-hunters.

spread that gold still was to be had for the taking.

Gold pans, long relegated to dusty attics, came forth, and stores began again to offer "mining supplies" to the lone prospector.

Uncle Sam did his bit. Through Frank E. Shepard, superintendent of the U. S. Mint in Denver, it was announced a year ago that under instructions from Washington, gold in the natural state would be purchased in quantities as small as two ounces at a time—worth about $41. The previous minimum purchase was $100.

THE order of the government was the answer to a steadily increasing tender of small amounts of gold. Panners, working to meet their necessities of living, often found it impossible to keep going until they had $100 worth of the precious flakes.

"This permission is being granted," read the

MINING men, prospectors and geologists were watching the trek back to the hills and the gold bearing streams and they began to suggest that here lay one answer to the unemployment problem.

The Citizens Employment Committee of Denver accepted the idea. Classes were organized to learn the intricate business of find-

T. A. Davis, hunting gold in the vicinity of Denver, finds an old trying pan will do to pan gold.

These lads have found a choice hole back from the running stream . . . though young, they are working their sluice box like veterans.

a nouncement, "for the purpose of giving what encouragement we can to placer mining during the present season."

Manuals and textbooks were provided and arrangements were made to obtain equipment at cost. Experienced mining men gathered their students in school rooms and expounded on the theories of placer mining.

They gave instruction in field methods of identifying gold and minerals which resemble gold; in the theory and the manipulation of the gold pan, the horn spoon, the rocker and the sluice box; in the proper method of handling a retort for the separation of gold and mercury; in the geology of placer deposits, and in methods of locating likely looking ground.

Attorneys explained the way to gain the right to work a placer claim.

PROSPECTORS—men with years of experience in scratching the rocky gulches and panning the running streams for gold—took the classes to the banks of the Platte River for actual experience.

Employed men and women paid $2.50 for the course. The unemployed were taught free.

Nearly 1000 men and women from Denver took the course. Throughout the state, instruction was given to almost 10,000. Among them were coal miners for whom there was no work underground, wage earners who could find no employment, college and high school

"Rugged men beaten by the industrial depression in the cities line the most famous of the old streams with their gold pans, shovels, sluice boxes, and rockers."

graduates who knew nowhere to turn for work, housewives whose sons and husbands were idle and a scattering of men and women seeking adventure, thrills or literary material.

The school lasted several weeks. The "graduates" are now out along the streams, testing their new found knowledge—some succeeding, some failing.

BUT the fame of the schools has spread, carrying across the nation the cry of gold. From every corner of the land, letters of inquiry about the new "bonanza" are pouring in to the Colorado School of Mines, city and state officials, employment committees and mining men in and near Denver.

So great has been the flood of inquiries to the School of Mines that they are being answered with mimeographed copies of a reply: a warning that here is not opportunity to get rich, that the placer fields are no opening for those who lack experience, a strong physique, a knowledge of geology and a claim to which one has a legal right.

On every hand mining men are warning against the exaggerated reports of huge sums to be made with the gold pan and shovel.

One conservative mining man advanced the belief that the thousands now whipping the streams of Colorado are not averaging 25 cents a day.

Other estimates—probably more accurate—are that the average runs in the neighborhood of 50 cents a day.

John T. Joyce, Colorado commissioner of mines, points out that gold production in Colorado in one year will total about $5,000,000, of which about $52,000 is from placer operations.

He estimates the average for the thousands along the streams is under 50 cents a day.

"THERE are individuals," he said, "making a living wage panning gold in Colorado today. But they are miners, equipped with knowledge of where and how to placer."

Joyce warns against outsiders flocking into the state to seek a living with a gold pan.

Miners, prospectors and the state's own unemployed have staked or leased virtually all the worthwhile placer claims, he says.

Out among the men and women who actually are rocking the pans back and forth and shoveling the gravel through sluice boxes, one meets a variety of stories.

There are men in golf knickers and sport oxfords, in overalls and work shoes, in khaki and rubber boots. There are women in house dresses, in trousers, in mother hubbards.

There are men who have sifted the pay dirt from the gravel for years and made a living wage, and men who have been accustomed to drawing a weekly envelope from shop or factory.

But the bulk of those who can be found any day along the banks of the Platte River or of Clear Creek, within or near the city limits of Denver, are men who hope to make a wage that will tide a family over a rough spot.

WANA

A PLAYMATE
FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

TRICKS, PUZZLES,
GAMES & COMICS.
BY A.W. NUGENT.

PUSS C. KATT CAN PRINT ONE LETTER IN EACH SQUARE SHOWN AT THE LEFT AND ARRANGE THEM SO THAT NO TWO LIKE LETTERS WILL BE IN ANY ROW ACROSS OR DOWN. CAN YOU DO IT?

USE ONLY THE SIX LETTERS SHOWN BELOW

S · N · B
P · H · R

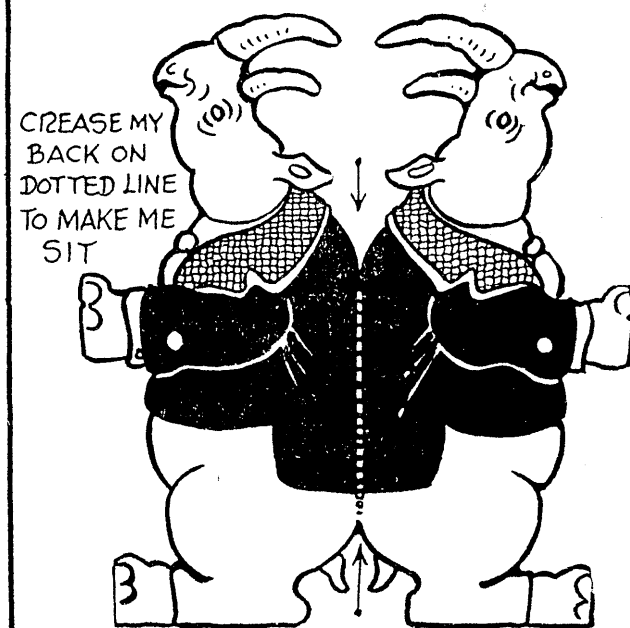

MIR QUACK IS RIDING TO TOWN ON HIS PET _____, WELL YOU CAN SEE WHAT IT IS BY CONNECTING ALL THE DOTS IN NUMERICAL ORDER FROM ONE TO FORTY-ONE

DRAW STRAIGHT LINES.

WHAT DO YOU THINK IT WILL BE?

A.W. NUGENT

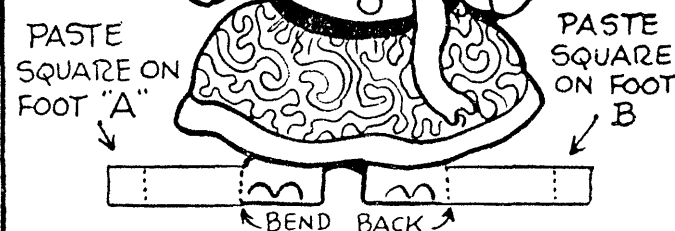

TWO ANIMAL CUT-OUTS. THE RHINOCEROS WILL SIT UP AND THE ELEPHANT WILL STAND ON ITS HIND LEGS.

A → B

BEND MY HEAD AND MY TWO FEET FLAPS BACK ON THE DOTTED LINES TO MAKE ME STAND

COLOR THESE PICTURES AND SAVE THEM FOR YOUR ZOO

DEN

START FROM THE LOST BEAR AND TRACE BETWEEN THE LINES TO SEE IF YOU CAN LEAD IT THROUGH THE CROOKED PATHS TO THE DEN.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

STUDY IT VERY CAREFULLY TO SEE IF YOU CAN DISCOVER EXACTLY TEN INTENTIONAL MISTAKES

A.W. NUGENT

CAN YOU FIND THE ENTIRE BODY OF ANOTHER CAMEL IN THIS DRAWING?

WHERE IS IT?

A.W. NUGENT

MR. FOX CHALLENGES YOU TO MAKE THE ABOVE DESIGN BY DRAWING ONLY ONE CONTINUOUS LINE AND WITHOUT CROSSING OR RETRACING IT CAN YOU DO IT? DRAW FREE-HAND

9-11

Walking Leaf, Pulchruphyllium bioculatum, is a member of the six hundred species of the walking stick insect family. Sixteen species are native American. These insects disguise themselves by simulating twigs and leaves. Note the close resemblance this insect has to a leaf.

If certain species of the walking sticks lose a leg

Strange But True, another grows in its place.

A.W. NUGENT

A PROGRESSIVE DRAWING LESSON FOR CHILDREN

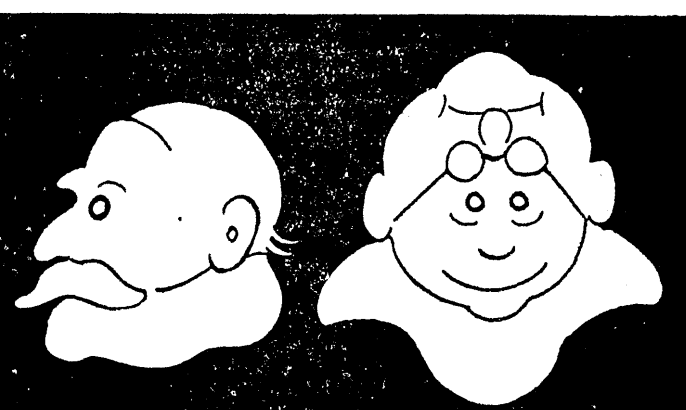

1

DRAW THE PICTURES IN THEIR ORDER.

2

3

HERE ARE PICTURES OF MR. AND MRS. TURNOVER WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE THE REST OF THE FAMILY? IF SO LOOK AT THESE HEADS UPSIDE DOWN.

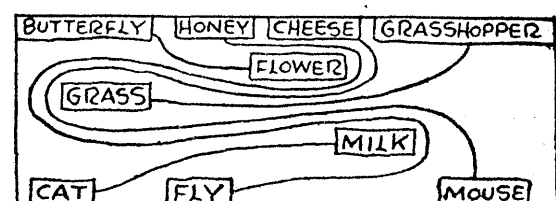

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLES. THE OBJECTS THAT BEGIN WITH THE LETTER "T" ARE AS FOLLOWS — TOAD, TARGET, TIE, TENT, TUBE, TRAMP, TAG, TABLE, TULIP, TRUNK, TROMBONE, TIGER, TURKEY, TAXI, TOP, TURTLE, TACK, TONGS, TEN, TROUT, TROWEL, TREE AND TRIANGLE

HIDDEN PICTURE ANSWER

TURN THE DRAWING UPSIDE DOWN TO SEE THE HIDDEN GOAT'S HEAD. IT'S IN FRONT OF THE LARGE RABBIT. THE PIG'S HEAD IS HIDDEN AROUND THE LARGE LETTER "T."

LINE PUZZLE ANSWER

9-11

Will Love Make Marion Talley an "Immortal" Singer?

By DEXTER TEED

NOW that Marion Talley, the apple-cheeked opera singer from Kansas, has found romance and love and marriage, she will have a fine chance to acquire the divine fire of inspiration which makes immortals of those who have the gift of beautiful voices.

Many of the most famous opera singers and composers admit that to reach the heights it is necessary to experience heartbreak, passion, romance and the throbbing ebb and flood of living. Not a few have by their very lives proved this.

And Marion Talley, the "never-never" girl who sought solace at a farm home on the sun-baked plains of Kansas after three years of success in opera, may well return eventually with the flaming urge of experience to lift her above mere mechanical perfection.

When she slipped out of New York recently and married Michael Raucheisan, 43-year-old, divorced German pianist, she took a step that many experts had urged her to take. Her secluded, virginal existence was not the proper background for a great artist, all agreed.

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the beloved singer, now past 70 years old, looks back and finds in her varied experiences sources for her early inspiration.

"Ah, how I suffered in Europe," she says eloquently. "I labored to the limit of my strength, and yet I was often happy. I married young—the first time. I had to study songs and parts, literally with children in my arms. But you know that for me was good."

And Madame Schumann-Heink, so strong at her age, so full of the joy of living, knows now that her suffering gave her strength later and enabled her to go so far.

Madame Emma Eames, opera star of the nineteenth century, pressed for a recipe for her success, once declared with the fervor characteristic of great artists: "After all, I do not think one can attain anything worth having, unless one has suffered deeply."

Marion Talley, who rather proudly admitted that she had none of the inclinations and experiences of many modern young women, never suffered.

She might well have turned to the great figures in music and opera singing, who lived before her. From their lives she could have drawn conclusions.

THERE was Madame Nordica, who met bitter disappointments when she sang under her own name, Lillian Norton. When she changed it to a typical opera name, her fame grew faster. But her early struggles as a young girl from Farmington, Conn., left their impression and later she was to say:

"Success comes from much misery."

The immortal composer, Beethoven, often disappointed in love but still pouring out his soul in music that will live forever, moaned in middle age:

"Love, and love alone, can give me a happy life. O God! Let me find her who will keep me in the path of virtue."

Heartbreak made him great.

Haydn, with a shrew of a wife, found inspiration in a Neapolitan mistress. Mozart, living in poverty and obscurity and constant struggle, produced great works of genius—and died at 35.

Madame Melba, born Nellie Mitchell in Australia, was noted only as a girl who could hum beautifully when she was in school. None guessed she had a remarkable voice until she married at 17, and then found inspiration that carried her along to the top.

AND remember how Chopin grieved when he lost his beloved Gladkovska in Warsaw, and then wandered over Europe composing music that will be played when happy artists are long forgotten. His affair with the novelist, George Sand, is memorable—and revealing.

It is all quite clear: the great artists, either

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, who rose to greatness through suffering.

Marion Talley, the "never-never" girl from Kansas who has finally found romance.

consciously or otherwise, were swept out into the turbulent stream of life, there to face bitter defeat, unhappiness, sometimes joy and always experience. In short, they lived.

Now contrast them with Marion Talley, the girl who came out of the west at 18 to win the plaudits of thousands at the Metropolitan Opera house. Critics admitted her voice was marvelous, but usually there was a "but" somewhere in the criticism.

That "but" meant that the immortal spark of genius was not there. She sang beautifully, but she did not have the divine personality and fervent feeling that might make her immortal.

Rather proudly she and her parents described her as a "never" girl. She never had her hair bobbed, never used make-up, never smoked nor drank, never danced, never disobeyed her mother, never went on parties—and

Now that she is married, critics hope the Kansas nightingale will become a truly great opera star

Haydn, with a shrew of a wife, found inspiration in a Neapolitan mistress. . . . A sketch, at the left, by Dorothy Urfer.

was realized Marion was sent east to study two years and acquire the musical education necessary to make her famous.

Her mother came with her, to protect her from naughty New York and the influences that are said to make worldly, sophisticated girls from pure and sweet damsels who know none of the pitfalls of the great city.

And when February, 1926, came along, the hullabaloo about the girlish opera star from the wheat belt was started. Having been abroad in the meantime, where Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan, heard her sing and engaged her, she was started in the correct manner.

The event of her debut is too well remembered to be recorded in detail. A special train brought 200 admirers from Kansas City. Police were called out to prevent a riot in front of the opera house as thousands fought to get in.

THOSE who did get in, to hear her sing as Gilda in "Rigoletto," saw a round-faced, rather plumpish girl with wide, China blue eyes, a clear complexion and a sweet, unworldly manner. If some great artist could have painted her in oils, an appropriate name would have been "Sweet Chastity."

The reception she received, with applause reverberating through the historic opera house and even reaching the crowd outside, assured her future. It was a triumph, a popular triumph.

But the more astute critics, who still had their feet on the ground, could see that she was far from an immortal.

There is no need to go back over the three years she spent as a singer. There were successes in New York and in other American cities. The simple fact that she was so young and had shot up so quickly from obscurity was enough to lend a romantic touch to her career and make huge crowds certain.

But when, in the spring of 1929, she abruptly announced that she was through, that she had bought a farm at Colby, Kansas, and would live there from then onward, the reason was not quite clear.

True, despite her success, she had lived quietly in New York, without any social flourishes. Her mother and sister were with her and she still clung to her "never" code. But that was the way she wanted it; that was the way she had been trained.

Having made half a million dollars, she could not want money. Perhaps, living so close to nature, she believed she would find inspiration. Anyway, the secret was locked up in her heart.

She might still be out there raising cows and chickens if she had not decided to go to Europe last November.

She has never revealed the details of her romance, but friends admit that she met the German pianist, Raucheisan, in Berlin. When love developed is a matter for conjecture. But it did.

THREE weeks before they were married Raucheisan was divorced. And then one day the demure, plumpish and pretty mid-western girl, by then 25 years old, and the man 18 years her senior slipped out of New York to White Plains, bought a marriage license from a justice of the peace and were married very quietly and romantically.

It was all done so quietly, the metropolitan press didn't find it out until a day later. And thus Marion Talley started on the adventure of love and passion and marriage without benefit of publicity. In New York, grand old divas applauded and said: "Ah, now she will find it, the great inspiration."

Raucheisan, gifted as a coach as well as being a pianist of note, is apparently a fine husband for Marion Talley. A man of the world, who has touched real life in many spots, he will, in the opinion of many, undoubtedly bring her experience that she has needed to round out her personality.

And when, and if, she returns to opera, more than a few who have found inspiration in living a full life will expect that she will bring a new fire, a new force and feeling to her singing of operatic airs.

The lives of the old masters and the great opera singers prove that a secluded life is a poor background for great achievement. And now that Marion Talley has found love, she will find new notes to sing. That is what the past teaches the present. That has been the case with all great artists.

Chopin, famous composer (left), found inspiration for his great melodies in his love affair with the French woman novelist, George Sand (above).

Michael Raucheisan, German pianist and a gifted coach of singers, who made Marion Talley his wife.

"I have never had a romance, and if a man asked me to marry him, I'd be afraid that he might be after my money . . ."

Recall her rather sheltered life? She is the daughter of a Kansas City telegraph operator. Her mother, one of 15 children in a German shoemaker's family, raised her in the tradition that insists on regularity, propriety and safety.

She found her voice when she was a mere child. When she was five years old she attracted attention by singing a song in church. She continued to sing in church and at various gatherings until she was 15, when she went with the Kansas City Opera company.

THERE, of course, weren't any beaus then. And after she sang, her conservative parents soon had her home and in bed early.

She wasn't exposed to any of the life that swirled about her. She was a nice girl, one beloved by the church-going people and appreciated by thousands who heard her sing.

Eventually the reputable citizens in Kansas City decided that she must have a chance. They organized a benefit and with the $10,000 that never had a beau. With her limited experience, could she be great?

ANWAY, at the end of three years she retired to a house, already wealthy, and commenced to hob-nob with gentle cows, raucous chickens and sheep that bleated plaintively. Why did she do it? She said, well, it was just because she wanted to.

When she went to Europe last year, there to meet the man she was to marry, she said naively:

AFRICA
DRAWN BY CATHERINE HAW, 3833 HERMITAGE
ROAD, RICHMOND,
VIRGINIA.
— AGED 12.

THE GOOD SISTER
ANGLO-EGYPTIAN SOUDAN DRAWN BY RICHARD BORDEN,
BOX 713, KINGMAN,
AGED 14. ARIZONA.

MISS PARAGUAY PARAGUAY
ASUNCION
DRAWN BY DORIS LUNDSTROM,
2011 FLORIDA AVE.,
JACKSONVILLE, FLA.
AGED 11.

MASSACHUSETTS
DRAWN BY DOROTHY SLEZAK,
AGED 10,
5132 BUCHANAN ST.,
LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

LIBYA (TRIPOLI) IN AFRICA
DRAWN BY MARY L. PIACENTINI,
2335 EAST AVE.,
COLUMBUS, OHIO.
— AGED 14.

SAKHALIN ISLAND.
RUSSIAN JAPANESE
DRAWN BY WINSTON WHIPPLE,
1541 ELM AVE.,
LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.

JOLLY GEOGRAPHY
PICTURES IN THE MAP
HO! HO! HO!

WHISTLING AT WORK
LIBYA (TRIPOLI) IN AFRICA
DRAWN BY MARY L. PIACENTINI,
2335 EAST AVE.,
COLUMBUS, OHIO.
— AGED 14.

HAWAII
DRAWN BY WILLIAM MUELLER, 120 SMITH ST.,
ELIZABETH, N.J. — AGED 10.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY :- The Story Of Columbus —Part 13 :- By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

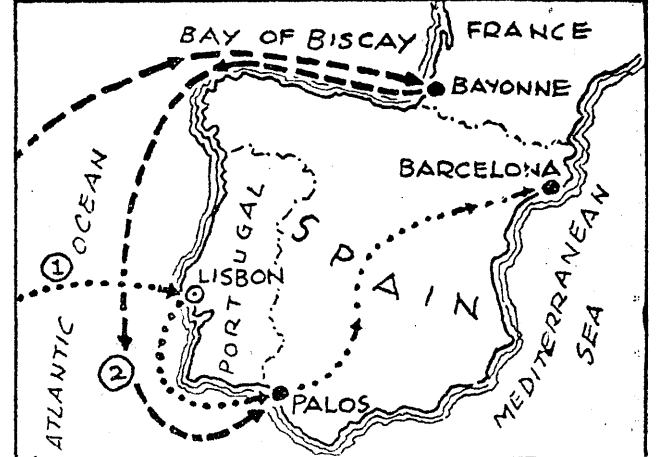

HOMeward bound from his historic voyage of discovery Columbus ran into a terrific storm near the Azores. Martin Pinzon concluded that Columbus' ship, the Niña, had foundered with all on board. Pinzon headed for Palos in the Pinta to break the news, but was blown off his course and into the Bay of Biscay. When Pinzon finally reached Palos, he was amazed to see the Niña lying in the harbor. The little ship had managed to keep afloat, and Columbus had put into Lisbon, where he was detained by officers of the King of Portugal. —

COLUMBUS' ANNOUNCEMENT THAT HE HAD DISCOVERED A NEW AND SHORTER ROUTE TO THE "INDIES," AN ACHIEVEMENT WHICH THREW THEIR OWN EXPLORATIONS IN THE SHADE, AROUSED THE JEALOUSY OF THE PORTUGUESE NAVIGATORS.

IT IS SAID THAT CERTAIN PORTUGUESE CAPTAINS EVEN WENT SO FAR AS TO SUGGEST THAT COLUMBUS BE SECRETLY ASSASSINATED AND A FLEET SENT TO SEIZE THE ISLANDS HE HAD DISCOVERED! BUT THE PORTUGUESE MONARCH SPURNED THIS TREACHEROUS PROPOSAL

① COLUMBUS' RETURN
② PINZON'S RETURN.

PERMITTED TO LEAVE PORTUGAL, COLUMBUS SAILED FOR SPAIN AND REACHED PALOS ON MARCH 15, 1493. DURING HIS LONG ABSENCE THE PEOPLE OF PALOS, MOST OF WHOM HAD RELATIVES OR FRIENDS IN COLUMBUS' CREWS, HAD GIVEN UP HOPE OF SEEING THEM AGAIN.

GREAT WAS THEIR SURPRISE WHEN THE NIÑA REAPPEARED IN THE HARBOR AND GREATER STILL WERE THEIR JOY AND RELIEF TO LEARN OF COLUMBUS' SUCCESSFUL QUEST AND BE ASSURED THAT ALL HANDS WERE SAFE

SHORTLY AFTER ARRIVING AT PALOS COLUMBUS WITH THE MEMBERS OF HIS EXPEDITION SET OUT OVERLAND FOR THE SPANISH COURT AT BARCELONA, HAVING PREVIOUSLY DISPATCHED LETTERS TO THE KING AND QUEEN REPORTING THE SUCCESS OF HIS VENTURE.

COLUMBUS' MARCH TO BARCELONA WAS A CONTINUOUS TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION. THE GOLD BROUGHT FROM THE "INDIES" WAS DISPLAYED CONSPICUOUSLY BY THE EXPLORERS.

© 1932, BY J. CARROLL MANSFIELD.

THE INDIANS THAT HAD COME WITH COLUMBUS ATTRACTED THE MOST ATTENTION. EVERYWHERE THEY WERE STARED AT BY CURIOUS CROWDS AND REGARDED ALMOST LIKE VISITORS FROM ANOTHER PLANET.

ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF APRIL, 1493, COLUMBUS ARRIVED IN BARCELONA AND WAS RECEIVED BY FERDINAND AND ISABELLA WITH GREAT POMP AND CEREMONY.

WHILE THE COURT LISTENED SPELLBOUND, COLUMBUS TOLD THE KING AND QUEEN ALL ABOUT HIS THRILLING VOYAGE AND THE BEAUTIFUL ISLANDS HE HAD DISCOVERED

ELATED AT COLUMBUS' SUCCESS, THE SPANISH SOVEREIGNS SHOWERED HONORS UPON THE DARING NAVIGATOR. HE WAS GIVEN A TITLE OF NOBILITY AND HIS RANK AS ADMIRAL AND VICEROY WAS CONFIRMED. CROWDS FLOCKED TO GET A GLIMPSE OF THE FAMOUS DISCOVERER.

COLUMBUS WAS NOW THE MOST IMPORTANT MAN IN SPAIN, NEXT TO THE KING, AND THE VERY COURTIER THAT ONCE HAD RIDICULED AND DESPISED HIM, NOW SOUGHT HIS FRIENDSHIP AND FAVOR. TO BE CONTINUED.

FUNLAND

A PLAYMATE FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

TRICKS, PUZZLES, GAMES & COMICS. BY A.W. NUGENT.

PUSS C. KATT CAN PRINT ONE LETTER IN EACH SQUARE SHOWN AT THE LEFT AND ARRANGE THEM SO THAT NO TWO LIKE LETTERS WILL BE IN ANY ROW ACROSS OR DOWN. CAN YOU DO IT?

USE ONLY THE SIX LETTERS SHOWN BELOW

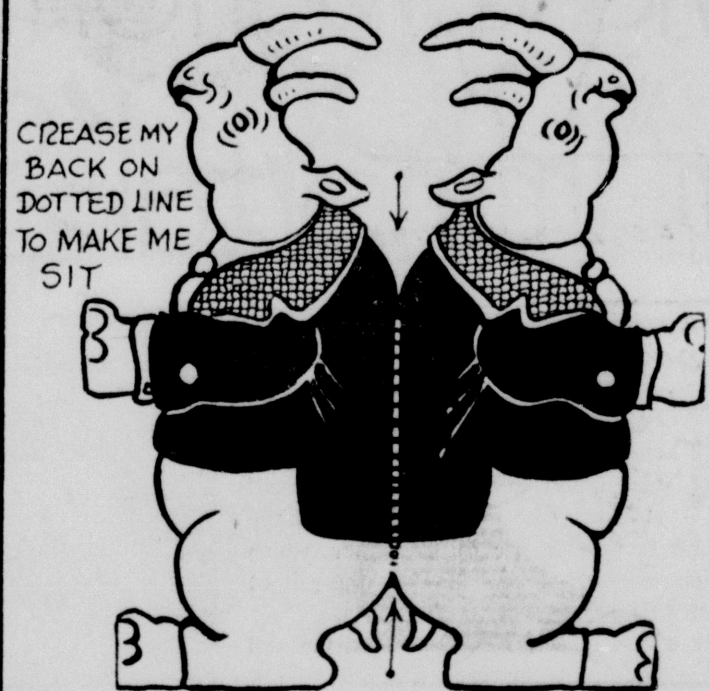

S · N · B
P · H · R

MR QUACK IS RIDING TO TOWN ON HIS PET ———, WELL YOU CAN SEE WHAT IT IS BY CONNECTING ALL THE DOTS IN NUMERICAL ORDER FROM ONE TO FORTY-ONE

DRAW STRAIGHT LINES. WHAT DO YOU THINK IT WILL BE?

A.W. NUGENT

TWO ANIMAL CUT-OUTS. THE RHINOCEROS WILL SIT UP AND THE ELEPHANT WILL STAND ON ITS HIND LEGS.

A → B

BEND MY HEAD AND MY TWO FEET FLAPS BACK ON THE DOTTED LINES TO MAKE ME STAND

COLOR THESE PICTURES AND SAVE THEM FOR YOUR ZOO

PASTE SQUARE ON FOOT "A" PASTE SQUARE ON FOOT "B"

BEND BACK

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE? STUDY IT VERY CAREFULLY TO SEE IF YOU CAN DISCOVER EXACTLY TEN INTENTIONAL MISTAKES

A.W. NUGENT

CAN YOU FIND THE ENTIRE BODY OF ANOTHER CAMEL IN THIS DRAWING?

WHERE IS IT?

A.W. NUGENT

MR. FOX CHALLENGES YOU TO MAKE THE ABOVE DESIGN BY DRAWING ONLY ONE CONTINUOUS LINE AND WITHOUT CROSSING OR RETRACING IT CAN YOU DO IT? DRAW FREE-HAND

9-11

DEN

START FROM THE LOST BEAR AND TRACE BETWEEN THE LINES TO SEE IF YOU CAN LEAD IT THROUGH THE CROOKED PATHS TO THE DEN.

Walking Leaf, Pulchruphyllium bioculatum, is a member of the six hundred species of the walking stick insect family. Sixteen species are native American. These insects disguise themselves by simulating twigs and leaves. Note the close resemblance this insect has to a leaf.

If certain species of the walking sticks lose a leg

Strange But True, another grows in its place.

A.W. NUGENT

A PROGRESSIVE DRAWING LESSON FOR CHILDREN

1

DRAW THE PICTURES IN THEIR ORDER

2

3

HERE ARE PICTURES OF MR. AND MRS. TURNOVER WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE THE REST OF THE FAMILY? IF SO LOOK AT THESE HEADS UPSIDE DOWN.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLES. THE OBJECTS THAT BEGIN WITH THE LETTER "T" ARE AS FOLLOWS — TOAD, TARGET, TIE, TENT, TUBE, TRAMP, TAG, TABLE, TULIP, TRUNK, TROMBONE, TIGER, TURKEY, TAXI, TOP, TURTLE, TACK, TONGS, TEN, TROUT, TROWEL, TREE AND TRIANGLE

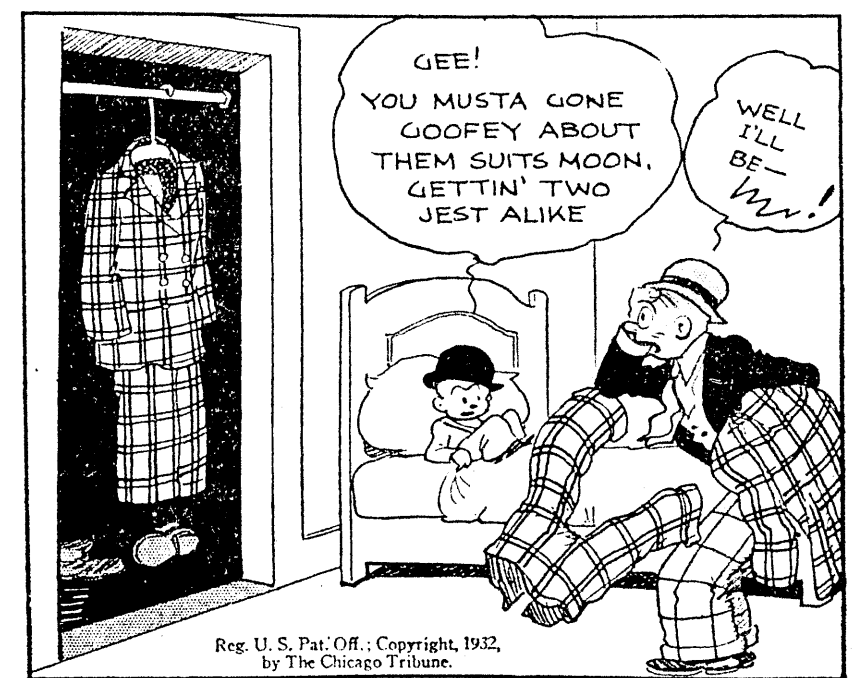

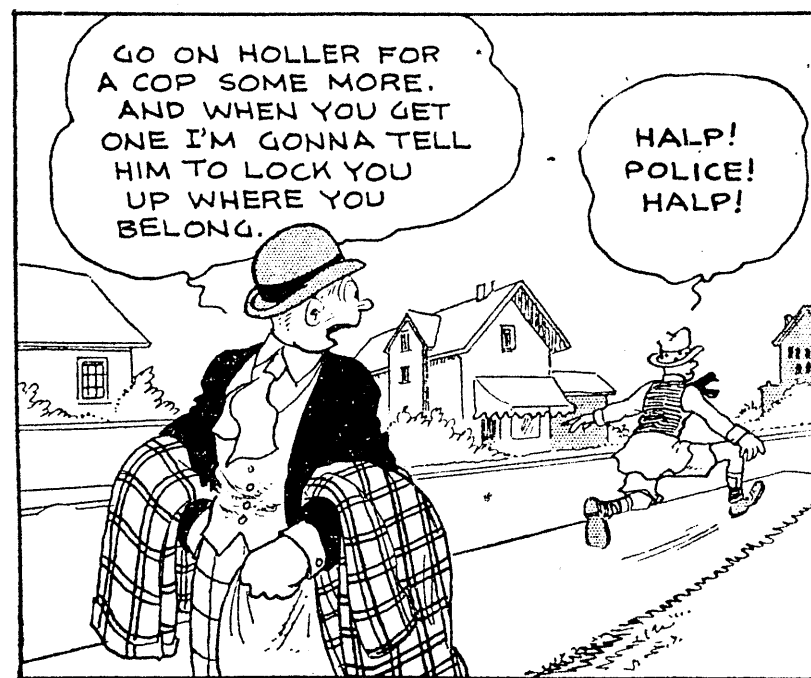

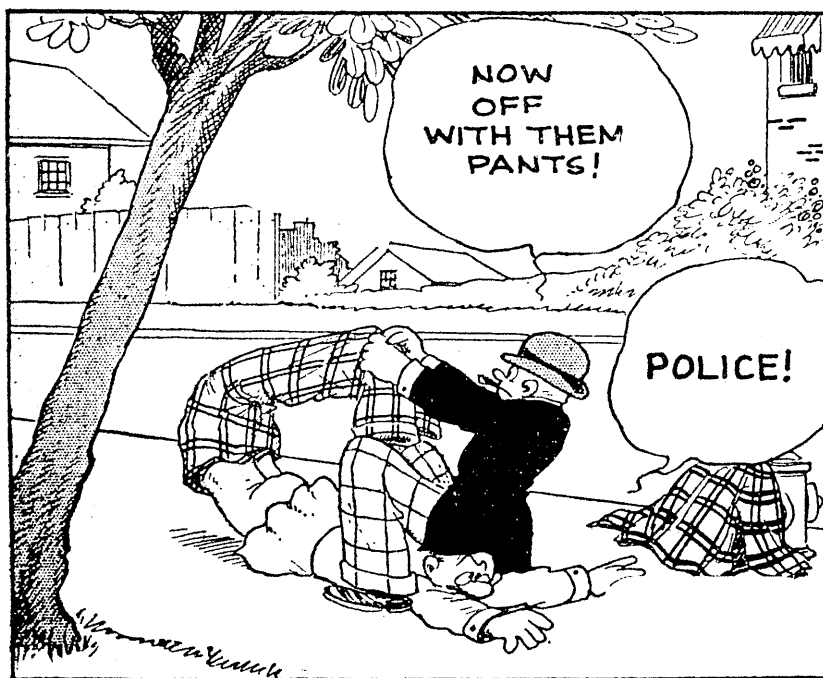

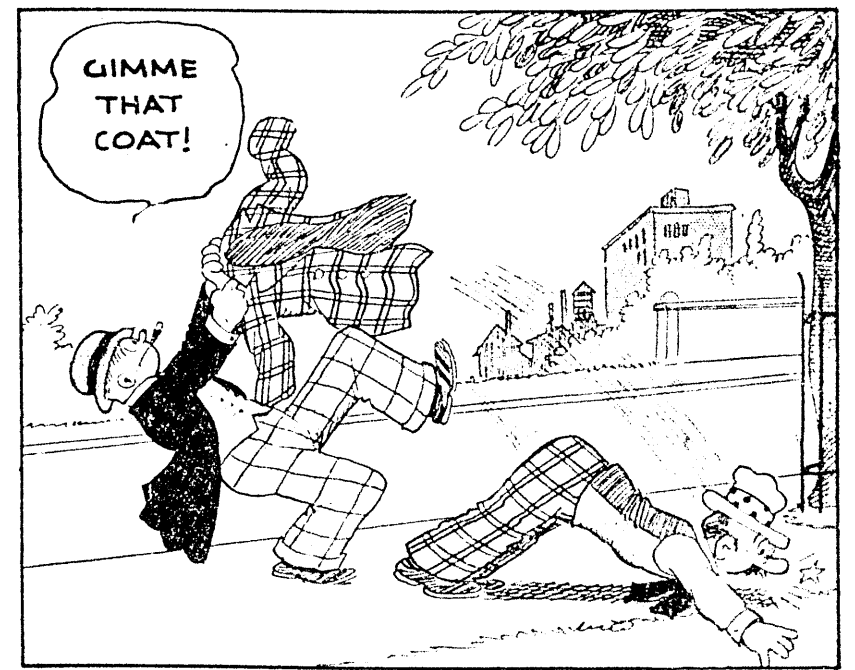

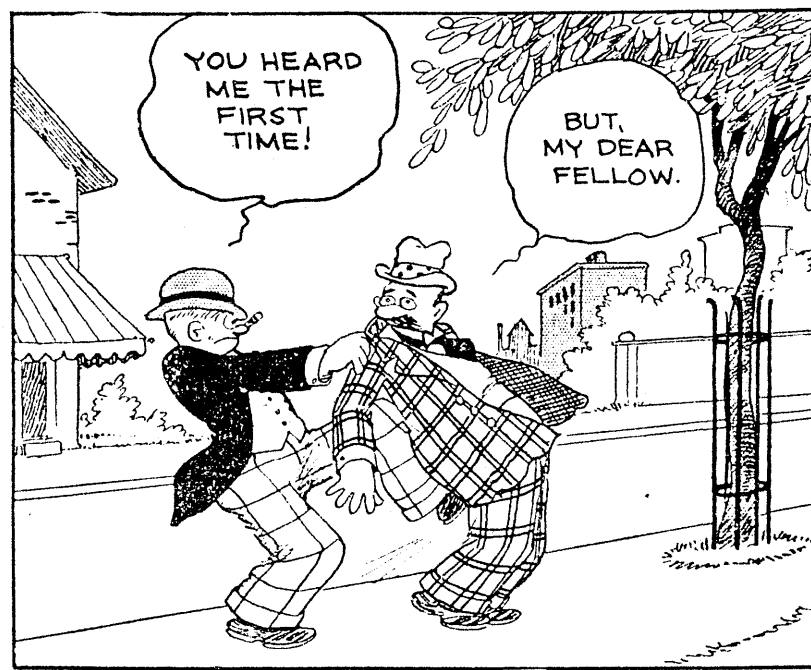

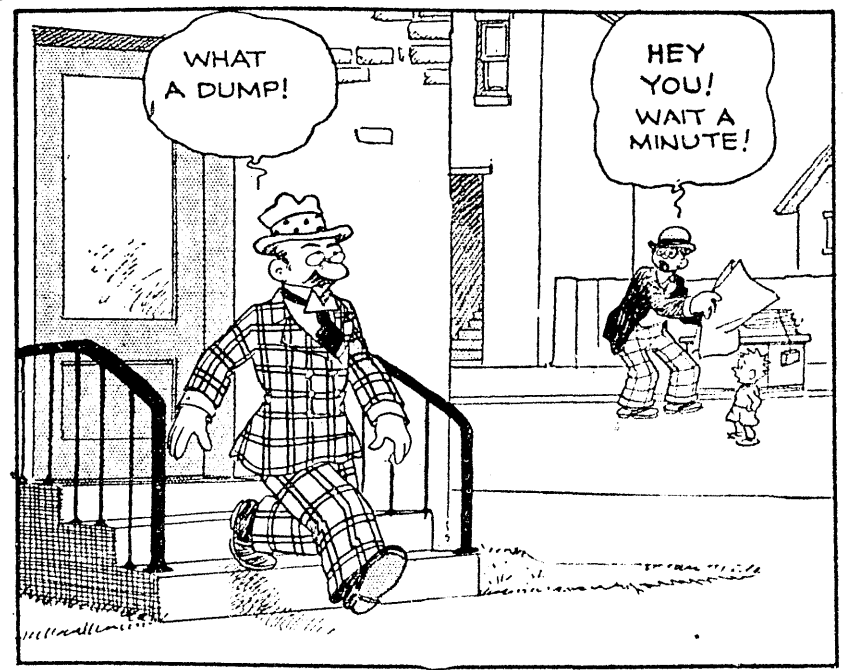

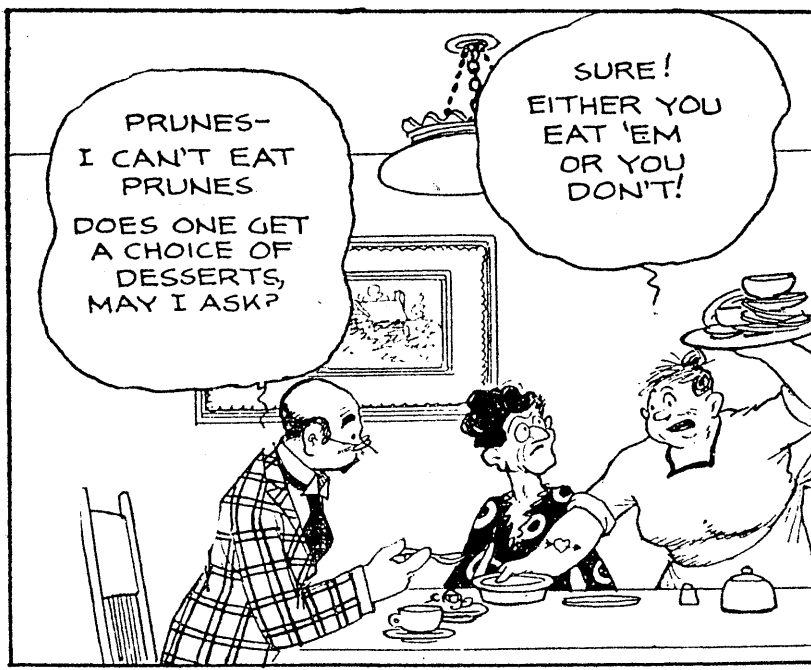

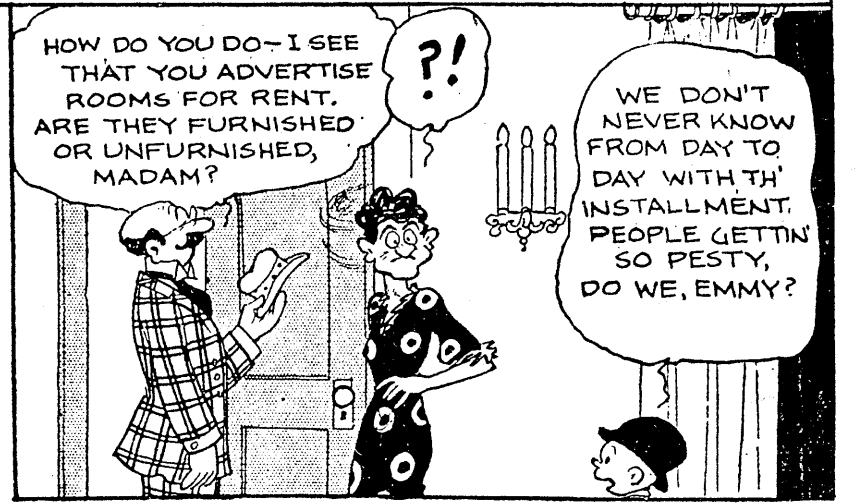

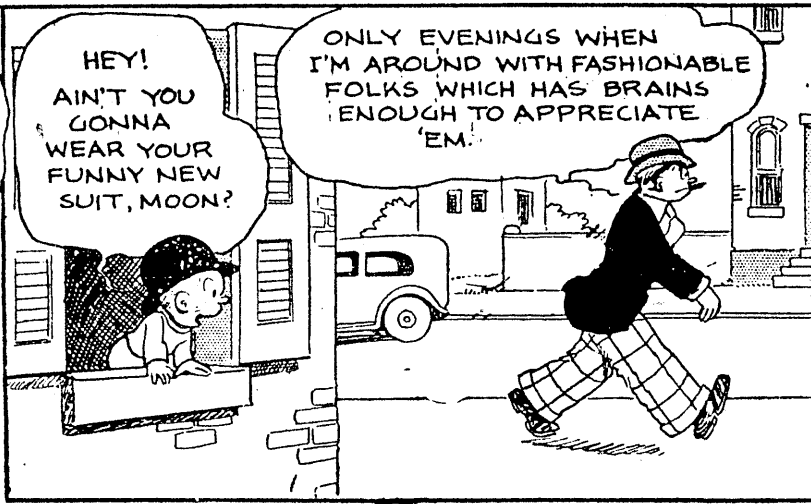

HIDDEN PICTURE ANSWER

TURN THE DRAWING UPSIDE DOWN TO SEE THE HIDDEN GOAT'S HEAD. IT'S IN FRONT OF THE LARGE RABBIT. THE PIG'S HEAD IS HIDDEN AROUND THE LARGE LETTER "T."

LINE PUZZLE ANSWER

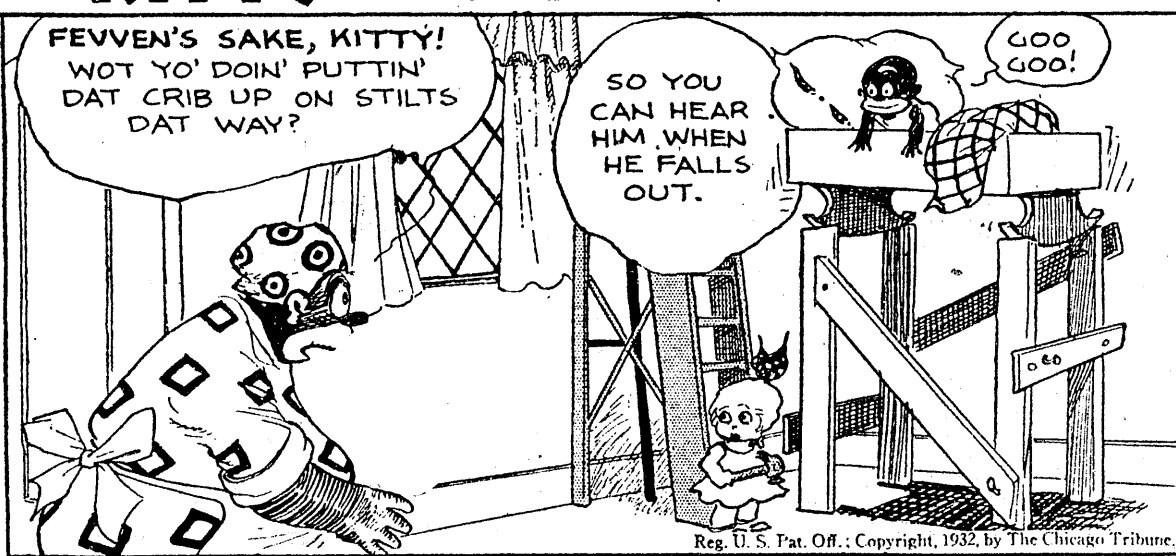

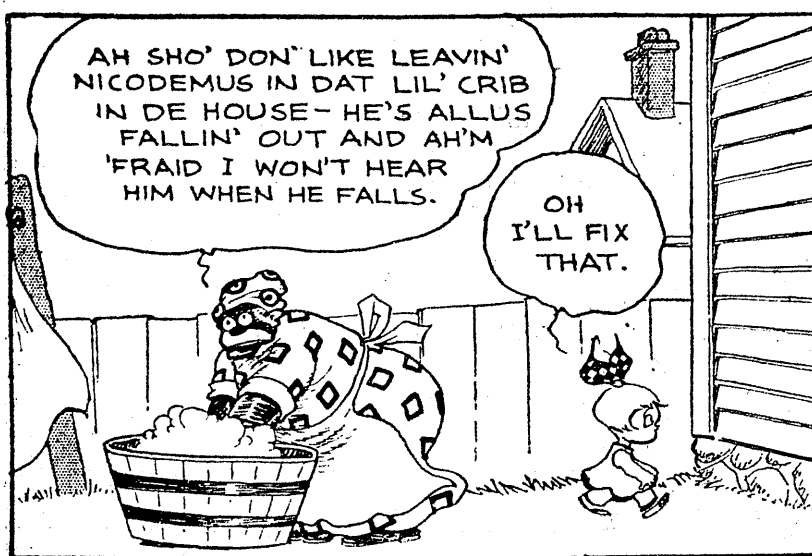

9-11

MOON MULLINS by Frank Willard

KITTY HIGGINS

MOON-KEY - SEPT. 11

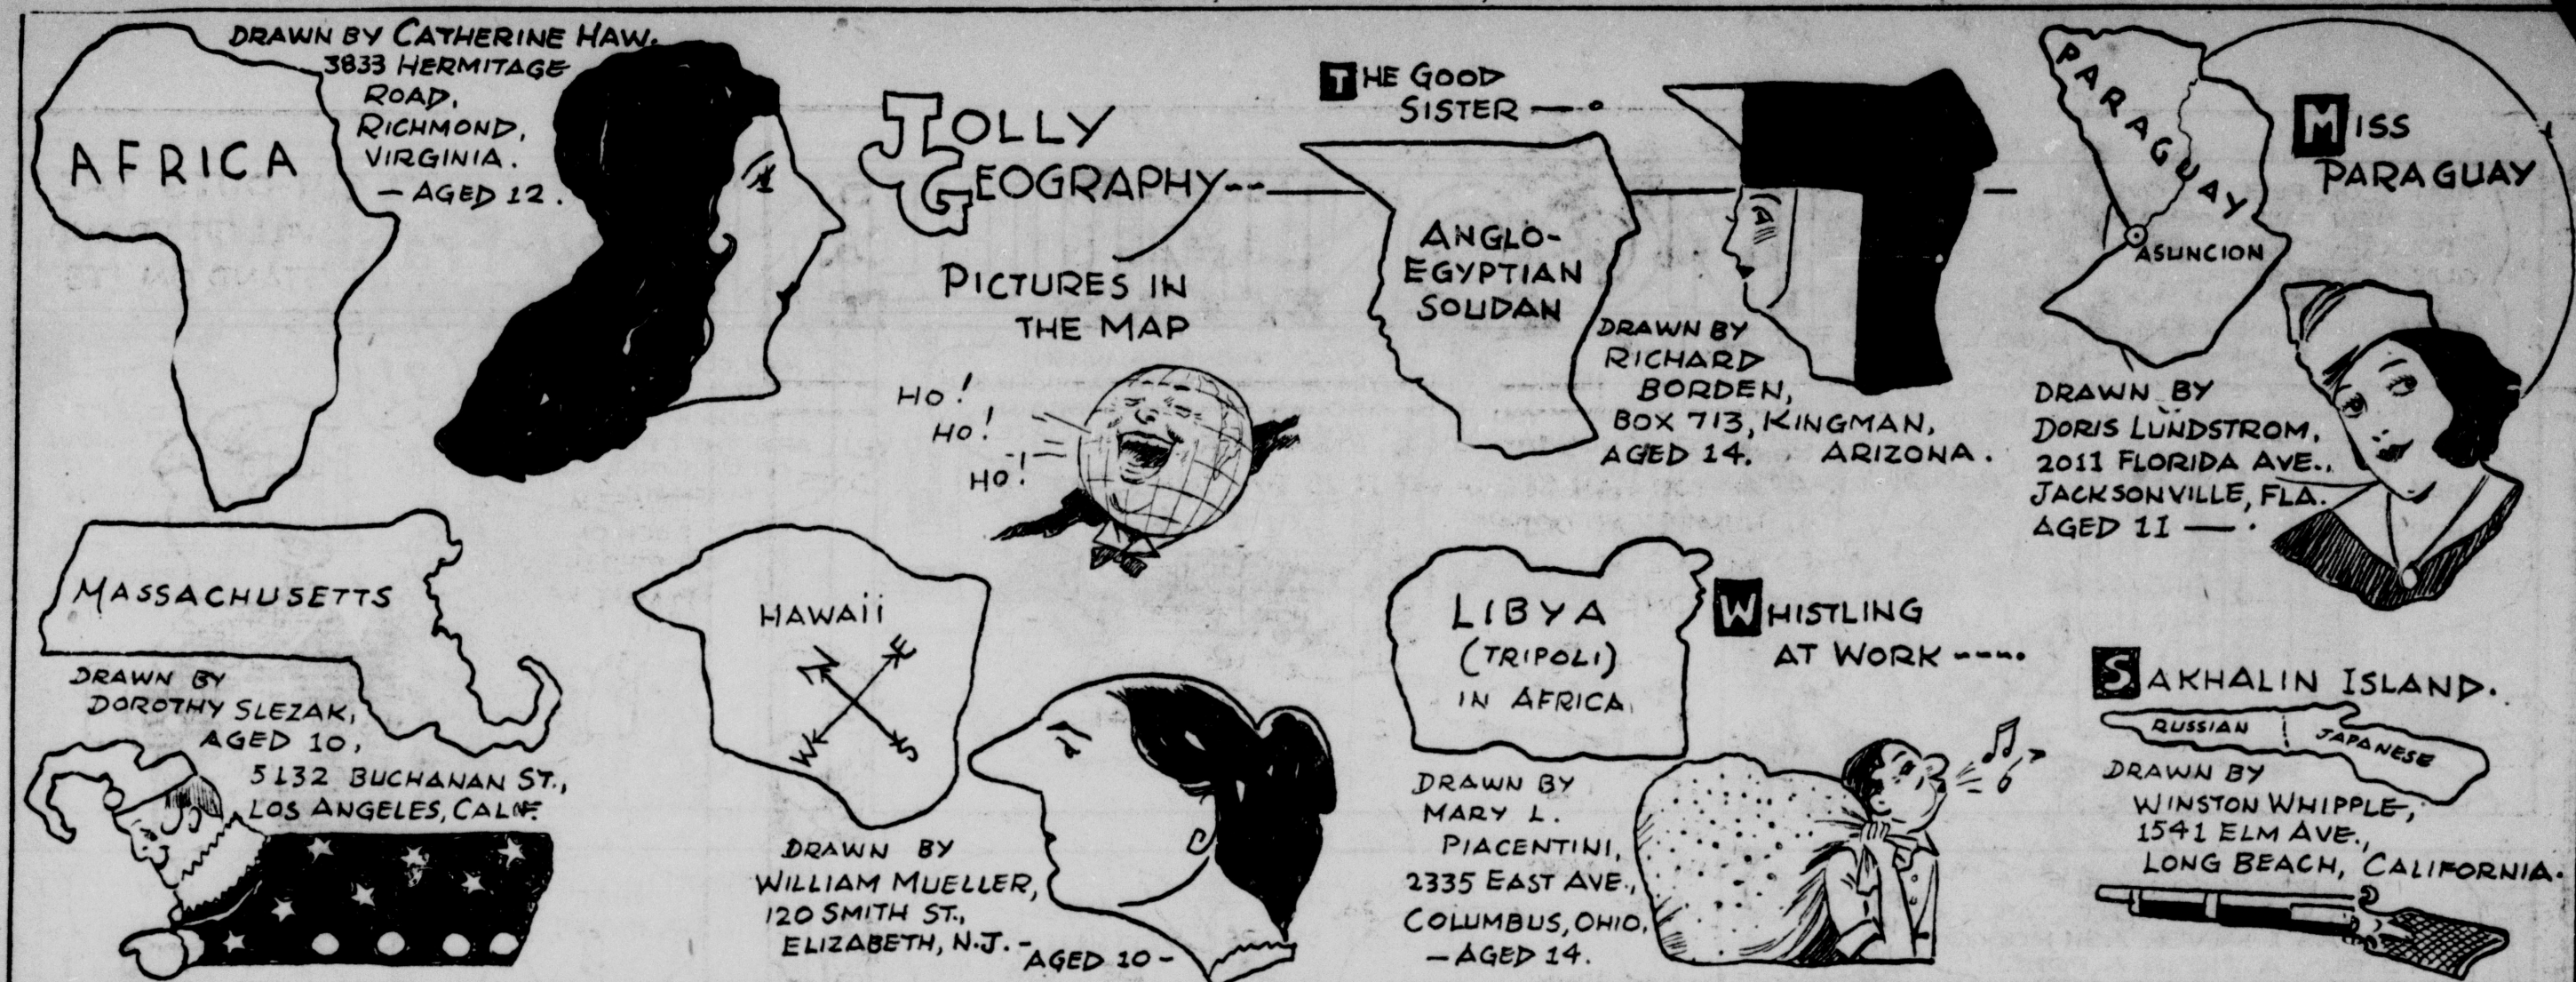

COMIC STAMP FOR KIDS ONLY

Willard

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY :- The Story Of Columbus -Part 13 :- By J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

HOMEWARD BOUND FROM HIS HISTORIC VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY COLUMBUS RAN INTO A TERRIFIC STORM NEAR THE AZORES. MARTIN PINZON CONCLUDED THAT COLUMBUS' SHIP, THE NIÑA, HAD FOUNDERED WITH ALL ON BOARD. PINZON HEADED FOR PALOS IN THE PINTA TO BREAK THE NEWS, BUT WAS BLOWN OFF HIS COURSE AND INTO THE BAY OF BISCAY. WHEN PINZON FINALLY REACHED PALOS, HE WAS AMAZED TO SEE THE NIÑA LYING IN THE HARBOR. THE LITTLE SHIP HAD MANAGED TO KEEP AFLOAT, AND COLUMBUS HAD PUT INTO LISBON, WHERE HE WAS DETAINED BY OFFICERS OF THE KING OF PORTUGAL. —

COLUMBUS' ANNOUNCEMENT THAT HE HAD DISCOVERED A NEW AND SHORTER ROUTE TO THE "INDIES," AN ACHIEVEMENT WHICH THREW THEIR OWN EXPLORATIONS IN THE SHADE, AROUSED THE JEALOUSY OF THE PORTUGUESE NAVIGATORS.

IT IS SAID THAT CERTAIN PORTUGUESE CAPTAINS EVEN WENT SO FAR AS TO SUGGEST THAT COLUMBUS BE SECRETLY ASSASSINATED AND A FLEET SENT TO SEIZE THE ISLANDS HE HAD DISCOVERED. BUT THE PORTUGUESE MONARCH SPURNED THIS TREACHEROUS PROPOSAL.

PERMITTED TO LEAVE PORTUGAL, COLUMBUS SAILED FOR SPAIN AND REACHED PALOS ON MARCH 15, 1493. DURING HIS LONG ABSENCE THE PEOPLE OF PALOS, MOST OF WHOM HAD RELATIVES OR FRIENDS IN COLUMBUS' CREWS, HAD GIVEN UP HOPE OF SEEING THEM AGAIN.

GREAT WAS THEIR SURPRISE WHEN THE NIÑA REAPPEARED IN THE HARBOR AND GREATER STILL WERE THEIR JOY AND RELIEF TO LEARN OF COLUMBUS' SUCCESSFUL QUEST AND BE ASSURED THAT ALL HANDS WERE SAFE.

SHORTLY AFTER ARRIVING AT PALOS COLUMBUS WITH THE MEMBERS OF HIS EXPEDITION SET OUT OVERLAND FOR THE SPANISH COURT AT BARCELONA, HAVING PREVIOUSLY DISPATCHED LETTERS TO THE KING AND QUEEN REPORTING THE SUCCESS OF HIS VENTURE.

COLUMBUS' MARCH TO BARCELONA WAS A CONTINUOUS TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION. THE GOLD BROUGHT FROM THE "INDIES" WAS DISPLAYED CONSPICUOUSLY BY THE EXPLORERS.

THE INDIANS THAT HAD COME WITH COLUMBUS ATTRACTED THE MOST ATTENTION. EVERYWHERE THEY WERE STARED AT BY CURIOUS CROWDS AND REGARDED ALMOST LIKE VISITORS FROM ANOTHER PLANET.

ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF APRIL, 1493, COLUMBUS ARRIVED IN BARCELONA AND WAS RECEIVED BY FERDINAND AND ISABELLA WITH GREAT POMP AND CEREMONY.

WHILE THE COURT LISTENED SPELLBOUND, COLUMBUS TOLD THE KING AND QUEEN ALL ABOUT HIS THRILLING VOYAGE AND THE BEAUTIFUL ISLANDS HE HAD DISCOVERED.

ELATED AT COLUMBUS' SUCCESS, THE SPANISH SOVEREIGNS SHOWERED HONORS UPON THE DARING NAVIGATOR. HE WAS GIVEN A TITLE OF NOBILITY AND HIS RANK AS ADMIRAL AND VICEROY WAS CONFIRMED. CROWDS FLOCKED TO GET A GLIMPSE OF THE FAMOUS DISCOVERER.

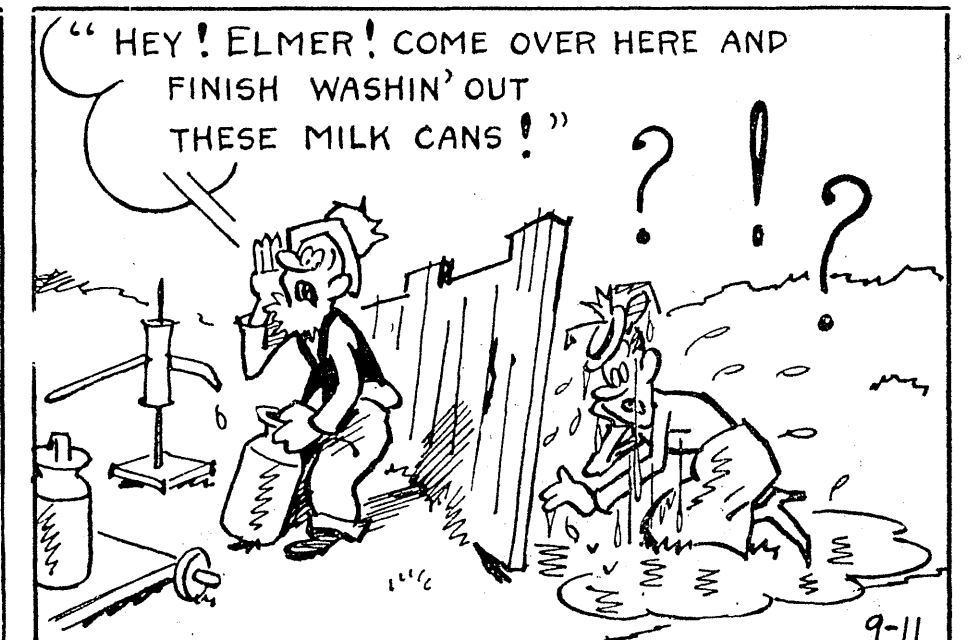

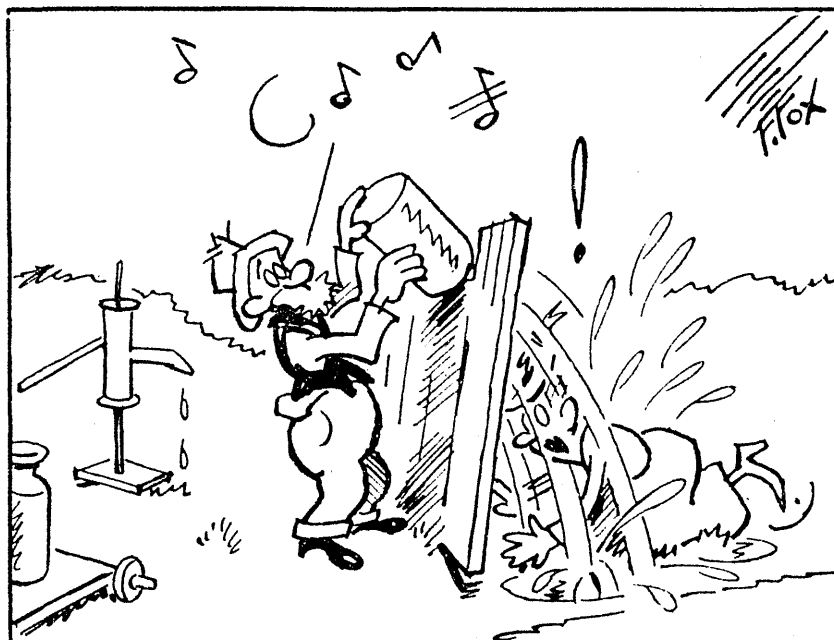

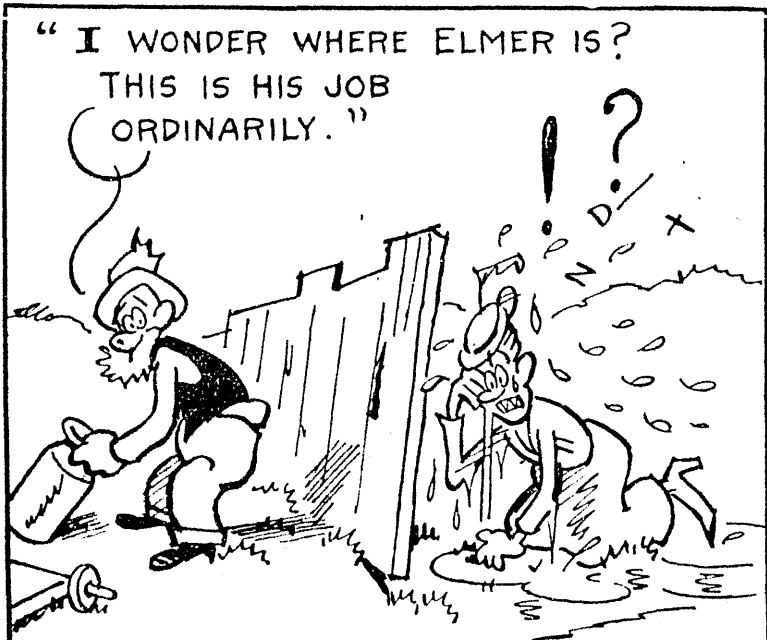

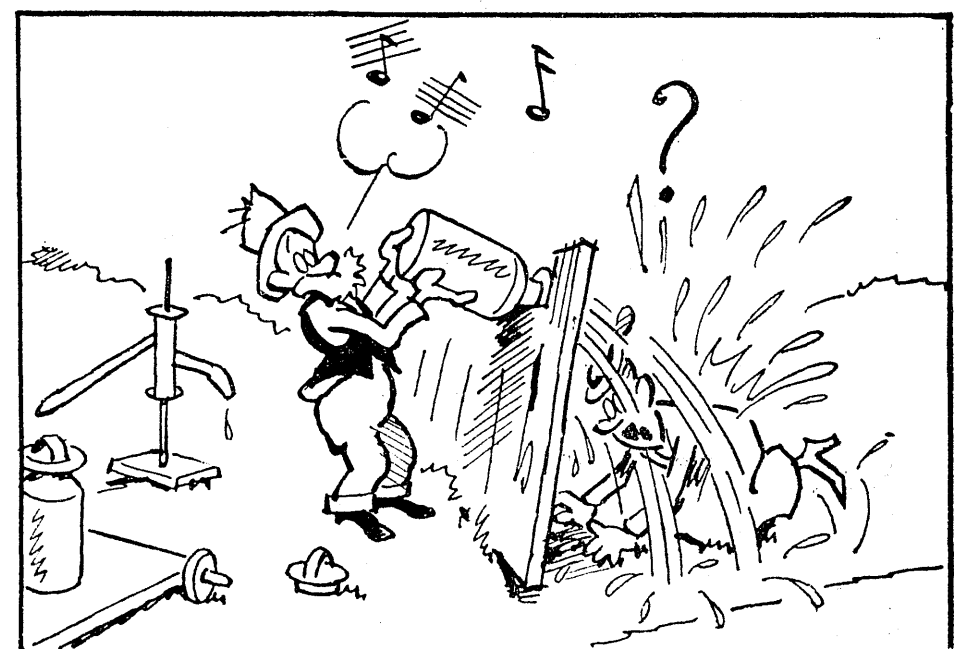

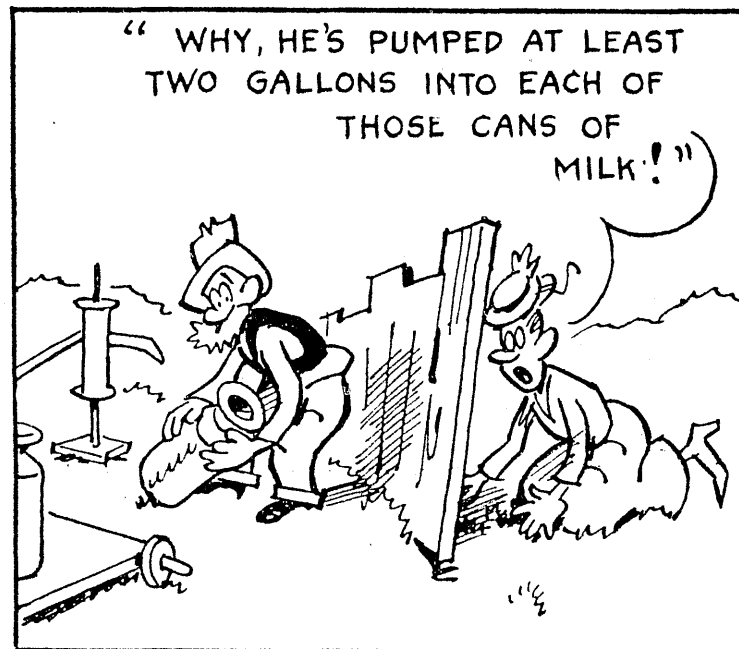

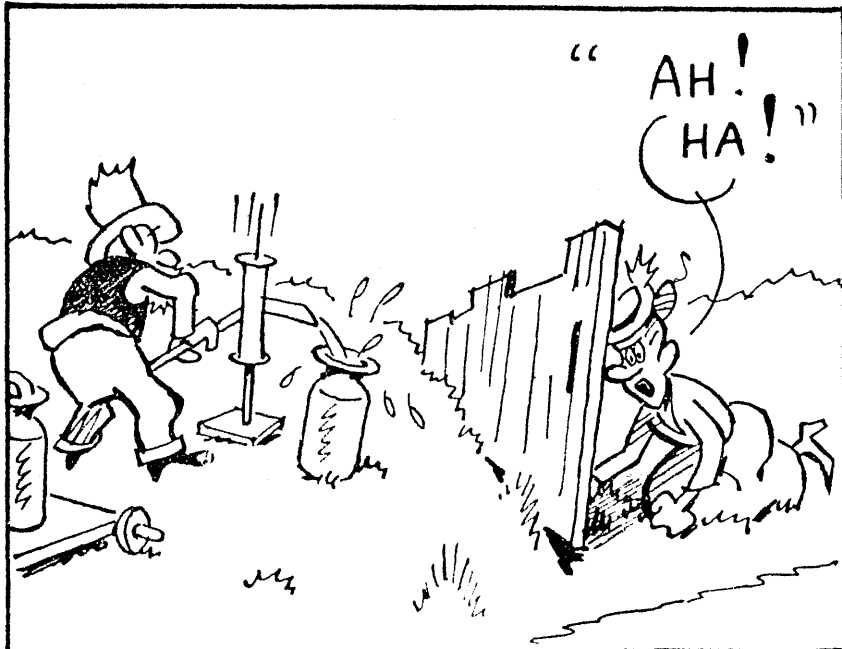

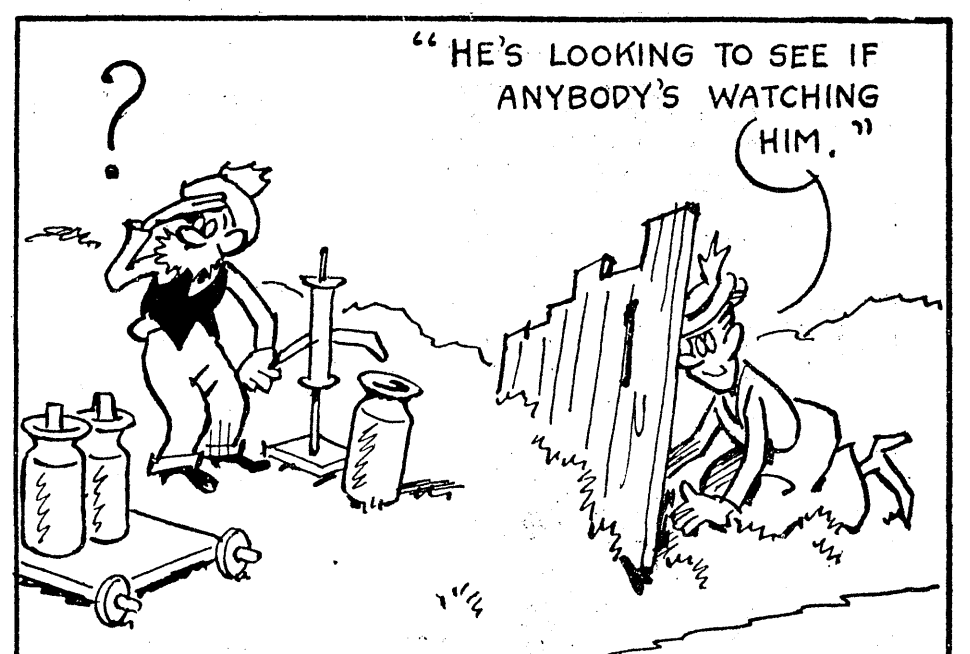

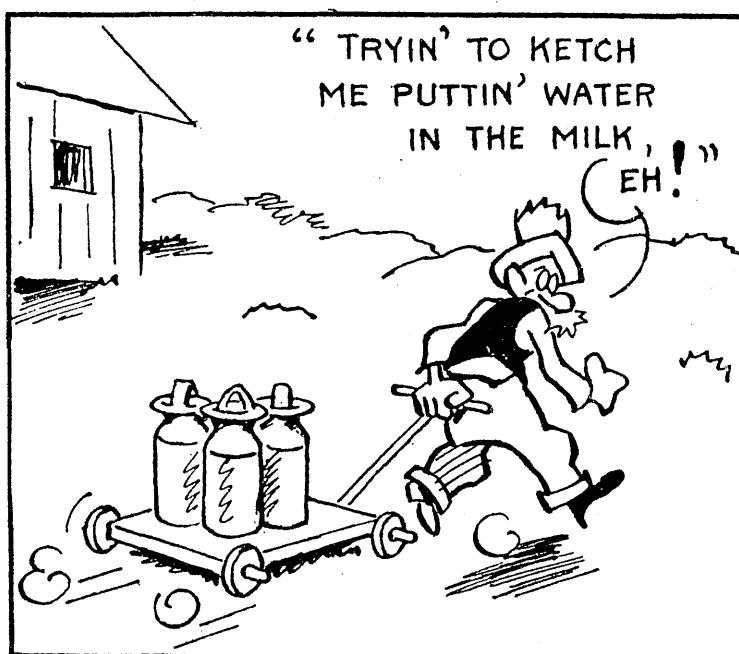

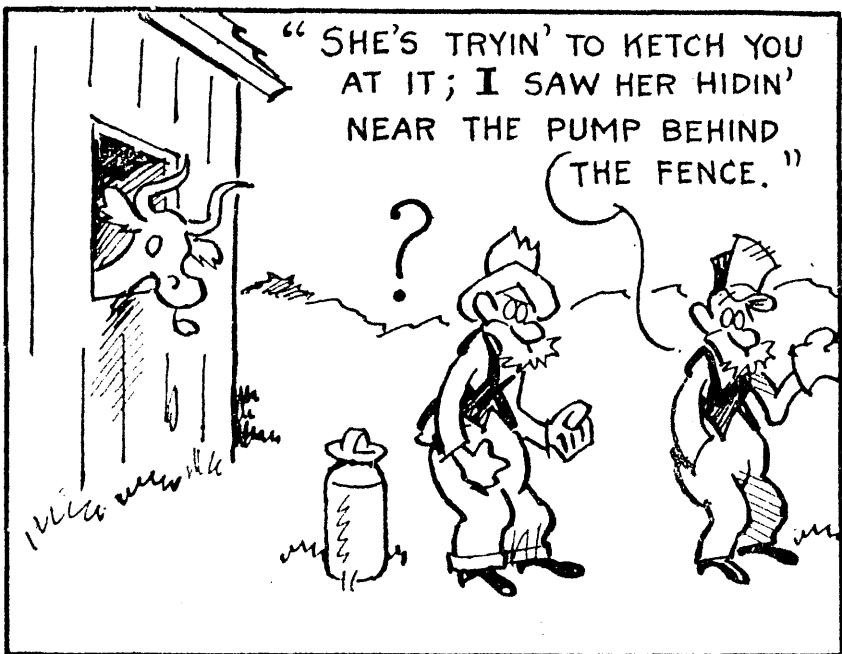

COLUMBUS WAS NOW THE MOST IMPORTANT MAN IN SPAIN, NEXT TO THE KING, AND THE VERY COURTIER'S THAT ONCE HAD RIDICULED AND DESPISED HIM, NOW SOUGHT HIS FRIENDSHIP AND FAVOR. TO BE CONTINUED.

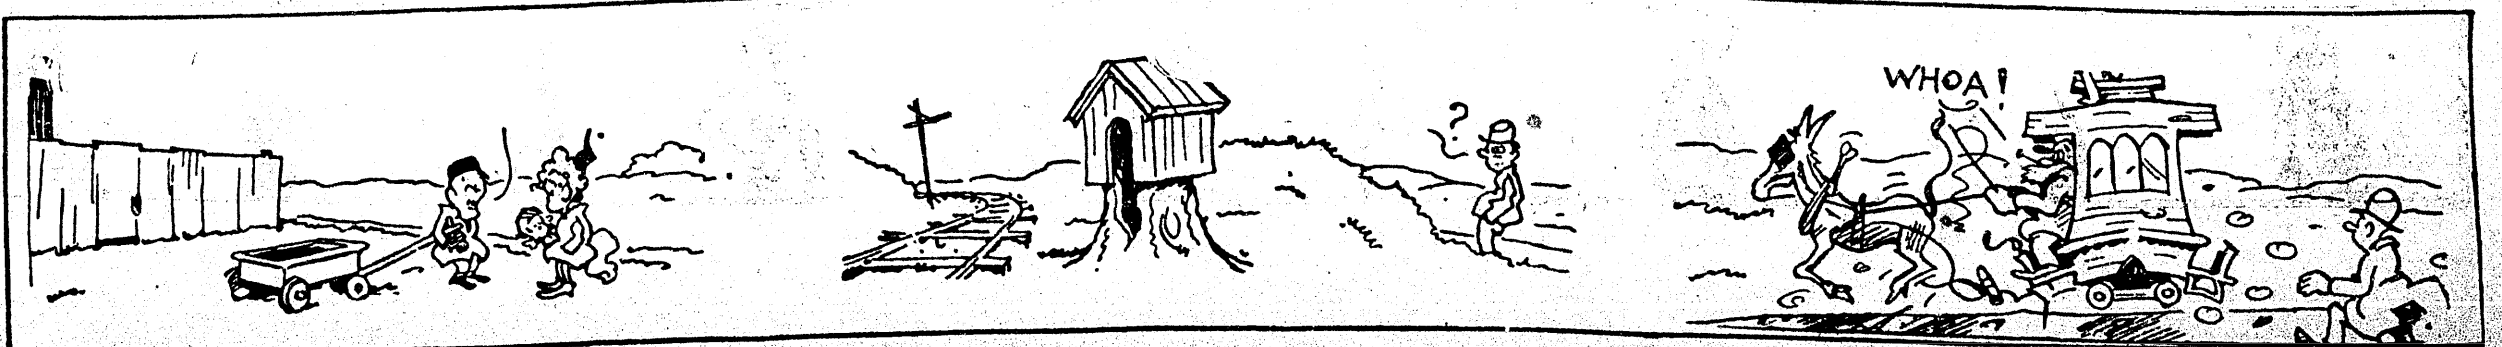

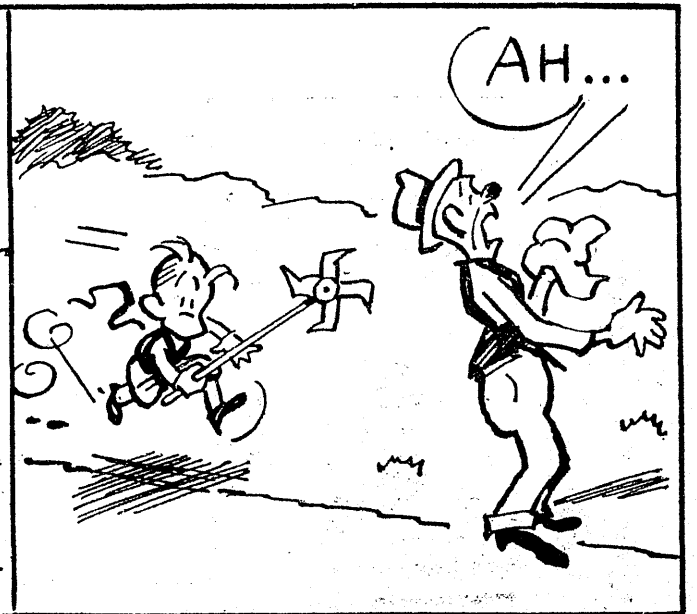

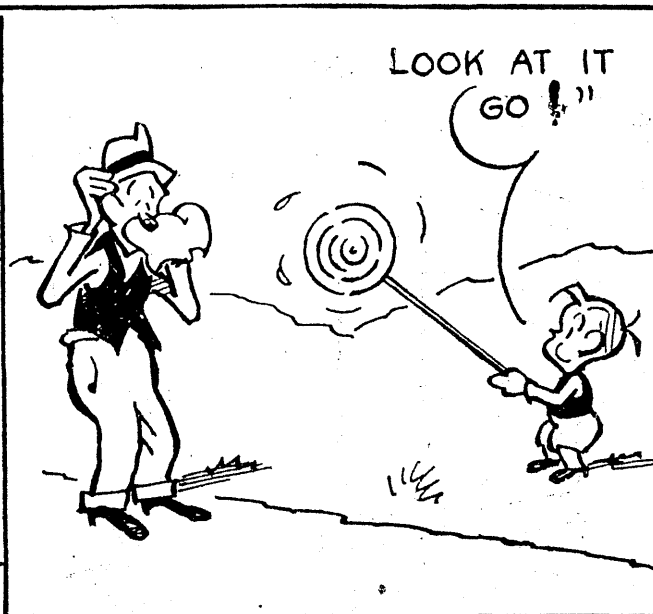

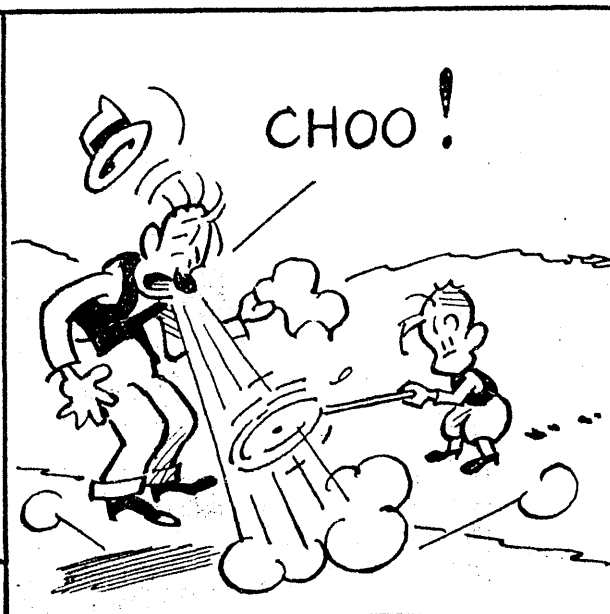

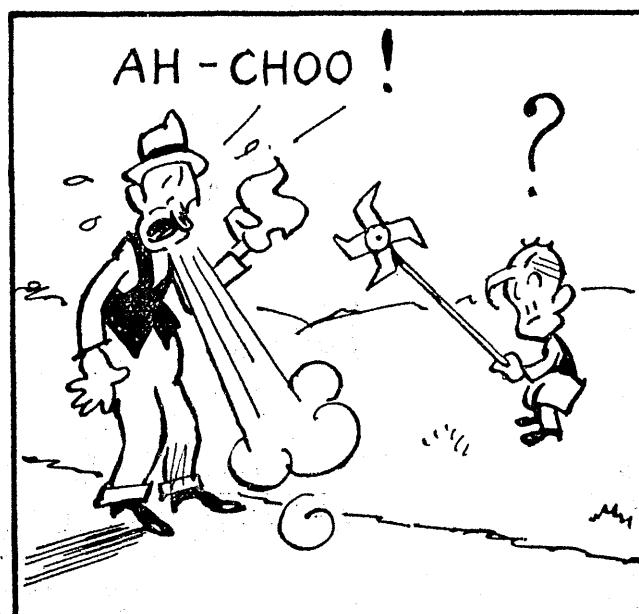

TOONERVILLE FOLKS

BY FONTAINE FOX

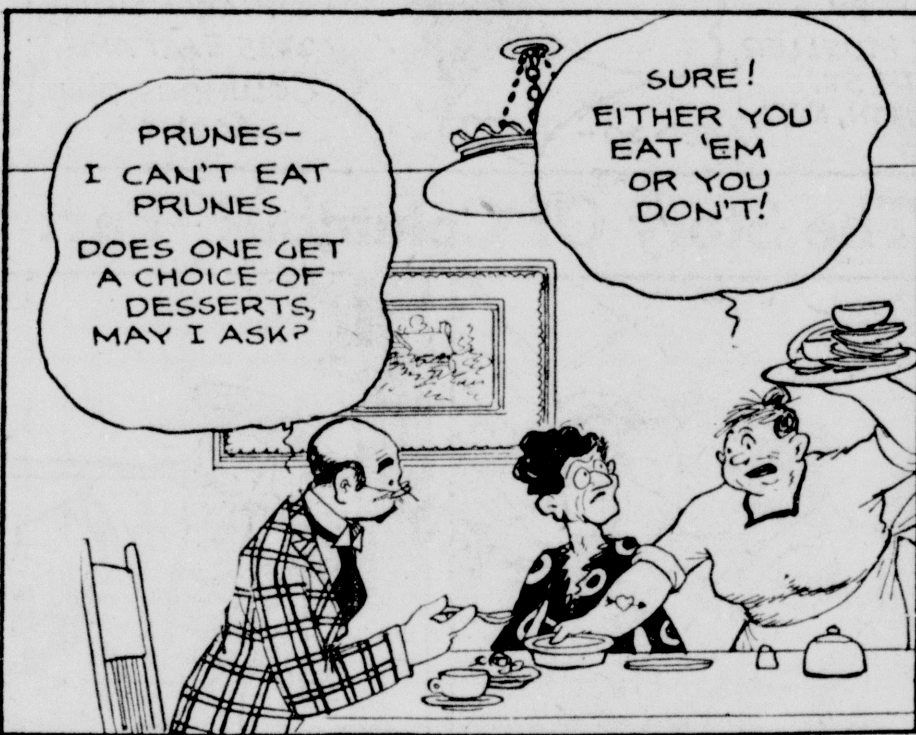

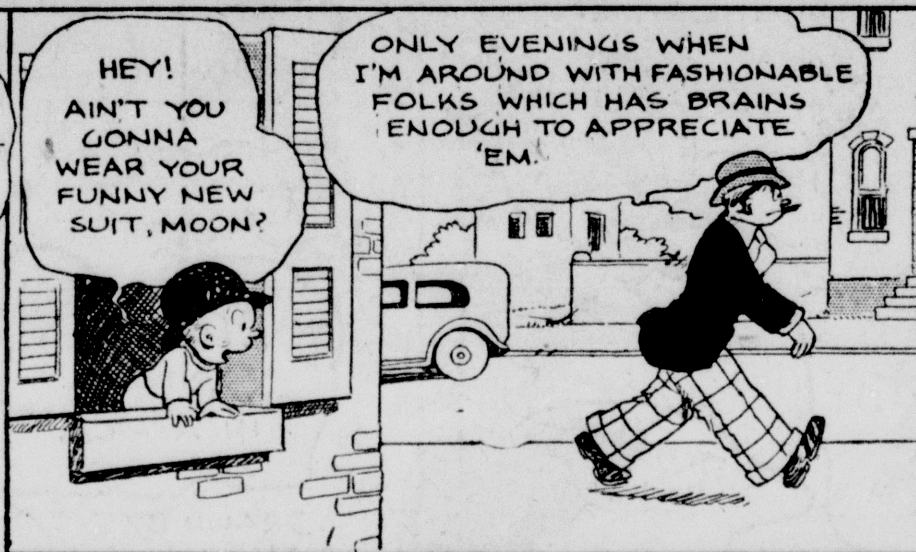

(Copyright, 1932—by Fontaine Fox, Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
Great Britain Rights Reserved

LITTLE STANLEY

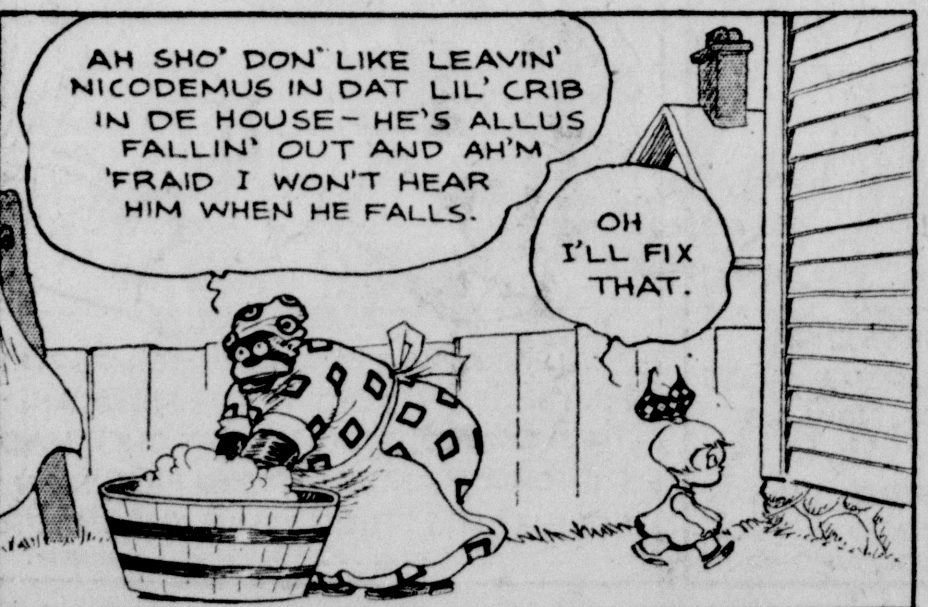

MOON MULLINS by Frank Willard

KITTY HIGGINS

MOON-KEY - SEPT. 11

COMIC STAMP FOR KIDS ONLY

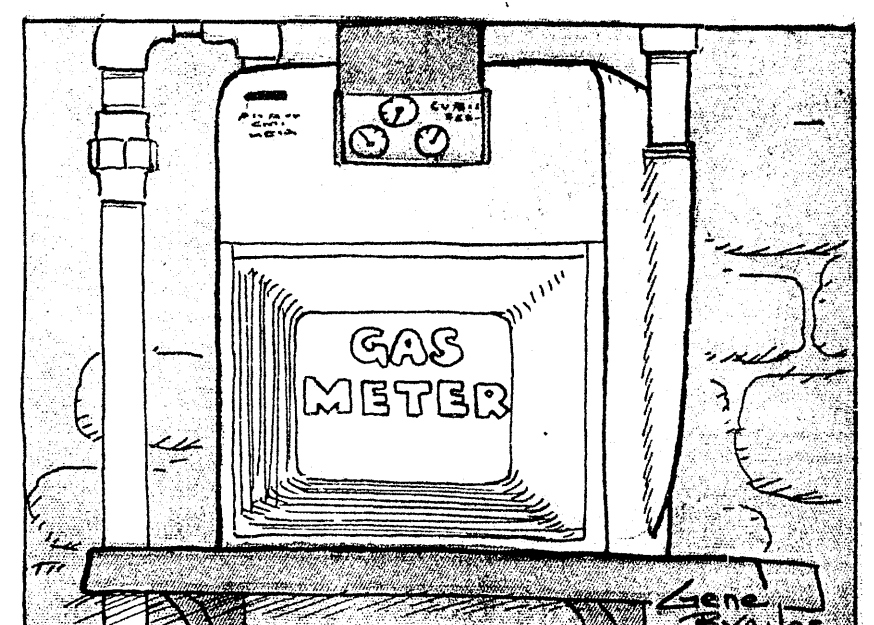

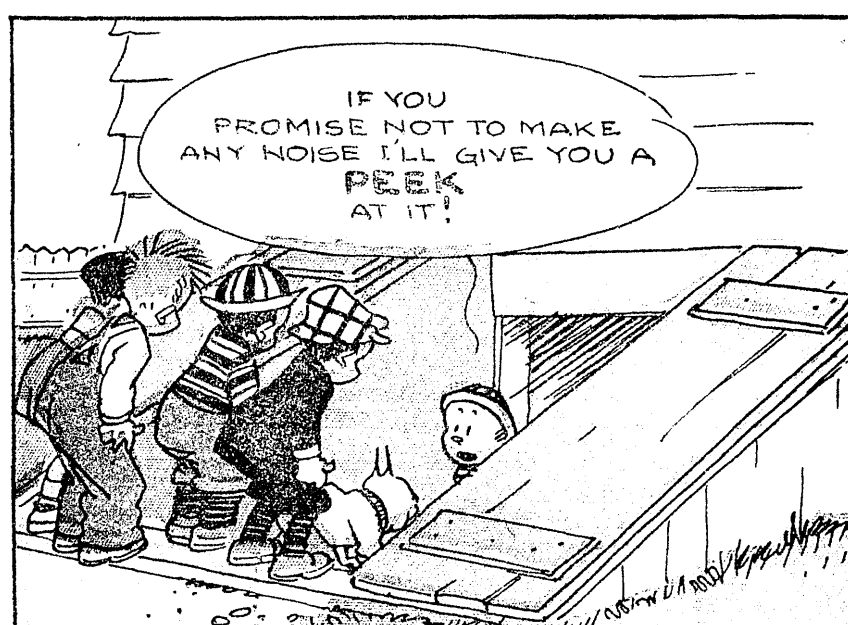

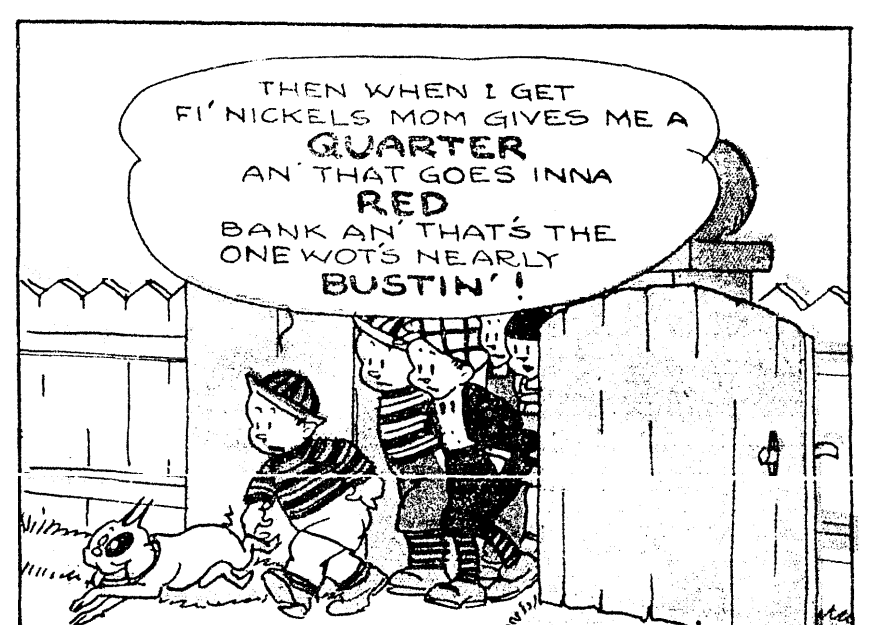

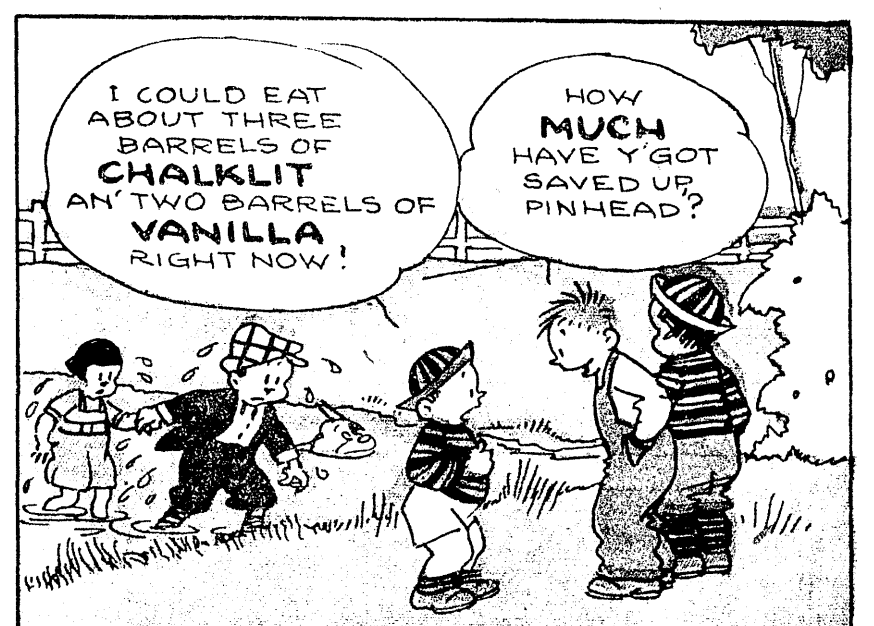

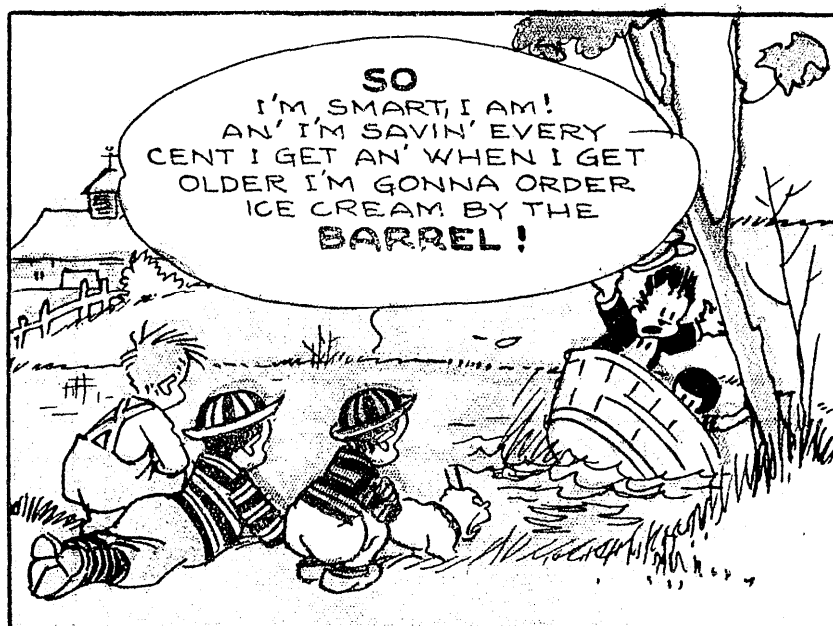

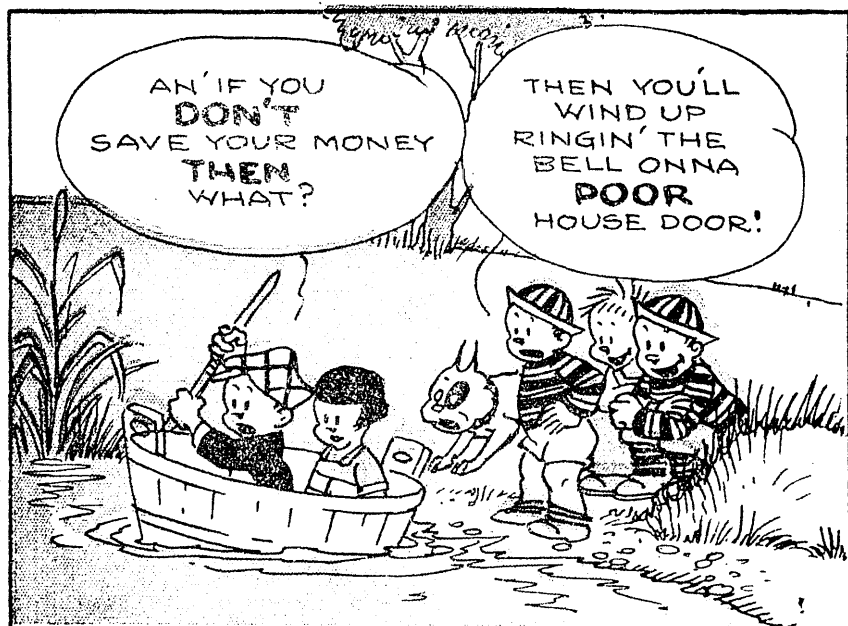

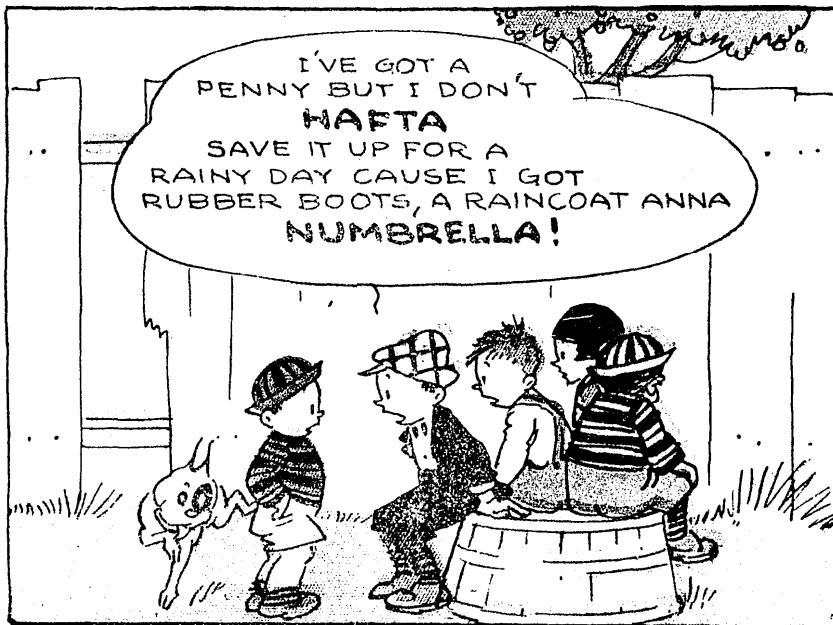

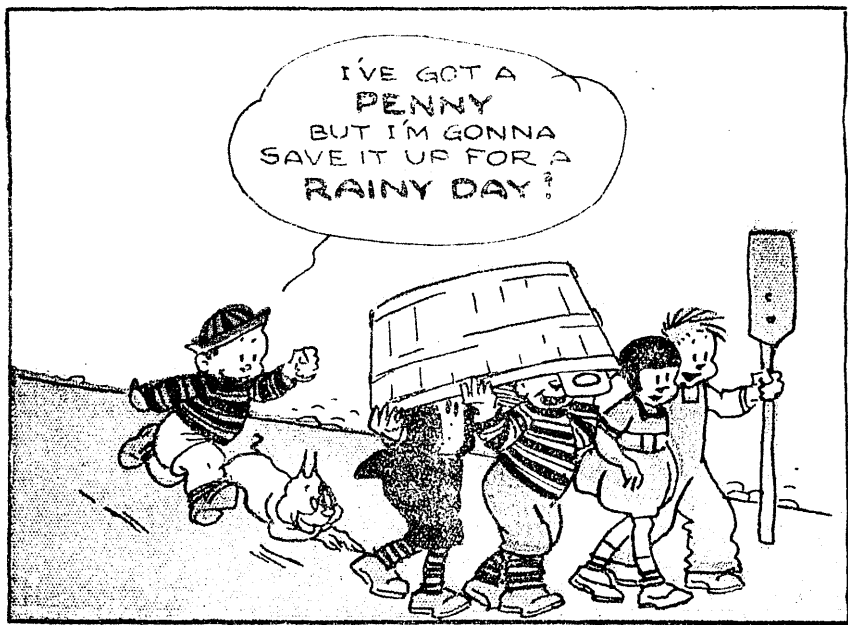

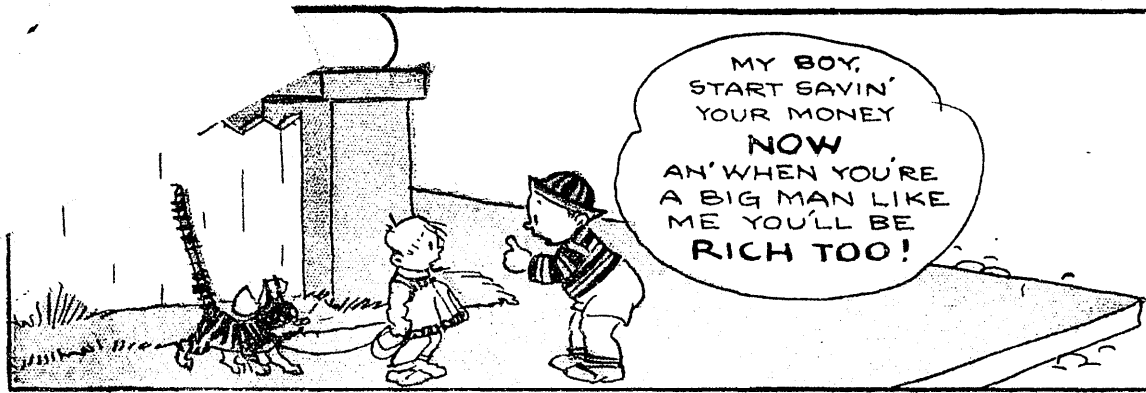

Willard

Regular Fellers

By Gene Byrnes

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office. All rights reserved.

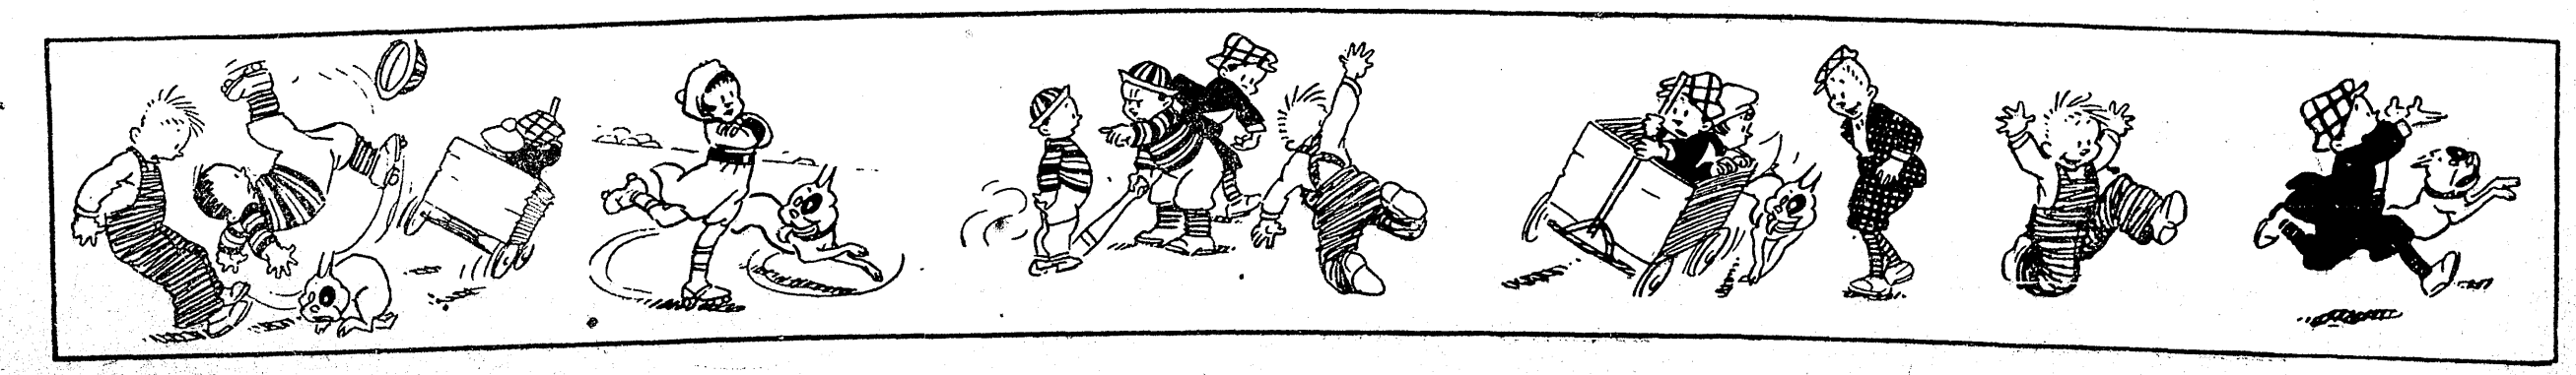

DRAW IT Y'SELF

G.B.

DRAW A LINE FROM DOT NO. 1 TO DOT NO. 2 THEN TO DOT NO. 3 AND SO ON.

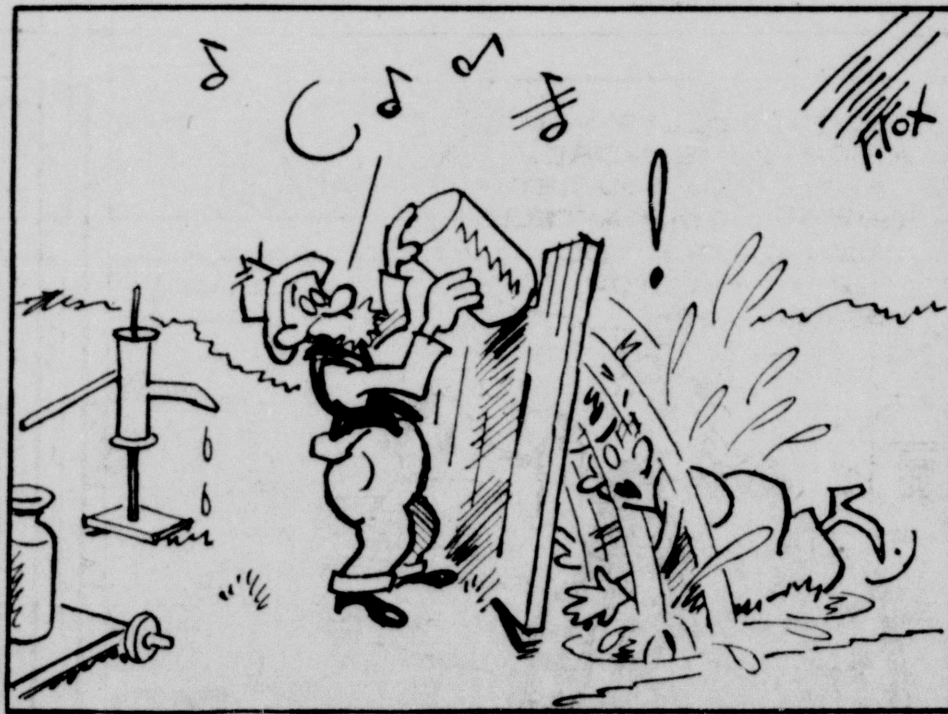

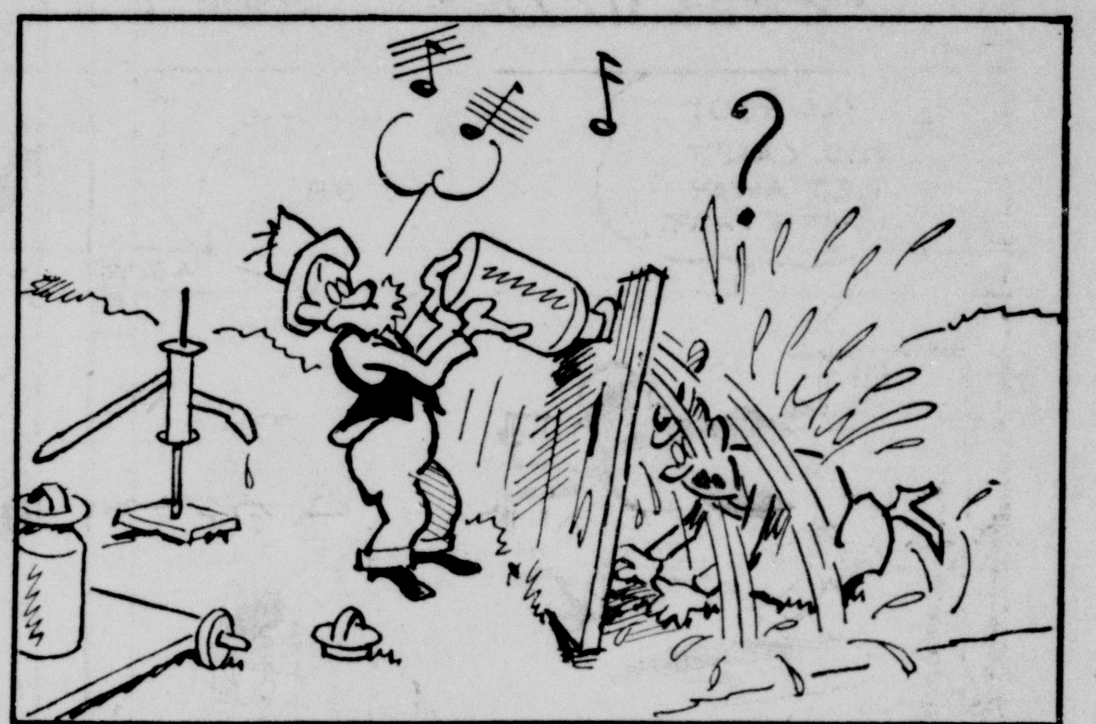

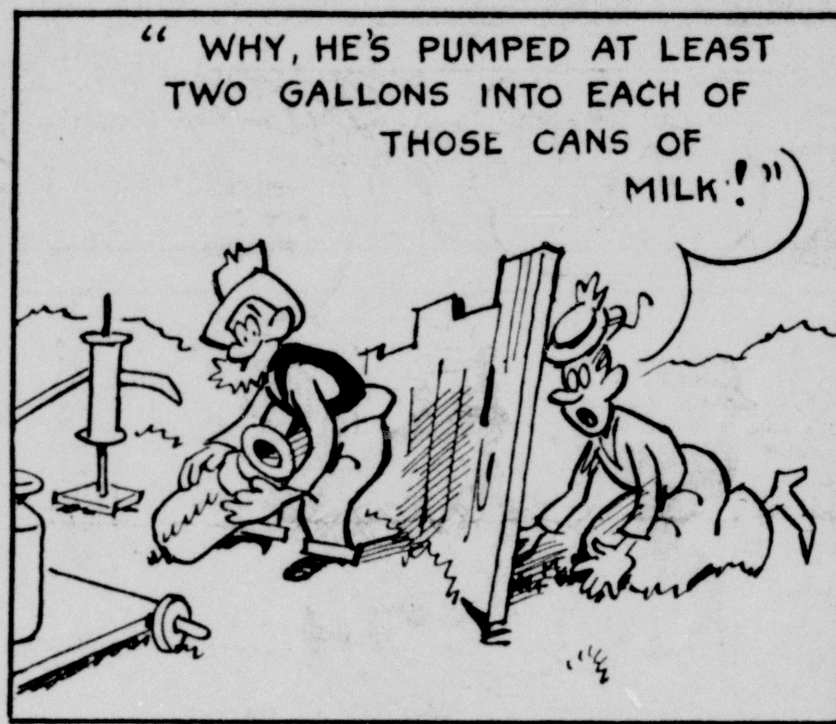

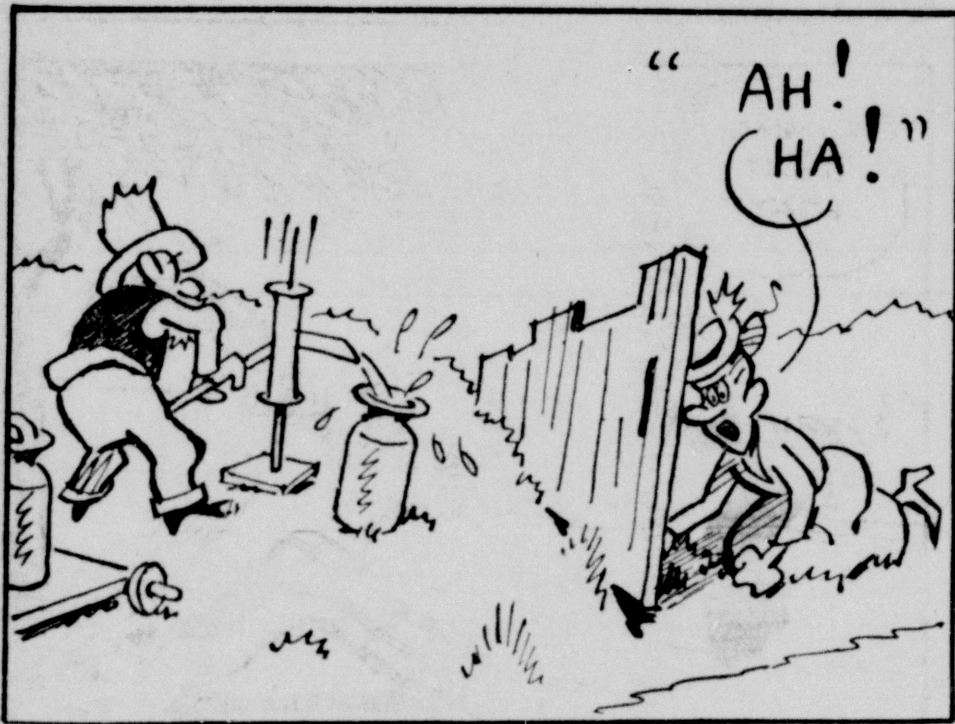

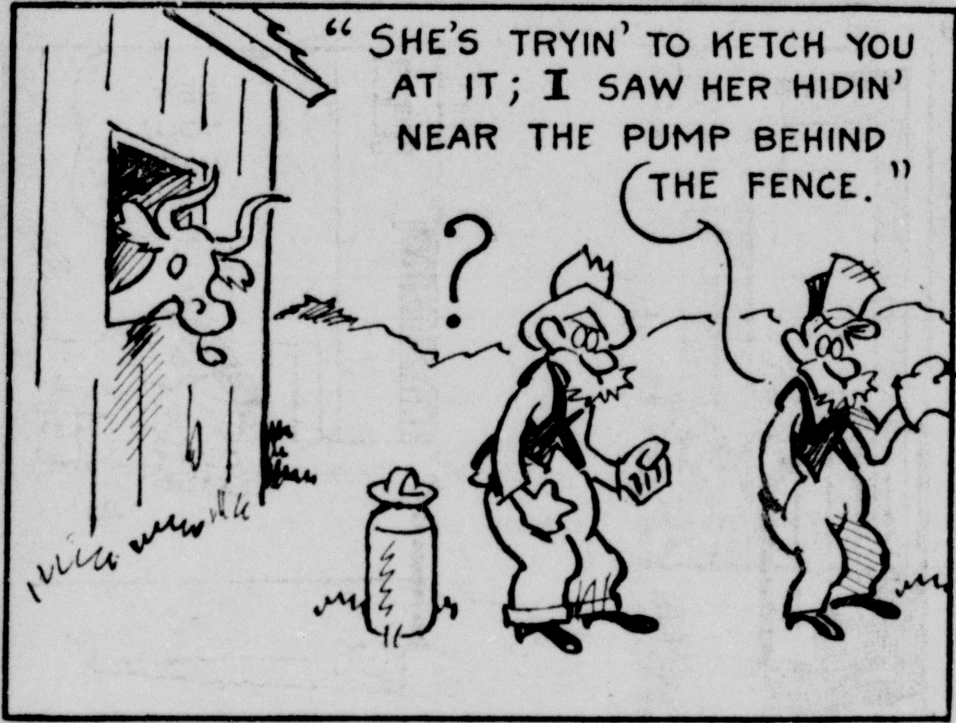

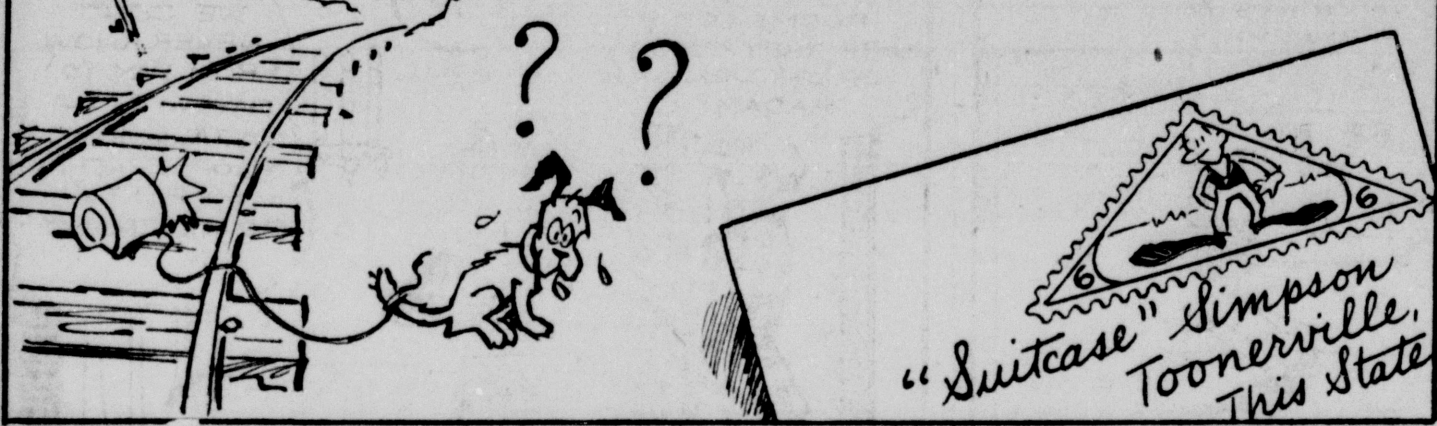

© 1932 Gene Byrnes

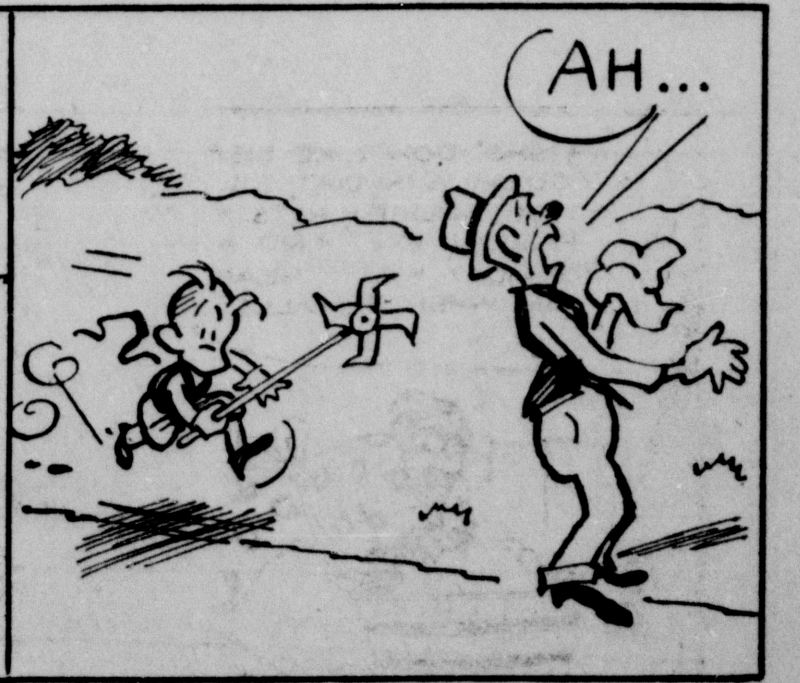

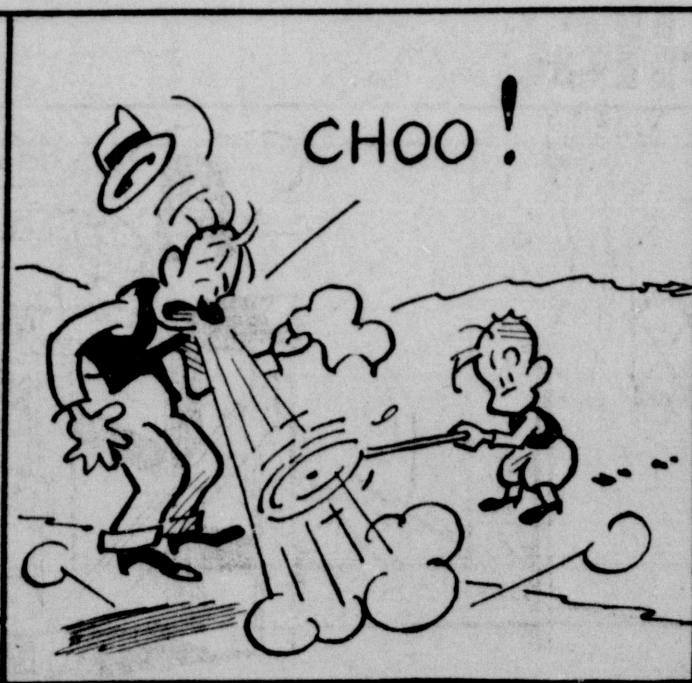

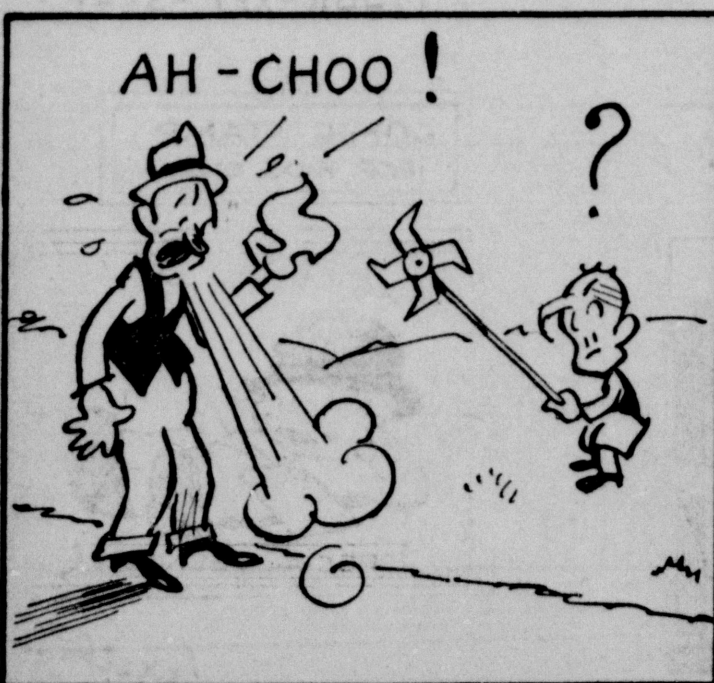

TOONERVILLE FOLKS

BY FONTAINE FOX

(Copyright, 1932—by Fontaine Fox, Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
Great Britain Rights Reserved

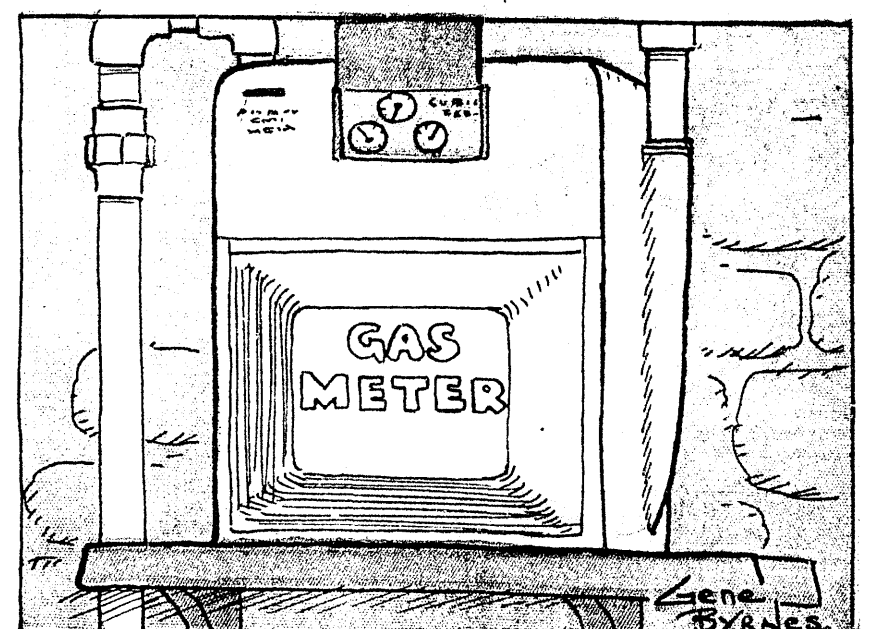

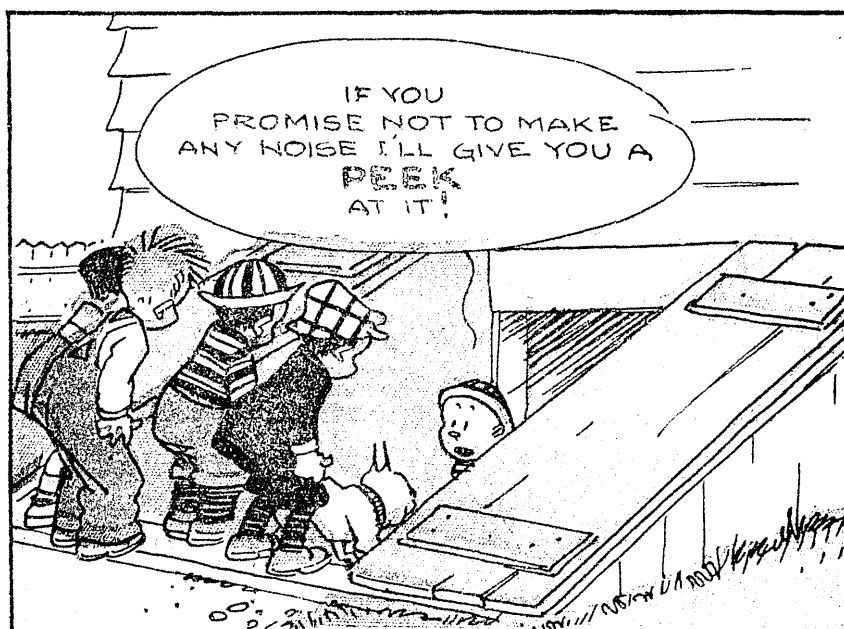

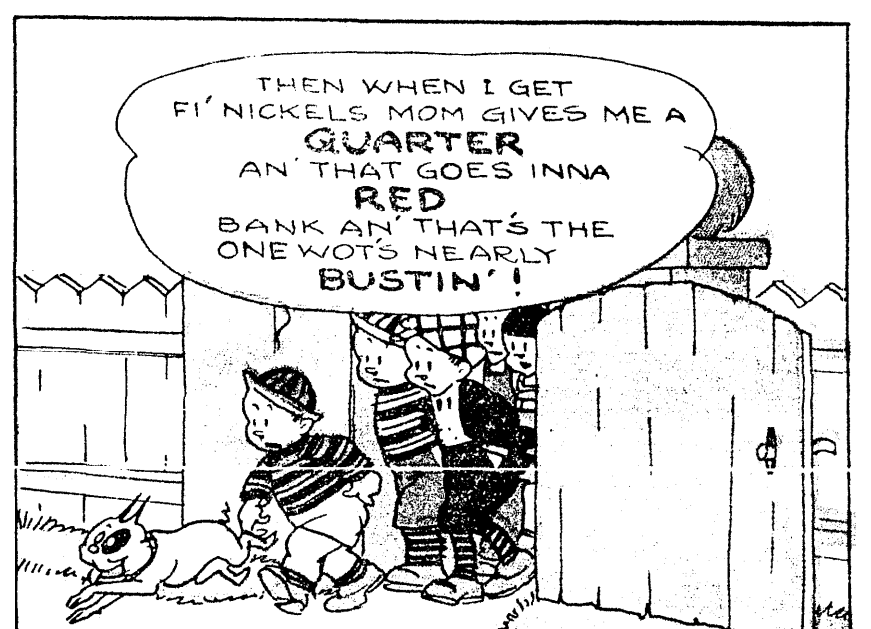

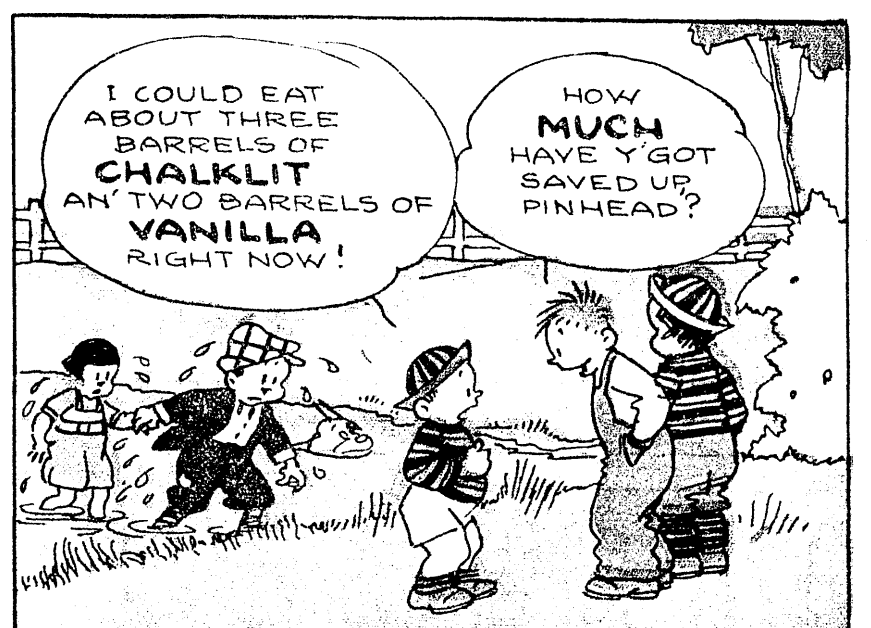

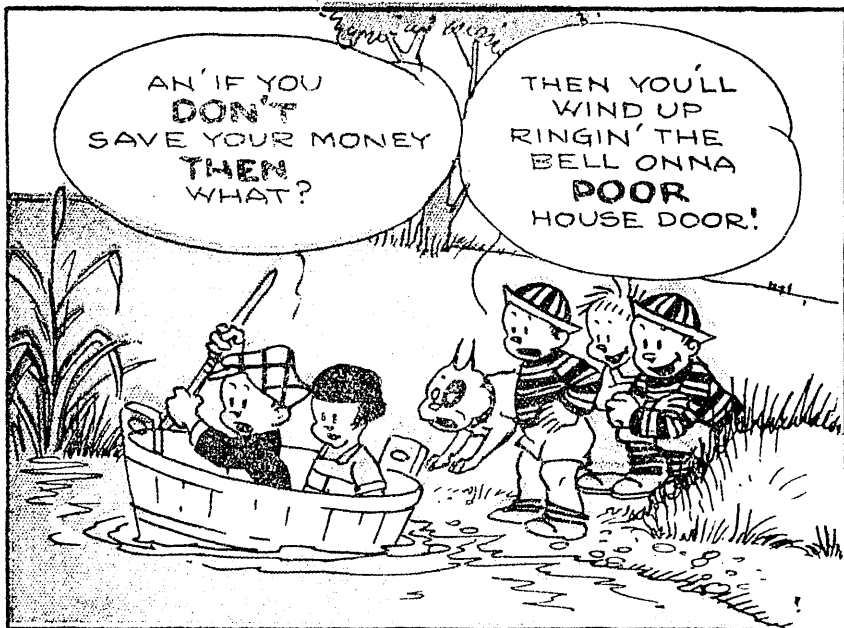

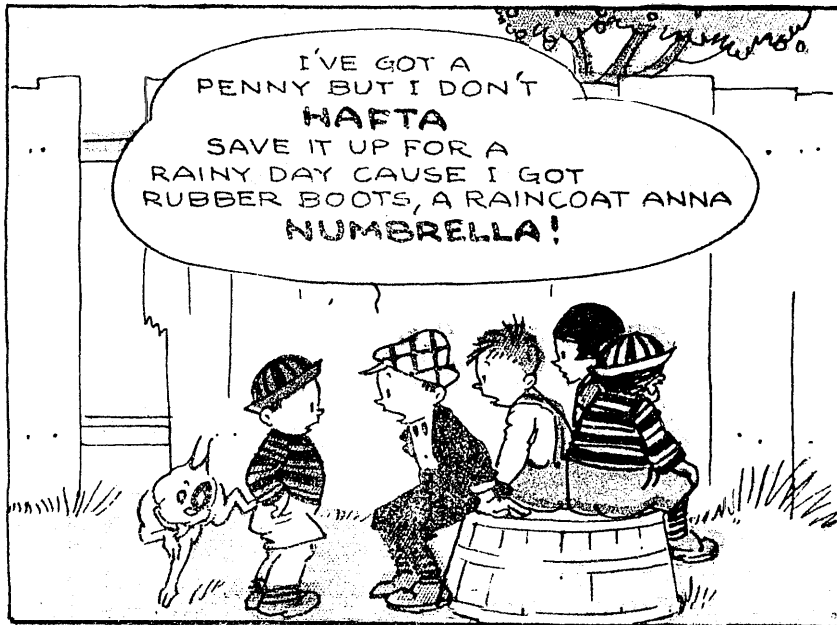

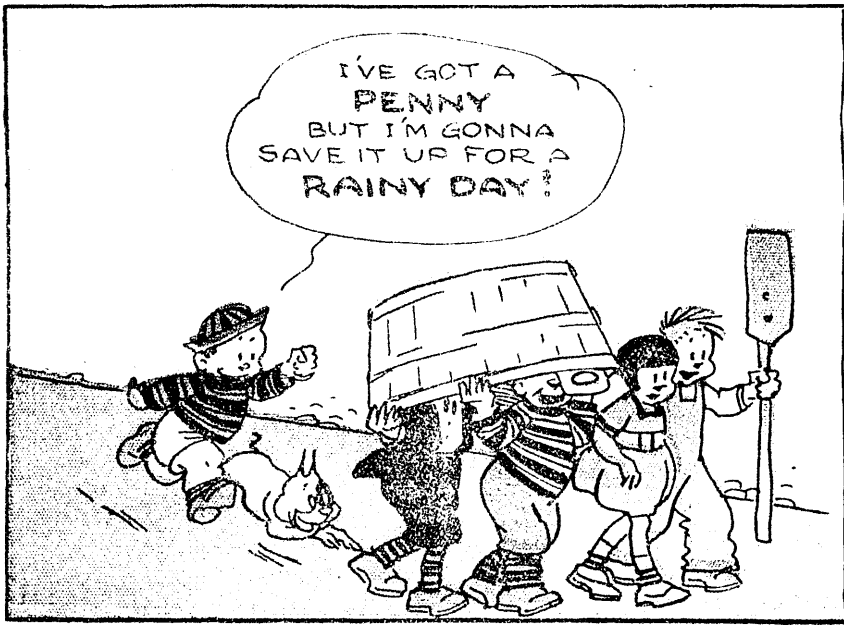

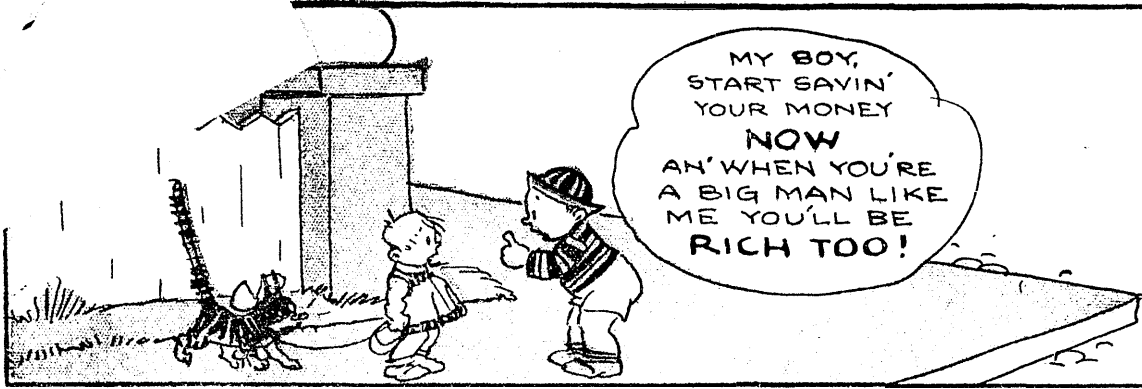

LITTLE STANLEY

REG'lar FELLERS

BY Gene Byrnes

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office. All rights reserved.

DRAW IT Y'SELF G.B.

DRAW A LINE FROM DOT NO. 1 TO DOT NO. 2 THEN TO DOT NO. 3 AND SO ON.

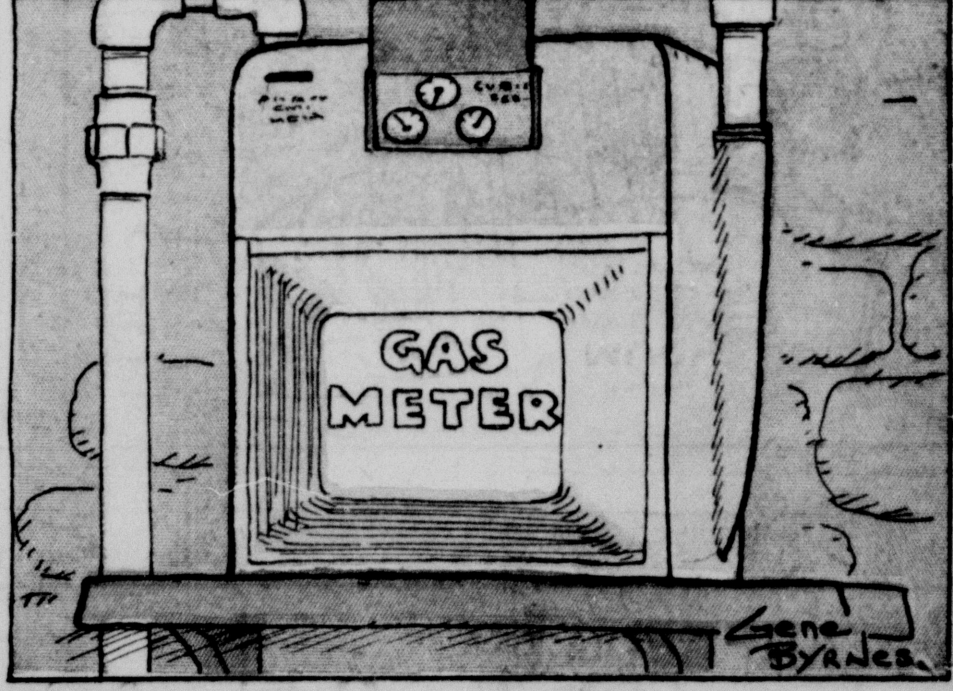

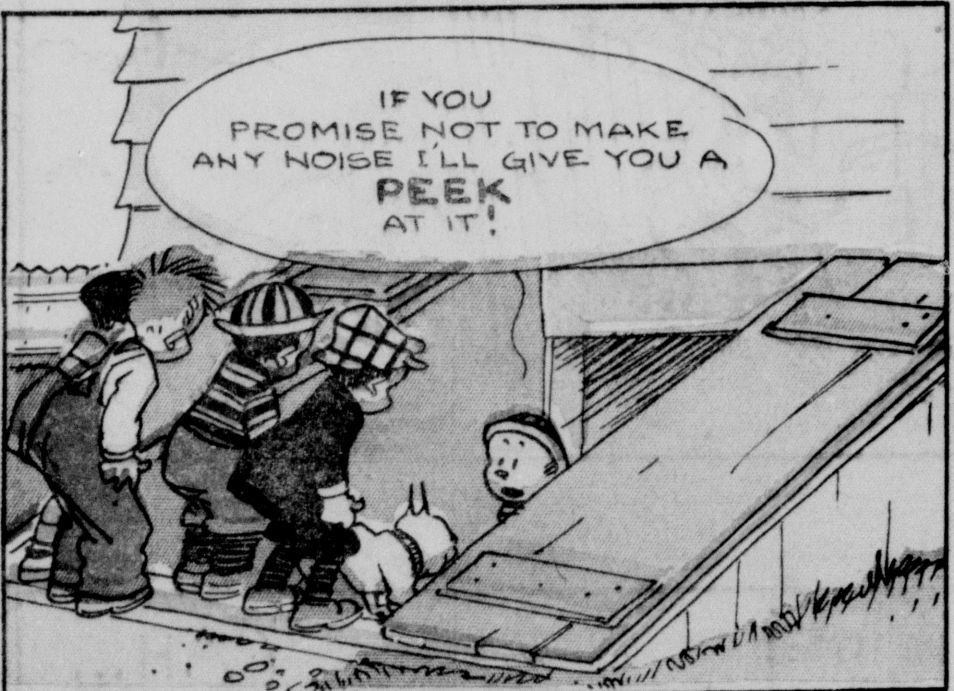

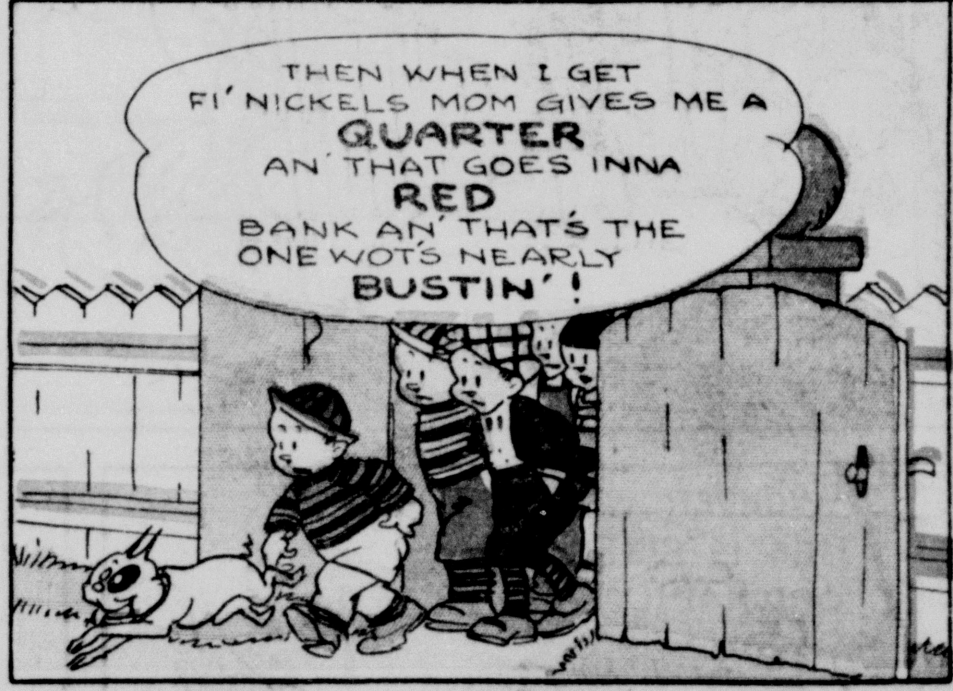

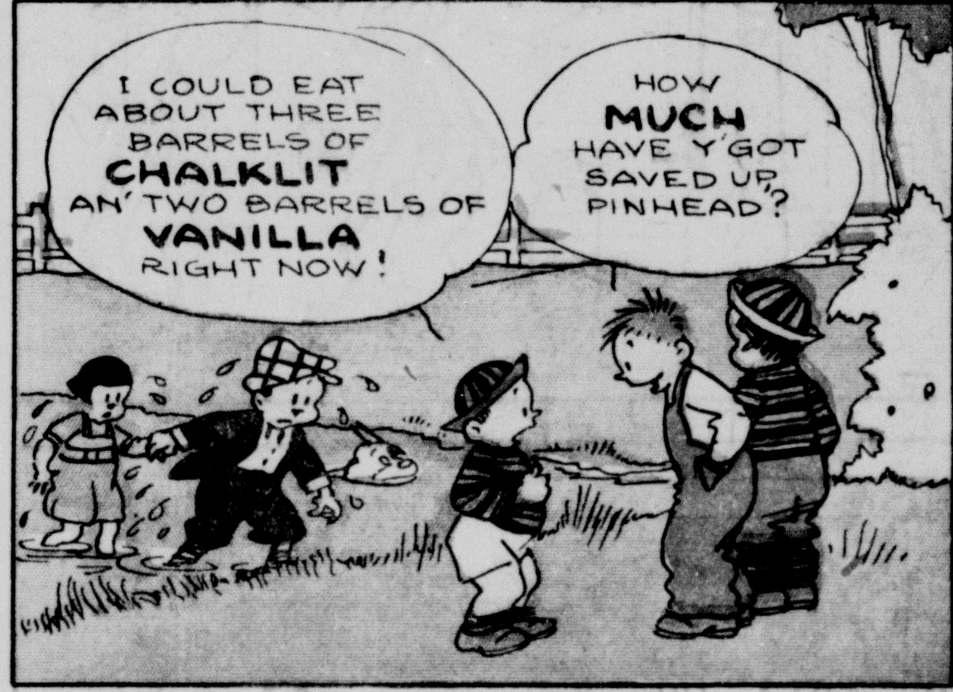

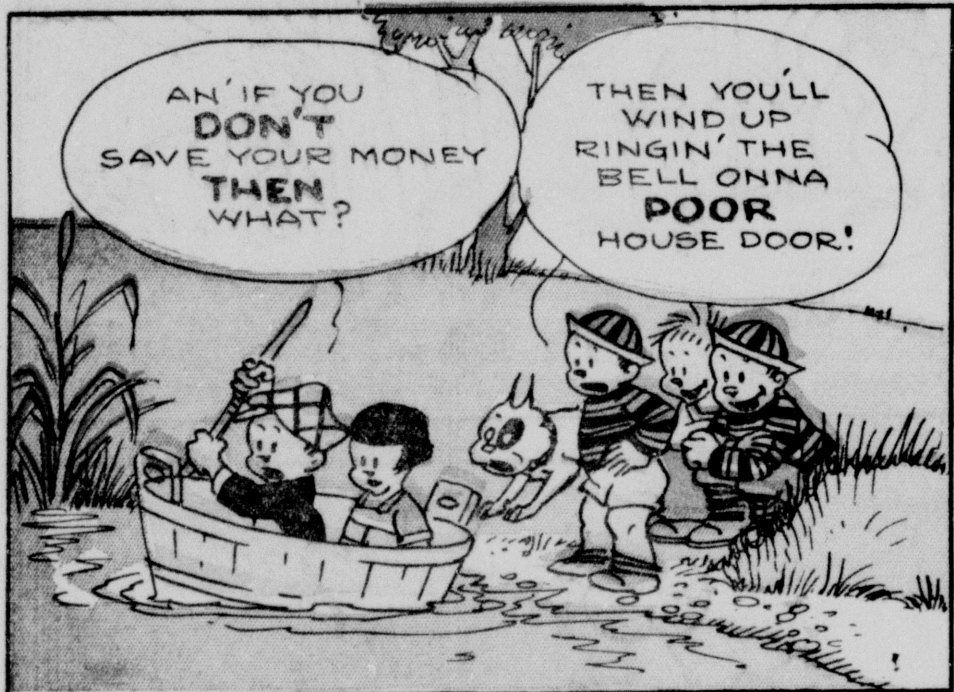

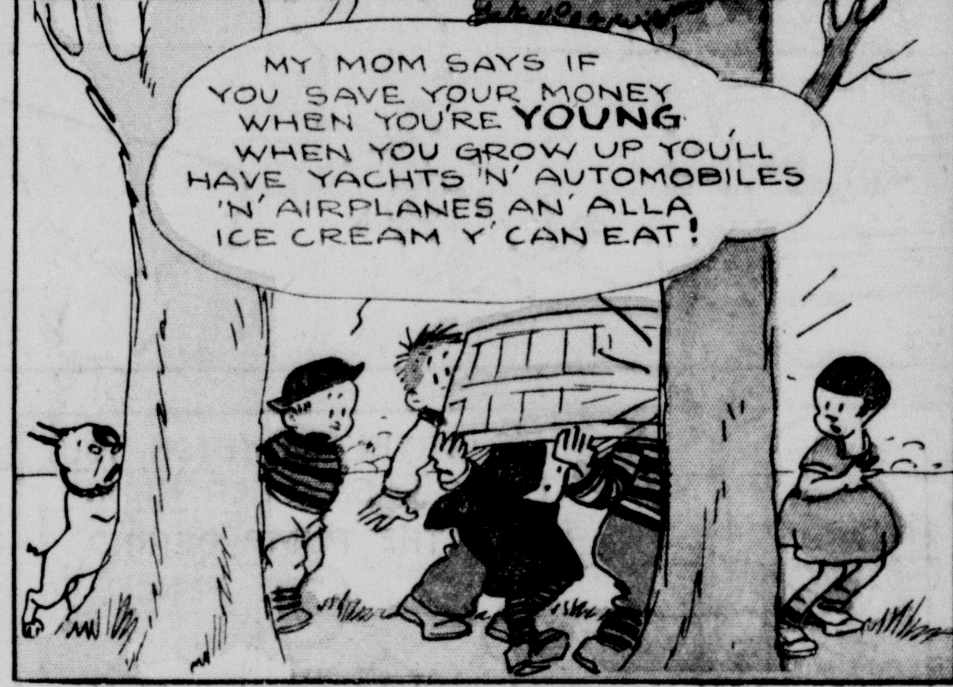

© 1932 Gene Byrnes

Regular Fellers

By Gene Byrnes

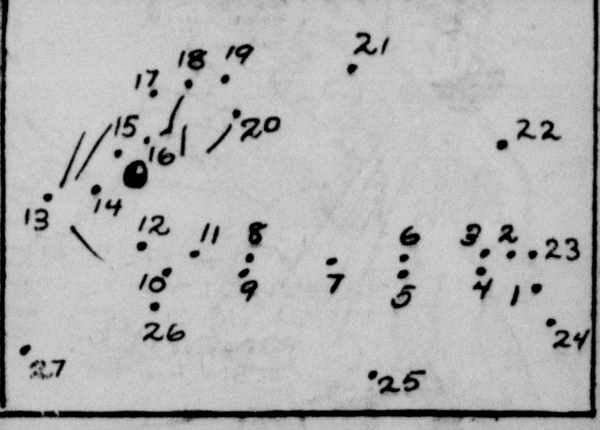

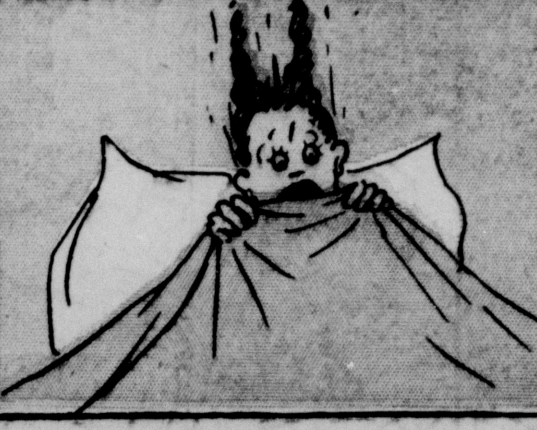

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office. All rights reserved.

DRAW IT Y'SELF G.B.

DRAW A LINE FROM DOT NO. 1 TO DOT NO. 2 THEN TO DOT NO. 3 AND SO ON.

© 1932 Gene Byrnes

Regular Fellers

By Gene Byrnes

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office. All rights reserved.

